The C. T. line and the T. & M. line have been consolidated and will hereafter work under one management. A good arrangement.

Macon Grange will meet on Saturday the 19th at one o'clock p. m., instead of seven as reported last week. All members take notice.

The meeting of the Union Picnic Association officers has been postponed till Saturday, March 26th, at 2 o'clock p. m. at the Herald office.

Hoch Bros., of Adrian, have fixed up some election booths in their store and hold a mock election there every evening. It is liberally patronized.

A pleasant little company met at the home of W. H. Ford in the way of a surprise party last Wednesday evening, and spent the evening very enjoyably.

The new election law is going to be popular. It worked like a charm at the village election. If voters properly post themselves no mistakes need be made.

There will be quarterly meeting at the M. E. Church next Sabbath, Rev. E. W. Ryan, D. D., of Adrian, officiating. Lovefeast at 9:30 a. m. in the lecture room.

C. A. Wright & Co. have a large and fine assortment of wall paper now on hand, and they wish the public to understand that fact. See their new card on the first page.

Election tickets will be printed at this office in strictly legal form and at reasonable prices. Election boards will find it to their advantage to patronize the HERALD office.

The total delinquent state tax returned to the treasurer of Lenawee county is $213.78. The returns are all in, the townships of Macon, Ogden and Cambridge having clear records.

The Redpath Star Concert Co. contains first-class talent in every respect, and they give a fine musical entertainment. They will appear at the opera house next Thursday evening, March 24th.

Mrs. Jacob Tallman, of Mt. Morris, N. Y., who has been here for the past month assisting in the care of her mother, Mrs. Blood, starts for home to-day. We are glad to learn that Mrs. Blood is much better.

A recent suit at Manchester, wherein the ghost of a $100 colt was plaintiff and a barbed wire fence was defendant, resulted in a verdict of $30 for the ghost. It is said lawyers very much favor cultivating the barbed wire fence. —Adrian Press.

Last Saturday's issue of the Philadelphia Daily Times commemorated the 17th anniversary of that paper. It was a mammoth twenty-four page sheet, filled to the brim with local and general reading and attractive advertisements. Among the metropolitan dailies of the East, the Times has but few equals and no superior.

"Master Cecil, the charming juvenile character singer with the Redpath Concert Co., at a recent appearance in Brooklyn, sang 'It's English, you Know,' with delightful effect. He sings a lovely Yodel in costume, and looked so pretty that everybody thinks he is a girl, of course, until they see him appear later with his natty bootblack outfit, and sing and dance as a happy little bootblack might."—Turf, Field and Farm.

Some person or persons have circulated a report that the Old Tecumseh Band has dissolved. Such is not the case, and the members wish to let their friends know that we are yet a 1st class organization, and are in receipt of new music weekly, and are prepared to furnish a large or small band on short notice. Any correspondence directed to the manager, C. E. Gray, or Secretary and Treasurer, L. C. Hayden, will receive prompt attention.

The handle factory of M. A. Zimmerman & Co. is running to its fullest capacity now, and the yard is filled with hickory bolts. One would suppose they had enough raw material on hand to "handle" the whole State of Michigan.

John Hayes is in luck. He has sold his two young Clydesdale stallions, two and three years old, to F. H. Potter, of Reading, Mich., for the snug little sum of eight hundred dollars. These colts have won five first premiums at the Adrian fair.

Rev. W. K. Spencer's lecture at the Presbyterian Church last Friday evening was listened to by a good audience. Perhaps the better name for it would be a stereopticon talk. The lantern was placed in the rear gallery and the pictures were thrown upon a large screen placed upon the pulpit platform. He conducted his audience on a trip through Japan which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The T. A. A. & N. M. Ry. take pleasure in announcing that for the G. A. R. State Encampment at Ann Arbor, April 19 to 21, it will sell tickets at rate of one and one third fare for the round trip. Tickets to be sold April 18, 19 and 20th, limited for return to April 22d,

FROM WASHINGTON.

Work of Our Lawmakers in the Fifty-Second Congress.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House—Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Bills were passed in the senate yesterday to prohibit the sale of firearms and ammunition to Indians residing upon the reservations, and appropriating $375,000 for the construction of two United States revenue cutters for service on the great lakes. The Behring sea treaty was received from the president. A bill was introduced to fix the duty on opium at five dollars a pound.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—In the senate yesterday the pure food bill was passed. A bill was introduced to test and try the science of spelling and to provide for establishing 100 schools for the purpose; and to establish a spelling school in the World's Columbian exposition to be held in Chicago in 1893. An executive session was held on the Behring sea question.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The senate yesterday passed the agricultural deficiency bill, appropriating $150,000 for the bureau of animal industry and $10,000 for experiments in sugar culture.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A bill was introduced in the senate yesterday proposing a constitutional amendment "that after 1897 no person who has held the office of president shall be eligible to that office within four years after the expiration of his term of office." The urgent deficiency bill ($438,413) was passed. Adjourned to the 14th.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky announced in the house yesterday the death of his colleague, Mr. Kendall, and as a mark of respect to his memory the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—In the house yesterday the debate on the tariff was begun, Mr. McMillin speaking against the McKinley law and Mr. Dingley defending it.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The naval appropriation bill was reported in the house yesterday and a bill appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Lincoln, Ill., was introduced. A bill to grant to enlisted men in the army certificates of merit for distinguished services was passed. The tariff was further discussed.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Bills were introduced in the house yesterday, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue certificates of the denominations of 10 cents, 25 cents and 50 cents, the total amount of such issue not to be more than $25,000,000; to establish a postal telegraph service, and providing that the remaining public lands of the United States be donated to the several states and territories in which they are located. The tariff bill was further discussed.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—In the house on Saturday bills were reported favorable to the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as states.

The Iowa House.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 14.—The Schmidt local option bill was disposed of in the house Saturday. The majority report recommended that it be indefinitely postponed and the minority recommended that it pass. When the roll was called the motion to substitute the minority report was lost by a vote of 41 to 42. The house also disposed of the woman suffrage question for this session by defeating the two bills introduced by Mr. Dolph to confer school and municipal suffrage upon the citizens of the state without respect to sex.

Shot the Girl and Himself.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—At 11:30 o'clock Friday night Oscar Abott, a young stenographer of this city, shot his sweetheart, Celia Bass, and then himself. Both parties belong to respectable colored families and had been engaged to be married, but Miss Bass wished to break it. Both will die.

Collapse of a Benefit Society.

CLEVELAND, O., March 12.—The supreme lodge of the Ohio Beneficial society of Cleveland has assigned. It attempted to pay a $15 weekly sick benefit and $150 yearly benefit on a three-dollar assessment. It needed as many members as the sands of the sea to succeed and could not get them. Liabilities are at least $60,000.

A Jury Secured at Last.

DARLINGTON, Wis., March 12.—Nearly everyone here was surprised when they learned that a jury in the Sieboldt lynching case was found Friday that would be acceptable to both state and defense. Between 500 and 600 men were examined for jurors before this result was reached.

Saved the Fortune.

JACKSON, Mich., March 12.—Mrs. Amanda Bentley, aged 70, was married in this city yesterday to B. H. Plumb, a laborer aged 21, whom she had never seen before, in order to secure her fortune of $100,000 to her crippled son, who on account of a clause in his dead father's will would have been left penniless otherwise.

Made Bishop of London.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Archbishop Corrigan has received an official letter from Rome announcing the appointment of Mgr. McDonnell as bishop of Brooklyn to succeed the late Bishop Loughlin. Mgr. McDonnell has been private secretary to the archbishop.

The Judge Was Fickle.

ALMA, Neb., March 12.—Ex-District Judge Gaslin has been sued by Mrs. Lucinda E. Given for $50,000 for breach of promise. Gaslin is one of the best known politicians in the west.

Packing House Destroyed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 12.—Fire destroyed the slaughter and packing house of the Danahy Packing Company, East Buffalo. Loss estimated, $25,000; covered by insurance.

SHE TOOK STRYCHNINE.

Kate Smith Commits Suicide on Board a Railroad Train.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—Kate Smith committed suicide in a sensational manner on the train Friday. She boarded the train at Louisville at midnight and while en route to this city asked the conductor for a glass of water for the purpose of wetting her handkerchief, claiming she had a headache. A moment later she was seen to empty a white powder into the glass and drink the contents. About ten minutes later she was writhing in horrible agony on the floor of the coach, and it required the strength of three men to hold her. When she reached this city she was frothing at the mouth from the effects of strychnine and died at 3 o'clock. Kate Smith was at one time considered the handsomest woman in southern Indiana. Two years ago she eloped with a Cincinnati traveling man who deserted her two weeks later.

A SAINT ARRESTED.

James B. Freese, Who Stands High in the Mormon Church, Must Stand Trial for Polygamy.

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T., March 14.—James B. Freese, high councilor of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, who sits side by side in the high council of state of Zion with Delegate to Congress John T. Caine, has been arrested by United States marshals for polygamy and held to await the grand jury's action in the sum of $1,000. Jane Stoner, his plural wife and corespondent, was held in a bond of $500. The arrest of such an exalted ruler of the church has created consternation in church circles, and when the news was brought to President Woodruff he is said to have yielded to intense passion.

THEIR LAST VOYAGE

Coal Gas Kills Seven Men on Board the Steamer Navarro.

LONDON, March 14.—Seven men of the fourteen who slept in the forecastle on the steamer Navarro, which sailed from Boston for London February 7, were found dead in their bunks the second morning out. These men are P. McCabe, J. McDonald, J. Bourke, William Smith, E. Gadistein, E. Perquin and A. Ford. The men were buried at sea. Their seven companions narrowly escaped the same fate. The men when retiring filled a stove with coal, closed all the port holes, and were suffocated by escaping gas.

FLOOD AT LEAVENWORTH.

A Reservoir Collapses and Much Damage Results.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 14.—A section of the wall of reservoir No. 2 of the Leavenworth Water Company gave way Saturday and 7,500,000 gallons of water went over the bank across the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks into the Missouri river. The flood tore away a section of the Rock Island track and narrowly missed striking a Rock Island passenger train. The engineer said the wave was higher than the stack of the locomotive and as it came down the hill looked like a water spout. The city's water supply will not be affected.

DEATH IN A MINE.

An Awful Explosion Wrecks a Colliery in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, March 12.—A frightful mine disaster has occurred at Anderleus, near Charleroi, in which many lives were lost and over 200 miners were entombed. An explosion occurred which destroyed the shafting and ventillation and made the work of rescue extremely difficult.

Baker Gets Five Years.

ASHLAND, Wis., March 12.—Baker, who was reconvicted of the Hugley bank robbery Thursday, has been sentenced to a brand new term of five years in the state's prison, dating from the date of sentence. Baker took his sentence coolly and will be taken to Waupun at once. This ends one of the longest and most noted criminal trials in the state.

Baseball Pitcher Dead.

TROY, N. Y., March 12.—John F. O'Brien, the baseball pitcher, died at West Troy, aged 28 years, after an illness of two weeks from pneumonia. In 1890 he was a member of the Cleveland league team and last year he was a winning pitcher for the Boston association team. O'Brien had signed to play the coming season with the St. Louis league club.

Indiana Republicans.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 11.—The republicans met in state convention in this city yesterday and elected Richard W. Thompson, of Terre Haute; Newland De Pauw, of New Albany; Stanton J. Peelle, of Indianapolis, and Charles F. Griffin, of Hammond, as delegates at large to the national convention to vote for President Harrison's renomination.

To Nominate a State Ticket.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—A joint meeting of prohibition and people's party leaders was held here Thursday night and it was decided to call a joint convention of both parties to nominate a state ticket. It was also decided to urge other states to pool issues on state matters, but not on national.

Liabilities of $100,000.

FLORENCE, Mass., March 12.—Ex-Mayor A. G. Hill, of Northampton, is financially embarrassed. He has sunk a good deal of money in developing manufacturing corporations. Attachments for $14,000 have been placed on his property. His liabilities are said to be about $100,000.

Commercial Reciprocity with Spain.

MADRID, March 12.—The senate has approved the commercial convention between Spain and the United States. The vote stood 90 in favor of the convention to 50 against it.

Killed While Resisting Arrest.

BALLINGER, Tex., March 12.—John Fulford was killed here while resisting arrest for attempting the murder of William Brookerson. Brookerson will recover.

MAY BE TROUBLE.

The Behring Sea Situation Regarded with Alarm.

Unless Salisbury Withdraws His Refusal to Renew the Modus Vivendi We Will Undertake Alone the Protection of the Seals.

GETTING SERIOUS.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The next news of consequence in the Behring sea controversy with Great Britain must come from London. It was given out at the state department here that there would probably be no change in the situation until Lord Salisbury had sent a reply to the president's letter of March 8 declaring that this government would defend the existence of the seals by every means within its power. It is noteworthy that the vigorous communication to Lord Salisbury was written by President Harrison's own hand. It was, of course, signed by Acting Secretary of State Wharton, Secretary Blaine being still too ill to act officially.

Gen. Foster, of the state department, who is assisting the president in the fisheries negotiations, had a long conference at the navy department with Secretary Tracy and Commodore Ramsey, chief of the bureau of navigation. The conference, it is thought, related to the consideration of the course to be pursued by the navy in enforcing the contention of this government that the pelagic sealing in Behring sea should be wholly suspended pending the settlement by arbitration of the controversy between the United States and Great Britain.

If Great Britain declines the president's proposition for a renewal of the modus vivendi this government will no doubt send all the available vessels at its command to Behring sea, soon enough, if possible, to control its approaches and prevent the entrance of all sailing vessels, American as well as others. The naval vessels that can be used for this service are the Charleston, Baltimore and Ranger at San Francisco; the Mohican, now on her way to Port Orchard, Washington, with the Nipsic in tow, and the Yorktown and Boston, now en route to San Francisco from Caflao. The revenue cutters Bear, Rush and Corwin, now fitting out at San Francisco for their annual cruise to the seal islands, will also assist in the work of policing the restricted waters.

VICTIMS OF TRICHINOSIS.

Three Deaths Caused by Eating Sausage Said to Have Been Bought in Chicago.

SHELBURNE FALLS., Mass, March 12.—The little hamlet of Willis Place, a cotton manufacturing village of about 200 souls, has developed during the last few weeks the largest number of cases of trichinosis ever known to exist in any one community in New England. Investigation showed that all of those who were sick had shortly before eaten freely of bologna sausage obtained of a butcher in a neighboring village, he having bought it from one of the branch supply houses of a Chicago firm. Thus far there have been three deaths.

PAOLI, Ind., March 12.—The 17-year-old daughter of Blind George Marlette, who lives near this place, died Friday in terrible agony of trichiniasis. She had eaten half-cooked fresh pork. In a piece of the girl's flesh, not half so large as a pin head, the microscopist discovered thirteen parasites.

Acquitted.

VANDALIA, Ill., March 14.—The Locke-Stolle murder trial was concluded Saturday night, when the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant. On the night of October 7, 1890, Ross Locke and Charles Stolle, who had previously had some difficulty, met near John Kelly's saloon, when Stolle, who was under the influence of liquor, began abusing Locke, and the latter claimed he had to shoot Stolle in self-defense. Locke is 33 years old, a newspaper writer and is a nephew of the late D. R. Locke, better known as Petroleum V. Nasby.

Thousands of Knights Will Attend.

DENVER, Col., March 14.—The Knights Templar conclave to take place in Denver next August will excel anything ever known in the west. Up to date 39,600 people have contracted for rooms; 20,000 more have engaged Pullman cars for their accommodation, and over 500 of these cars will stand in the Denver yards and be occupied by the 20,000 attendants at the conclave.

Gray Wants to Be President.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 14.—Ex-Gov. Gray has authorized a statement through one of his friends denying the story that he had concluded to withdraw from the presidential race and become a candidate for another term as governor of Indiana. He positively says he is not a candidate for governor, but is still in the race for president.

Heir to a Comfortable Fortune.

CASEY, Ill., March 12.—Bryant Banque, of this place, a young man recently married, has been notified that he has fallen heir to $40,000. The estate, which is in the old country, will amount to $125,000. He is one of three heirs. The necessary proof of heirship has been secured.

Two Men Killed.

OURAY, Col., March 14.—An explosion took place in the Revenue tunnel, Mount Sneffels, Saturday night, by which two men were instantly killed and the third man severely wounded, caused by a premature or accidental blast.

The Failure Record.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 256, as compared with a total of 240 last week. For the corresponding week last year the figures were 273.

Want Big Damages.

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—Suits were filed in the United States circuit court against this city yesterday by heirs of six of the Italians lynched there March 14, 1891, claiming $30,000 in each case.

How to Get Thin.

The only safe and reliable treatment for obesity, or superfluous fat, is the "Leverette" Obesity Pills, which gradually reduce the weight and measurement. No injury or inconvenience. Leaves no wrinkles—acts by absortion.

This cure is founded upon the most scientific principles, and has been used by one of the most eminent physicians of Europe in his private practice "for five years," with the most gratifying results.

Mr. Henry Perkins, 29 Union Park, Boston, writes: "From the use of the Leverette Obesity Pills my weight has been reduced ten pounds in three weeks and my general health is very much improved. The principles of your treatment are fully indorsed by my family physician. In proof of my gratitude I herewith give you permission to use my name if you desire to do so."

Dated February 4th, 1892.

CHARLES BURRIDGE,
Administrator of the estate of Joseph Harbeson, deceased.

ESTATE OF SETH P. SHELDON.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee—ss

At a session of the Probate Court, for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 23d day of February, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Seth P. Sheldon, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Ella L. Sheldon, widow of said deceased, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to petitioner, or some other suitable person.

It is Ordered, That Monday, the 21st day of March, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.)

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No. 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent;
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only Gold, silver and bronze medals.
The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.
The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.
And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault. Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory. WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO.,

"MOTHER'S COOKING."

The Martyrdom Endured by a Patient Little Wife.

The Plainfield boys always had the name of being smart, and Igness Lute Baker was just about the smartest boy the old town ever turned out. Well, he came by it naturally; Judge Baker was known all over western Massachusetts as the sage of Plainfield, and Lute's mother—she was a Kellogg before the judge married her—she had more faculty than a dozen of your girls nowadays and her cooking was talked about everywhere—never was another woman, as folks said, could cook like Mis' Baker. The boys—Lute's friends—used to hang around the back porch of mornings just to get some of her doughnuts; she was always considerate and liberal to growing boys. Maybe Lute wouldn't have been so popular if it hadn't been for these doughnuts, and maybe he wouldn't have been so smart if it hadn't been for all the good things his mother fed into him. Always did believe there was piety and wisdom in New England victuals.

Lute went to Amherst college and did well; then he taught school a winter, for Judge Baker said that "nobody could amount to much in the world unless he'd taught school a spell. Lute set on being a lawyer, and so presently he went down to Springfield and read and studied in Judge Morris' office, and Judge Morris wrote a letter home to the Bakers once testifying to Lute's "probity" and "acumen"—things that are never heard tell of except high up in the legal profession.

How Lute came to get the western fever I can't say, but get it he did, and one winter he up and piked off to Chicago, and there he hung out his shingle and joined a literary social and proceeded to get rich and famous. The next spring, Judge Baker fell off the woodshed while he was shingling it, and it jarred him so he kind of dropped and pined round a spell and then one day up and died. Lute had to come back home and settle up the estate.

When he went west again he took a wife with him—Emma Cowles that was (everybody called her Em for short), pretty as a picture and as likely a girl as there was in the township. Lute had always had a hankering for Em and Em thought there never was another such a young fellow as Lute; she understood him perfectly, having sung in the choir with him two years. The young couple went west well provided.

Lute and Em went to housekeeping in Chicago. Em wanted to do her own work, but Lute wouldn't hear to it; so they hired a German girl that was just over from the vineyards of the Rhine country.

"Lute," says Em, "Hulda doesn't know much about cooking."

"So I see," says Lute, feelingly. "She's green as grass; you'll have to teach her."

Hulda could swing a hoe and wield a spade deftly, but of the cuisine she knew somewhat less than nothing. Em had lots of patience and pluck, but she found teaching Hulda how to cook a precious hard job. Lute was amiable enough at first; used to laugh it off with a cordial bet that by and by Em would make a famous cook of the obtuse but willing immigrant. This moral backing buoyed Em up considerable, until one evening in an unguarded moment Lute expressed a pining for some doughnuts "like those mother makes," and that casual remark made Em unhappy. But next evening when Lute came home there were doughnuts on the table—beautiful, big, plethoric doughnuts that fairly reeked with the homely, delicious sentiment of New England. Lute ate one. Em felt hurt.

"I guess it's because I've eaten so much else," explained Lute, "but somehow or other they don't taste like mother's."

Next day Em fed the rest of the doughnuts to a poor man who came and said he was starving. "Thank you, marm," said he, with his heart full of gratitude and his mouth full of doughnuts; "I ha'n't had anything as good as this since I left Connecticut twenty years ago."

That little subtlety consoled Em, but still she found it hard to bear up under her apparent inability to do her duty by Lute's critical palate. Once when Lute brought Col. Hi Thomas home to dinner they had chicken pie. The colonel praised it and passed his plate a third time.

"Oh, but you ought to eat some of mother's chicken pie," said Lute. "Mother never puts an under crust in her chicken pies and that makes 'em juicier."

Same way when they had fried pork and potatoes; Lute couldn't understand why the flesh of the wallowing, carnivorous western hog shouldn't be as white and firm and sweet as the meat of the swill-fed Yankee pig. And why were the Hubbard squashes so tasteless and why was maple sirup so very different? Yes, amid all his professional duties Lute found time to note and remark upon this and other similar things, and of course Em was—by implication, at least—held responsible for them all.

And Em did try so hard, so very hard, to correct the evils and to answer the hypercritical demands of Lute's foolishly petted and spoiled appetite. She warred valorously with butchers, grocers and hucksters; she sent down east to Mother Baker for all the famous family recipes; she wrestled in speech and in practice with that awful Hulda; she experimented long and patiently; she blistered her pretty face and burned her little hands over that kitchen range—yes, a slow, constant martyrdom that conscientious wife willingly endured for years in her enthusiastic determination to do her duty by Lute. Doughnuts, chicken pies, boiled dinners, layer cakes, soda biscuits, flapjacks, fish balls, baked beans, squash pies, corned beef hash, dried-apple sauce, currant wine, succotash, brown bread—how valorously Em toiled over them, only to be rewarded with some cruel reminder of how "mother" used to do these things! It was terrible; a tedious martyrdom.

Lute—mind you—Lute was not willfully cruel; no, he was simply and irremediably a heedless idiot of a man, just as every married man is, for a spell, at least. But it broke Em's heart, all the same.

Lute's mother came to visit them when their first child was born, and she lifted a great deal of trouble off the patient wife. Old Mis' Baker always liked 'em; had told the minister three years ago that she knew Em would make Lute a good Christian wife. They named the boy Moses, after the old judge who was dead, and old Mis' Baker said he should have his grandpa's watch when he got to be twenty-one. Old Mis' Baker always stuck by Em; maybe she remembered how the old judge had talked once on a time about his mother's cooking. For all married men are, as I have said, idiotically cruel about that sort of thing. Yes, old Mis' Baker braced Em up wonderful; brought a lot of dried catnip out west with her for the baby; taught Em how to make salt-rising bread; told her all about stewing things and broiling things and roasting things; showed her how to tell the real Yankee codfish from the counterfeit—oh, she just did Em lots of good, did old Mis' Baker!

The rewards of virtue may be slow in coming, but they are sure to come. Em's three boys—the three bouncing boys that came to Em and Lute—those three boys waxed fat and grew up boisterous, blatant appreciators of their mother's cooking. The way those boys did eat mother's doughnuts! And mother's pies—wow! Other boys—the neighbors' boys—came round regularly in troops, battalions, armies, afid like a consuming fire licked up the wholesome viands which Em's skill and liberality provided for her own boys' enthusiastic playmates. And all those boys—there must have been millions of 'em—were living, breathing, vociferous testimonials to the unapproachable excellence of Em's cooking.

Lute got into politics and they elected him to the legislature. After the campaign, needing rest, he took it into his head to run down east to see his mother; he had not been back home for eight years. He took little Moses with him. They were gone about three weeks. Granma Baker had made great preparations for them; had cooked up enough pies to last all winter, and four plump, beheaded, well-plucked, yellow-legged pullets hung stiff and solemn-like in the chill pantry off the kitchen, awaiting the last succulent scene of all.

Lute and the little boy got there late of an evening. The dear old lady was so glad to see them; the love that beamed from her kindly eyes well-nigh melted the glass in her silver-bowed specs. The table was spread in the dining room; the sheet-iron stove sighed till it seemed like to crack with the heat of that hardwood fire.

"Why, Lute, you ain't eatin' enough to keep a fly alive," remonstrated old Mis' Baker, when her son declined a second doughnut; "and what ails the child?" she continued; "ha'n't the got no appetite? Why, when you wuz his age, Lute, seemed as if I couldn't cook doughnuts fast enough for you!"

Lute explained that both he and his little boy had eaten pretty heartily on the train that day. But all the time of their visit there poor old Grandma Baker wondered and worried because they didn't eat enough—seemed to her as if western folks hadn't the right kind of appetite. Even the plump pullets, served only in a style that had made Mis' Baker famed throughout those discriminating parts—even those pullets failed to awaken the expected and proper enthusiasm in the visitors.

Home again in Chicago, Lute drew his chair up to the table with an eloquent sigh of relief. As for little Moses, he clamored his delight.

"Chicken pie!" he cried, gleefully, and then he added a soulful "wow!" as his eager eyes fell upon a plateful of hot, exuberant, voluptuous doughnuts.

"Yes, we are both glad to get back," said Lute.

"But I am afraid," suggested Em, timidly, "that gran'ma's cooking has spoiled you."

Little Moses (bless him!) howled an indignant, a wrathful remonstrance. "Gran'ma can't cook worth a cent!" said he.

Em expected Lute to be dreadfully shocked, but he wasn't.

"I wouldn't let her know it for all the world," remarked Lute, confidentially, "but mother has lost her grip on cooking. At any rate her cooking isn't what it used to be; it has changed."

Then Em came bravely to the rescue. "No, Lute," says she, and she meant it, "your mother's cooking hasn't changed, but you have. The man has grown away from the boy, and the tastes, the ways and the delights of boyhood have no longer any fascination for the man."

"Maybe you're right," said Lute. "At any rate, I'm free to say that your cooking beats the world."

Good for Lute! Virtue triumphs and my true story ends. But first an explanation to concinnate my narrative.

I should never have known this true story if Lute himself hadn't told it to me at the last dinner of the Sons of New England—told it to me right before Em, that dear, patient little martyred wife of his. And I knew by the lovelight in Em's eyes that she was glad that she had endured that martyrdom for Lute's sake.—Eugene Field, in Chicago News.

—Husband (newly married)—"Don't you think, love, if I were to smoke, it would spoil the curtains?" Wife—"Ah, you are really the most unselfish and thoughtful husband to be found anywhere; certainly it would." Husband—"Well, then, take the curtains down."

—George—"What made you bald, papa?" Papa—"My mother used to pat me on the head so much for being a good boy." George—"Do you think I'll be bald?" Papa—"No, my son; there's no danger."

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

World's Fair Appointments.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Fitch has appointed a special committee to have charge of the upper peninsula school exhibit for the world's fair, consisting of Superintendent Anna Chandler, of Marquette, chairman; Superintendent White, of Lake Linden; Superintendent Murray, of Sault Ste. Marie; County Commissioners Montgomery, of Champion, and Haire, of Ontonagon. He also made the following additions to the general committee for the state; Superintendents W. S. Perry, of Ann Arbor, and Frederick Nims, of Muskegon.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by sixty-three observers in different parts of the state for the week ended March 5 indicated that dysentery, inflammation of the brain, cholera morbus and typhoid fever increased, and diphtheria, typho-malarial fever, and inflammation of the kidneys decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at twenty-eight places and scarlet-fever at sixty, typhoid fever at thirteen and measles at eleven places.

Michigan Schools and the Fair.

On February 22, Washington's birthday, the school children throughout the state were asked to contribute one cent apiece, teachers and school officers ten cents and principals fifty cents, in order to aid Michigan's educational exhibition at the World's Columbian exposition. The projectors of the scheme report the receipt of over $10,000, with a number of localities yet to hear from.

The State Must Pay.

By a decision of the supreme court at Lansing it was declared that hereafter all expenses of transporting convicts to the Detroit house of correction will be paid by the state of Michigan and not by the counties from which the convicts are sent. As last year 2,612 prisoners were sent to the Detroit house of correction at an average expense of $15 each, this means at least $30,000 added expense to the state.

The Last of Her Race.

Mrs. Abbie Champagne, the mother of one of the most noted families in the criminal annals of the state, died at the Wayne insane asylum. She had reached the advanced age of 85 years, and had been for a long time a hopeless maniac. Her husband and two sons died in prison, and her two daughters ended their lives in a notorious resort which they maintained.

Shot by His Wife.

Mrs. C. K. Ayres, one of the most highly connected women in Detroit, shot her husband fatally in the lungs. Mrs. Ayers had begun suit for divorce against her husband and he went to his house to remove some of his more valuable belongings. Mrs. Ayers met him on the doorstep, and before he could prevent her she shot him.

Buried Two Centuries.

In the center of a sawlog 32 inches in diameter that was found at Moore was an Indian tomahawk. It is 6 inches in length and has a blade of roughly-forged iron about 2½ inches long. The solid timber over the head of the tomahawk was 10 inches in thickness. It is estimated that it has been in the tree two centuries.

Veterans Quarrel.

Peter Thomas, aged 72, and James Johnson, aged 70, both colored inmates of the soldiers' home in Grand Rapids, came to blows in a political discussion, and Johnson knocked Thomas down and was kicking him when Thomas arose and stabbed Johnson, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Thomas was arrested.

Short but Newsy Items.

The Michigan democratic state central committee met at Lansing and decided to hold the state convention at Muskegon May 4.

Col. Whitney Jones, the first republican auditor general of Michigan, died in Detroit, where he had resided half a century. He was 80 years old.

Mrs. Bernard Wynn, of Kalamazoo, was killed by a train at a crossing. Her husband was killed by a train near the same place several years ago.

Ralph R. Chandler, defaulting cashier of the Lake Shore road, who skipped from Detroit a month ago, has been arrested in Juarez, Mex.

Deforest Paine and Fred Marvin, of Detroit, sold to Don J. Leathers, of Grand Rapids, a tract of land near Bayfield, Wis., for $210,000.

Frank Welsh, of Grand Rapids, was killed by a yard engine.

The boiler in White's sawmill at Port Huron exploded, killing Frank Moran and fatally scalding five others.

Mrs. Justina Heinman, of Bay View, was taken to an asylum, having been made insane by the news that she had been granted a pension.

During the month of February the Flint & Pere Marquette railroad handled 309 log trains and 2,126 cars of line freight.

The Diamond Crystal salt works at St. Clair were burned. Loss, $20,000; insurance, $15,000.

Mrs. Margaret Pratt, who kept the Pierpont hotel for a number of years, committed suicide by taking poison.

Michigan railroads earned $96,472,329.60 from January 1, 1891, to January 1, 1892. They earned $23,075,802.67 during the same period in '90-91.

Reuben Miller, of Jackson, who assaulted an old farmer named Davenport, has been sent to prison for one year.

The largest amount of taxes paid by any single township in the state is perhaps paid by Calumet. The treasurer has just turned $84,579 state and county taxes over to the county treasurer.

John Smith, "Gentleman John," who convinced a jury at Kalamazoo that he was innocent of larceny by reason of his good appearance and smooth talk, and who committed two burglaries the night he was released, has been sentenced to Jackson penitentiary for ten years.

Clinton Column.

CLINTON, MICH., - MARCH. 17, 1892.

Geo. A. Kies was here Saturday and Sunday.

J. T. Clark is building an addition to his creamery.

L. W. Kimball has sold his house and lot to E. Ogden.

Miss Effie Gilliland, of Leslie, was in town Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Shutt, of Tecumseh, visited Mrs. Frank Wallinger on Monday.

W. D. VanFagle moved into his new residence on Tecumseh street last week.

Mrs. Lydia Smith, Mrs. Dow Draper and P. C. Smith went to Adrian Wednesday.

Albert Kishpaugh and wife spent last Friday and Saturday with friends in Dundee.

We hear that Dow Draper will open a livery barn at the old location in about two weeks.

John Weber and wife, of Chelsea, were at Frank Kirchgessner's Sunday and Monday.

Mr. John Kress, of Ann Arbor, was here Tuesday to see his sister, Mrs. Kirchgessner.

A special meeting of Clinton Chapter, No. 26, R. A. M. is called for Wednesday evening, March 16th.

Mrs. J. S. Fisher will occupy a part of Mrs. P. C. Smith's house. She will move in a short time.

Mrs. Frank Burg, of AnnArbor, has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Welch.

John Hulett was summoned from Toledo on account of his father's sickness. He arrived Tuesday night.

Mrs. McMaster has returned from her visit at Flint and Detroit, and will soon be prepared to suit the ladies on Easter Millinery.

Mr. Christian Hartwick, an old resident of this village, died very suddenly last Friday of apoplexy. He was buried Sunday at 2 o'clock p. m.

A democratic caucus will be held at Town Hall, Friday, March 25th at 2 p. m. for the purpose of nominating officers for the township election.

Mrs. J. S. Fisher and D. H. Silvers have a joint sale of live stock and farm implements, Tuesday, March 22d., at the Silvers farm, one mile south of town.

Mr. Anson Hulett died at about 12 o'clock Tuesday night. He has been gradually failing for some time. The funeral is to be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from St. John's church.

E. R. Smith has commenced operations on his residence. He will remodel the old house instead of building a new one. The workmen are tearing down the south wing, and will rebuild it two stories instead of one.

A voting school will be held at Town Hall, Saturday afternoon, April 2d. Let every voter go and be informed as to the correct manner of casting a vote. It is a stigma upon the community to be obliged to throw out votes, through the ignorance of voters.

Misses Libbie and Anna Kirchgessner were called home Saturday by the severe illness of their mother. Mrs. Kirchgessner has been failing in health for some time but has been about the house until last week, when she become much worse and is now in a very critical condition.

The corporation election Monday, resulted in a victory for the entire Citizen's ticket, with one exception. The following is the ticket:

Pres.—E. B. Rose.
Treas.—W. C. Rogers.
Clerk—J. B. McAdam.
Assessor—L. W. Kimball.
Street Com.—Nelson Prentiss
Constable—Addie St. John.
Trustees—W. B. Keyser, M. F. McClure, Robt. Redick.

Harold F. Sayles is conducting a series of revival meetings here, assisted by M. M. Jones. The first meeting was held at the Congregational church, where every evening service is held, but the afternoon bible readings take place at the Baptist and Methodist churches. Their lime light stereopticon for illustrating their songs is greatly appreciated by the older portion of their audiences, as well as by the younger ones. Service is held at 4 o'clock every Wednesday afternoon during Lent, at St. John's church.

Teachers and Patrons Meeting.

CLINTON, March 8, 1892.

Office of Clinton Schools—The Lenamee County Teachers and Patrons Association will hold a meeting at Clinton, on Friday, March 25, 1892. The following program will be presented:—School Discipline, David E. Haggart; discussion opened by Herman H. Halladay; Book keeping, Sup't. J. J. Morgan; Primary work in Geography, Miss Virginia Daniels; Discussion by Mrs. C. S. Burroughs; Plea for Higher Education, W. H. Howard, Ph. D.; Reading, Com. C, F. Field; Paper, Mrs. F. C. Rector; The Teacher in Society, F. E. Wickwire; Papers; Miss Mary Schaffer; Teaching Morals, Miss Nellie Martin.

Other topics will probably be presented. Music will probably be interspersed throughout the program by Misses Lizzie and Emma Henderson, Laura Clark, Minnie Humphrey, Louise VanDeMark and School Choir. All teachers and patrons are invited to attend.

H. W. DANIELS, Local Committee. C. F. FIELD, Co. Com.

I had a severe attack of catarrh and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from roaring in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh, take Ely's Cream Balm and be cured. It is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh. —A. E. Newman, Grayling, Mich.

The Mackinaw Road.

An official of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw railroad said this morning: "The road will be formally taken out of the hands of the receiver some day this week. For the present there will be no changes in the general offices or the operation of the road."

"How about the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton?" said the Bee. "Don't that company desire to lease the C. J. & M?"

"They did before the reorganization:" was the answer, but of late we have heard nothing of the matter."

"Would the C. J. & M. company as organized be willing to lease?" was asked.

"I think so; at least that was the expression of the gentlemen interested before the reorganization, and the same parties are at present interested. The C. J. & M. has been doing a good business of late and perhaps they are not so willing to lease as they were. However, we await a proposal from the C. H. & D, and if it is forthcoming it is probable that some such arrangement will be effected."—Toledo Bee.

20,000,000 visitors, at least, are expected at the Columbian Exposition; and whether you expect to be one of them or not, as an American, naturally you are interested in the preparations for the grand event. A splendid paper in Demorest's Family Magazine for April, "The Evolution of a Great Exposition," is the best thing of the kind that has yet been published. From it you may learn all the interesting points about the coming World's Fair and the illustrations are simply superb, including a comprehensive view and the plans of the grounds, pictures of all the magnificent buildings, and portraits of some of the leading officers having it in charge.

The TRIBUNE ALMANAC for 1892, just out, is a wonderful book. We can hardly spare the space to enumerate the whole list of contents of this admirable volume of reference. Our readers can send to the Tribune for a circular giving them full information, and we advise them to follow this course, if they are in doubt. They can be sure, however, that the Almanac contains all the statistical information they are likely to want, including some specially valuable new features. The country is discussing currency questions now, and the Tribune gives in this Almanac two tables of immediate interest: One is the Coinage of the U. S. for every year since 1795. The other is the circulating medium of each kind and the total amount per capita for each year since 1860. There is a Perpetual Calendar, copyrighted, of great value; and a great mass of other exceedingly useful tables and statements. The great Tribune Almanac for 1891 had an enormous sale. The book for 1892 is likely to do even better. Price 25 cents.

HEIGHT OF CRUELTY.

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the pictures of health, they are constantly ailing. To withhold sympathy from these unfortunates is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering, pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppression, choking, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his Restorative Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise on "Heart and Nervous Diseases" and marvellous testimonials free. Sold and guaranteed by Baker and Hall.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN THE MATTER of the Estate of Lodema Sherman, deceased.

The undersigned, having been appointed by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee, Michigan commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, do hereby give notice that we will meet for that purpose at Wilson Matthews, in Tecumseh Lenawee Co., Michigan, on the 16th day of April and on the 7th day of September, at one o'clock in the afternoon of each of said days. And that six months from the 16th day of March, A. D. 1892, are allowed by said probate court for the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us for examination and allowance.

Dated March 16th, 1892.

ADELBERT CAIRNS,
BLINN TALLMAN
Commissioners.

ESTATE OF JOHN DUBOIS.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the city of Adrian, on Wednesday the 9th day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate John Dubois, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Maria Dubois, widow of said deceased, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to Charles Dubois, or some other suitable person.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 11th day of April next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks, previous to said day of hearing.

RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.

HERE is a GOOD THING for YOU
A MAN, OR WOMAN,
of intelligence and quick-witted enough to know a "GOOD THING" at sight, but who has lost the Most Precious Possession on Earth, viz., GOOD HEALTH, WILL NOT require a SECOND TELLING to be induced to become a purchaser
DR. GREGG'S ELECTRIC
BELTS & APPLIANCES.
Do you know why? Because it is plain to be seen that the TRUTH ONCE TOLD is enough. The Surprising Promptness with which all classes of people respond to our announcements and the rapidly increasing demand for Dr. Gregg's Goods wherever introduced, conclusively prove that true modesty is always recognized and the quality of merit takes care of itself. Metaphorically our statement is the Button—the Public Press it, and
DR. GREGG'S ELECTRIC SPECIALTIES
"Do the Rest."
The extent of Pressure on the button and the success of Dr. Gregg's Goods in "Doing the Rest" is most satisfactorily shown in the marvelous growth of our business the past 60 days.
Repeated and increasing demands for The Gregg Electric "Foot Warmer" are coming in from all parts of the country with profuse acknowledgements that so much comfort for $1.00 (the price) is like buying Gold Dollars for ten cents.
The Delicate Organism of Woman subjects her to many peculiar ailments and unfortunate misery. The extreme sensitiveness of her Nervous System very frequently requires artificial stimulus. The Gregg Electric Belt and other Appliances supply this as nothing else can.
The Rugged Constitution of Man, when once broken, becomes pitiable in the extreme, from which there is absolutely no escape without assistance. The Gregg Electric Belts and Appliances in cases of this kind, have honestly won their title of King of Remedies.
Rheumatism is conquered, sufferers from Obesity are speedily relieved, Dropsy quickly yields, spinal difficulties and Paralysis disappear, and many other diseases of Men and Women are permanently cured, fully described in complete catalogue for 6c. or elaborate circular free. We guarantee to forfeit twice the price of any of Dr. Gregg's goods found not to be genuine. We make an elegant little $3 Electric Belt, which is selling very rapidly and which we take in exchange for any higher power belt (except $5 belt), and credit $3 on the price of new order. Remember the Electric Foot Warmers are $1 a pair, worth $10. Address

BRITTON BUDGET.

Lively in town Saturday. Caucus.

This is the last week of school for this term.

Geo. Exelby moved out of the hotel Monday.

Dr. Hendershot's little Viva is still improving.

Miss Martha Ackley visited at Dundee over Sunday.

Wm. Swick is going to build a big barn this spring.

Fine line of spring styles in wall paper at Lenardson's.

D. R. Wiggins moved his household goods to Dundee Thursday.

Will Bauchman has hired out to Edgar Exelby for the summer.

Vern Smith and his ear were up town for the first time last Friday.

John Britton returned to Detroit Monday, where he is sitting on jury.

Charlie Dubois and Neil Exelby each lost a horse last week with the colic.

Now you can smoke on the new Hotel proprietor. Milo moved in Monday.

O. B. Lenardson was in Dundee Monday and called on our friend Wiggins.

Charley Ross, our night operator, attended a wedding at Denver, Ind., Sunday.

George Exelby is getting ready to move into his house on lower Chicago street.

Henry Bauchman has been on the sick list with the grippe for the past two weeks.

We omitted last week to report the arrival at Jno. Gibson's, Sunday night, of a little 12-lb girl.

Cornelius Hoagland and wife, who for the past few days have been quite ill, are now convalescent.

Don't fail to read the Editor's article in last week's issue on the Britton library and reading room.

A great illustration of the Southern plantation racket dances now on exhibition in Brown's window.

The boys that broke over those shade trees last week are now begging to be let out of it as easy as possible.

The most severe snowstorm we have had this winter occurred last Saturday about noon, lasting about half an hour.

The Orchestra is coming right to the front. The boys calculate to be prepared for the next play with some fine music.

The Library Association wishes to thank editor Stacy for the free subscription of his paper to the long list of others.

The marriage of William Henry Hoagland and Miss Nichols, one day last week, was a pleasant surprise to their many acquaintances.

Special review of Hendersbot Tent of Maccabees next Tuesday evening, Mar. 29. Regular review Tuesday evening, April 5. Let all be present. By order of Com.

We can not yet give the date for the Dutch Recruit, as it is taking longer than was expected to fill the cast, but we can promise you full particulars next week.

All those who gave their names to solicitors for membership in the Library and have not paid the same will please do so at once. By order of Board of Directors.

The Holloway section foreman drank a little too much of the fatal beverage just before the pay car came last week, for when he got home he received word that the Railroad Company had no further use for his services. Let this be a warning to all who indulge too freely.

The following are the nominations made by each party last Saturday afternoon for the township of Ridgeway:

Republican—Supervisor, James Linn; Clerk, Willis J. Helm; Treasurer, William C. Babcock: Road Com., Norman H. Ackley; School Inspector, Edward Palmer; Justice of Peace full term, Herman Atwell. Democratic—Supervisor, Henry F. Barnes; Clerk, Joe E. Hunter; Treas., Geo. W. Witt; Road Com., F. E. Morrell, School Inspector, Fred E. Wickwire: Justice of Peace full term, John Schawb.

RAISIN RACKET.

Robert Westgate has sold 20 acres of his old place to parties from Adrian for $900.

School began at the Seminary Thursday of last week, with about 40 scholars in attendance.

Ollie Mead has so far recovered from her sickness as to be able to attend to her school duties again.

Geo. F. Westgate is attending meetings in the northern part of the State with Amos Kenworthy.

Lon Miller, who has been attending a medical school at Washington, D. C. has returned home for his vacation.

Mrs. Antoinette, who has been visiting her son Arthur and other relatives in the west since last fall, has returned and is now making calls and visits with her old neighbors in Raisin.

The fire Saturday night proved to be one of the largest that these parts have had for some time, it being the large brick dwelling house owned by Mr. Galloway, west and half a mile north of the Friends' church in the Valley.

Lee Calhoun, son of Wm. Calhoun, was brought to Holloway Monday on the eleven o'clock train from Ann Arbor, where he had gone for treatment. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community. The funeral will be held this afternoon at half-past one.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Dr. Nelson went to Hudson Monday on business.

Lawrence Kappleye visited friends at Dundee Saturday.

Undertaker Smith was in Toledo Monday on business.

Saturday was something of an old-fashioned winter's day.

T. H. Temple went to Devils Lake Wednesday on a fishing tour.

H. J. Williams was in Adrian on business the first of the week.

Mrs. Carter, from near Perrysburgh, Ohio, visited Mrs. F. E. Pocklington last week.

G. C. Arner is home for repairs for a few days, having sprained his right leg quite badly.

Minnie Barrett spent several days with Clinton friends last week, returning Monday.

Mrs. H. Brewster, of Clinton, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Clack, the first of the week.

W. E. Barrett and wife spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fagan, near Tecumseh.

Mrs. Dr. Manley and children, of Davisburgh, Mich., visited the families of J. O. Shepard and Elder Yager the past week.

J. O. Shepard returned from Flint Thursday of last week, having been called there by the sickness of his mother.

Mrs. Elmer Thornton and children, of Alcester, South Dakota, visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. E. Pocklinton, and family, last week.

The second quarterly meeting services were held Sunday evening. Dr. Ryan preached and conducted the sacramental services. There were 108 participants.

The attendance was quite large at the L. C. S. held at the home of Mrs. Dr. Loree on Friday evening, and a very pleasant time was spent by all. After the usual program the hostess furnished as refreshments ice cream and cake. The Society has decided to hold only one meeting a month until further notice.

The Epworth League will give a Missionary entertainment in the lecture room on Tuesday evening of next week, March 29, when the following program will be carried out:

Essay—"Bishop Taylor and his African Mission"—Clara Temple.
Recitation—William H. Taylor, Minnie Barrett.
Music—Society.

The Britton item in last week's HERALD, charging the professional man of Ridgeway with riding on the new sidewalk, was uncalled for and utterly false. His word can be depended upon. He denies the charge. We heard him say he would no more think of riding on the sidewalk in Britton, or any other village, than of riding on the walk in front of his own home. To account for the broken board and sorrel hairs, it must be that some unfortunate member of the Committee of Construction fell through. If any of them are missing there is probably where they may be found.

NORTH-EAST FRANKLIN.

L. E. Taylor has been ailing the past week.

The Center school-house is being painted this spring vacation.

The roads, which were getting fairly good, were spoiled again by the rain Tuesday.

Mrs. L. E. Taylor, who since last June has been confined to her bed more or less, is at present very low.

Fred Bunting left with his household goods for the north Monday. Peter Handy will move into the vacated house this week.

Remember the Lyceum at G. W. Allen's Friday evening. A good program has been prepared, plenty of music will be in store, and the single tax debate the important feature of the evening, will be presented to entertain you.

Hollis Taylor closed his schaol at Franklin Center last Friday. The afternoon was passed with an entertaining little program. The pupils presented their teacher with a handsome plush photograph album by which he might remember his past year's labor.

The many friends of Otis Whelan thought to surprise him and celebrate his 50th birthday Monday evening. They assembled with their suppers about half-past seven. Otis tore up the carpets, the Wolf Creek orchestra furnished music, and men and women, though married and supposed to be "old and steady," went in for a good time and danced as though they were but twenty.

WORTH HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS.

My wife used only two bottles of "Mother's Friend" before her third confinement. Says she would not be without it for hundreds of dollars. Had not half as much trouble as before. Dock Miles, Lincoln Parish, La. Sold by J. J. Orr.

MANCHESTER MATTERS.

Schuyler, son of C. H. Millen, is quite sick.

Leonard Berman is drawing the lumber for the new barn to be erected this spring.

John Mast moved his goods to Detroit, where he has rented a farm, on Thursday last.

The Norvell Farmers' Club meets on Saturday, at the residence of Frank W. Smith, at 10 a. m.

Rev. Cope returned from Caro the latter part of last week and was accompanied by his mother.

Mrs. L. M. Baldwin went to Lawrence, VanBuren Co., on Monday, to visit her son, Dr. Jell L. Baldwin.

Albert Robison will move from the place T. J. Thorne has purchased into the James Martin house on Furnace road.

George Bowins returned to his home in Cayuga, Canada, last week Wednesday. He has spent several weeks here as the guest of his sister, Mrs. Grant Sutton.

Little Bennett Root, son of E. E. Root, had his leg broken in two places on Monday morning while "catching on" a passing wagon. His leg became entangled in the wheel.

John Koch, one of Manchester's prominent business men, died at his home just south of the village, after a long and severe illness, on Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock.

Charles Rose, who is a brakeman on the Ypsilanti branch freight train, had the misfortune to have one leg crushed while coupling cars last Saturday forenoon. The attending physicians think his leg can be saved.

Mrs. R. L. Knorf, nee Mabel Dean, died in New York City on Sunday, Mar. 13th. Her remains were brought to this, her native town, and the funeral services held at the residence of her aunt, Mrs. O. A. Wait, Rev. Case officiating, and the interment was at Oak Grove. She leaves a husband, mother, brother, Frank, who is employed in the Enterprise office, and two sisters, Mrs. Geo. Miles and Mrs. Will Pattison, of Detroit.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

Warren Miller is on the sick list.

Lew. Martin, of Leslie, is here on a business trip.

Mrs. L. C. Grady started for her home at Caro Wednesday.

Alex. McCannon, of Baltimore, is visiting friends here.

Leslie VanDorn has moved onto his farm bought of Leonard Cook.

The Prohibs put a ticket in the field Tuesday. "A wet day but a dry cause."

James Easlick, of Ashtabula, Ohio, made A. Easlick a flying visit Wednesday.

The telephone line is down from overloading with ice Tuesday morning between Karcher's and Miller's.

Mrs. Sarah Miller made a business trip to Milan Friday, remaining over Sunday with Mrs. F. H. Stimpson.

The friends and neighbors congregated at Geo. A. Wilkins' Saturday, the 19th, it being his 80th birthday anniversary. Mrs. Wilkins will be 80 April 20th.

The shade tree suit between boys at Lake Ridge und T. V. Hoagland was settled Tuesday, costing the boys about $100,—the result of a jug of cider. Another evidence that the consumer pays the tariff.

The Signal Service Department has offered to furnish Macon Grange with signal flags and daily forecasts of the weather, provided the Grange will select a place and erect a pole on the Commercial Telegraph line. The Grange has accepted the offer, selected Lake Ridge postoffice as the place for signals, and will report to the Department accordingly. Tally one each for the Grange and rural telegraph.

NEWBURGH NOTES.

Are those orange blossoms?

E. Foor has moved on the Burlingame farm.

C. Koernig visited at D. Steffens' Sunday.

Miss Clara Steffens spent Wednesday at home.

Chas. Smith returned from Adrian Wednesday.

The case of Conger vs. Conger was adjourned until Thursday.

Eugene and John McDermott, of Clinton, visited at Newburgh Sunday.

C. King and A. Listmann, of Adrian, were in Newburgh on business this week.

Will Wissing went to Adrian Saturday to visit his brothers, George and Henry.

Miss Bessie Stacy celebrated her fourth birthday Tuesday by inviting a few of her friends.

$25.00 REWARD!

For information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves who forcibly gained entrance to the store building occupied by W. Lenardson & Sons and took therefrom articles of merchandise consisting of boots, shoes, clothing, dry goods, notions, etc., I will give $25. JOHN GIBSON,

Dept. Sheriff Lenawee Co.

Dated Britton, Mich., March 7th, 1892.

SPRINGVILLE SIFTINGS.

The political fight is on.

The Prohibitionists failed to count a quorum at their caucus.

A. J. Case heads the People's ticket, J. E. Gibbs the Republican, with the Democrats yet to hear from.

A considerable number from Cambridge attended the St. Patrick's Day celebration at Clinton, the Phœnix Club furnishing some of the principal actors in the drama.

Never has the community been more shocked or grieved than by the death, within the past week, of Nellie and Belle Lyman, only children of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Lyman. Both were great favorites in society, graduates of the Brooklyn high school, and engaged in teaching in the Cambridge schools when that fatal disease, scarlet fever, seized upon them. Kind and loving, all were cheered by their presence and blessed by their example.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

The old folks danced at Otis Whelan's Monday night.

Get up and make your best bow to the spring, for she is here. May the spring return the compliment.

Ye single taxers and ye taxers who are not single, come out and talk single tax at G. W. Allen's Saturday night.

Irene Allen will open school in the "Brick" one week from next Monday. Celia Brewster, we understand, will teach in the Center.

Charlie Billington started for home last Saturday, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Julia Knight, and also by David Burroughs.

If the person who removed that rope from Mrs. A. B. Wisner's corn field will kindly return the same he may save himself some trouble.

MACON MUSIC.

Miss Minnie Day has been quite sick with tonsilitis.

We fear the March lion has caught the lamb, as no one has even heard it bleat.

M. V. Sickly and wife returned Monday from a few days' visit at Woodstock.

On account of rain and mud the mush and milk social Tuesday night was postponed.

Chas. Dickerson and Sadie Jackson close their winter term of school this week for one week vacation.

Ace Smith, our mail carrier, is on a visiting excursion at Grand Ledge this week. Lank Smith and Mr. Snedicor will carry the mail alternately.

Owing to the weakness of the spirit the Quarterly meeting, which was to have been held last Sunday, was recalled.

TECUMSEH-FRANKLIN FARMERS' CLUB.

One of the best meetings of this season met at A. K. Waldron's on the evening of March 15. C. A. Matthews was appointed as a delegate on the Picnic committee to meet in Tecumseh March 26. After passing a very pleasant evening the Club adjourned to meet at Benj. Lamkin's in two weeks, with the following program:

AN IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not affected with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

Lying is a reprehensible habit, generally speaking; but fish stories are quite appropriate during Lent.

WHITENS AND SOFTENS THE SKIN.

Rozodoro is the safest of all toilet preparations for whitening the complexion. It is a hygienic luxury, being most agreeable to use and leaving the skin in a pure, refreshed and healthy condition. Delicately perfumed, Mrs. D. B. Howard, San Francisco, writes: "It has made my skin pure and white as a little child's." Price 75 cents. Try a bottle. Sent free on receipt of price, and so wrapped it cannot be told. Address, The Rozodoro Co., South Bend, Ind. Agents wanted.

I had a severe attack of catarrh and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from roaring in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh, take Ely's Cream Balm and be cured. It is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh. —A. E. Newman, Grayling, Mich.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MARCH 24, 1892.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, March 18, 1892.

"Senator Hill's Southern Speeches," said a prominent member of the Farmer's Alliance, "recall a conversation with him in New York city, previous to the assembling of Congress. He then said that the proper policy for the democratic House would be to devote its entire attention to reducing the appropriation bills to an economical basis and after passing them to adjourn early in the spring. He expressed the opinion that nothing could possibly be gained, owing to the republican Senate and the republican executive, by attempting to legislate on financial and tariff matters, while much might be lost by stirring up discussion in the party. He has not spoken quite that plain in his speeches, but he has said enough to convince me that he is still of the opinion that he was before Congress met and that he thinks the democrats of the House are making some very bad mistakes. As for myself, I wish to see the House pass the free coinage bill, and I am certain it will pass the Senate. If President Harrison vetoes it, he alone will be responsible for its defeat. I care nothing about the interests of any political party. It is the interests of the people, the great majority, who have to work for their livelihood, that I wish to see taken care of by Congress."

Sickness is very prevalent among members of Congress. At a single session of the House this week more than forty "pairs" were announced, and the most of them were made because of the sickness of one or the other of the parties, and in many cases of both.

There are no new developments in the Behrings Sea case. President Harrison has jogged the memory of Lord Salisbury by requesting, through the British Minister here, an answer to the dispatch sent a week ago last Monday. When that answer is received something will be definitely determined upon.

No man who ever sat in the United States Senate was more generally loved and respected than Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont. An example of this was given this week when two democratic Senators from West Virginia, agreed that the bill relating to West Virginia's share of the direct tax money be postponed until the recovery of Senator Morrill, because they understood that he was worrying himself about not being able to be present and deliver a speech which he had prepared on the subject. To fully appreciate this very unusual courtesy it must be remembered that there are few who have had any hopes of Senator Morrill's recovery, and that his views on the question at issue in the bill are opposed to those of the West Virginia Senators.

So many members have given notice of their intention of making speeches on the free wool bill, now under consideration in the House, that the majority of the Ways and Means committee have decided to postpone the taking of a vote thereon from next Monday, the time first set, to some indefinite time after the passage of the free coinage bill, which will be the event of next week.

Commissioner of Pensions Raum must have a liking for being criticised or else he is sadly deficient in what is commonly referred to as good, hard, horse sense. Notwithstanding his very unpleasant experience through appointing members of his immediate family to office, he told the Congressional committee which is conducting the Pension office investigation, that he had recommended his daughter for appointment as his private secretary, and that she is now performing the duties of that position, having left a clerkship in the Census Bureau to take it, although the recommendation has not yet been confirmed by the Secretary of the Interior, who has been out of town. The first thing the average Government official does after getting in office is to begin scheming to get the rest of his family in office.

President Harrison this week issued his message restoring the duty upon sugar, hides, coffee and tea from those countries which have neglected or declined to negotiate reciprocity agreements with the United States. It affects only three countries, Columbia, Hayti, and Venezuela.

The State Department has received no details of the reciprocity treaty which Minister Reid has negotiated with France, although its general scope is known to be favorable to us.

The leaders of both the democratic and republican parties are becoming jealous of the attentions paid by the other to the Farmer's Alliance. The Alliance men are doing little talking, but they are probably doing some right hard thinking.

Bills for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico have been favorably reported to the House and placed on the calendar.

TARIFF SHOT.

High Duties Mean Low Prices For Wool—Low Duties Mean High Prices—Expert Opinion Proved By Statistics.

Under the operation of high duties the price of domestic wool has always gone down. Under low tariffs, however, wool has risen in price. On this point we have the testimony of Mr. Thomas Dolan, who declared in a letter to the New York World, on the fall in the price of wool as a result of the increased duties imposed by the McKinley tariff, that it was distinctly promised by the protectionists who took part in the conferences of wool growers and manufacturers. And Senator Sherman said, in the debate on the tariff of 1883: "In 1867 the price of wool was 51 cents; in 1880, 40 cents. This was the result of the policy in protecting the wool grower, as it is in all industries, to gradually reduce the price. Under the operation of the existing tariff (the tariff of 1867) the price of wool has gradually gone down."

All wools were free of duty down to 1824, when a duty of 15 to 30 per cent. was imposed. This duty was increased by the tariff of 1828 to 4 cents per pound and 50 per cent. Under the compromise tariff of 1833 the duty was gradually lowered, and in 1842 it stood at 4 cents per pound and 26 per cent. The tariff of 1842 raised it again to 3 cents per pound and 80 per cent. The act of 1846 made the duty on wool 30 per cent.; that of 1857 put low grades on the free list and cut down the rate on all other wools to 24 per cent. The Morrill tariff of 1861 increased the duty to 9 cents per pound, and the special wool tariff of 1867 raised the duties to 10 cents per pound and 11 per cent. on clothing wools, and 12 cents per pound and 10 per cent. on combing wools. The tariff of 1883 took off the ad valorem duties, but left the pound duties as they were, and the McKinley tariff added another cent to the duty on clothing wools.

The average prices given are compiled from Mawger & Curry's circular, as printed in the "Statistical Abstract of the United States."

1. Wool free of duty. Price the first half of 1824, 49½ cents per pound.

2. High wool duties, 1825-1832. Average price of wool 42¾ cents per pound.

3. Lower wool duties, 1833-1842. Average price of woo 48 9-10 cents per pound.

4. Higher wool duties 1843-1846. Average price of wool 40 3-5 cents per pound.

5. Lower wool duties, 1847-1856. Average price of wool 40 8-5 cents per pound.

6. Still lower wool duties with some wools on the free list, 1857-1860. Average price of wool 44¾ cents per pound.

7. Wool duties raised, 1861-1866. Average price of wool 44¾ cents per pound.

8. Wool duties raised still higher—1867 to 1890, average price of wool 41½ cents per pound.

9. Very high duties imposed by the McKinley tariff. Present price of Ohio wool, XX and above, 29 cents per pound.

This confirms the statement made by Senator Sherman to the effect that high wool duties are accompanied by low prices of domestic wools, and that when the tariff on foreign wools is low domestic wools command higher prices.

FREE BINDING TWINE.

Report on Congressman Bryan's Bill to Put Binding Twine on the Free List.

The first one of the reports of the ways and means committee on the three tariff bills ordered reported to the house has been prepared by Representative Bryan, of Nebraska, who drew up the bill. It is to accompany the bill making binding twine free of duty, and will be presented to the house in a day or two. The present rate of duty on binding twine, the report says, is 7-10 cents per pound, this rate having been fixed as a compromise in conference after the senate, by a vote of 34 to 24, had placed binding twine on the free list.

The report adds: "Petitions have been received from a number of individuals and organizations asking that this relief be granted to the farmers of the country. The committee is convinced of the justice of the demand. There is a difference between a request that all consumers be subjected to a tax levied for the benefit of some particular industry and a demand from the consumers to be relieved of the burden. While both classes look to their own advantage, they are not equally selfish, for the latter only asks to be let alone, while the former seeks to appropriate to its own use the proceeds of the toil of others. That great industry, agriculture, which lies at the foundation of all others, and upon the welfare of which all the interests of the country so largely depend, has been neglected. It has been discriminated against for the benefit of the protected industries, and the injury has been aggravated by the imposition of useless duties upon a large number of agricultural products, under the pretence that such a tariff would increase price of such products, although the farmer has been assured that a similar tariff on manufactured articles would reduce the price of the goods he buys. A large part of the surplus products of the farm must be disposed of in a foreign market, and the price of that surplus, fixed by free competition, regulates the price of the portion sold at home. If the articles necessarily used by the farmer in the harvesting of his crops are made dearer for him than for his competitors he must bear the burden alone; for there is no one to whom he can transfer it. The chief of the bureau of statistics has informed the committee that "it is believed that no binding twine has been imported into the United States for several years." The tariff, then, of seven-tenths of one cent per pound is prohibitory and brings no revenue whatever to the government. The tariff on this article, therefore, cannot be justified, except upon the principle that the taxing power should be used to prevent importations entirely, and that principle, besides being unsupported by constitutional authority, would destroy all income from imports and compel us to look to some other source for the necessary revenues. The treasury department has sent to the committee all the information obtainable in regard to this industry.

A letter received by it from a prominent manufacturer states that there are in the United States thirty-five cordage and binding twine factories, twenty-nine of which are owned and controlled by the National Cordage Co. of New York. The twenty-nine in the trust, if it may be so termed produces 60 per cent. of the total output. There was produced and consumed in the United States in 1890 50,000 tons of twine, all but 7,000 tons of which were made from foreign grown fibers. If the seven-tenths of one cent per pound is added to the price, as is probable, this tax cost the farmers of the United States in the year 1890 alone $700,000, and this does not include a large additional sum charged for profits on the increased price by the various dealers through whose hands the product passed. Not one dollar of this large tax reached the treasury. Surely there can be no excuse for allowing this trust to continue the exaction of this tribute. The raw material from which this twine is made is already on the free list.

STEEL RAIL TRUST PROFITS.

Lower Prices For Pig Iron, Lower Wages, and Higher Prices For Rails Make Enormous Profits.

Early in 1891 the steel rail trust clinched its grip upon the market for steel rails by the consolidation of the two mills at Scranton, Pa. Previous to this time, though both mills were members of the trust, one of them was in the habit of cutting prices on favorable occasions. Their consolidation under one management removed this disturbing influence. No better illustration of the control which the trust has over production and prices can be given than the average monthly prices of steel rails in 1891. As computed by the American Iron and Steel association, the average prices of Bessemer pig iron and steel rails at the mills in Pennsylvania have been as follows:

	Bessemer pig iron per ton.	Steel rails per ton.
January	$16 95	$29 00
February	16 25	30 00
March	16 50	30 00
April	16 10	30 00
May	16 50	30 00
June	16 25	30 00
July	16 25	30 00
August	16 00	30 00
September	15 60	30 00
October	15 50	30 00
November	15 15	30 00
December	15 35	30 00

Bessemer pig iron is now selling in Pittsburgh at $14 90 per ton. But not a ton of steel rails can be bought at less than $30 at the mills. In the report on the cost of producing iron and steel products in the United States, for which investigations were made in 1889, the commissioner of labor says: "The department has been positively informed relative to the cost of making steel rails in several of the very largest establishments in the United States, and there is no shadow of a doubt in the mind of the writer that in these establishments the actual cost of standard steel rails is, and has been for some time, within a few cents of $22 per ton."

The recent heavy reductions made in wages by the steel rail trust and the fall in price of Bessemer pig iron from an average of $18.85 per ton in 1889, when the commissioner gathered his statistics, to an average of $15.95 per ton in 1891, have greatly reduced the cost of producing steel rails. The present cost of producing rails is not over $19. For every ton the trust produces, therefore, it makes a profit of at least $11. Under the higher price for pig iron in 1891 the cost of rails was not over $20 per ton and the profit was $10 per ton. In 1891 the trust produced 1,366,259 tons of steel rails. The profits, therefore, were not far from $13,500,000. Doubtless these large profits have enabled Mr. Carnegie's mills to declare over $5,000,000 in dividends, just as they did in 1890.

Trusts "Are Largely Private Affairs."

The remarkable remissness of the present administration as to the enforcement of the anti-trust law calls to mind the remarks of Hon. J. G. Blaine at Portland during the last presidential campaign. He said:

"When President Cleveland delivered his message he had something to say to the American people about the danger of 'trusts.' I think there have been no democratic papers in the country, whether they understood the meaning of the words or not, that have not been constantly warning the people as to the horrible danger of 'trusts.' [Laughter.] Well, I shall not discuss trusts this afternoon. I shall not venture to say that they are altogether advantageous or disadvantageous. They are largely private affairs, with which President Cleveland nor any private citizen has any particular right to interfere."

In his letter of acceptance Mr. Harrison ignored Mr. Blaine's theory and indorsed Mr. Cleveland's ideas concerning the objectionable character of trusts and combines, but since he has been thrown more closely with "the greatest living statesman" he seems to have had a change of heart. Possibly as the campaign comes on he may show more interest in the people.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

The Latest Trust.

The latest thing in trusts is the rice mill trust, which has been formed at New Orleans. The deal between the syndicate and mill owners has been finally consummated, and the trust is now in operation. Every one of the thirteen rice mills has joined the trust. At present only a few of the more modern mills will be operated.

—The imports of tin plate within the last ten months amounted to 607,732,207 pounds, against an importation of 614,729,703 pounds in the same months of 1890—an increase of 83,000,000 pounds. These figures indicate that the domestic production of tin plate, of which we read so much about in the McKinley organs, has had little effect on the foreign supply.

THE RIGHT CANDIDATE.

In his letter to Hon. Edward S. Bragg of Wisconsin, Mr. Cleveland defines himself very plainly and with great good sense. In response to Mr. Bragg's call on him to announce himself a candidate, he denies that it is his duty or privilege to do so, in his view, and it is the correct view, the announcement of candidacy in the Democratic party, where the question is of the Presidency, should be made by the Democratic National Convention, after full and free deliberation, uncoerced by the insistence and unharassed by the importunity of anyone.

The effect of the letter in its connection is to refer the question of Mr. Cleveland's candidacy to the Democratic Convention at Chicago with full power to act. Mr. Cleveland has said to those who believe the welfare of the party and the country can be best promoted by his nomination, that if they want him for a candidate, they can get him, if it is shown in the only way it can be certainly shown—by action in convention—that their wishes are the wishes of the Democratic party.

This is the answer that should have been made to the people who have been calling on him to say that he will not be a candidate. He has not been silly enough to refuse a nomination that has not been offered him. He has referred the question of whether or not he is to be candidate to the Democratic party.

The party certainly is not disposed to go to New York for anyone else as a candidate. Mr. Cleveland is far stronger in New York than any other New York Democrat. If he cannot carry that State for the Democratic party it cannot be done with any other New Yorker. The Republic believes that if the party sees fit to nominate Mr. Cleveland it can easily elect him against Mr. Harrison. He is and he deserves to be the most popular Democrat in the country. And over and across party lines, he is more popular than any other man in any party. Personally he is much stronger than Blaine ever was personally, even at his strongest, for Mr. Cleveland has not only a party following as large and as enthusiastic as Blaine ever had, but he has what Blaine never had, a large and enthusiastic following among independent voters. If he is nominated he will be elected, and there is no longer any question of his willingness to be a candidate if the party names him as its candidate at Chicago.

With the right candidate and the right platform the Democratic party cannot be defeated this year. And the right candidate is "Grover Cleveland or a western man."—St. Louis Republic.

WM. L. DELACEY, ESQ.

A prominent lawyer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who was in the famous "Fighting Jersey Brigade" under Gen. Phil Kearney, has used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit as a general tonic to cleanse the blood and sharpen the appetite. "It is the best anti-malaria remedy," he says, "that I know of." Certainly the cordial endorsement of so prominent a man should convince you that Hood's Sarsaparilla is worthy your confidence. Mr. Charles F. Drexel, a well known former resident of Baltimore, Md., now Deputy City Treasurer of Omaha, Neb., writes that Hood's Sarsaparilla has effected a Phenomenal Cure in the case of his son, who when two years old became afflicted with Malignant Eczema. It first developed in his right eye, and the discharge from the same caused the whole face on that side to break out in a nasty, running sore. The poor little fellow was indeed pitiable to look at. Physicians gave him only temporary relief. He almost lost the sight of one eye, and the best oculists in Baltimore failed to benefit him. Finally Mrs. Drexel insisted upon trying Hood's Sarsaparilla and before he had taken half a bottle he looked like another child. The humor entirely disappeared, and His Eyesight was fully Restored. In fact, says Mr. Drexel, "he is the healthiest of our three children.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT.

The Single Tax in Detroit.

The Detroit News, one of the publications of the famous Scripps league of daily papers, the most influential newspaper enterprise in the United States, has made a careful examination into the probable effect in Detroit of the single tax on land values. It was formerly the custom in that city, and it is still in most communities, to discriminate for taxing purposes in favor of the owners of vacant land, upon the theory that as they received no income from their property they ought to pay less taxes than the owners of property yielding incomes. But recently a new custom has been established in Detroit, under which land values are fully appraised for taxation regardless of improvements. This is in the direction of single tax, though it falls very far short of it, since improvements and personal property are still subject to taxation.

It was to ascertain the effect on individuals and classes, by a consideration of actual instead of suppositious cases, that the Detroit News made the examination referred to above. Its plan, as stated editorially, was to take average examples from the assessor's books in sufficient number to enable almost any taxpayer to exhume his tax receipts and figure out for himself the effect of the single tax upon his own interests. Following is an account of the result:

The manner of estimating the rate of taxation on land values, if buildings and other improvements were exempt, is very simple. The present valuation of the city of Detroit is:

Land	$86,074,380
Buildings	49,952,280
Personalty	38,808,670
Total	$174,835,310

The city taxes in 1891, assessed on the above property, were $2,934,555, which is at the rate of $16.78 per $1,000. Now, to get a rate on land values alone sufficient to raise the above amount, it is necessary to raise the rate to $34 on each $1,000 of valuation. In other words, it increases the rate on land values sufficient to compensate for the loss on buildings and personalty.

How would the present taxpayers fare under the single tax system?

Let the reader examine these illustrations and consider the one that fits his own case.

COTTAGE PROPERTY.—Thomas S. Jordan, of Beaufait avenue, is assessed $700 on his lot and $750 on his buildings, total, $1,450; present tax, $24.34. Under the single tax he would pay $23.80, a decrease of fifty-four cents.

David B. Cadotte, who lives two doors away, has a $450 lot and a $450 house, total, $900; taxes, $15.10r single tax, $15.30; an increase of twenty cents.

Albert McColgan owns a house and lot on National avenue, near Kirby avenue. The lot is assessed at $420, the house at $1,000; total, $1,420. He pays $23.83 in taxes. Single tax, $14.28.

D. C. Spaulding, on National avenue, near Kirby avenue, is assessed $360 on his lot and $800 on his house, total, $1,160. He has to pay $19.47 at present. Under the single tax he would pay $11.24.

VACANT LAND.—Walter Crane owns a part of private claim 39, between the River road and the Detroit river, and which is assessed at $50,350. There are no buildings or improvements on it. At present he pays $845.13. Under the single tax law he would have to pay $1,711.19.

The Moses W. Field state, owns among other vacant lands, 1,172 feet frontage on Mack avenue, which is assessed at $383,900. The tax paid on this is $6,470.48. Under the single tax it would be $13,052.60.

Walter Crane owns all that tract of land lying north of Fort street west between Cavalry and Campbell avenues, comprising 39 40-100ths acres. The land is assessed at $100,000, and the buildings at $1,950. At present he pays $1,711.21. Under the single tax he would pay $3,400.

BUSINESS BLOCKS.—The Hammond estate owns among other parcels of taxable property, the tall 10-story block on the southeast corner of Griswold and Fort streets, known as the Hammond block. The land is assessed at $153,600, the building at $300,000, and the personalty, which consists of the furniture of one office, at $300—total, $453,900. The present taxation, $7,618.59; the single tax would be $5,222.40, a decrease of $2,396.19.

The Newberry and McMillan building on Griswold street is assessed at $146,000, of which $76,000 is for the land and $70,000 is for the building. The taxes are $3,450.57. The single tax would be $3,584, an increase of $134.

The Campau building on Griswold street is assessed, on the land, $80,000; building, $85,000; personal, $200; total, $165,200. Present taxation, $2,772.83; single tax, $2,720, a decrease of $52.

The McGraw block on Griswold street is assessed for $155,000, of which $100,000 is on the land and $55,000 on the building. The present tax is $3,601 63. Under the single tax it would be $3,400, an increase of $798.37.

MANUFACTURING PLANTS.—The Michigan Car Co., the Detroit Car Wheel Co., and the Detroit Pipe and Foundry Co. are located on the same property on Clark avenue. The three companies are practically owned by the same persons, James McMillan and his associates. The lands of the companies are assessed at $65,400, and the buildings and personal property at $422,350; total assessed valuation, $488,750, on which the city tax is $5,201.95. Under the single tax the three companies would pay only $2,223.60, a decrease of $3,978.35.

Pingree & Smith, shoe manufacturers, are assessed $100,300 on land; $45,950 on buildings; $145,000 on personal property; total $291,250. On this the firm now pays $4,895.26. Under the single tax it would pay $1,664.39, a decrease of $3,230.87.

Hammond, Standish & Co., the big meat packers and dealers, are assessed $55,000 on land, $68,800 on buildings and $127,680 on personal property; total $241,480. The taxes on this property are $5,878.92. Under the single tax they would be $1,870, a decrease of $4,005 92.

Parke, Davis & Co.'s immense pharmaceutical laboratory on Atwood and Guion streets, is assessed at $549,480, of which $31,130 is on the land, $94,000 on the buildings and $424,350 on stocks, merchandise and other personalty. The present taxation on this is $9,223.52. The burdens of the firm under the single tax would be $1,058.42; a decrease of $8,165.10.

The Voigt Brewing Co., limited, is assessed as follows: Lands, $50,910; buildings and personalty, $155,350; total, $205,960. Taxes, $3,456.95; single tax, $1,720.74.

The Michigan Stove Co.'s lands are assessed at $56,840, and its buildings and personalty at $320,450. Total, $376,800. Taxes, $6,922.06; single tax, $1,915.90, a decrease of $5,006.16.

The Peninsular Car Co.'s lands are assessed at $101,000; the buildings and personalty at $300,000; total assessed valuation, $401,000; total taxes, $6,745.79. The single tax would be $4,434, a decrease of $3,311.79.

Thomas Murphy, machinist, on the northeast corner of Third and Congress streets, is assessed as follows: On machinery and merchandise, $10,000; on vessel property $5,000; total $15,000. Present taxes, $251.77; under single tax, nothing. The property, which is owned by T. C. Owen, is assessed as follows: land, $7,580; buildings, $2,000; total, $9,580; present taxes $160.80; under single tax $257.72, an increase of $96.92.

Thomas McGregor, boilermaker, on the corner of Third and Congress streets, is assessed as follows: Land, $7,900; building, $2,250; merchandise, machinery and other personal property, $5,500; total, $16,650. Present taxes, $262.66. Single tax, $268.60; an increase of $5.94.

The Detroit machine screw works on Chaplain street is assessed as follows: Land, $2,200; buildings, $10,000; merchandise and machinery, $58,000; total, $71,200; taxes, $1,195.07. Under single tax, $198.80.

Fred Wuelfing & Co. operate a small machine shop at 71 Larned street west. The company rents the building and is assessed $500 on its machinery. The tax on this is $8.39, but under the single tax it would be nothing. The owner of the property is Francis Riley, who is assessed $5,700 on the land and $1,600 on the building; total, $7,300. On this he pays $122.53 in taxes. Under the single tax he would pay $193.80.

RESIDENCE PROPERTY.—The assessed valuation on the residence property of E. W. Voigt, at the corner of Ledyard and second streets, is as follows: Land, $10,500; buildings, $36,800; personalty, including bank stock, $8,200. The taxes are $931.57. Single tax, $357.

Mayor H. S. Pingree's home on Woodward avenue is assessed as follows; Land, $28,200; buildings, $25,000; furniture, horses, carriages, etc., $4,900; 250 shares in Preston national bank, $25,000. On all of this he pays a tax of $1,394.80. Under the single tax he would pay $948.80, a decrease of $436.

The residence of Mrs. Thomas W. Palmer, at the corner of Woodward avenue and Farnsworth street, is assessed as follows: Land, $9,450; building, $11,600; personalty of both Mr. and Mrs. Palmer, $57,390. Total; $77,440. Taxes, $1,299.71. Single tax, $321.30.

E. S. Heineman's beautiful homestead, on Woodward avenue, is assessed as follows: Land, $45,500; buildings, $10,800; personalty, $2,750. Total, $59,050. Present taxes, $991.14. Single tax, $1,547; an increase of $555.86.

The estate of the late W. W. Leggett owns a magnificent stone residence on Woodward avenue. It is assessed as follows: Land, $23,300; buildings, $34,000; personal property, $4,750. Total, $62,050. Taxes, $1,041.49. Single tax, $792.20.

The Ducharme residence, on Jefferson avenue, near Joseph Campau, is assessed as follows: Land, $26,730; buildings, $32,200; personal, $5,700. Total assessment, $64,730. Present taxes, $1,080.49. Under single tax, $908.83.

R. A. Alger's home, on Fort street west, is valued as follows: Land, $35,000; buildings, $53,000; personalty, including $69,000 in bank stock, $37,000 in furniture and household valuables, and $5,000 in horses and carriages, $199,500. The total present tax on all this is $3,348.54. Under the single tax it would be $1,190, a decrease of $2,158.54. But Mr. Alger would not, therefore, prefer the single tax, because his land interests in other places are considerably greater than his property interests in Detroit.

John W. McGrath, justice of the supreme court, owns a forty-five foot lot on Cass avenue, which is assessed at $3,190. His residence is assessed at $1,400, and his household furniture is assessed at $300, making his total assessment $4,890. His taxes on this property are $82.08. Under the single tax he would pay $108.12, an increase of $26.04.

Michael Dinan had a lot on the corner of Wabash and Baker, which was assessed at $1,000; on it are three two-story dwellings, each valued at $1,200. The total assessment is $4,600. The present taxes are $77.21. The single tax would be $16.78. The property was recently sold for $10,000.

THESE OWN NO LAND IN DETROIT.—The Michigan Natural Gas Co. owns no real estate, but is assessed $150,400 on its personal property. The present tax is $2,524.42. Under the single tax it would pay nothing.

NO FINES FOR IMPROVEMENTS.—As is seen by the above samples, under the single tax the greater the improvements on the lot—the more the owners have employed labor—the less in proportion will be the tax. In short, those who improve their property are not fined for doing so. Under the single tax valuable land will always have valuable improvements. It is only when valuable vacant land is not taxed to its full value that it is held out of use. In one of the advertising panels of the Grand river avenue street cars is an announcement that the owners have concluded to put their vacant property on the market, and the remark has been made time and again that this never would have been done in this century had not the assessors been spurred to assessing the land by the foot front, according to the value of the land adjoining, instead of by the acre, as was the custom.

SMALL TOWNS IN LUCK.

Probability That Uncle Sam Will Give Them Public Buildings.

Illinois Will Be Entitled to Eighty; Indiana, Thirty-Nine; Iowa, Fifty-Nine; Michigan, Fifty, and Wisconsin Thirty-Nine.

BUILDINGS FOR SMALL PLACES.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—An effort will be made to get a favorable report from the house committee on public buildings on the senate bill for the construction of post office buildings. The bill authorizes the buildings in towns whose post office gross receipts have reached $3,000 annually for a period of three years. In order that the measure might stand some show in the house the senate struck out an appropriation of $500,000 which the bill carried for the current year. Should the law be enacted the following towns in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin would be entitled to public buildings:

ILLINOIS.

Aledo, Amboy, Anna, Arcola, Beardstown, Belvidere, Bushnell, Carbondale, Carlinville, Carmi, Carrollton, Carthage, Centralia, Charleston, Chester, Clinton, DeKalb, Delevan, Duquoin, Dwight, Edwardsville, Effingham, Elmhurst, Fairbury, Fairfield, Fulton, Galva, Geneseo, Geneva, Grand Crossing, Greenville, Harvard, Havana, Henry, Highland, Hoopeston, Jerseyville, Lake Forest, Lanark, Lewiston, Litchfield, Lockport, Macomb, Marengo, Marseilles, Mendota, Monticello, Morris, Mount Carmel, Mount Carroll, Mount Vernon, Murphysboro, Naperville, Normal, Olney, Oregon, Pana, Paxton, Peru, Petersburg, Pittsfield, Polo, Pontiac, Rochelle, Rock Falls, Rushville, Sandwich, Savanna, Shelbyville, South Evanston, Sparta, Sycamore, Taylorville, Tuscola, Urbana, Vandalia, Watseka, Winona, Whitehall, Woodstock.

A HEAVY LOSS.

A United States Express Car Is Burned with Its Contents.

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—Between 5 and 6 o'clock a. m. Thursday the United States express car on the Wabash, filled with express for St. Louis, caught fire from a stove when near Honey Bend station, Ill. The car was a total loss, as was also a great amount of express matter. In the safe was $50,000, in ones, twos and fives, currency, consigned from Washington to the subtreasury in this city. The safe was heated red-hot and the currency was charred, some of it beyond recognition—all so much so as to be of no value. The federal authorities think the express company will not lose the entire amount.

Fell Into Honest Hands.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Ex-Senator Bowen, stopping at the Palmer house in this city, left his vest, containing $13,000 in cash and $30,000 in government bonds in one of the bath-rooms. It was found later on by E. A. Watson, a colored employe of the hotel, who at once turned it over to Clerk Cunnigham. Mr. Bowen, greatly agitated, informed the clerk of his loss, and was soon relieved of his anxiety. It is understood that the faithful employe was amply rewarded for his honesty.

"God Save America."

LIBAU, March 21.—The following dispatch has been sent to the mayor of Philadelphia by the Russian Relief society: "The Russian Relief society warmly welcomes the dear American brethren who arrived in the Indiana and prays you to transmit to the inhabitants of Philadelphia an expression of the society's lasting gratitude. God save America."

Boyd Firmly Seated.

OMAHA, Neb., March 18.—The supreme court at Lincoln called up the case of the state, ex rel Thayer vs. James E. Boyd, and on motion of Gov. Boyd's counsel confirmed the judgment and dismissed the case at Thayer's costs. This practically ends the case.

The Judgment Begun.

BOSTON, March 21.—Lieut. Totten, U. S. A., professor of military science and tactics at Yale university, lectured at Music hall Saturday afternoon on "The New Star of the East." He said that March 20, 1892, might be looked upon as the beginning of judgment.

Death of Timothy A. Chapman.

MILWAUKEE, March 21.—Timothy A. Chapman, the great Milwaukee merchant, died at his residence in this city at 8:35 o'clock Saturday night of pneumonia. He had been engaged in business here since 1857.

Col. Mapleson Paralyzed.

LONDON, March 21.—Col. Mapleson, the well-known operatic manager, has been stricken with paralysis and is in Paris in a dangerous condition.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors, BUFFALO N. Y.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

SAMPLE TOWNSHIP BALLOT.

INSTRUCTIONS:—First mark or stamp a cross (X) in the square under the name of your party at the head of the ballot. If you desire to vote a straight ticket nothing further need be done. If you desire to vote for candidates on different tickets, also erase the name of the candidate on your ticket you do not want to vote for, and make a cross before the name of the candidate you desire to vote for, or write his name in the space under the name erased. A ticket marked with a cross under the party name will be deemed a vote for each of the candidates named in such party column whose name is not erased. Before leaving the booth, fold the ballot so that the initials of the inspector may be seen on the outside.

HOW TO VOTE.

SOME ESSENTIAL FEATURES OF THE NEW STATE LAW.

Rights and Duties of Voters and Inspecting Officers—Fac-Simile of the Official Form of Ballot.

At the coming municipal and township elections in this State, the new ballot law, embodying the main and essential features of the Australian voting system, will be for the first time put to a practical test. The following is a condensed explanation of the leading features of the new law, with some practical suggestions for the correct guidance of electors in the exercise of their franchise.

1. An official ballot printed at public expense, containing the names of all the candidates to be voted for.
2. The issuance of the ballot only to the elector at the time and place of voting.
3. The secret marking of the ballot in the booths provided for that purpose.

The practical question is: How does the elector prepare and cast his ballot under the new system?

The question is easily answered.

The voter enters the polling room through the entrance gate. He approaches the inspector who has charge of the issuance of the ballots. He is handed an official ballot, marked on the back and in the upper left-hand corner with the initials of the inspector.

The elector then retires to one of the booths, for the purpose of marking his ballot.

HOW TO MARK THE BALLOT.

Here he enters upon a new phase of his duties. He has before him a blank ballot, containing the name of every candidate nominated by any party. There is before him a rubber stamp. If he desires to vote a straight ticket he marks the ballot with the rubber stamp in the small white square immediately underneath the name of the party for whose candidates he wishes to cast his ballot. Nothing more is necessary. He then folds his ballot so that the initials of the inspector are in full view on the outside of the ballot, but so that no names of candidates are exposed, and leaves the booth. Approaching the inspector, who receives the ballot, he publicly hands in his ballot, with the customary announcement of his name. The latter is audibly announced by the inspector, and if found upon the poll list, the ballot is deposited in the box. The elector then departs by the next gate, and his duties are concluded.

If, however, the elector desires to vote a scratched ticket, his duties are somewhat more complex. He marks, as before, the ticket containing the larger number of names of candidates of his choice. He then erases, or scratches out, with pen or pencil, the names of those candidates, on that ticket, for whom he does not wish to vote, and marks a cross with the rubber stamp in the small white squares opposite the names of those candidates for whom he desires to cast his ballot.

There is positively no limitation upon the voter's freedom of choice, consequently there are several other alternatives.

If the elector does not wish to vote a party ticket at all, he may make such selections from the names of candidates on the ballot as he sees fit, making a cross with the stamp in the small white square opposite the names of those candidates for whom he wishes to vote, and his votes for such candidates only will be counted.

If the elector desires to vote for some person whose name does not appear upon the printed ballot at all, he may erase the name of the proper candidate (that is, a candidate for the specific office the elector desires his own candidate to be elected to) and write underneath it the name of the candidate for whom he desires to cast his ballot. The elector may, if he chooses, substitute in this manner an entire ticket of his own selection for any ticket printed upon the ballot, and pasters may be used, if desired.

OTHER IMPORTANT PROVISIONS.

Other provisions relative to the duties of electors are as follows:

1. The elector must not leave the polling room with his ballot. He must retire immediately to a booth.
2. He must not expose his ballot to public view on pain of disfranchisement.
3. The elector must vote the ballot after marking it. He cannot leave the polling room with the marked ballot, on pain of immediate arrest.
4. He must not carry away a rubber stamp, on pain of immediate arrest.
5. If the elector votes for more than one person for the same office, his vote as to those persons is void.
6. If the voter, by mistake, spoils his ballot, he may secure another from the inspector by returning the spoiled ballot.
7. The elector may remain in the booth such time as may be prescribed by the election board, but not more than five minutes.
8. The elector must make his ballot without assistance, except in case of inability to read English, or physical inability to mark the ballot.
9. If the elector is challenged, the oath is administered in the usual form, and his ballot is deposited. If found to be an unqualified voter, his ballot shall be marked in the manner prescribed by law, and then deposited.
10. If the elector cannot read English, or by reason of physical disability cannot mark his own ballot, the ballot shall be marked for him by an inspector designated for that purpose, in the presence of two other inspectors.

SAMPLE TOWNSHIP BALLOT.

The above is a fac-simile of the form of ballot that is to be used at township elections. The names given are taken from last year's tickets and are simply given for the purpose of illustration.

ELECTORS MUST NOT BE INFLUENCED.

When any elector shall make oath that he cannot read English, or because of physical disability he can not mark his ballot, or when such disability is manifest to said inspectors, his ballot shall be marked for him in the presence of at least two of the inspectors by an inspector designated by the board for that purpose, who is not a candidate on said ticket. It is unlawful for the board, or any of them, or any person in the polling room, to persuade, or endeavor to persuade, any person to vote for or against any particular candidate or party ticket.

CHALLENGERS.

Each political party by authority, signed by its proper committee, may appoint one challenger, who shall be assigned such position inside the polling place as will enable him to see each person as he offers to vote. Such challenger may remain until the returnsa re fully made up, signed and sealed.

It also remains the right of any elector to challenge the vote of any person whom he considers not entitled to deposit a ballot.

The following are the sections of the law, regulating the votes of parties who be may challenged:

72. Indorsement on Ballot. Whenever the ballot of any person who has been challenged, and who has taken the oath, shall be received, it shall be the duty of the inspector to cause to be plainly indorsed on said ballot, with pencil, and in the manner hereinafter provided, before depositing the same in the ballot box, the number corresponding to the number placed against such voter's name on the poll lists. * * (Howell, sec. 231.)

OPENING AND CLOSING OF POLLS.

At township meetings the polls open at 9 o'clock, and close at such time as the inspectors may order between 3 and 6 o'clock. (Electors should make a note of this, and be on hand to vote before 3 o'clock.)

BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS.

The township board of each township and such persons as shall be elected therefor by the common councils of the various cities and villages in this state, shall be the board of election commissioners for such township, city or village respectively, and shall perform such duties relative to the preparation and printing of ballots as are required by law of the boards of election commissioners of counties.

ELECTION LAWS.

The election laws are found in the Sessions laws of 1891, page 274 and page 256.

How To Vote.

LANSING, MICH., March 19.—Atty-General Ellis has again filed information concerning the working of the new election law, in answer to many inquires. He tells his correspondents that the county board of election inspectors haye nothing to do with the spring election, if there are no county candidates. The township election boards have the preparation and printing of the ballots. The tickets of the various parties must all be printed on the same ballot, as indicated on page 261 of the public acts of 1891.

When all of the election board are candidates for office, the board must designate some disinterested person to show ignorant electors how to mark their ballots.

If an elector desires to vote a straight ticket, all that is necessary for him to do is to put a X in the square under his party name. A X in the square under the party name indicates that the elector votes for every man whose name is not erased on the ticket, under the X on his ticket. But if an elector wants to vote a split ticket, after he has put a X under his party name, then he must put a X opposite each candidate's name he desires to vote for on the other tickets, and cross off the names of those he does not desire to vote for on his own ticket, otherwise the placing of a X before the name of the opposite candidate will be treated as voting for two men for the same office and neither will be counted.

A person may by carelessness even do worse than than lose a vote for one man on his own ticket; he may lose a vote for two or three; for instance, if there are three men running on a local ticket for trustees for full terms, and a person put a X at the head of his ticket, under the party name, and then desires to vote for one of the men on another ticket for trustee and places a X opposite the name of such trustee and omits to strike off from his own ticket the name of the candidate for whom he did not desire to vote, the vote cannot be counted for any one of the four persons for whom he has voted. By voting for a man on the other ticket, and not indicating on his own which man he would reject, it is impossible for the inspectors to tell which three out of the four trustees were his choice. He was only entitled to vote for three trustees, but he has voted for four, and all must be rejected.

If a person puts no X under the head of his ticket, there is no necessity of striking off the names of those he does not wish to vote for. It is only necessary that he put a X opposite the name of each candidate of his choice. This is the simplest and safest way of voting a split ticket.

A Free Trade Trick.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has made a sneak on the Bicycle Combine by securing a carload of the best high-grade safety cycles, and then offering them singly to its patrons at a less price than agents can buy at wholesale. They claim there is not an ounce of soft iron in the cycles, being all steel frames and forks of the best quality of imported cold steel tubing.

It is not theory but fact—that Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong. A fair trial will convince you of its merit.

A THIVING TOWN.

Something About the Live and Bustling City of Tecumseh.

A late copy of the Toledo News contains this spicy letter written by some Toledo lady who was stopping in town a day or two. She must have been decidedly homesick, not to notice our electric lights.

I was so home sick to-night I could have cried like I used to when I was a country school ma'arm and boarded round, and had to stay a whole week and maybe two with a family that was so dirty that every bite I ate danced a jig up and down in my throat and I trying to swallow it with all my might—and my stomach vowing with all its might—it wouldn't give it room.

But I started to tell you where I am and how homesick I was till I happened to find a dear old News and then I forgot all about being homesick, for I felt as though I had met a dear friend with whom I could have a friendly chat all about the folks in Toledo. As I sit here in my room in the hotel and look across the street into the store windows, from which kerosene lamps send their feeble twinkling lights, and then at the wood fire that is burning in my stove, I feel as though I was living again in my grandfather's time, and I fancy I can hear him chopping wood at the door, and dear old grandmother telling me to run and pick up the nice big chips, they will make such a quick fire to boil the tea kettle, and pile some of them under the stove to dry. This is Tecumseh, but it seems as though it must be hundreds of miles from Toledo, but this place is really a pretty little town. It has some fine residences and a number of good dry goods stores, several drug stores, four groceries, two hardware, five churches and one good hotel kept in good order and plenty to eat. Tecumseh is celebrated for its seven great celery farms which make business lively. The town has a population of 2.300. There are four large school houses heated with Smead's school apparatus, and the C. J. & M. brings many Tecumseh people to Toledo to trade. Tuesday the young ladies gave a grand leap year ball at the opera house and they spared no pains to make it worthy of fair managers. The stage was selected as the banquet room and was most elegantly and artistically decorated with bunting, pictures plants and cut flowers. The floor was covered with rugs and the tables, well you know, dear News, just how young ladies can spread a banquet. Fifty-three couples danced till a late hour, and the boys voted to have leap year every two years. Mrs. Corey, one of Tecumseh's most prominent ladies, is on a visit, but will return this week.

This is all for to-day. Good-bye dear News, and I hope you may comfort someone again as you did me when away from home.

Tecumseh, March 4.

THE WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier entitles it to your confidence. No other preparation has such a record of cures of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Blood Poisoning, or other blood diseases. To try it is to know its merit. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

"How bad are the roads?" is an easy question to ask, but a very hard one to answer.

Genuine dollars are so scarce up at the thriving village of Homer that some genius has set afloat a lot of counterfeit ones, and Uncle Sam is anxious to make his acquaintance.

Town House is the name of a new postoffice established in Rollin, and as the name implies, it is to be located near the town house. Chester C. Clark has been appointed postmaster.

As to an instance of enterprise and go-ahead-a-tive-ness, Tecumseh last week voted to bond the village for $35,000 for a water works plant. Such a suggestion in Blissfield would make the "oldest inhabitant" turn green with apprehension.—Blissfield Advance.

Over at St. Johns an amateur dramatic company will produce the play entitled "The little brown jug," if they can get those who have had some experience. Is it experience in the dramatic business you want, or with the little brown jug? If the latter, send us your address.

The Dundee Reporter says: "The extremely bad roads the past few weeks has caused a halt on wood being brought into town, and that which was promised on subscription failed to show up. We think some that another year we will have some arrangements whereby we can burn some of the promises to keep warm," Same down this way, neighbor.

"In the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts" of bicycles, balls, guns, fishing tackle, etc. etc., and the Detroit Times remembering this fact, once more comes to the front with a dozen and one such prizes for hustling boys, and girls too, who can get new subscribers for the Times. Drop them a card for circulars and full information.

The Odd Fellows of this county and vicinity are arranging for a grand celebration at Monroe April 26, the anniversary of the establishment of the order in this country. Representatives from the several lodges met at Monroe Monday, to make arrangements therefor, Dundee lodge was represented by Truman Gee and W. R. Prickman.—Dundee Reporter.

We paid Elgin, Ill., a flying visit the first of the week, spending a portion of Sunday and Monday there. Found brother George prospering and the News office booming. Mr. Black, one of the proprietors, is now in California. The News has lately put in a Cox duplex perfecting press which works like a charm and gives entire satisfaction. We saw David Burger and made Loyal Beardsley's family a call.

A. C. Osborn, of Woodstock, died at his home Wednesday at nine o'clock a. m. His sister, Mrs. Beanbirn, of Detroit, his brother, Chas. and niece, Mrs. Eggleston, both of Jonesville, and his nephew, Wm. Osborn, of Edmore, were at his bedside during his last moments. The funeral services were held at the Woodstock Center church yesterday afternoon. The immediate cause of his death was gangreen in his foot.—Addison Courier.

This is the time of year when the necessity for better roads is plainly visible to every person. The inconvenience, the expense, the loss of time, the loss of value to farm property, all are the direct result of bad roads. Think how much less loss of time and how much less trouble would follow a betterment of our highways. While on its face it seems a trivial matter, yet it is of more consequence to us all than the tariff, the silver question or the next president.—Ex.

In Mr. Elliott the Redpath Concert Company has added a refreshing novelty in the humorous line. In burlesque characterization he is particularly strong and as a delineator of the famous Hoosier dialect he stands without a peer. With a remarkable face, a flexible voice and methods strikingly original he infuses all of his work with an individuality that elevates it to the highest ranks of legitimate comedy. He will be found to be a host in himself.

John L. Brown has invented and is placing on the market a convenient toilet article for gentlemen, in the the shape of an automatic mustache brush. 'Tis well! Now let him invent a process that will cause a bashful mustache to appear automatically, in society—no cream-and-cat-licking-process, but one that will save the cream and take the strain off the cat—and John Brown can safely bet every screw in his coffin that his soul will go marching on attended by the benedictions of every dude in the land.—Adrian Press.

A new swindle is described as follows: Two rogues watch the newspapers for estray notices and one of them goes and looks at the animal. Of course the unsuspecting farmer on application, shows the beast and the fellow decides it is not his, then he returns to his partner and describes the animal minutely to him. No. 2 then goes to the farmer and after proving by a thorough description that he is the owner of the animal, says that he cannot well take it away and offers it at a bargain. The farmer buys and in a few days the rightful owner comes along and claims the animal. The farmer is out just that much.

The village assessors are on the war path. Look out for them.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

Work of the National Lawmakers in Washington.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House—Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Bills were introduced in the senate yesterday for the a justment of the rights of the Indians in Indian territory, with a view of having that territory admitted as a state; to increase the facilities of the post office department for obtaining the use of buildings for post office purposes; to regulate the value of certain coins and pieces of money and to give to all sorts of current money the legal tender quality. The military academy appropriation bill was passed.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Peffer (Kan.) introduced a bill "for the removal of the strongest incentive to crime among the poor and vice among the rich; for protecting the American from the influx of undue alien competition, and for other purposes," the fund to be furnished by a graduated tax on incomes. A bill was reported for the construction of three battle ships.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The bill making Council Bluffs, Ia., a port of delivery was passed in the senate yesterday. A bill was introduced to establish an electric experimental station to determine whether electricity can be profitably used to propel farm machinery. A joint resolution for a national marriage and divorce law was introduced.

WASHINGTON March 19.—In the senate yesterday bills were reported to fix a uniform standard of classification of wheat, corn, barley, rye, oats, etc.; to provide for the punishment of offenses on the high seas; to promote silk culture; appropriating $50,000 for a statue of Gen. W. T. Sherman in Washington. A bill was passed establishing a port of delivery at Des Moines, Ia. Adjourned to the 21st.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The conference report to the urgent deficiency bill was agreed to in the house yesterday. A bill was reported to repeal the mail subsidy act. The tariff bill was discussed, Mr. Walker (Mass.) speaking in favor of the McKinley measure and Messrs. Scott (Ill.) and Dockery (Mo.) against it.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—In the house yesterday bills were reported for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as states. The tariff bill was further discussed, Mr. Bryan (Neb.) speaking in favor of free wool.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The time in the house yesterday was mostly occupied in discussing the tariff bill. A bill was introduced to provide a postal currency, which it proposes to substitute for postal notes.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—In the house yesterday the Utah home rule bill was reported favorably. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill ($1,115,000) was reported. A resolution was passed calling on the secretary of war for information regarding the destruction of government dams on the Mississippi river between the mouth of the Chippewa river in Wisconsin and the West Newton slough in Minnesota. Mr. Hamilton (Ia.) introduced a bill appropriating $30,000 for an additional story to the public building at Cedar Rapids, Ia. The committee on elections decided by a vote of 7 to 1 to unseat Mr. Rockwell (dem.), of New York, and seat Mr. Noyes (rep.).

In the house on Saturday a bill was passed to amend the act approving the funding act of Arizona, passed in 1890. The contested election case of Noyes (rep.) against Rockwell (dem.) from the Twenty-eighth New York district was decided in favor of Noyes. Eulogies were delivered on the late Senator Plumb.

PARDONED.

Gov. Boies Gives a Life Prisoner His Freedom.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 21.—Gov. Boies has pardoned John S. Little, who is serving a life sentence at Fort Madison for murder. In September, 1874, at Newton Little killed a man who had been unduly intimate with his wife. For the crime he was tried and sentenced to the penitentiary for life and has been in duress since October, 1875. He was a soldier in the Second Iowa, and his comrades secured the passage of an act by the legislature authorizing the governor to pardon him. He is a white-haired man now, having spent nearly seventeen years in the penitentiary.

A Double Tragedy.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 19.—Patrick Milley, a gate keeper, living on James street, fatally shot his wife and then killed himself. The cause of the double tragedy was the recent discovery by the wife that her husband was leading a double life.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The receipts from internal revenue during the first eight months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, were $100,667,233, an increase of $3,700,078 over the receipts during the corresponding period of last year.

Ives Is Champion.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Frank Ives, of Michigan, defeated Jake Schaefer, of this city, in the 14-inch balk-line billiard game here Saturday for the world's championship. Schaefer's score was 499 when Ives had reached 800.

Lost Both Arms.

MANNING, Ia., March 21.—Rev. Mr. Boles, of this place, was so badly burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove yesterday that both of his arms had to be amputated.

Death of an Aged Horticulturist.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—Sidney S. Jackson, said to be the oldest horticulturist in the United States, died at his Green township home Thursday in his 90th year.

WAR IN VENEZUELA.

Opponents of the Present Government Resort to Arms.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A cablegram from Caracas, Venezuela, to the Herald announces that the opposition to President Palacios has resulted in a resort to arms. A bloody engagement has been fought between a body of revolutionists and government troops near that city.

So far as can be learned the advantage rest with the government, but the fear is generally expressed that this is but the beginning of a long and desperate fight for the control of the country which may result in the loss of a great many lives and again plunge the republic into the chaos from which it was just beginning to emerge.

Particulars of Thursday's battle are meager as yet, and it is impossible to tell the number of men engaged or the casualties. In fact the only reliable news is that the revolutionists were forced to retire.

It has been an open secret that a fight would follow the elections no matter what the result might be, and for months both parties have been preparing for it.

President Palacios has used every possible means to retain power and strengthen his position, while his opponents have also been busily engaged in recruiting and arming themselves in anticipation of the final struggle.

OSSIFIED MAN DEAD.

The Grip Carried Him Off, After Sixteen Years of Suffering.

NEW YORK, March 21.—A dispatch from Port Jefferson, L. I., says that Edward Emmons, known as "the ossified man," is dead.

Emmons died of an attack of the grip. He was taken sick a week ago. He was born in Port Jefferson thirty-eight years ago. One winter he was afflicted with rheumatism in the legs and arms. He was then 22 years old, and he suffered intensely and never left the house again, but lay there for sixteen years. His bones gradually ossified and his body became rigid, except one arm, of which he retained the use. His jaws were set, and he was fed through a hole in the mouth where a tooth had been broken out. He could talk and read, but was a little deaf. He often wished for death to end his sufferings. His father was afflicted in identically the same way, but died before the joints were entirely set. Emmons leaves a mother, four sisters and one brother. All of the family with the exception of the mother are subject to rheumatism.

LYNCHED BY A MOB.

Two Murderers Hanged in Virginia and Riddled with Bullets.

WARRENTON, Va., March 19.—"Lee" Heffin and Joseph Dye, who last fall murdered the Kines family, were at 2 o'clock a. m. lynched near Gainesville, Prince William county. The men were to have been hanged, but a stay of proceedings had been secured. The Warrenton authorities, fearing violence Thursday night, took the men from jail, placed them in a vehicle and started them for this city. A party of sixty men was hastily formed, who overtook the vehicle near Gainesville, overpowered the guard, hanged the murderers to a tree and riddled their bodies with bullets.

ARSENIC IN THE COFFEE.

A Family Poisoned While at Supper—Two of the Victims Die.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 19.—There was a mysterious poisoning case Thursday night which resulted fatally to two persons. The victims were Mrs. R. Melrose, her son David Melrose and two daughters, Katie and Mattie Melrose. Two other members of the family were affected but not very seriously. Katie and Mattie are dead. Dr. Omohundro, the attending physician, says that arsenic had been placed in the coffee served, but by whom is not yet known, though, of course, a thorough investigation will be made.

TWENTY-FIVE DROWNED.

The Breaking Up of the Ice Results in the Death of Many Sailors.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 19.—The captain of the mail steamer Conscript, which has arrived from St. John, N. F., says that out of the 350 unfortunate sealers who were carried to sea in small boats by the breaking up of the ice near Trinity bay, all have been accounted for but twenty-five. Of this number fifteen bodies were recovered by rescuers, and the remainder have never been heard of.

Cut by Circular Saw.

RACINE, Wis., March 21.—Saturday afternoon while Alfred Martin, a young man, was at work in a mill near Honey Creek, a few miles west of this city, he lost his balance and fell across the table of a circular saw and was horribly mangled. One leg was cut completely off and the other was sawed half way through. At last accounts he was still alive, but the physicians say he cannot recover.

Baffles the Doctors.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., March 19.—The vitality of Basil Tracy, over 90 years of age, whose death is hourly expected, baffles the doctors of this city. For seven weeks he has been lying helpless upon a bed merely dying from old age. During all this he has taken neither food nor medicine. He has already fasted longer than Dr. Tanner.

Had a Snug Sum in His Old Vest.

MADISON, Ind., March 19.—George Crawford, an old Irish stonemason, died here in poverty. When the undertaker was laying him out he tossed his ragged vest to one corner of the hovel. A peculiar sound caused him to examine the vest and $1,595 was found in it.

Tobacco Warehouse in St. Louis Burned.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—The extensive tobacco factory of Liggitt & Myers, which covers nearly one-half of the block bounded by Thirteenth, St. Charles and Locust streets, was badly damaged by fire. The total loss will probably reach $150,000.

THE POLITICAL FIELD.

State Conventions Held in Iowa and Michigan.

Republicans in the Hawkeye Commonwealth Select Delegates to the National Meeting—Michigan Prohibitionists Follow Suit.

IOWA REPUBLICANS.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 18.—The republican state convention met in this city yesterday and nominated delegates to the national convention. The delegation as chosen will vote for President Harrison, although uninstructed, and the significant action demonstrated the fact that the party in Iowa is determined to cut loose from prohibition as a party measure. About 1,600 delegates were in attendance.

Ex-Congressman Isaac S. Struble, of Le Mars, was made permanent chairman. The following were chosen as delegates at large to Minneapolis: D. C. Chase, John E. Gear, E. E. Mack and J. S. Clarkson.

A resolution indorsing prohibition was presented to the committee on resolutions and voted down. The platform as presented and adopted deals entirely with national issues. It is brief and general in its scope. Following is a synopsis:

It declares that the republicans of Iowa enter upon the campaign with full confidence that the party in its national convention will make a declaration of principles and nominate a ticket in full harmony with the republican past and that it will be true to the purpose and conviction of the party. In order to eliminate state issues from the approaching campaign it declares that there is no test of fealty to the national republican party other than adherence to the platform. The administration of President Harrison is cordially endorsed. He has kept every pledge made by the party and surrounded himself by a cabinet which has added new laurels to American statesmanship. Republicans in all parts of the state are urged to ignore local issues and unite for victory on the national platform.

MICHIGAN PROHIBITIONISTS.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19.—The prohibition state convention elected John Russell, of Detroit, chairman of the state central committee; Brent Harding, of Bay City, secretary; Rev. W. C. Clemo, of Birmingham, treasurer, and Charles P. Russell and Gideon Vivier, of Detroit, member of the executive committee. Delegates at large to the national convention are Cincinnati elected are: John Russell of Detroit, Samuel Dickie of Albion, Mary T. Lathrop of Jackson and A. B. Cheneye of Grand Rapids. Twenty-one more delegates at large and two more from each district will be chosen.

The committee on platform submitted a long report. It favors free silver and tariff for revenue only; declares against trusts; favors rigid state and national control of railroad, express, telegraph and telephone lines; demands the revision of naturalization laws, and declares that the "prohibition party cannot entertain any proposition to cooperate with a reform party that does not antagonize the liquor traffic as earnestly as it does other monopolies, false finance and other vicious legislation." The last plank deplores the rapid increase of large landed estates and favors the limitation of individual and cooperative ownership of land.

SALISBURY HEARD FROM.

Belief That He Refuses to Extend the Modus Vivendi.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Lord Salisbury has sent a communication to this government in reply to the note of Acting Secretary Wharton, of the state department, requesting a renewal of the modus vivendi for the protection of seal life in Behring sea during the coming season. The communication was received Sunday and submitted to the president. The contents of the dispatch could not be ascertained, but it is understood that it contains the refusal of Lord Salisbury to extend the modus vivendi for another year.

A New Solicitor General.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The president sent to the senate the following nomination: Charles H. Aldrich, of Illinois, to be solicitor general, vice William H. Taft, resigned. Judge W. H. Taft tendered his resignation as United States solicitor general, and made preparations to assume his new duties as judge of the circuit court of appeals for the Sixteenth district.

Released After Fifteen Years.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 19.—Michael Lyons was a resident of Minneapolis in 1877. One day in June he came home drunk and ended up a row with his wife by killing her. Lyons was sentenced to the penitentiary at Stillwater for life. He was released Wednesday by Gov. Merriam exercising the pardoning power. Lyons was 65 years of age and had been fifteen years imprisoned.

Big Snowstorm in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 21.—A snowstorm exceeding in severity any of last winter or this spring has been raging in Kansas. The snow lies 8 inches deep on the level throughout a great part of the state and at some points is reported drifting. All the railways report more or less interference with their traffic, but not enough to stall trains.

Pierced by a Coupling Link.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 19.—Frank McKee, a switchman in the Pan-Handle yards, was making a running switch Friday when he was caught between two draw bars. The coupling link passed entirely through his body and held him writhing in agony. He died a few minutes later.

Judge Shepard Promoted.

OTTAWA, Ill., March 19.—The Illinois supreme court has accepted the resignation of Judge Moran, of the appellate court, and Judge Henry H. Shepard was appointed as his successor. Judge Shepard is at present judge of the superior court in Cook county.

Fell from the Steeple.

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., March 18.—Charles Shaw, of Portland, widely known as "Steeple Jack," while repairing the spire of a church at South Livermore, fell from the top and was instantly killed.

HAPPY HOMES.

Thousands of sad and desolate homes have been made happy by use of "Rose Buds," which have proven an absolute cure for the following diseases and their distressing symptoms: Ulceration, Congestion and Falling of the Womb, Ovarian tumors, Dropsy of the Womb, Suppressed Menstruation, Rupture at Childbirth, or any complaint originating in diseases of the reproductive organs, whether from contagious diseases, heredity, tight lacing, overwork, excesses, or miscarriages. One lady writes us that after suffering for ten years with Leucorrhea or Whites, that one application entirely cured her, and furthermore, she suffers no more pain during the menstrual period. It is a wonderful regulator. "Rose Buds" are a simple, harmless preparation, but wonderful in effect. The patient can apply it herself. No doctor's examination necessary, to which all modest women, especially young unmarried ladies, seriously object. From the first application you will feel like a new woman. Price $1.00 by mail, postpaid. THE LEVERETTE SPECIFIC CO., 339 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

READ WHAT IS SAID OF IT BY LEADING DRUGGISTS IN SOUTHERN MICHIGAN.

MONROE, Mich., July 18, 1891.

Dr. O. J. Fay & Co.:

Gentlemen.—It is with pleasure that we reply to your letter asking about our success with Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption. Six months ago we gave our first order and since then we have sold eight times as much as our first order amounted to more than any other lung medicine we sell. Our customers after once using it want no other and they are always sure to recommend it to some other sufferer. It could not give better satisfaction and we have as much faith in what it will do that we are not afraid to recommend it to any person in need of a lung medicine. With many wishes for your success,

Yours truly,

W. HAGEN & SON.

JOLLY TAR PLUG CHEWING TOBACCO

CATCHES THEM ALL

READ THE FOLLOWING.

"I CHEW JOLLY TAR because it gives me more good, solid Tobacco for the money than I can get in any other brand."

The Carpenter.

"JOLLY TAR suits me and I mean to stick to it. It is the largest and best piece of Tobacco I have ever been able to find."

The Bricklayer.

"I KNOW a good thing when I see it. JOLLY TAR fills the bill. It gives both quantity and quality."

The Blacksmith.

"WHEN I chew I want the best. I have tied to JOLLY TAR and could not be induced to change."

The Engineer.

"I AM of the same opinion as Bill. JOLLY TAR is king of them all."

The Fireman.

"WE fellows want the most for our money always. JOLLY TAR gives it to us in good Chewing Tobacco. It is our stand-by."

The Printer.

AND THUS THEY ALL SAY. JOLLY TAR IS A GENERAL FAVORITE.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 8.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent;
I left all behind,
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault. Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory.

CAP'N BOUNCE.

A Love Story Somewhat Out of the Ordinary.

Love is a strange thing and its various phases are ever curious and incomprehensible; and in no person, perhaps, was love ever manifested more curiously and incomprehensibly than in Cap'n Nathan Bounce, of Paradise, N. D.

Cap'n Nathan Bounce was a retired old sea-dog; he often declared he was a reformed pirate, and he had come to Dakota to live because, to use his own words:

"Well, blow me if I could ever stay within smellin' distance of salt water without goin' afloat, so what does I do to resist the temptation? Why, I tucks myself away in this corner of No Man's Land, my boy. I builds me a shack shaped something like the for'ard part of a boat an' I paints her name—the Polly Q., ye mind—on the side; I has my lockers an' what I calls my fo'castle, an' a cannon as I fires at sun-up an' sun-down, an' a union jack as I runs up a peak every day of my life, I do, an'—an' not a word, boy! I'll have a Mrs. Cap'n Bounce in that 'ere old hulk of a shack one o' these days—ha, ha, ha—now, you see."

Cap'n Bounce drew half pay from the government because of a long and honorable career in the war of the rebellion; to the putting down of which rebellion he had (to use his own words again) "lent a willin' hand." In other terms his hand had been "lent" so thoroughly that it now lay in the Mississippi, somewhere below Natchez, and an iron hook adorned the stump of his right arm.

There were two things indispensable to the well being and jovial contentment of Cap'n Bounce. One of these things was his pipe; the other was his thermometer. The former Jim Littel once declared he could smell as far off as he could hear the cap'n's cannon, and the latter, a great brass affair notched with immense figures, was the pride of the old sailor's heart. Whenever he lacked for occupation he filled his pipe with the strongest kind of "jolly tar," and polished his thermometer.

Beside this thermometer, in unmistakable characters, was a printed table to this effect: At sixty degrees, everything lovely. At seventy degrees, open starboard window. At eighty degrees, open larboard window. At ninety degrees, take off pea jacket. At one hundred degrees, sleep on the upper deck.

There was also a graduated scale of doings to be done at various notches below sixty degrees. Cap'n Bounce conducted himself in accordance with this table, and Buster Bluenose tells how, one winter afternoon, he found the cap'n outdoors in his shirt sleeves, nearly frozen, because of an accident having happened to his thermometer which had lodged a particle of mercury at ninety degrees.

All good men have weaknesses, I presume, and the cap'n's special weakness was a fondness for the society of the softer sex. He had, as he himself boasted, "popped the question to twenty-three leddy's, widders, young maids an' old maids, an', Lord love 'em, nary a one would take him for love or money; but they wanted to look out, they did, 'cause a stern chase is a long chase, and he'd foller 'em like a man-o'-war after a slave dhow, see if he didn't, my boy." It was rumored in Paradise that Polly Q, whose first name and last initial were blazoned on the cap'n's shack, was the cap'n's last love, but the story was never vouched for by the cap'n himself.

It came to pass that Simon Yarrup, a Michigan farmer, immigrated to Dakota and "took up" a claim in the vicinity of Paradise. If this immigration had consisted of old Simon, alone, it is dollars to cents the name of Yarrup would never have figured in this tale; but old Simon was accompanied by his wife, a lady of comfortable proportions with an uncomfortable habit of wearing the Yarrup inexplicables, and, oh, heavens! by Belindy Yarrup.

And Belindy Yarrup was tall; and Belindy Yarrup had hair that was the color of faded oakum; and Belindy Yarrup had eyes that tried to be blue and red at the same time and compromised on a mucky gray; and Belindy Yarrup was seen, oh fate! by Cap'n Nathan Bounce as she drove by the Polly Q., one afternoon in a democrat wagon that had passed its best days in Wolverine roads.

The cap'n's thermometer at this moment was standing at ninety degrees, consequently the cap'n was outdoors minus his pea jacket. The cap'n watched Belindy and took in at one comprehensive glance the whole of her engaging make-up. Belindy also took in the cap'n and, would you believe it, she actually smiled. Then the gay old sea-dog hooked his handkerchief out of his pocket and waved it, and Belindy Yarrup rattled a tin pail at him coquettishly, and drove slowly out of sight watched by the enraptured but reformed pirate.

"Wait till she comes back," muttered the cap'n, diving below and lighting his pipe. "I'll show her a thing or two," he added, and puffed mysteriously.

For two hours Cap'n Bounce watched the road leading from Paradise, and when he finally glimpsed a sorrel horse and democrat wagon jogging leisurely in his direction, he made ready for a little surprise. Waiting until the fair Belindy was directly opposite the Polly Q., the cap'n cleared his decks, dipped the union jack, and fired his cannon, full two hours before sunset, as a delicate attention and salute to the passing maiden.

When the smoke had cleared away there was discovered a terrible calamity. The sorrel horse had taken fright at the cap'n's cannon and was yanking the democrat wagon madly along the prairie road at the top of his speed, while the fair Belindy clung with both hands to the wagon seat, and her sunbonnet, held to her chin by two long strings, floated out behind like a commodore's pennant in an East India hurricane.

The cap'n, after first "shivering his timbers" and "blasting his dead eyes," ran below and hurried after the runaway. It was easy to trace the direction of Belindy's forced flight by the various merchandise scattered along the road. Suddenly the old sailor came upon the very pail that the fair girl had shaken at him as she drove past and he stood on the deck of the Polly Q. What emotions rent the cap'n's soul as he looked at that pail. It was half full of prunes, and he ate one or two in the bitterness of his spirit, and rolled dejectedly on, expecting every moment to find the evidence of some terrible catastrophe.

At last whom should he see sitting beside the road on the seat of the democrat wagon? Belindy herself! When the cap'n came up he hooked off his hat, pulled his forelock, and shoved his right foot back along the grass.

"I begs your pardon, mum, for the cannon's goin' off, an' I hopes no bones is broke, an' that I sees you well?"

"I'm all right," says the fair Belindy, looking up with a forgiving smile. "The seat jounced out'n the wagon, an' of course I jounced out with it. The horse was to blame."

After the cap'n had vented his spleen, in a nautical way, upon all horses in general, and the sorrel in particular, he exchanged names with Belindy and they talked and talked until Simon Yarrup drove old sorrel back with the idea of picking up the remains of his daughter.

"Belindy," he said, in open-mouthed wonder at discovering her alive and in the company of Cap'n Bounce, "what's the matter? Answer your paw!"

"Thank heaven!" put in Cap'n Bounce, devoutly, "your child is safe, an' finds herself, I begs to report, as hearty an' ship-shape as a jolly afore breakfast."

"Paw," said Belindy, with a blush, "Cap'n Bounce; Cap'n Bounce, paw."

This formality over with, mutual explanations were made and a vow never again to fire his cannon under any pretense whatever was given by the cap'n and solemnly recorded. After collecting the scattered merchandise, the cap'n was invited to call on the Yarrups, the Yarrups were invited to call on the cap'n and they parted. Belindy cast down her murky gray eyes and the cap'n emitted a sigh that cost him a suspender button and considerable feeling.

"Gone," he murmured, looking after the democrat wagon. "Gone, an' my heart has gone with her!"

The cap'n thereupon went in and set himself to polishing up his thermometer, which, in mockery of his wrought-up feeling, stood at sixty degrees (everything lovely).

In this romantic manner began a courtship truly Arcadian. The cap'n painted out the mysterious Polly Q. and rechristened his shack the Belindy Y. For some months everything went on swimmingly, and then, when the cap'n had finally screwed up his courage sufficiently to ask Miss Yarrow to become the mate of the Belindy Y., a distressing mistake materialized that was far-reaching, indeed, in its consequences.

Dragging from a sacred locker a blue cap with a gold band that only saw the light on state occasions, a faultless double-breasted jacket, and a pair of wide blue trousers, the old sailor arrayed himself and, just as the evening shadows fell, started for the home of his inamorata. He had wrought himself up for the momentous occasion—he would propose to Miss Yarrup.

Just as he came within signaling distance of the Yarrup demesne, however, he saw a light gleaming from the windows of the "best" room and he fell to wandering what this could mean. Mrs. Yarrup's "best" room was only used on Sundays and on the occasions when the cap'n called to see Belindy; so, as this was Tuesday, and the cap'n not expected, what meant that light?

The cap'n decided to reconnoiter before going in. Creeping stealthily to the window he saw—oh, horror of horrors! Belindy Yarrup seated on a sofa with her hand in the hand of a long-visaged individual, who wore a light mustache and a yawning smile.

Great heavens! The twenty-fourth leddy had proven faithless. The cap'n lingered until he saw the man with the long face embrace Belindy and then he rushed off into the darkness. After pondering over his sorrows a brief space in one of old Simon's straw stacks he rose, brushed his clothes and drove home. One thing was certain. The future of Cap'n Nathan Bounce was destined to be a miserable apology for an existence. That night the cap'n wrote a letter:

"BELINDY: I have discovered you to be false to me, but I do not reproach nor condemn you. When you receive this I shall be far away, my intention being to spend my remaining days in the Hottentot country or on the Mosquito coast—anywhere, but not here. I could bear up under twenty-three like afflictions, but this, the twenty-fourth, has heaped my cup of unhappiness, and I now leave your forever. Farewell

"CAP'N BOUNCE."

But Cap'n Bounce got no nearer Hottentot country than Bismarck. There he tarried, and one day Jim Littel, of Paradise, ran across him moping along the Missouri river. It was then that the cap'n learned how old Simon Yarrup's son, whom they supposed to be dead, had come back to them. As the description of this son given by Jim Littel coincided with that of the old sailor's supposed rival the cap'n discovered his sad error and hurried back to Paradise, but no explanation would avail with the fair Belindy. Old Simon's son had come back rich and he was going to be the making of his folks. They were going east to live, and Belindy would henceforth be Belinda and set her cap for something higher than a reformed pirate who was left-handed and had only his half-pay to live on.

This was rough on the cap'n, but he had had his fingers burnt before, and why did he persist in playing with fire?

The cap'n has again painted out the name on the side of his shack. He now calls it the Polly Q as formerly, and the cannon is fired regularly morning and evening, just as though Belindy Yarrup had never altered the custom.—William Wallace Cook, in Yankee Blade.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

MARRIED FOR MONEY.

But in an Entirely Novel and Allowable Sense of the Term.

B. H. Plumb, 21 years of age, was married at Jackson to Mrs. Amanda Bentley, aged 70. Although it was not a love match it was one of the most romantic weddings on record. By it the aged bride secured to her crippled son an inheritance of $180,000, which, without the wedding, he could not have legally claimed. The young groom was working in the streets at $1.25 per day when he was approached by an acquaintance who told him that Mrs. Bentley wanted to get married so badly that she would pay him $100 for becoming her husband, and would not ask him to live with her. Young Plumb accepted, and within twenty-four hours the ceremony was legally performed. Immediately after the ceremony Mrs. Bentley, or Mrs. Plumb, took the train for Grand Rapids. Her home most of the time is in Ridgetown, Can. In explanation of her strange marriage she said:

"My husband, who died some years ago, had been married before and had several children. He left a will bequeathing me a large share of the estate during my life. There is a clause in the document providing that if I married again the property was to revert to our only child, who is now 28 years old, and a cripple. Should I die without marrying the will says that the property is to be divided among my husband's heirs. I think it was his intention to have all that was left to me revert to our child, but he made a mistake in writing his will. This is why I enter into this marriage. By it the property reverts at once to my son, and he will not be left helpless and in poverty at my death, which cannot be far away."

WHEAT AND LIVE STOCK.

The March Reports Favorable as Compared With Past Years.

For the March crop report issued by the secretary of state, returns were received from 724 correspondents, representing 567 townships. About 40 per cent. of the correspondents reported wheat as having suffered some injury, but it was believed to be in an average condition compared with previous years. The total number of bushels reported marketed by farmers in February was 1,366,123. This amount was 385,075 bushels more than was reported for January. The total number of bushels reported marketed in the seven months from August to February was 11,216,818 bushels, which was 48 per cent. of the crop of 1891. Live stock was in fairly good condition, the average figures for the state being: Horses, 97; cattle, 95; sheep, 97; swine, 96. The comparison was with stock in good, healthy and thrifty condition.

Taught Boys to Steal.

Four boys, none of them over 16 years old, under arrest in Detroit for burglary, said that for six months they had been living with a man named Charles Smith, who had furnished them with food and clothing, and had sent them forth day and night to steal. Smith always gave them instructions as to how and where the plunder could be secured. Clothing, money, fancy goods and eatables comprised the greater part of their booty. Smith was arrested.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by sixty-three observers in different parts of the state for the week ended March 12 indicated that inflammation of the bowels, remittent fever and scarlet fever increased, and diphtheria, typhoid fever, inflammation of the brain and diarrhea decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at twenty-six places, scarlet fever at fifty-three, typhoid fever at ten and measles at ten places.

Shot for Demanding Wages.

H. M. Latimer, a section foreman for the Michigan Central railway at St. Helena, was arrested on a charge of fatally shooting Ed Caldwell. Latimer told Caldwell to do certain work, which he refused and immediately asked for his wages. When he insisted that they should be given him Latimer ran to his house, seized a rifle and fired two shots at Caldwell, one of which struck him in the chest and the other in the thigh.

Clinton Column.

CLINTON, MICH., - MARCH. 24, 1892.

W. J. Dunning, of Milan, was in town Saturday.

David Silvers, of Chicago, is in town this week.

George DePuy is buying milk for John Clark.

Charles Thompson went to Detroit last Friday.

Brown and Kishpaugh are doing their spring cleaning.

Born, Thursday, March 17, 1892, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirk, a girl.

Fred. Lancaster and wife went to Albion Monday for a few day's visit.

Chas. Underhill will give the last entertainment on our course, April 1st.

Mrs. George Freese returned last week from her visit at Paine's Hollow, N. Y.

Mr. Strang and family will occupy a part of L. H. Johnston's house on Church street.

Mrs. H. A. Roff left here Friday for Chicago, where Bert has secured a position as bookkeeper.

The stores close every evening except Saturday, this week at 7:30, on account of the revival meetings.

Miss Libbie Alexander, of Jackson, has been at James Hause's. She returned home Wednesday.

Misses Sarah Train, Sena Drew, and Maggie Beamish and Ben Ellis of Tecumseh, attended the funeral of Mrs. Kirchgessner last Saturday.

Tuesday, the day set for the auction of Mrs. Fisher and David Silvers, was so stormy that the sale was postponed until Monday, March 28th.

Mrs. Newcomb, of Blissfield, and Libbie Newcomb, of Bay City, are guests of Mrs. John Clark. Miss Newcomb expects to go to Tewksbury, near Boston, next month, where she has secured a position in a hospital.

All those interested in school work will do well to remember the Teacher's Association to be held here Friday, March 25th. Many teachers are expected from abroad and the exercises will undoubtedly be full of interest to those who attend.

Ed. Rose received a telegram last Thursday stating that Mrs. Ella Rose's little daughter Marjorie, was very sick. Nothing further was known until Mr. Rose arrived in Detroit that evening, when he telegraphed back that Marjorie had died at 4 o'clock p. m. of diptheria. The remains were brought here Friday on the evening train and placed in the vault. Mrs. Rose has many friends in Clinton who will sympathize with her in her affliction and to whom little Marjorie's death will be as a personal loss. She was an unusually bright and lovable child and a great favorite with all who knew her.

The entertainment given by the young people of St. Dominic's society on St. Patrick's Day was a splendid success in every way. It is long since so good a play has been put upon the stage here and the actors did every part justice. Special mention must be made of Chas. Marr, of Cambridge, and Will McAdam, in their Irish characters; also of Miss Tessie Sullivan. The audience was kept in a continual roar of laughter throughout the evening. Ed. Kirchgessner's part was taken by C S Burroughs, who did very creditably considering the fact that he had but a few hours in which to commit his lines. The receipts of the evening were $100. The public hope that St. Patrick's Day will be celebrated as well every year.

Died, Thursday, March 17th, at one o'clock p. m., Mrs. Kate Kirchgessner, of consumption. Mrs Kirchgessner has been in failing health for the last three or four years, but has been able to get out occasionally until within a few weeks. She had not been confined to the bed until about a week before her death when she commenced to fail so rapidly that she herself realized that her time here was short. She retained consciousness until death came and was able to speak words of comfort to her husband and children and assured them of her readiness to submit to God's call. The funeral services were held at St. Dominic's church Saturday, at 10 a. m., where a large number of friends assembled to pay their last tribute to the departed.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the many kind friends and neighbors who so willingly assisted us during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father, we wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks.

Mrs. Wm. HENDERSHOT and Children.

A Veteran Clergyman Gone.

The Ludington Appeal of March 17, contains the following obituary sketch of Rev. J. B. Prichard, who will be kindly remembered by many older residents. The deceased was rector of St. Peter's Church of Tecumseh for five years away back in the war times, and the church prospered abundantly under his leadership. Mr. Ed Prichard of this village was his adopted son.

The Rev. Joseph B. Prichard, for many years pastor of Grace church, but of late placed on the retired list owing to the infirmities of age, passed quietly away at his home on Harrison st., at 6 o'clock Monday morning, aged 79. Deceased came to Mason county in the spring of '72 and began holding services in the hall over the Pere Marquette Lumber Co.'s old store. There were but three communicants residing here at that time. The reverend gentleman was industrious and the Lord prospered his efforts. The next spring Grace society was organized. Since that time deceased has added largely to the church membership, erected two churches and a parsonage. He was a man not only esteemed by the members of his church and congregation, but was likewas beloved by the public in general. The funeral took place from Grace church yesterday afternoon, Bishop Gillespie preaching the funeral discourse. The building was crowded with those desiring to show their last respects to the the dead. Deceased left a wife about his own age, for whom universal sympathy goes out.

Somehow it comes natural to the humblest man to say "they" when speaking of wicked people, and "we" when he talks os the faithful and good.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

The new method of choosing Presidential Electors in Michigan will be described in the April number of the North American Review by Governor Winans.

Under the head of Our National Dumping Ground, the North American Review will give in its April number a study of immigration written by the Hon. John C. Weber, United States Inspector of Immigration, and Charles Stewart Smith, President of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Remington of Montana, who had been visiting their parents in this village for several weeks, arrived home in safety the 9th of March and a letter just received, announcing their safe arrival home, says that the ground is now ready for spring plowing and that the dust is flying in the road.

"Godey's Lady's Book" for Easter is out on time, so as to let all the ladies secure for themselves the latest fashions for the season. A word to the wise is sufficient. If you desire to be fashionably attired, secure "Godey's Lady's Book" and follow out its designs. Godey Publishing Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Price, $2.00 per year.

Mr. Gilder represents a class of pianists almost unknown to the concert stage of to-day, but a larger following of his ideas in concert performances would remove many of the present terrors of the ordinary piano recital programme. He has all the technical attainments of the modern school pianist, and his touch has a limpid clearness and purity which is seldom attained by the modern methods.—Boston Daily Herald.

Puck's double-page cartoon of March 23d touches the Presidential situation with a delicate yet firm hand. The grief-stricken "Republican Party" presents to Benjamin Harrison a laurel wreath to which is attached a mourning favor bearing the words, "In memory of my Lamented First Choice." Above the scene hover cherubims Rusk, Wanamaker and Elkins. Below is the terse caption: "It suits Him, and She can't help herself."

In an article on "The Mystery of Columbus," to appear in Harper's Magazine for April, Eugene Lawrence will unfold some facts which will be little short of startling to many who have been accustomed to revere the name of Columbus as that of a saintly hero. He will show how the researches of Bergenroth in the archives of Salamanca have refuted all the traditional legends, and not only represent Queen Isabella as a cruel mother, a hated wife, and the author of the Inquisition, but have transformed Columbus into a cruel, unscrupulous adventurer, the leader of a band of sea-robbers.

The Detroit Free Press says:—Quartermaster-General Wood says the canteen system will be in practice at this year's state encampment, and the next legislature will be asked to appropriate a sum sufficient to purchase the Island Lake site for a permanent encampment as the best available. Many substantial improvements will be made. Frame structures will be erected for guard quarters and officers in charge. The entire grounds will be laid with pipes, and water will be forced through them by an engine stationed at the lake. The property at Whitmore lake will be at once removed to the site for this year, and preparations for the encampment will be begun early enough to leave nothing lacking when the troops arrive to contribute to their comfort.

Public Opinion.

Public Opinion, published at Washington, D. C., gives each week a summary of the comments from thousands of the best journals in this country and in the old world. Its able editorial corps, furnishes extracts with absolute impartiality, from all the leading journals and magazines upon every important topic that comes into the thought of the time. Its political, sociological, scientific, religious, educational, financial, artistic and literary work is not excelled by any journal now published, and in its condensed form the reader is furnished with rare condensation of current discussion in all lands. It is a paper for busy men and all others who desire to look into and understand the great world of thought. The value of such a paper during great crises in the country's history cannot be over-estimated and its utility at all times for both those who wish to keep posted on current facts and those who are interested in historical research, must be apparent to every one. Any person who desires to examine sample copies of this great journal, will receive three issues by sending 10 cents in stamps, to The Public Opinion Co., Washington, D. C.

PRONOUNCED HOPELESS, YET SAVED.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at J. J. Orr's drug store. Large size 50c. and $1.00.

Free—Weems' Life of Washington.

Written by the Rev. Mason Locke Weems, historian of the Revolution, and Washington's pastor at Pohick Church. It contains the original 'hatchet story.' More than forty editions sold during the first fifty years. Every father in America should have his son read this—the first Life of Washington. Upon receipt of one dollar we will send for one year, the new monthly witty paper, "Tansill's Punch" and one of "Weems' Life of Washington" free. Sample copies of paper will be sent free upon application by addressing at once, "Tansill's Punch," 40 Lake st., Chicago.

"Do the Rest."

The extent of Pressure on the button and the success of Dr. Gregg's Goods in "Doing the Rest" is most satisfactorily shown in the marvelous growth of our business the past 60 days.

Repeated and increasing demands for The Gregg Electric "Foot Warmer" are coming in from all parts of the country with profuse acknowledgements that so much comfort for $1.00 (the price) is like buying Gold Dollars for ten cents.

The Delicate Organism of Woman subjects her to many peculiar ailments and unfortunate misery. The extreme sensitiveness of her Nervous System very frequently requires artificial stimulus. The Gregg Electric Belt and other Appliances supply this as nothing else can.

The Rugged Constitution of Man, when once broken, becomes pitiable in the extreme, from which there is absolutely no escape without assistance. The Gregg Electric Belts and Appliances in cases of [illegible] kind, have honestly won their title of King of Remedies.

Rheumatism is conquered, sufferers from Obesity are speedily relieved, Drops quickly yields, spinal difficulties and Paralysis disappear, and many other diseases. Men and Women are permanently cured, fully described in complete catalogue for 6c. or elaborate circular free. We guarantee to forfeit twice the price of any of Dr. Gregg's goods found not to be genuine. We make an elegant little $3 Electric Belt, which is selling very rapidly and which we take in exchange for any higher power belt (except $5 belt) and credit $3 on the price of new order. RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Wind it up Joe and let her go—Martha.

Jennie Root, of Tecumseh, was in the village Monday afternoon.

Prof. Drake attended the teachers' institute at Clinton last week.

Mrs. James Pocklington is still under the doctor's care with rheumatism.

Dr. Kishpaugh, of Holloway, was in the village Thursday of last week.

H. J. Williams and R. S. Houseman were in Blissfield on business Saturday.

Charley Richards, of Dundee, is the guest of his cousin, Fred Clark, at present.

Prof. H. C. Wilson, of Constantine, made his parents a visit last week Thursday.

Cynthia Yager went to Jackson Monday to make a visit with friends for a few weeks.

Mattie Rappleye and Minnie Barrett attended the teachers' institute at Clinton Friday.

Harry Smith moved into Mrs. Emmeline Smith's house on North street the first of the week.

D. W. Smith enjoyed Saturday and Sunday with friends in Brooklyn, returning Monday.

Vote Miller, having received an appointment as mail messenger, left for his work Saturday.

Prof. E. A. Wilson, of Paw Paw, is spending a part of his vacation with his parents at present.

F. J. Temple and wife attended the Eastern Star banquet at Tecumseh last week Thursday evening.

Theodore Allison spent part of last week at Stony Creek with his brother, David Allison and family.

Richard Cadmus, who has been spending the past three months away, returned to our village Tuesday.

Emma Miller is in Cleveland, Ohio, helping her brother Fred Miller and wife settle in their new home.

C. O. Miller, of Detroit, has rented the Grandma Coryell property on North street, and will work his father's farm this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Foote attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Osborn at Tecumseh Tuesday afternoon.

The thunder shower Saturday night, the croaking of the peepers and the chirrup of the robin reminds us that spring is at hand.

Prof. and Mrs. Martin Palmer, of Wyandotte, are spending their vacation in the village with Mrs. Palmer's father, Dr. Loree.

The Sunday evening service and prayer meetings through the week will begin half an hour later than heretofore until further notice.

Mr. and Mrs. Foote and daughter Minnie and Mrs. Jane Lefler, of Farmers Village, N.Y., are making their son, Chas. Foote, and family, a visit.

Wm. Barrett, Jr., has purchased the property of Dr. D. W. Loree, on the corner, formerly the business place and residence of Hon. Peter Sharp.

Charles Pocklington lost his valuable driving mare Maud last week. She was one of the finest drivers in this section and valued very highly by her owner.

Agent and Mrs. W. J. Clark, of Britton, and Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Wilberham, of Laporte, Ind., visited at the home of Mrs. Susan Clark Thursday of last week.

Link Culbertson, who returned from a visit with relatives in New York State last week, is making his brother, C. W. Culbertson, a visit before leaving for North Dakota.

Jennie Osgood began the spring term of school in the Henry district, Macon, Monday, it being her sixth term in succession there. Who would wish a better recommend for a teacher?

Township election next Monday, when the new system of voting will test the qualification of the voter. Be careful how you split and make the cross if you wish to have it count.

Elder Yager, Ella Pattison, Jennie Underwood and Leila Sutton, the delegates to the Epworth League state convention held at Albion last week, report a very interesting and instructive gathering.

Mrs. Sarah Rappleye and Mrs. Allie Smith were elected as delegates by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. to attend the district convention of the W. C. T. U. to be held at Ypsilanti the 13th, 14th and 15th of April.

The missionary entertainment given by the Epworth League Tuesday evening on Bishop Taylor and his missionary work in Africa was very interesting and instructive, and the attendance very good.

The Epworth League will give a public meeting on Sunday evening in place of the regular preaching service, at which time the delegates that attended the State convention will give their reports. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The Epworth League will entertain the Tecumseh League at the church on Wednesday evening, April 13th, when a joint literary and musical program will be carried out, after which refreshments will be served and a social time enjoyed.

Don't forget the Prohibition meeting to-morrow night at Exelby's opera house Friday, April 1st.

The town board settled up their books for the town Tuesday, preparatory to the coming election next Monday.

The Prohibs held their caucus last Thursday afternoon and, we are informed, nominated a strong ticket.

Peter June moved on the Joe Thackery farm Monday, Mr. Daykin having purchased the same some time ago.

Wm. Larrabee has secured a situation with E. A. Norris, of Detroit, and will leave for Norrisville and Fenton Friday.

Mr. Andrew Gogaline, of Flat Rock, is negotiating with John Beasley for the purchase of his mill property, with the view of establishing a lumber yard.

Mr. and Mrs. William Osgood returned from an extended visit in Canada and New York State Saturday night. When they left New York Friday they drove to the depot with a horse and cutter.

We are informed that in about two weeks Britton will have a lumber yard, where all pine lumber and house-building material may be had. This is one of the many things Britton needs and the gentleman entering this line of business is sure to succeed.

On election day the ladies of the Relief Corps, an organization in connection with the G. A. R. just instituted in our village, will conduct an eating room, where the veterans of this spring's raging battle can find something to refresh the inner man.

Constables Larrabee and Gillen and their deputized assistants were out looking up tramps Saturday night till 12 o'clock, with Bowie knives, guns, revolvers, coupling pins and various other implements of war. Taking it all together they had quite a time and succeeded in completely annihilating for the time being America's "nobility" from our peaceful village.

Dr. Loree of Ridgeway, wishes to inform the people of our village, and especially that committee of the Home Missionary Society on sidewalks, that he has never ridden horseback for the space of one foot on their walk. In addition we will inform our neighboring village scribe that his conclusion as to how the sorrel hairs came to be on the board was entirely erroneous, as none of the members of the said committee support sorrel hair. Therefore it would be quite useless to explore underneath the the walk, as Brittonites are not yet quite so shrunken as to be able to slide through a 6-inch hole.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT!

A Mother and Child Burned to Death at Adrian.

We clip from last Saturday's Messenger the following account of an awful accident which occurred in Adrian on Friday:

One of the saddest accidents Adrian has ever experienced occurred at the residence of Henry C. Lards, turnkey and deputy sheriff, No. 38 Erie street, yesterday morning. The little daughter, Winnie, now lies on a bed of agonizing suffering, while the lifeless bodies of the mother and little son, Carl, are burned and charred almost beyond recognition.

The story is brief but heart-rending. Mrs. Lards was cleaning the carpet in the dining-room when the accident occurred.

She had a saucer full of gasoline which she had been using on the surface of the carpet, and set the saucer in the middle of the floor while she stepped to another part of the room to dust some furniture.

A fire was burning in the coal stove in the room and in some strange way a mysterious explosion took place, shattering all the windows in the room and immediately setting fire to the clothing of Mrs. Lards and two children who were in the room.

Frantic with fright Mrs. Lards and four year old daughter, enveloped with flames, rushed into the yard. Mrs. Matthew Hoenas and two daughters, Clara and Barbara, living next door, met them and by heroic efforts succeeded in extinguishing their burning clothing, not, however, until the unfortunate ones were terribly burned.

Carl, the baby, between two and three years old, in the meantime was amidst the flames in the burning room. He was sick with croup and consequently could not make much of an effort to escape, and before he could be taken out was burned to death. The hair was burned off his head and the flesh of the upper portion of his body was burned off in many places.

The alarm was given and the fire department arrived in time to save the building with almost all the property.

Dr. F. R. Segur was called in at once and did all he could to relieve the suffering mother and daughter.

Mrs. Lards was badly burned about the neck, breast and arms, while the daughter was seriously burned about the arms, body and lower limbs. Mrs. Lards continued to grow weaker from the time she was removed to the home of Mr. Hoenas, just after the accident, and death ended her sufferings last night at half-past eight. The daughter is gradually growing worse and is not expected to live.

Mrs. Hoenas and daughters were also badly burned about the hands in rescuing the mother and daughter.

The bereaved husband is almost wild with grief over his loss, and has the earnest sympathy of the entire community.

The accident is one of the most heart-rending in the history of the county.

Country Roads Again.

It has been stated that good roads indicate a high stage of civilization, but if the claim is correct there is much for farmers yet to do before they can reach the highest limit, for the greatest neglect has been given roads. Though a road is public property and devoted to the use of each and all, yet no one has sufficient private interest therein to permit him to cease farm operations in order to look after the roads. It is only when the roads become impassable that their condition is noticed and regretted. Experiments have recently been made at several points which show that a bad road in winter will cost the farmer a sum much greater than his taxes on the farm, in some instances, as he must not only sacrifice time, wear of vehicle, and lessen the weight of his loads, but must use two horses to do the work of one. The draught on a good gravel road, according to Prof. Sanborn, compared with even a good dry dirt road, shows a difference of over 4,000 pounds load for the same force or 119 per cent more of net load could be carried on the gravel road than on the dirt road, while the draught was lessened more than one half. If this difference between a good gravel road and a good dry road is so great, how great should be the difference between a good road and one of mud, on which the wagon wheels sink nearly to the hubs, bringing up great loads of sticky mud at every revolution, the reader can estimate for himself, as it is only a matter of observation and comparison. Nor is this all. In addition to producing the power the horse raises a large share of the mud with his feet, and must use extra exertion to propel his body even without a load.

The first object that should be accomplished is to have the roads hard and smooth, also graded, wherever it can be done at little cost. How to make a good road depends on the locality, and the materials most easily and cheaply procured, but the farmers in each community are in duty bound to take the matter of good roads into their own hands by refusing to elect anyone to the position of road manager unless he is capable, and they should not only agitate the subject, but insist on good roads.

The first cost is the greatest; but where a good road is established it will not be costly to keep it in good condition, and it is not so difficult to repair as are the muddy ways denominated as roads.—Philadelphia Record.

"Consider the Lillies."

MRS. L. E. TAYLOR.

All night I counted the weary hours, tossing on bed of pain,
While ev'ry tingling, aching nerve cried out at the dreadful strain.
The whole head sick and the whole heart faint—how I longed for the morning light,
And the breaking of the bitter cloud that hid my Lord from sight!

At last the hills' dim outlines glowed with the dawning's rosy hue;
Then slowly over the waking world the splendor of daylight grew.
But no ray pierced the weltering dark wherein my soul was set,
Nor respite came to the tortured frame, held fast in the furnace yet.

But a dear friend came to my comfortless bed,—a pitying friend and wise,—
With flowers for my sick room's cheering,—I lifted my languid eyes
With eager joy; blessed I giver and gift,—white dainty lily bells!
Surely they rang for me such strains as float o'er the asphodels.

Then lo! in a moment the clouds rolled back and the Blessed One stood nigh.
Oh, the sweetness of consolation that answered my yearning cry!
"Consider the lillies!"—I heard and knew as I drank of their fragrant breath,
That His pitying love was far above all measure of mortal faith.

And then—Oh, miracle of God's grace!—the quivering nerves grew calm;
My weary body seemed to float in a sea of soothing balm;
And weak, but resting in His strength, who keepeth His own from harms,
My soul laid down, like a tired child, in the Heavenly Father's arms.

Another View.

TOLEDO, OHIO, March 28, '92.

EDITOR HERALD:—As I have just finished reading that letter in the HERALD by a Toledo lady and feel rather indignant about the way she wrote of the place, will just say I think she certainly must have been very homesick to have thought Toledo, with its dirty, muddy, weedy, beer-perfumed streets, nicer than Tecumseh. I have lived in both places, and have sat by those wood fires and read by a kerosene light, and bought goods in those same stores by them and never got cheated, either, and I think the wood fires are warmer and more to be depended upon than the gas of Toledo. As I light my house with kerosene here, as well as lots of others, I think the oil in Tecumseh was better than Ohio oil. But one thing I never did do, or see either, was a school-ma'm eating where it was so dirty, but think it must have been in Ohio. Maybe she will say I am homesick. Well, yes, I do think Tecumseh a better place than Toledo to live in. JUSTICE.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, March 25, 1892.

Washington has been in a whirl of excitement this week. The debate on the Bland free coinage bill, a fire in the capitol building, and a dispatch of defiance sent by President Harrison to Lord Salisbury, are all events out of the ordinary run of things, and calculated to cause a quickening of the pulse.

The free coinage debate, while at times very interesting, developed little from start to finish that was unexpected, and the man who was surprised at the result must have been both blind and deaf many weeks; nevertheless it was evident that all of the members were in an unusual state of excitement, many of them evidently fearing that the unexpected would by some means take the place of the expected on the programme.

President Harrison's reply to Lord Salisbury's answer to the recent dispatch of this Government is in the hands of the Senate committee on Foreign Affairs, and, although the most extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent their being made public, the substance of both dispatches has leaked out. Lord Salisbury's answer was indefinite and answered the questions asked him by submitting propositions which had long before been rejected by this Government. That had the effect of arousing the Americanism of President Harrison and he cabled an answer that is in the nature of an ultimatum, which is said to be even more vigorous in tone than the one he sent to Chili. It is now said that if the Senate ratifies the arbitration treaty it will at the same time pass a resolution authorizing the President to use the military arm of the Government if necessary, to protect the rights of the United States in Behrings Sea, pending the arbitration.

The public has a short memory or it would not accept the statement so often made within the last few days, that the action of the democrats on the Election committee of the House in deciding to give the seat held by Rockwell, democrat, to Noyes, the republican contestant from the 28th, New York district, was something very unusual. It was nothing of the kind. To go no further back than the Forty-ninth Congress, there were two such cases, Frank Hurd, of Ohio, and Gen. Shelley, of Alabama, being unseated by their own party, and in the last Congress, in which partizanship ran unusually high, five democrats against whom republican contestants waged a hot fight, were retained in their seats by the republican majority. The virtues of Congress are few, therefore no one should seek to deprive it of them.

There was no politics in the vote of the Senate—48 to 5—by which the bill for the improvement of the Mississippi river was passed.

Representative Dingley, of Maine has introduced a bill to prohibit the sub-letting of contracts for carrying the mails, and has presented a petition numerously signed asking that the bill be passed.

In admitting before the joint meeting of the Immigration Committees of the House and Senate that his knowledge of matters pertaining to the Government immigration station of Ellis Island, was derived entirely from his private Secretary, a Treasury clerk, General Nettleton, assistant Secretary and often acting Secretary of the Treasury, gave the public an inside view of how some of our big officials perform the duties they are paid for. It is common for Congressmen to get bright newspaper men to prepare the data for their speeches, and in some cases to furnish the language, but it is something new for the head of a great department to allow a single subordinate to furnish him with "ready made" opinions on important subjects.

The idea of detailing army officers to serve as Indian agents has strong opposition in the Senate, and no sooner was the Indian appropriation bill called up for consideration by that body than an amendment was reported to strike out the clause in the bill authorizing such detail.

Every day the public is told by Secretary Blaine's physician that he is better and that he will soon be entirely well. Still the gentleman does not get well enough to resume his duties.

FREE LUMBER.

Free Lumber Will Greatly Increase Our Exports of Manufactures of Wood.

The opponents of free lumber, mostly the northwestern lumber syndicates and their official and unofficial agents, insist that a repeal of the duties on this raw material would not affect its price. Yet they can readily see that the repeal of the duties on sugar has brought down the price of that commodity. In proof of their assertion, they point to the fact that the slight reduction of duty on white pine lumber in the McKinley tariff has not reduced the price of lumber to the consumer one penny, although it has greatly stimulated its importation. Yet, with characteristic consistency, they assert that a repeal of the duties would "paralyze the lumber industry." If, as they claim, a partial reduction of duties has not had the least effect upon the prices of lumber, what would be likely to be the effect of their total repeal?

The facts of the lumber trade show plainly enough that the duties on this material are not needed for "protection," but serve only to despoil American consumers. While the total imports of lumber and its products last year amounted in value to a little less than $15,000,000, the exports amounted in value to upward of $26,000,000. In 1890 these exports exceeded $38,000,000 in value, having since declined, with other staple exports, under the malign influence of the McKinley tariff. But since the country is able to make these large exports of wood and its manufactures, wherein lies the necessity for protecting them in the home market? It is not pretended that these exports are not sent abroad in a profitable trade; nor can it be pretended that American consumers would pay less than foreign consumers for this lumber if the duty should be removed. Why, then, should a protective duty be put upon lumber, unless it be for the purpose of plundering home consumers?

Not content with the duties on ordinary grades of lumber, heavy duties are imposed on sawn lignumvitæ, ebony rosewood, mahogany and other valuable tropical woods used in the manufacture of furniture. The absurdity of these duties lies in the fact that hardly a foot of the fine varieties of wood on which they are imposed comes into the United States. Although these woods, when not sawed into boards nor manufactured in any shape are on the free list, very little is imported into the country. The mahogany, ebony, lignumvitæ and rosewood of Central and South America are sent to Europe, whence some of it in the shape of luxurious furniture finds its way to a few American consumers. By the cunning arts of varnishing, graining and veneering ordinary woods, a little rosewood, satinwood and mahogany goes a great ways in the making of furniture. But if these woods should be made free of tariff tax American makers of cabinetware would use a great deal more of them.

The taxes on lumber are not of sufficient importance for revenue, and are not imposed for that purpose. But they are a serious obstruction to industry and commerce, and a grievous burden to American commerce. The duties should, therefore, be totally, unconditionally and immediately repealed.—Philadelphia Record.

AMERICAN VS. FOREIGN LABOR.

High Earnings and Low Labor Cost in the United States as Compared With Low Earnings and High Labor Cost Abroad.

In responding to the toast "Past and Present of the Hardware Manufacture" at the hardware dinner recently held in New York, J. B. Sargent, one of the largest manufacturers of hardware in the United States, said:

"In agricultural tools and implements, at least, we take half the trade of the foreign countries outside of Europe, and in all kinds of edge tools we take half the trade of South America and Asia. But, gentlemen, my time is more than gone, and I will bring my remarks to a close by saying that with the manufacturers of this country in their present condition, with our machinery, with our unrivaled help, with our skilled mechanics, and with you, gentlemen of the hardware and merchantile branches, there is no reason why we should not only hold our own in our own country, but take a large part of the trade of all the world.

"The American manufacturer, with the American mechanic, has never seemed to realize his own strength, or the strength of his own trade. We have, as I have always said, the most skilled, the most willing, the most energetic and the most ambitious workers, workmen and mechanics anywhere to be found. Although our wages in this country—the earnings of men per day—are very much more than any other country, and especially of the countries of the continent, who are our competitors, and although they earn so much more per day, still their labor to the manufacturer is cheaper than that of laborers in other countries. In other words, the labor cost of almost any article of American hardware manufacture is less than the labor cost of the same article in any other country. The fear which so many of us have had of the pauper labor of England is a matter unworthy of consideration. The pauper labor of England, in manufacture of hardware, as compared with our labor, may be compared with the cheap farm labor of India, where that class labor is paid 10 cents per day, as compared with our western farm laborer, in the raising of wheat. With land as plenty and as cheap, with millions of acres which are not used in India, but that are roamed over by wild beasts—with land in plenty, and with labor at 10 cents per day (cheap labor in the usual acceptance of the term), still in this country we can produce wheat more cheaply than they can in India, and yet we pay $1 per day for the labor. In other words, the 5 cent per day labor in India, under all the conditions that they have there, is not so cheap in the product obtained as is the $1 per day labor of our western farmers. And so, if we will only take courage and go out before the world with our industries, with our machinery, with our intelligence and with our mercantile ability, we can conquer the world in industrial pursuits. [Applause.]

"When I look upon this intelligent, this energetic, this ambitious company, it seems strange that any one should think that the industry and business ability of any other nation on the globe can compete with us in a free field and a fair fight.

"I have only to add that I know that you gentlemen of the hardware trade, you manufacturers and merchants, will carefully consider the question that must come before you—of the greater freedom of trade; the question of placing ourselves with our raw materials on an equal footing with the manufacturers of England. Whenever we do that we can certainly take care of ourselves in any quarter of the globe." [Applause.]

EX-GOV. AMES TALKS.

He Thinks the Fifty-first Congress Violated Its Pledges.

At a recent meeting in Boston, ex-Gov. Ames gave a caustic criticism of the McKinley tariff. His speech excited great alarm in the ranks of the American Protective Tariff league, and its secretary wrote a letter to the ex-governor asking for an explicit statement of his views. He has replied in a very long letter, of which this is the pith:

"In the presidential campaign of 1888 the republican party met the tariff issue by the assertion that it intended, if successful, to reduce the surplus in the United States treasury and reduce the revenue of the government by reducing the tariff on imports all along the line, but in such a way as to preserve and encourage the manufactures of the country. It claimed that this reduction should be made by the friends of protection and not by its enemies; otherwise the interests to be effected would suffer.

"On the issue thus presented we elected a republican president and a republican house of representatives. But our pledge was not kept in its entirety, as it should have been. Instead of reducing the tariff duties all along the line, we raised them on many manufactured goods that had adequate protection. I am a republican and a protectionist, and I believe that our revenue law should be so adjusted as to give ample protection to manufactures, so as to insure good wages to the workmen and fair profit to the employer. But I do not believe in making the rate of duties so high as to exclude foreign goods and give a manufacturer phenomenal profits, and thereby to over-stimulate domestic production as to end in ruinous competition or to cause that reaction which tends to the abolition of all protective laws, which already has so many advocates. I am convinced that the tariff of 1883 was in many instances too high, and that the tariff of 1890 in some of its provisions is still more burdensome than was that which it succeeded. This is the error in legislation which I wish to point out, to which I more than once called attention while the measure was under consideration in the congress, and which I believe did more to defeat the republican party in 1890 through consequent reaction than any other act of congress during a quarter of a century."

PLATE GLASS TRUST.

Another Combination to Protect a Grasping "Inf at."

The combination of manufacturers of plate glass held a meeting a few days ago "for the purpose," as the New York Tribune said, "of arranging a scale of prices and establishing a rebate system." It is by means of "a rebate system" that the whisky trust and several other similar combinations enforce their price lists with the middlemen. The Paint, Oil and Drug Review of the 24th inst. explains the action taken at this meeting. In November, 1890, rules were adopted which recognized two grades of glass, first and second qualities. Since that time there has been a price for each grade, that of the second quality being about 10 per cent. lower than the other, although the quality was determined solely by size. These rules have now been repealed. "Hereafter," says the Review, "the manufacturers will sell all plate glass as first class, 60 and 5 off, regardless of size, an arrangement which is practically an advance in prices.

It is such advances of price by a combination agreement that increase the imports of plate glass, notwithstanding the high duties. The latest annual report of the treasury department shows that the imports for the fiscal years 1890 and 1891 were as follows:

PLATE GLASS.	1890.	1891.
Cast, polished, unsilvered	$917,398	$1,364,106
Cast, polished, silvered	274,621	173,275
Fluted, rolled or rough	82,488	81,836

One of the organs of the glass trade, the Glass Budget, says that there are only two plate glass factories outside of what it calls "the trust." One of these is situated in Missouri, and the owners of it "give as their explanation for not belonging to the association the cogent reason that their state anti-trust law is so well defined that it would be impossible for them to have membership in any combination which might be construed as taking part in a conspiracy to uphold prices." But, as "they intend to give all the aid they can to the market without compromising their charter rights," the combination may rely upon their cordial co-operation. No one engaged in the business appears to have any information about a national anti-trust law, although one was enacted about two years ago.—N. Y. Times.

—Brass manufacturers at Bridgeport, Conn., have cut down the wages in the screw department from $2 to $1.75 per day, and have increased the hours of work from nine hours to ten. Molders' wages have been cut from $2.50 to $1.90, and the wages of women reduced from $1.20 to 65 cents. The Clark box company, of Danbury, Conn., has reduced the wages of nailers 20 per cent. Both of these Connecticut concerns were ardent supporters of the McKinley tariff, and sought to convince their workingmen that high tariff and high wages were almost equivalent terms.

The People's Office.

Mr. Cleveland's letter to General Bragg has the flavor of patriotic frankness that comes with every utterance from the ex-President, and one sentence in that letter should specially impress the American people at this time, when raids upon the Presidency are common among small politicians. Cleveland declares that "the Presidency is pre-eminently the people's office," and he adds: "I cannot bring myself to regard the candidacy for the place as something to be won by personal strife and active self-assertion."

It is true, as Mr. Cleveland says, that "the Presidency is pre-eminently the people's office," and it is high time that the people themselves should appreciate this important fact. It is the highest civil trust of the world, and the man who is called to the Presidency should be the choice of the considerate judgment of the American people selecting a public servant to discharge the most responsible duties under our free institutions. It is the one office of the Republic to which the President-elect should bring the highest dignity of character and the clearest record of manliness, and only men who can thus come to the highest honors of the Union should be regarded as within the list of possible Presidential candidates.

Unlike most Presidential aspirants, Mr. Cleveland always means precisely what he says. He has at times suffered much from his candor in expressing his views upon public questions, but time has always vindicated the soundness of his judgment and the integrity of his convictions. He is the one public man of the nation to-day who ever dares to be right, to speak for the right and to act for the right as he conscientiously understands it, and that is why he is to-day the choice of an overwhelming majority of the people of the nation, who desire a change in the political power of the national government. He fully fills the bill of a man who regards the Presidency as "pre-eminently the office of the people."—Philadelphia Times.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

Progress in England.

An election of the utmost importance to the single tax agitation is now pending in London. New members of the London county council are soon to be chosen, and the question of taxing ground values, is the issue.

At a recent conference Lord Monkswell, who took the chair, explained the situation regarding public improvements in the city, substantially as follows:

The making of public improvements is not merely a question of policy, it is also a question of money, because, until the county council can get money by taxation out of the landlords, they will have to be more niggardly than they like to be in forwarding London improvements. These improvements are all for the benefit of the landlord, who contributes very little towards them. The change proposed in the law is in two directions. First, the placing of a separate tax on the value of land, as distinguished from the value of buildings. The first object had the sanction, he believed, of the entire liberal party, and was a foremost plank in their platform. In the separate taxation of ground rents it would be quite impossible for the landlord to put the screw on the tenant or to shift the burden on to him. Landlords would not on that account be able to raise the rents; the effect would be to lower them. In conclusion, he did not think it lay in the mouths of the dukes and other ground landlords of London to talk about a policy of confiscation.

This conference was held for promoting the objects of an address issued last autumn by the executive committee of "The United Committee for the Taxation of Ground Values in London," of which society Lord Monkswell is president, and Frederick Verinder is secretary. The address is what in the United States would be called a platform. It was issued in contemplation of the approaching county council election, and it declares the principles upon which the single tax men of London appeal for increased support. Here is the text:

The prominence now given to the demand for the taxation of land values in the programme of the liberal and radical party is at once a testimony to the value of the work done by the committee in the past and an incentive to increased exertions in the future. To secure the ground which has already been won, and to give greater definiteness to the current proposals of reform, much educational work, involving a considerable expenditure, will be necessary.

Moreover, this question is becoming more important, and more urgent than ever in connection with almost every department of local government. Recent legislation on the housing of the people, supplemented by pressure from the government and from public opinion, is tending to increase the expenditures of local bodies for sanitary purposes. The demands for better schools, better education, public libraries, baths, wash-houses, open spaces and the like, are increasing the amount and aggravating the burden of the rates. Meanwhile, the increased value which all these public improvements confer upon the land of the towns goes into the pockets of the landlords, who, as the landlords, contributes nothing directly to the rates by whose expenditures they are so largely benefited.

The London county council has refused to proceed with some of its more costly improvement schemes until it shall have the power to rate ground landlords to their cost. Every local body has to face a similar difficulty; and no doubt many of them, failing a reform of the incidence of local taxation, will follow the example of the London county council.

Either the most urgent public improvements must be neglected; or the burden of their cost must be added to the already unjust burdens of the occupier; or the reform advocated by this committee must be adopted by parliament.

This was signed on behalf of the executive committee by Lord Monkswell, J. F. Torr, J. Fletcher Moulton and Frederick Verinder.

A pamphlet recently published by William Saunders, a member of the London county council, and lately a member of parliament, describes the agitation which led up to the address. The issue—as he states it—was this: "Builders or occupiers of premises have to pay rates; the value of land created by the expenditure of rates goes to the ground landlord. It is contended that the ground landlord, who obtains the value, should contribute to the rates by which the value is created." This proposal is called the taxation of ground values. When the county council was elected, the question of taxing ground values excited great interest, and while it was admitted that the council had no control over the methods of rating, that authority resting in parliament, it was insisted that when recommending expenditures for city improvements it was the duty of the council to suggest methods for raising funds. The agitation began, however, long before the election of the first county council. It was caused by the rapid increase in rents and rates between 1863 and 1890, and the question was first raised in the report of the royal commission on the housing of the working classes. This report showed that, though the capital value of available building land was very great, it produced but a small return until let for building, and that it was rated for taxation not in proportion to its real value, which was high, but to the actual income which until let for build ng was very low. That enabled the owners, so the royal commission reported, to keep the land out of market, and thereby to abnormally raise its price; and meantime, public improvements, to the expense of which these owners contributed but a small proportion, still further increased the value of the land. For a remedy, the committee recommended that a four per cent. rate be levied on the selling value of the land. They argued that this would compel the owners of all valuable property to contribute to public expenses, thus diminishing the burden on occupiers, and that owners of building land would be forced to offer their land for sale, thus bringing down the price of land. Incidentally, it was said in the report that the "ground rent or the price paid for land" is not a recompense for any industry or expenditure on the part of the landowners, "but is the natural result of the industry of the town's people themselves."

In February, 1886, after the report of the royal commission, Mr. Saunders, then in the house of commons, moved in that body "that no system of taxation can be equitable unless a direct assessment be imposed on the owners of ground rent, and on the owners of increased values imparted to lands by building operations or other improvements, as recommended by the royal commission on the housing of the working classes." An interesting debate followed, but the resolution was referred to the town holdings committee, where it was pigeon-holed.

In the following year, 1887, "The united committee for the taxation of ground values," which now issues the campaign address quoted above, was formed; and in the same year it issued a leaflet, to which the name of the first president, Lord Hobhouse, was subscribed, and in which the following statements were made:

That buildings, and not land, are liable for taxation is evident from the fact that when the buildings are removed or destroyed by fire, taxation ceases, although ground rent continues to be paid to the owner.

Land can not be lessened in quantity by taxation, but building is restricted thereby.

The evils of overcrowding, the stagnation of trade, and the general want of profitable employment are thus directly traceable to the paralyzing and unjust effect of the exemption of land from taxation, which causes heavy burdens to fall upon buildings.

The object of the united committee is to substitute the taxation of land for the taxation of buildings. Land should be taxed according to its value. A ground rent may represent the whole or only a part of the value. The actual value should be taxed whether the whole remains with the landlord or in part belongs to the occupier.

At that time the value of the land in the Metropolitan area of London was £418,000 (equal to about $2,090,000,000), while the value of buildings was only £212,000,000 (about $1,060,000,000), and yet the owners of land paid only £500,000 ($2,500,000), inclusive of income tax, while the occupiers of buildings paid £7,000,000 ($35,000,000).

The effect of the agitation of the united committee was felt at the election for members of the present London county council, several who were more or less radical single tax men being elected. Among these were William Saunders, Lord Monkswell and Lord Hobhouse. Upon the organization of the council a committee on land valuation was appointed which soon disposed of the frivolous objection, so often heard, that the value of land can not be distinguished from the value of improvements. Some of the most experienced real estate valuers of London were examined, and from them it was learned that it was their usual practice in valuing property to separate land from buildings, even where a statement of the values separately was not required; and as a result of its investigation, the committee reported that the values of land could be distinguished from those of improvements, for purposes of taxation, without difficulty or increased expense. The same committee also took into consideration the effect on overcrowding of rating vacant land, and reported that the chief cause of overcrowding is the dearness of building land, which would be modified if it were taxed according to its selling value instead of according to its actual income; and it recommended a detailed plan of bringing "all land, irrespective of buildings and improvements, into the rate books for assessment under a separate valuation."

When this report came into the council it was opposed by the landlord interest on technical grounds, and an apparently innocent motion to defer its consideration until the report on the same subject of the local government taxation committee should be considered, was carried. But that motion was not so innocent as it appeared. It placed the question under the control of the local government committee, which kept it in a state of suspension for more than two years.

That committee finally made a long straddling report, however, concluding with a recommendation that the council accept the report as an exposition of many questions relating to local taxation in London, and as propounding principles of reform worthy of the attention of parliament. On the part of the advocates of ground value taxation in the council an amendment was offered, "That the council is of opinion that the existing system of local taxation in the metropolis unduly favors owners at the expense of occupiers, and that it is urgently necessary that this injustice should be redressed." The amendment was carried by the decisive vote of 59 to 17.

A motion that in redressing the injustice it should be "subject to equitable arrangement as regards existing contracts" was lost. A further motion to give landowners a direct representation "adequate to the immediate interest in local expenditure which they will acquire"—in other words, to increase the voting power of landlords in proportion to the increase of their land value taxation—was also lost, the vote being 20 for the motion to 48 against it. At this stage the question now rests, and it will rest there until after the election.

E. E. HAFER, a photographer, of Reading, Pa., says no writer has ever succeeded or can ever succeed in refuting George's position concerning private property in land.

AFTER MANY MONTHS.

The Ill-Fated Hill Farm Mine Gives Up Its Dead.

The Remains of Twenty-Three Victims of the Disaster Which Occurred Twenty Months Ago Brought to the Surface.

TAKEN FROM THEIR TOMB.

DUNBAR, Pa., March 25.—The dead have been wrested from their untimely tomb and all that remains now is to accord a Christian burial to the miners who met their fate in the Hill Farm mine at Dunbar, June 16, 1890. Wednesday the bodies of twenty-three of the miners were found and they have been brought to the surface for burial. Their names are:

John Mitchell, Daniel Smith, John McCleery, Jim McCleery, Peter Devlin, John Cope, Andrew Cope, James Shearin, Elmer Devoy, John Devanney, Richard Bigley, Daniel McCastinon, John Kiernan, Martin Kavanaugh, Patrick Cahill, John Courtney, Patrick Courtney, John Devanny, Jr., James X. Ivy, Thomas Davis, Daniel Davis, James McCune and William Cahill.

Yet in the tenacious grasp of the mine are William Hay, Peter Agen, Joseph Bigley, Milton Turner and Barney Naust. These latter unfortunates were in the dip at the time of the explosion, and their bodies will not be recovered until all the water is pumped out.

The struggle for life of the entombed miners was as terrible as it was brief. They were suffocated—not burned or starved—and it is improbable that any lived longer than an hour. There is an unwritten law of protection among miners, by which they rush together at the sound of an explosion, impelled by a common instinct of self-preservation, for together they stand a better chance of fighting for freedom. So it was with the Hill Farm victims. When found they were huddled together in Flat No. 10, showing that they had rushed deeper into the mine, and that a moment later a scorching breath of death filled the flat, choking their lungs, bursting their veins and striking them to the earth to linger in horrible torture a few moments and then to die.

A few of the miners took refuge in one little room. When found they were piled on top of one another, contorted in ghastly shapes — heads thrown back, mouths—where the lips had fallen away—open, fleshless hands clinched and nails scarring the bones of palms—all sickening evidence of a death which was preceded by torture unimaginable. A short distance away were three miners, two of whom, the brothers McCourtney, afforded an affecting spectacle of love strong even unto death. They alone were clasped in each others' arms, and their faces were composed, even though time had ravaged their manly forms, and drilled great wells where their eyes comforted each other in that last dread hour when hope had fled. The third man—David Davis—it is supposed this is the man—sat beside them, his head between his knees. He had evidently kept his mouth close to the ground until the last breath of air had been exhausted.

The fourteen other miners were entombed in a space 13 feet square. One had an open knife in his hand, as though he intended to kill himself, but was stricken by a more sudden death of suffocation.

The finding of the bodies has caused a fever among the families of the dead men still living here. Two of the widows have again married, and a few others have moved away from the place in which they felt the great blow that the mine horror brought them.

The search for the bodies has been carried on unremittingly by the owners of the Hill Farm since the awful disaster about twenty months ago, at a cost of over $100,000. After two weeks work the searchers were compelled to abandon the work for a time till the fire, which followed the explosion could be extinguished. The mine was then sealed up and then flooded to subdue the fire, after which months were required to clear the mine of water and the tons of collected debris produced by the fire.

Destroyed the County Records.

ST. CHARLES, Mo., March 26.—The courthouse caught fire Thursday night about 9 o'clock and is now in a wrecked condition. The flames were extinguished by the fire department, but not before the loss to the county was almost irreparable. The fire originated in the county surveyor's office and destroyed all the records on file, which loss at present cannot be given a money estimate.

Quay's Libelers at Liberty.

BEAVER, Pa., March 28.—Messrs. Mellon and Porter, the Star publishers who were prosecuted for criminal libel by Senator Quay, were set at liberty Saturday. They have been in jail since February 2. Their pardon arrived just after midnight. The costs, amounting to about $300, were paid by contributions.

DR. TRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Osborn Celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of Their Marriage.

A golden wedding is an event which deserves more than a passing notice. The privilege is given to but few people to sail the matrimonial sea together for a full half century. It is fitting, therefore, that those fortunate ones who are thus favored by a kind Providence should invite their friends to join them in properly celebrating the event.

Away back in the thirties, while Michigan was yet a territory, among the sturdy young men of Central New York who came west to seek their fortune, was Wm. H. Osborn, of Farmer Village, Seneca Co. Coming to this county he located three hundred and twenty acres of land in the township of Macon. By dint of hard labor and sacrifice for three or four years he made a good clearing and erected a log cabin to serve for a house. In March, 1842, he returned to his old home and was united in marriage on the 29th of that month to Mary Jane Foote. The young couple took for their wedding trip the journey from the old to the new home, which was no small undertaking in those days. On arriving in Macon they began the stern realities of life. For forty years they journeyed together upon that farm, transformed a wilderness into a beautiful home, reared a family of children, and accumulated a nice property. Ten years ago Mr. Osborn purchased a fine home in this village, where the family have ever since resided.

On Tuesday last the venerable couple celebrated their golden wedding at their village home on Union street. At three o'clock in the afternoon their relatives and intimate friends to the number of over seventy had assembled at the family altar of that happy couple, who now stood among children and grandchildren to receive their congratulations. The younger branches of the family were not alone represented among the guests. Many white-haired pioneers were there, and one of the most notable features of the reception was the presence of Mr. Joseph Foote, of Farmer Village, N. Y., and Mrs. G. D. Perry, of Tecumseh, who acted as best man and bridesmaid at the wedding half a century ago. They assisted Mr. and Mrs. Osborn in receiving the guests of the day, and many were the congratulations and good wishes that were showered upon them all.

The house was tastily decorated with a profusion of plants and cut flowers. Two large boxes of magnificent roses were sent by friends in Milwaukee. Ribbons of yellow satin, typical of the golden anniversary, made a pleasing and appropriate feature of the decoration. The many beautiful gifts bestowed upon the host and hostess were displayed here and there about the mansion, and were the admiration of all. The array comprised a gold headed cane, gold watches for both Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, an elegant stand lamp, and table ware of gold and silver. The articles represented a goodly outlay and evinced the warm regard of the donors for the aged couple. Toward the close of the afternoon, a group photo of the company was taken from the porch in front of the house. A sumptuous supper was then served, at the usual supper hour, and the remainder of the evening was enjoyably passed in social converse and in recalling reminiscences of "ye olden time." The festivities were closed by a serenade kindly given by the City Band.

Among the guests present from abroad were N. L. Avery and John Avery, of Grand Rapids; Joseph Foote and wife, Minnie Foote and Mrs. Lafler, of Farmer Village, N. Y.; Mrs. J. J. Hagerman, Percy and H. Hagerman, of Colorado Springs; Capt. and Mrs. Frank D. Baldwin and Jeannet Baldwin, of Chicago; Wm. H. Osborn, Jr., and family, Milwaukee; F. Dickey and wife, of Marshall, Mrs. Walline and Alice Walline, of Northville, Mich; Lizzie Osborn and sons, of Monroe; and Rob't I. Graves, of Milwaukee. The children were all present with one exception, although widely scattered. Mrs. H. C. Lowe, of Colorado Springs, was unable to attend.

It was a beautiful day for a family reunion, with bright sunshine and balmy air like that of a May day, and the unalloyed success of the affair will long be cherished in remembrance by the favored guests who were present. Providence has smiled upon this aged couple and prospered all their undertakings. May He cause their declining years to be as bright and happy as their earlier years were useful and successful.

The lady members of the Eastern Star Lodge did themselves proud last Thursday evening. The banquet, to which they invited all Masons and their friends, was served in their hall promptly at seven o'clock. Banquet was not a misnomer for it either. It was a bountiful repast such as only Tecumseh maids and matrons can serve when they go about it in earnest. After the supper was over the company tarried awhile and the evening was passed in social converse and merriment, which all enjoyed.

J. Hagerman, Colorado Springs; Joseph Foote, Farmer Village, N. Y.; Captain F. Baldwin, wife and daughter, Chicago; Mrs. Mary Walline, Northville, Mich.; Wm. H. Osborn, Jr., and wife, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Thos. Osborn, Chas. Osborn, Monroe, Mich.; Wm. H. Osborn, J. F. Hicks, I. S. Osborn, Miss Anna Osborn, Tecumseh.

The North American Review for April brings forward many subjects of public concern, handled exhaustively by the foremost men of the times. In the opening article, "Patriotism and Politics," Cardinal Gibbons speaks with wisdom and warm feeling of the duties of the citizen in relation to his country. It is an article well designed to exalt love of country and to chasten party strife. Thomas Nelson Page, in "A Southener on the Negro Question," discloses, with every mark of absolute accuracy and sincerity, the present status of the Negro in the South, making an estimate of the Negro's capacities: giving a forecast of his destiny; and, in particular, according to the South full credit for its treatment of the Negro—the special ward of the South, however much he may be the care of the Nation.

The Forum for April gives the position of emphasis to a discussion of "The Crisis of the Democratic Party," a group of three articles, by Congressman Wm. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, who lays down a line of campaign for the presidential election; by Robert R. Coudert, the leader of the anti-Hill Democrats of New York, who explains the revolt against Senator Hill; and by Matthew Hale, who narrates how the Democrats captured the N. Y. Senate when its electoon returns had fairly shown it to be Republican. Following this discussion of the uppermost political topic of the time is an article on the coal combination, "Our Anthracite Supply and its Distribution," by Jos. S. Harris, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company.

Scribner's Magazine for April marks the beginning of two important series. The central subject of all social questions, and one of the most widely discussed of the time is the conditions of life among the "Poor in Great Cities." It has passed from the stage of discussion into one of practical experiment, directed by men and women of great experience and scientific knowledge. The conductors of the Magazine have determined to embody the most significant of these results in a series of papers in which authors and artists will co-operate to produce a truthful representation of the things achieved. The authors have been chosen because of their personal experience and sympathetic study of the conditions which they describe. London, New York, Paris, Boston, Chicago and Naples, are among the cities to be represented in the series.

A notable feature of the April Magazine of American History is an illustrated article by the editor on "The History and Educational Importance of the Walter's Collection of Art Treasures," in Baltimore. It is the most informing sketch about that celebrated gathering of modern master-pieces in painting and historic art objects from every age and clime ever given to the public in one chapter, and the very first attempt by any writer to treat the theme in its many sided and vast proportions as a whole. Mrs. Lamb's articles are always welcome, but this is one of the best examples of her masterly skill in word-painting that has appeared in many a day. The clear, authentic, rapidly-flowing account of the founding, development, and general characteristics of this great art-collection of art-collections, is made as readable in this pen-picture as a novel.

Attention, Company!

Headquarters Co. C, First Infantry,
Michigan State Troops.

TECUMSEH, MICH., Mar. 28, 1892.

General Order No. 4—In accordance with orders from Brigade Headquarters, Co. C, 1st Inft. M. S. T., will be inspected by Brig. Gen. H. B. Lothrop, Inspector General, M. S. T., on Wednesday evening, April 6, 1892.

Clothing and other State property will be inspected during the afternoon of April 6.

We are short three dress coats, three fatigue coats, ten pairs of trousers, one cap and forty cross-guns, which must be returned to the Armory at once.

In cleaning your uniforms you should be particular to have all buttons, cross-guns, and all brass on helmets and belts polished. Special attention is called to the brass rod under cartridge-box, the small brass trimmings on cartridge-box and the under side of the U. S. button on bayonet scabbard, all of which should be thoroughly cleaned and polished. Be sure your belts are blacked.

The inspection will be held in full dress uniform, and according to Upton's old tactics. The drill afterward will be in fatigue uniform.

Owing to the inspection being held in the opera house it becomes necessary to hold extra drills, which are ordered as follows: On Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. On Monday, April 4, will be held an inspection in full dress uniform.

On the evening of inspection the Company will report at the Armory at 7 o'clock, and be ready to move out by 8 o'clock, city time.

With the exception of sickness, there will be no excuses granted for absence from the extra drills and the inspection. Comrades, let us all work together to make this a rousing success.

By order of
WILL H. HAYDEN,
Capt. Co. C.

R. C. FARLEY, 1st Sergt.

JONES: What has made the telephone so successful, do you imagine? Brown: I presume it is owing to the fact that it is run on sound principles.

Downer: Is Bilsen's trade growing now? Boyer: No. His trade is one of the kind that can't grow. "Why, what kind of business is it?" "Stationery."

Present Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of William W. Tilton, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charles Burridge, executor of the last will and testament and upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred have been fully paid, and that he is now ready to close said estate and to render his final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the provisions of said will that he may be discharged and his bond canceled, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper,

It is ordered, that Monday, the 25th day of April, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.

TECUMSEH, MICH., - MAR. 31, 1892.

Local and Miscellaneous

Election Day next Monday.

Chocolate supper at the Baptist church this evening.

The township board held its annual meeting last Tuesday.

Spring flowers will soon be here, if this weather continues.

This weather makes a man feel like ordering a new spring suit.

Louis Hardenburgh was home from Hillsdale college a day or two last week.

Miss Fannie Stocking will open her select school on Monday next, April 4th.

This is vacation week in the Tecumseh schools. The spring term will begin next Monday.

Capt. A. D. Lawrence has been spending a few days with friends at Rochester and Syracuse, N. Y.

The adjourned meeting of the Farmers' Social club will be held April 5th, at G. B. Garlinghouse's.

The teachers and patrons meeting at Clinton last Friday was attended by many Tecumseh people.

Co. C, will hold special drills on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week and next Monday evening.

W. R. Bresie, of Decatur, Ill., was the guest of his father's family last Friday. He remained only one day.

James H. Potter has just finished an elegant prescription case for C. A. Wright & Co. He made it at the table factory.

There will be two voting precincts at the township election next Monday, and two polling places—one in the Council building and one in Heesen's hall back of Alf James' office.

Henry Mensing has taken the contract to move the building, used by the State encampment at Whitmore Lake last year, to Island Lake, where the camp will be held this year.

The township will be divided into two voting precincts hereafter. The boundary line will be Railroad, Mill and Maumee streets through the village and thence north and northwesterly to the Clinton town line.

We got our boiler back from the shop and got it set up last Saturday. Fired up Monday morning and it ran like a top. The HERALD is now better prepared than ever before to meet all demands upon it in the line of job printing, which can be executed promptly and at reasonable prices.

Frank Bryan was in Adrian Tuesday.

Henry Crowell was home over Sunday.

J. S. Kinney has a change of card this week.

Mrs. James VanAntwerp is visiting in Bay City.

Ask Charley Ham how he likes the second degree.

Mrs. Levi B. Stevens, of Detroit, is visiting in town.

Easter Sunday will fall on the 17th day of April this year.

C. F. Field has rented the Clark house on Union street.

Miss Flora Hartbeck is spending the vacation at Manchester.

Miss Laura Geddes, of Toledo, is visiting at Mrs. S. P. Hosmer's.

Miss Clarinda Walker, of Brooklyn, is visiting her sister Mrs. Stacy.

Alfred Bartholomew, of Waterloo, Ind., is visiting at Will Dickinson's.

The Church manufacturing Company will be moved from Morenci to Adrian.

Miss Louise Todd, of Adrian, was visiting in town the fore part of the week.

Willard Perkins has moved from Franklin into the Mrs. Edwards house in the east part of town.

Horatio Keyser has resigned the office of village assessor and Jehiel Davidson takes his place.

Miss Maggie Spafford entertained a party of friends last Monday evening, it being her twentieth birthday.

Chas. Koernig has a new ad this week setting forth the good qualities of Gipsy Chief. Farmers should read it.

Messrs Robbie Thompson and Johnnie Todd, of Adrian, were the guests of George Tiffany the first of the week.

The Baptist young people will give a chocolate supper at the church parlors this evening. Everybody invited.

Co. C will be inspected by Brig. Gen. Lothrop, on Wednesday evening of next week, April 6th. The inspection will be held in the armory.

E. L. Teeple, our new photo artist, proposes to get his share of the spring trade, and to that end he swings out a new card this week.

A number of Tecumseh Chapter Masons visited their Brooklyn brethren last Thursday evening and exemplified the Royal Arch degree.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Hause, every Friday at 3 o'clock p. m. during the month of April.

The Superintendent, Mrs. Jackson, has prepared a fine program for the mother's meeting on Friday, April 1, at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Hause.

The Jackson Chapter of Royal Arch Masons will visit the Tecumseh lodge this evening. A most genial and fraternal meeting is looked forward to by our chapter.

A new time card will go into effect on the Mackinaw to-morrow. The afternoon train East will pass this station half an hour earlier. The other trains remain the same.

Jas. H. Potter has purchased the A. H. Chaplin property on Pearl street. Jim will doubtless have a first-class wood working shop established at the old place within a short time.

The Young People's aid society of the South Macon church will give a Razzle-Dazzle social on Friday evening, April 8, at Grange Hall. Refreshments, warm sugar. BY ORDER OF COM.

In the entire district covered by Rev. enue Inspector Geo. W. Fleming there are fourteen applicants for the maple sugar bounty. Mr. Fleming has seven breweries and 61 cigar and tobacco factories to look after.

The township registration board will meet next Saturday at the council building. Former voters will not be compelled to register anew but all new comers or young men casting their first vote, must get registered.

Business men should look out for bogus drafts on the exchange bank of South Lyons. The State is being flooded with them by a gang of sharpers working from outside of the State, and there is no such bank in existence.

Henry Hayes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes, died March 15th and his remains were placed in the vault of the Tecumseh cemetery on the 18th. On Monday last his body was conveyed to Grass Lake, his former home, for final interment.

The officers of the W. C. T. U. gave very satisfactory reports at the annual meeting of the work done in the various departments during the year. The treasurer, Mrs. Jas. Heck, reported money in the treasury at the beginning of the year, $20.75; receipts for year $171.95; disbursements 174.83; balance in treasury 17.87.

Lap tables are manufactured in Tecumseh. They are about a foot square, and are used while refreshments are being served. One table answers for two persons, as it is customary for the lady to sit in the gentleman's lap, the lady in turn holding the table. Of course, at leap year parties the order is slightly reversed.—Hudson Post.

The Tecumseh Table Co. is manufacturing a lap table which makes it possible for a man to partake of refreshments at a church social without spilling the coffee in his shoe. No one but an expert jvggler can balance a plate on one knee and a cup of coffee on the other, and enjoy himself. The Company is also doing quite a business in renting the lap tables to bow-legged young men on Sunday evenings.—Morenci Observer.

J. M. Jones has a new card this week.

Miss Lutie Hendryx is visiting in town.

Marshal Kyle was a visitor at Grand Rapids yesterday.

M. P. Brown is canvassing Tecumseh for the Life of Spurgeon.

A Cemetery meeting will be held at Pennington's Corners next Saturday evening for the election of officers. A general attendance is desired.

The place of holding the National Prohibition Convention has been changed from St. Louis, Mo., to Cincinnati, Ohio. It will take place at Music Hall, June 29 and 30.

The Tecumseh and Franklin Farmers' Club meeting at Ben Lamkin's last evening was postponed till next Wednesday evening at the same place with the same program.

Wm. McCowen has been rearranging his furniture rooms and now has a fine place to display his large stock of wall paper. He is fully prepared to meet all demands upon him in that line.

We are indebted to T. R. Lovett of Huron, South Dakota, for a copy of the Dakota Farmer. It is a bright farm journal and compares favorably with most of the eastern farm papers.

Gus Vallenburg, the target keeper at the Lake Shore and Mackinaw crossing, has commenced cleaning house and as soon as the frost is fully out of the ground he will be making garden.

We feel under special obligations to C. D. Bills for the use of his farm engine during our break down. His assistance was promptly given and came exactly when most needed, thus helping us out of a tight place.

David McNair received a telegram last Thursday from his son Bert at Aspen, Col., announcing the fact that David was the grandfather of a twelve pound boy. Mr. McNair has been busy ever since receiving the congratulations of his friends.

The most striking of Puck's cartoons this week (March 30), shows the Democratic Voter debating his choice between two standards. On the one borne aloft by Hill is emblazoned the motto: "No Policy, but Politics and Spoils." Cleveland's standard bears the words: "Tariff Reform and Sound Money." The cartoon is entitled: "Under Which Flag?"

Promotion exercises of the West Side schools were held in Carpenter's Hall on Wednesday evening of this week. The entertainment was well attended and seemed to be appreciated by all present. This work, being completed now, means less trouble for teachers and parents in the hot, sweaty days of June.—Blissfield Advance.

The officers of the Union Picnic Association met at the HERALD office last Saturday afternoon. Nearly all the clubs in Northern Lenawee were represented. A committee on place and arrangements was appointed consisting of Bowen, Cook and Taylor; also a committee on program consisting of Waldron, Munger, Martin, Gillispie and Mathews. Saturday, June 18th was chosen as the date of the picnic.

The Redpath Concert Co., gave a very fine entertainment at the opera house last Thursday evening. In merit it was fully equal to some of the entertainments in the regular course given during the past winter. The audience was a small one, owing to insufficient advertising and the Eastern Star banquet on the same evening. The troupe gave a concert in the Adrian Star course on Friday evening to a packed house. They should be secured for our regular course next winter.

The prostration after the grip is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It really does make the weak strong.

The next meeting of the social of the ladies of the First Baptist church, of Tecumseh, will be held at the chapel parlors on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, April 7th. Business meeting at 3 o'clock p. m. Supper from 5 to 8. All are cordially invited.

Wm. H. Osborn, Jr., of Milwaukee, who came out to attend his father's golden wedding, left yesterday afternoon with his wife and son for a European trip, expecting to be gone about three months. His friends both here and at home will wish him a pleasant voyage.

The Epworth League, of the M. E. church, held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening. The attendance was quite large and a very interesting program was carried out, which consisted practically of the work and synopsis of the addresses made at the state convention held at Albion.

Come to the Presbyterian church parlors Friday, April 8th. Supper will be served by Mrs. Horatio Keyser's S. S. class from half past five o'clock. Those who like can be served to a bowl of mush and milk. Price ten cents. Welcome all. Proceeds to be given for S. S. books.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, will hold their April meeting next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the lecture room. A paper will be read on necessity of work among Freedmen and danger of neglecting it, also on schools for freedmen. A story will be given on Cindy's chance. Good music. All ladies cordially invited.

In the office of the Lilley House is a fine photo view of the Lilley House block. Just above it on the wall hangs a view of the old Mansion House, which was erected on the same site in 1835, and removed in 1867 to make room for the present block. There is a striking contrast between the two structures which can be fully appreciated by examining the two views together.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Daily Summary of Proceedings in Senate and House.

Important Measures Introduced and Passed by Our National Lawmakers A Statue of Gen. Sherman Proposed.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—In the senate yesterday bills were passed appropriating $18,750,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi, and for the relief of settlers on public lands.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—A petition was presented in the senate yesterday from Maryland asking congress to secure compensation for slaves taken by the general government or emancipated by a state convention at the instance and desire of the general government. The Indian appropriation bill was considered.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The time of the senate yesterday was occupied in discussing in executive session the Behring sea question.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—In the senate yesterday a bill was introduced to encourage postal savings, to invest the same and divide earnings among depositors. Resolutions of respect to the memory of Senator Hearst were adopted. In secret session a practical agreement was reached to ratify the Behring sea arbitration treaty with a proviso that the ratification shall not take effect until an agreement has been reached on the modus vivendi issue. Adjourned to the 28th.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Mr. Bland began the debate in the house yesterday in favor of his bill for the free coinage of silver, and Mr. Williams, of Massachusetts, made the first speech in opposition. A bill was introduced granting a pension of $12 a month to women who served during the war as army nurses.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—In the house yesterday a favorable report was made on the bill providing for a home government for Utah. The free coinage measure was further discussed.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—In the house yesterday the sundry civil appropriation bill ($25,175,787) was reported. The Bland silver bill was discussed, and Mr. Bland at midnight, seeing that he could not reach a vote, moved an adjournment, which was carried. This means that the silver bill loses its preferred place and goes back on the calendar to take its chance with other bills.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—In the house yesterday a favorable report was made on the Paddock pure food bill. A bill was introduced to prevent the use of substitutes for hops or pure extract of hops in the manufacture of ale or beer. Mr. Bland introduced a resolution fixing Monday, March 28, as the date for resuming consideration of his free coinage measure.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The time was mostly occupied in the house on Saturday in eulogies of the late Congressman Spinola, of New York. The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill ($1,584,925) was reported.

RIOT AT KENT, O.

Discharged Railroad Men Attack the Police and Forty Shots Exchanged.

KENT, O., March 26.—A riot broke out here which threatened serious results. Thursday a number of switchmen were discharged by Erie officials for drunkenness and new men were put in their places. The discharged employes and their sympathizers assembled in the yards about 8 a. m. and demanded reinstatement. They were refused, and immediately attacked the new men, threatening to shoot them. Order was maintained for awhile, but at last the men attacked the police officers, using revolvers, forty or more shots being exchanged. The mob was finally dispersed, two of their number being badly wounded.

Killed While Trying to Save Another.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 28.—Mrs. Decker and Mrs. Quick, who lived in a small hovel at Great Bend, were struck by an Erie railroad train Friday afternoon and instantly killed. The women were picking coal from the tracks and one was so deaf that she heard no noise from the train. When she saw her danger she was rooted to the spot. Her companion tried to drag her from the track but at the cost of her own life.

Demands of the Patrons of Industry.

TOLEDO, O., March 26.—The supreme council of the Patrons of Industry on Friday concluded its work on the revision of the constitution of the order. The order demands legislation that shall check the advance of corporations in power and wealth and crush out trusts; that all stockholders of corporations shall be individually responsible for corporate debts; heavy specific taxes upon corporations.

Mississippi Will Not Take Part.

JACKSON, Miss., March 26.—In the house of representatives Friday Mrs. Solomon Thatcher, Jr., of Chicago, spoke for about fifteen minutes, pleading for an appropriation to the Columbian exposition. The Columbian exposition bill was then taken up. It provides for an appropriation of $50,000. It was defeated by a vote of 78 to 20.

Clearing House Balances.

NEW YORK, March 26.—At the leading clearing houses in the United States the exchanges during the week aggregated $1,409,555,071, against $1,200,388,322 the previous week. The increase as compared with the corresponding week of 1891 was 23.2.

Given Six Years.

UTICA, N. Y., March 26.—Anthony Gould, who was found guilty of aiding and abetting Bookkeeper Whitney in abstracting $19,000 from the Albany City national bank, has been sentenced to six years' imprisonment.

Train Wreckers Shot.

LEON, Mexico, March 25.—Six train wreckers were caught tearing up spikes on the Central road near here and immediately shot.

ANALYSIS OF THE SILVER VOTE.

Where the Anti-Silver Democratic Votes Came From.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—In view of the extreme closeness of the vote on the silver question as disclosed Thursday night an analysis of the tie vote on the test motion of Mr. Burrows to lay the Bland bill on the table will be interesting. On this motion each side secured 148 votes and 35 members are put down as not voting, of which number the Congressional Record shows that 20 were announced to be paired on this vote, leaving 15 unpaired.

Of the 148 votes cast in favor of the motion 83 were cast by democratic members of the house and 66 by republican members. The negative vote shows the names of 11 republicans, the other 137 being either democrats or alliance men. The unexpectedly large showing of democratic votes against the silver bill came from the following states: New York, 12; Pennsylvania, 10; Wisconsin, 7; Massachusetts, 7; Iowa, 5; New Jersey, Ohio and Maryland, 4 each; Illinois, Connecticut and Michigan, 3 each; New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Louisiana and Minnesota, 2 each; South Carolina, 1 (Mr. Brawley); Delaware, 1 (Mr. Causey); West Virginia, 1 (Mr. Wilson); Missouri, 1 (Mr. Cobb), and California, 1 (Mr. Geary).

The 14 republican votes opposed to the motion made by Mr. Burrows are scattered over the far west, only 1 vote, that of Mr. Vincent A. Taylor, of Ohio, coming from east of the Mississippi river. Kansas contributed 2 in Messrs. Broderick and Funston; South Dakota 2 more—Messrs. Pickler and Jolly—while the other 6 votes came from as many different states; Colorado (Mr. Townsend), Wyoming (Mr. Clark), Nevada (Mr. Bartine), California (Mr. Bowers), Idaho (Mr. Sweet) and Oregon (Mr. Hermann).

A SWINDLE EXPOSED.

Milwaukee Authorities Close Up an Alleged Charitable Organization.

MILWAUKEE, March 26.—The police have ordered solicitors for the "United States Charity Home Institution" to stop begging money. About a dozen men and women under the leadership of C. E. Vogel, who recently came here from Chicago, incorporated the "institution" under the laws of the state, alleging that their purpose was to build a home for poor people of every sex and creed. The parties are not regarded as responsible and are practically unknown. They admit having received sums of money from President Harrison, Vice President Morton, Postmaster General Wanamaker and others in high positions in the government.

IS HE THE RIPPER?

Confession of Deeming, Who Killed His Wife and Children.

LONDON, March 28.—A dispatch from Australia says that the Melbourne Argus has published an alleged confession by the murderer, Frederick Deeming. In his confession Deeming is represented as saying that he was guilty of killing his wife and children at Rainhill, as well as of the murder of his other wife, Miss Mather, at Windsor, near Melbourne. The murderer is represented as having also confessed that he was guilty of killing the two last Whitechapel victims. This confession is alleged to have been made to the jailor at Perth, Australia.

FATALLY HURT.

Two Young Ladies Struck by a Switch Engine at Evansville, Ind.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 28.—Lizzie Deinus and Mary Klinger, aged 16 and 19 years, were returning home from work Saturday night and attempted to cross the track in front of an approaching train. A switch engine coming from an opposite direction dashed down upon them. Miss Deinus had her head crushed and Miss Klinger had both legs cut off. Neither can survive. The engineer of the switch engine failed to see the girls until he was upon them.

In the Quicksands.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 26.—The recent heavy storms along this coast have caused the formation of innumerable beds of quicksand, which are sources of deadly peril to unwary people. The wife and three children of ex-Mayor Gilpin, of this city, were rescued from one of these traps of shifting sand yesterday by William Willis just as the tide was rising and each succeeding wave threatening to engulf them.

Paige Surrenders.

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—R. K. Paige, the cashier and virtual head of the wrecked Painesville bank, returned from New York Saturday and gave himself up to the sheriff of Cuyahoga county. The liabilities of the wrecked bank are now placed at $700,000, with assets of $200,000.

His Fortune Gone.

OWOSSO, Mich., March 25.—Charles Fairfield was found dying in the poorhouse here. He formerly lived at Toronto, Ont., and during the last ten years has spent his entire fortune in searching for his wife, who eloped.

Fastest Time on Record.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The French line steamship La Touraine, from Havre, March 19, crossed Sandy Hook bar at 8:53 o'clock Saturday morning. The trip was made in 6 days 23 hours and 30 minutes, the fastest on record.

Burned by Molten Iron.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 28.—An explosion of hot metal in the converting department of Carnegie's Homestead mill dangerously burned nine men. Six are reported fatally injured.

North Dakota Democrats.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., March 25.—In state convention here yesterday the democrats elected delegates to the national convention and instructed them to vote for Cleveland.

Four Men Killed.

TROY, O., March 26.—An explosion at Fredericksburg in a mill killed four men and injured several others. Four doctors were called from Troy.

WILL SAVE THEM.

President Harrison Determined to Protect Seal Life.

The British Premier Informed That Every Available Force Will Be Employed to Prevent Poaching in Behring Sea.

THE BEHRING SEA WRANGLE.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The additional correspondence on the Behring sea question was given out for publication Thursday evening. Sir Julian Pauncefote, in transmitting Lord Salisbury's reply to the president's note of March 8, says:

"Lord Salisbury again points out that the information in the possession of her majesty's government does not lead him to believe that another year's suspension of sealing is necessary to prevent an undue diminution of the seals herds. His lordship, however, proceeds to observe that beyond that question it is considered by your government that they have a right to be protected from the loss which they may incur from free sealing being permitted this year in the event of their claim to Behring sea being upheld by the arbitrators. He states that her majesty's government does not dispute that after the ratification of the convention there will be some foundation for this contention, but he adds that the prohibition of all sealing as a remedy has this effect—that the British sealers excluded from Behring sea would have an undoubted ground of complaint if the British claim should be upheld by the arbitrators."

Acting Secretary Wharton in forwarding the president's reply recites that already forty-seven Canadian sealers have sailed in order to avoid prohibiting notice. He continues:

"It must be assumed that the sincere purpose of the two governments was to promote peace and good will, but if pending the arbitration, either deals with the subject of it solely upon the base of its own contention and in utter disregard of the claims of the other, this friendly end is not only not obtained, but a new sense of injury and injustice is added, even if it should be found possible to proceed with an arbitration under such conditions. For it must not be forgotten that if her majesty's government proceeds during this sealing season upon the basis of its contention as to the rights of the Canadian sealers, no choice is left to this government but to proceed upon the basis of its confident condition that pelagic sealing in the Behring sea is an infraction of its jurisdiction and property rights. His lordship will hardly fail to see this."

In conclusion Acting Secretary Wharton says:

"The president directs me to say that the modus of last year is the least that this government can accept. In reason the restraints, after a treaty of arbitration, should be more absolute, not less. He does not desire to protract this discussion, and having now in the most friendly spirit submitted the consideration which support the just demand of this government that the property which is the subject of an agreed arbitration shall not be subject to spoliation pending the arbitration, he expresses the hope that Lord Salisbury will give a prompt and friendly assent to renew the modus.

"The president will hear with regret that her majesty's government continues to assert a right to deal with this subject precisely as if no provision had been made for a settlement of the dispute; and in that event this government, as has already been been pointed out, will be compelled to deal with the subject on the same basis, and to use every means in its power to protect from destruction or serious injury the property and jurisdictional rights which it has long claimed and enjoyed."

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The senate in secret session reached a practical agreement to ratify the Behring sea arbitration treaty with a proviso that the ratification shall not take effect until an agreement has been reached on the modus vivendi issue. No formal action was taken on the treaty and it went over until Monday in order that absent senators might be notified to be present on that day, thus allowing a full vote to be had.

After the conclusion of the secret session one of the most conservative senators said: "I am, of course, not at liberty to state what took place at the executive session, but I will tell you as an expression of my own opinion, based upon all the information before me up to the present moment, that I think an amicable adjustment of the difficulty will be secured, and I do not think it a breach of confidence to say further that it is the general opinion among my colleagues in the senate. There is little or no sentiment among them that hostilities will result and, although they all approve of the firm stand taken by President Harrison, their approval is not due to any idea that it will precipitate actual hostilities, but merely that it is a firmness which will compel the recognition of a just demand."

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Lord Salisbury's reply to President Harrison's note of March 22 is in the president's hands. Enough is known to justify the statement that the reply is as evasive as former notes from the British premier; that he still declines to renew the modus vivendi, and that there is more than a hint of warlike bluster to fire the hearts of the English tories with a jingo policy. At the same time Salisbury does not formally consider the diplomatic end of the matter as closed. He reiterates the possibility of an indemnity arrangement which would be "full justice" towards the United States, and is evidently grieved that the Harrison administration thinks the modus vivendi the only means of reaching a solution of the difficulty. While there is an undertone of belligerency in the Salisbury note, and it is plainly intended for English consumption, he yet deals in generalities about an agreement which seem to show that he thinks the whole matter will still be arranged between the two governments. In administration circles it is stated that there is nothing in the reply to change the attitude of the United States in the slightest degree. Its duty is still to go ahead and protect the seals.

Death of Walt Whitman.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 28.—After a protracted illness, lasting from December 17 last, when he was first afflicted with pneumonia, Walt Whitman, the poet and author, died at his home in this city at 6:45 o'clock Saturday, aged 73 years.

ENGAGED.

The little bond that links your life to mine
Seems slight and fragile; do you think 'twill hold,
And bear the changes of the coming time,
When life is dark and all is bleak and cold?
And do you think that, purified by pain,
We can take up our lives and love again?

Or when, like the inconstant skies of spring,
Our lives are clouded as her sunny air,
And we know pain that summer could not bring,
Will you not find it all too hard to bear?
And when these storms and weary hours have tried us,
Can we live on and let no power divide us?

Then if this little chain, so frail and weak
It trembles when our lives are fair and bright,
Could find a voice and each small link could speak,
Would it not say 'twas frighted of the night?
If it must break, and we must humbly bow,
In pity for my weakness, break it now.

But if you think that it can bear the weight
Of fiery trials as they come and go,
We can take heart and boldly meet the fate
That gives impartially of joy and woe;
And be it summer fair or wintry weather,
We can be brave, and meet all, love, together.

THE KING OF SUNS.

Wonderful Facts Regarding Sirius, the Dog Star.

A Mighty Giant Among Suns, Compared With Which Our Own Sinks Into Insignificance—The Brightest Star in the Heavens.

In the entire firmament, embracing both hemispheres, there are about six thousand stars visible to the naked eye, and among this immense number, one in particular, owing to its remarkable brilliancy and superior magnitude, must have attracted the attention of all persons who enjoy an occasional survey of the heavens in the winter season. From time immemorial this star has been observed with the greatest solicitude by poets, divines and philosophers, and is known to astronomers by the name of Sirius—the famous "dog star" of the ancients.

There is no other star in the heavens that has been more universally observed, and around which there cluster so many ancient associations and superstitions, or has received more attention from astronomers in all ages of the world. Whoever has looked upon this beautiful star, located in the brightest region of the heavens, and seen it glowing and scintillating on a clear and frosty night in winter, must have beheld with awe and admiration its indescribable splendor; and one need not be an astronomer to admire its radiant glory, or to conclude that this charming orb possesses characteristics distinguishing it from any other star in the firmament, even those of the first magnitude, with which it is classed by astronomers.

It is true that "one star differeth from another star in glory," and among the 50,000,000 stars revealed by the great telescopes of the present day, the most surpassing glory unquestionably surrounds the peerless "dog star," which has been a prominent celestial object from the earliest ages, and has played a somewhat important part in the history of mankind.

Sirius belongs to the little constellation, Canis Major, a group of thirty-one stars situated just south and east of Orion, and almost universally known from the unrivaled brilliancy of its leading orb, but which otherwise possesses no noteworthy attraction.

When observed through a large telescope, Sirius presents a charming appearance and shines with a brilliancy that is startling to the beholder. The light of this star is so strong that, when the glorious orb is entering the field of a powerful telescope, its approach is announced by a bright dawn, like that which precedes the rising sun; and when the star itself enters the field of vision it shines with a dazzling splendor, and its brilliancy is so great as to require a colored glass to protect the eye. Sirius is not only the brightest star in the heavens, but is more than three times brighter than an ordinary first-magnitude star, and is believed to be 500 times as bright as a star of the sixth magnitude—the faintest visible to the naked eye. The author of a recent work on astronomy says: "Everybody has heard of Sirius, or the dog star, and everybody must have seen it flashing and scintillating so splendidly in the winter heavens, that to call it a first-magnitude star does it injustice, since no other star of that magnitude is at all comparable with it. Sirius, in fact, stands in a class by itself as the brightest star in the sky. Its light is white, with a shade of green, which requires close watching to be detected. When it is near the horizon, or when the atmosphere is very unsteady, Sirius flashes prismatic colors like a great diamond, and your eyes will be fairly dazzled when you turn your glass upon this splendid star."

It is believed that remarkable changes have taken place in the color of Sirius since it was first observed by astronomers. Whether or not this is the case, it is now a well established fact that the stars change their color, and many instances of the kind have been noticed in various parts of the heavens. Sirius was described by the ancients as a fiery red star. Many years ago it was said to be pure white, but it is now becoming of a decided green color, as a careful observer will readily perceive when this star is visible on a clear winter evening. Yet, many eminent astronomers do not believe that Sirius has changed in color, and a recent writer on the subject says: "The question has been much discussed as to whether Sirius was formerly a red star. It is described as red by several ancient authors, but it seems to be pretty well established that these descriptions are most of them due to a blunder made by Cicero in his translation of the astronomical poem of Aratus. It is not impossible, though it is highly improbable, that Sirius has changed color."

Owing to the remarkable size and brilliancy of Sirius, it was once naturally regarded as the nearest of the stars, but its distance is in reality so great that it has never been satisfactorily determined. The most reliable authorities, however, assign to Sirius a distance of 100,000,000,000,000 miles, which is five times the distance of Alpho Centauri—the nearest star known to astronomers—and a million times the sun's distance from our earth! It has been estimated that the brilliancy of Sirius is 300 times greater than that of the sun, and if we assume that the intrinsic brightness of its surface is the same as the sun's, the surface of this star must be 300 times larger than that of the sun, from which it follows that the diameter of Sirius is about eighteen times that of the sun, and its volume about 2,200 times greater! Prof. Garrett P. Serviss, referring to Sirius in a recent magazine article, says: "According to recent estimates Sirius, while shining with perhaps seventy times the light of our sun, is only between two and three times as massive, so that the intensity of its radiation is enormously greater than the sun's. Planets situated as close to Sirius as the earth and the other inner planets of our system are to the sun would be unable to endure, so far as their life-bearing functions are concerned, the gush of heat and blaze of light poured upon them—unless, indeed, the organization of living beings there were entirely different from that prevailing here. We should then expect such stars as Sirius, if they are the centers of the planetary systems at all, to be surrounded by globes revolving at comparatively great distances and in long periods of time."

The mind utterly fails to comprehend the immeasurable distance which separates our earth from this immense orb. Light, which travels with the almost inconceivable velocity of 186,000 miles per second, requires twenty-two years to traverse the distance between Sirius and our earth. We may justly consider this brilliant sun as the center of a system of revolving worlds, and imagine them as being inhabited by creatures far more advanced in intellectual development than ourselves. But we are at a loss to conceive of the vast scale on which the system of such an immense sun must necessarily be constructed; and when, in addition to the startling facts already mentioned, we consider the recent discovery that Sirius, with its entire family of planets and comets, is rushing through space with enormous velocity, the mind is bewildered in contemplating the wonders of this stupendous orb. By means of the spectroscope, Prof. Huggins, the eminent English astronomer, has found that Sirius is receding from our earth at the rate of twenty-six miles per second; and yet, even with this almost incredible velocity the passage of a thousand years will make no perceptible difference in the appearance of this brilliant star, so immense is the distance which separates it from our earth.

One of the most interesting results of the observations directed to this wonderful star was the discovery that it is attended by a companion or satellite, the existence of which had long been suspected by astronomers, and which was finally detected by mere accident. The presence of this object had been revealed by the effect of its attraction upon Sirius, the motion of which varied in such a way as to indicate a powerful disturbing influence in its vicinity. The famous German astronomer, Bessel, nearly fifty years ago expressed his belief that the periodical variations in the motion of Sirius were produced by the attraction of an invisible companion, revolving around the immense orb. Several astronomers had calculated the orbit of the attracting body, and its direction from Sirius at various times, and, though it was diligently searched for, it continued to elude detection, even by means of the most powerful telescopes. But in February, 1862, the eighteen and one-half inch telescope which was being constructed for the Chicago observatory by the late Alvan Clark, the famous optician, was pointed to Sirius as a test of its power, when the disturbing companion came suddenly into view, at a distance of about ten seconds from the large star, and exactly in the direction which had been predicted for that time.

We find, then, that Sirius is a "double star," the two components being physically connected, and forming what is known as a "binary system," the smaller star revolving around the larger, or both around their common center of gravity. Owing to certain irregularities in the motion of the smaller star, which cannot be explained, some astronomers are of the opinion that Sirius has another disturbing companion, the existence of which is indicated by its attraction only, and which may eventually be discovered.

In conclusion, we reproduce the interesting remarks of Prof. Daniel Kirkwood, regarding Sirius and its companion, published in Appleton's Annual Cyclopedia for the year 1876: "From the discussion of the observations of the companion of Sirius, Dr. Auwers has found the period of revolution to be 49 years, 146 days; the semi-axis of the orbit thirty-seven times the distance of the earth from the sun, and the eccentricity 0.6148—somewhat greater than that of Faye's comet. The mass of the companion is half that of the principal star, or more exactly, the mass of Sirius is 13.76, and that of the telescopic star 6.71, the mass of the sun being unity. As the light of Sirius, according to Sir John Herschel, is 324 times that of an average star of the sixth magnitude, and as the satellite discovered by Clark is of the ninth or tenth magnitude, the light of the latter must be much less than 1-1,000 part of that received from the principal star. The facts seem to indicate a remarkable difference between the physical constitution of Sirius and its satellite."—Arthur K. Bartlett, in Chicago Inter Ocean.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

SUSTAINED THE LAW.

The State Supreme Court Says the Mortgage Tax Measure Is Legal.

The supreme court has handed down a decision sustaining in its entirety the mortgage tax law passed by the legislature. The opinion filed by Justice Montgomery sustains the following propositions:

First—That the law was legally passed.

Second—That it applies to mortgages in force at the time of its passage.

Third—That it applies to mortgages owned by non-residents.

Fourth—That it applies to savings banks and insurance companies, and mortgages held by them must be assessed as real estate and deducted from the capital stock of the institutions.

Fifth—Neither the mortgage tax nor the usury law prohibits persons from agreeing who shall pay the tax on the mortgage interest, even though the tax and interest combined exceed 8 per cent., which is the limit of interest which can be contracted under the Michigan usury law.

INSURANCE.

Business Done in the State During the Year 1891.

William E. Magill, commissioner of insurance, has issued an advance statement showing that during 1891 life insurance companies issued in Michigan 30,837 policies aggregating $28,288,995, and received $3,503,490 in premiums. Losses amounting to $162,321 were paid, while $989,106 was the amount of losses incurred. Casualty, fidelity and miscellaneous companies wrote business aggregating $39,045,031, received $284,865 in premiums, paid losses of $102,321 and incurred losses amounting to $111,829.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by sixty-two observers in different parts of the state for the week ended March 19 indicated that diphtheria, measles and typhoid fever increased, and inflammation of the bowels, whooping cough and cholera morbus decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at thirty-eight places, scarlet fever at fifty-nine, typhoid fever at twenty-four and measles at ten places.

Maple Sugar Bounty.

Revenue Inspector Haire was in Detroit for the purpose of looking into the Michigan maple sugar industry and the effect of the McKinley bounty upon it. He says there are eighty-six licensed producers of maple sugar in Michigan who have made application for the bounty of two cents a pound. The total output of licensed maple sugar in the state will probably be 150,000 pounds this year.

He Is Old in Crime.

Information has been received that John Smith, recently sentenced by Judge Buck at Kalamazoo to ten years in Jackson prison, is the notorious Samuel Ashman, of Detroit, who escaped from prison in 1885, and was captured at Windsor and set free on a technicality in the extradition papers, and was later caught in Omaha and served out his time.

The Lenawee County Teachers' and Patrons' Association held a meeting here Friday, March 25th. The meeting was opened by H. W. Daniels at 10:30, as Com. C. F. Field had not yet arrived. After the preliminary exercises of Bible reading and prayer the program was opened by David E. Haggart, who had an excellent paper on "School Discipline." He covered the ground so thoroughly in his twenty-minute discourse that little was left for discussion. However there were a few points which occupied the attention of those present for a half hour or so, when Miss Nellie Martin read an essay on "Teaching Morals." This ended the morning session and the meeting was adjourned until one o'clock. The afternoon's program was opened by "A Plea for Higher Education," by W. H. Howard, of Adrian College. It is scarcely necessary to say that it was a very able production, as it came from an eminently able man, and though admitting little discussion it was appreciated and enjoyed by his hearers. Supt. J. J. Morgan, of Deerfield, lamented the fact that he had been unable to prepare a paper on the subject assigned him, "Book-keeping," but gave a talk explaining his practical system of bookkeeping that was delightful to listen to. This was discussed at some length by Prof. Kellogg, of Tecumseh, W. D. VanTuyle and others. The subject, "Primary Work in Geography," was ably presented by Miss Virginia Daniels. An animated discussion followed by Prof. Kellogg, C. F. Field, Mrs. C. S. Burroughs and Mr George Rawson, of Bridgewater. Miss Mary Schaffer, of Bridgewater, read an essay, "The Teacher's Influence," that was replete with beautiful thoughts and timely suggestions. In the absence of Mrs. F. C. Rector, Miss Minnie McAdam read an essay "The Paths of Learning," in her own earnest and impressive manner. The grading system was brought up for discussion, though little could be said except in its favor, as it has done so much towards the advancement of the country schools. The last on the program was a paper on "Reading," by C. F. Field, but there was hardly time for the discussion that was due the subject, considering its great importance. Misses Laura Clark, Lizzie Henderson, Minnie Humphrey and Edith VanGiesen furnished music throughout the program. A large number of teachers were here from abroad, the teachers of Clinton and vicinity and Patrons filling the high school room to overflowing. The meeting was an extremely successful one, as a meeting should be whose object was the promotion of the interests of schools and teachers, and the practical ideas that were advanced will bear fruit for many a day to come. The next meeting of the Association will be held at Morenci April 30, 1892.

FRANK DAVIDSON, Auctioneer.

I had a severe attack of catarrh and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from roaring in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh, take Ely's Cream Balm and be cured. It is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh. —A. E. Newman, Grayling, Mich.

AN IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not affected with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

Going to Heaven on a tombstone is risky business.

MOTHER'S FRIEND.

We have both used "Mother's Friend" and find it to be one of the best medicines in the world, and would not be without it in confinement for any consideration. MRS. SARAH F. VINCENT,
MRS. MARY A. LUCK,

IT SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSE.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of la grippe, when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at J. J. Orr's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

The T. A. A. & N. M. Ry. take pleasure in announcing that for the G. A. R. State Encampment at Ann Arbor, April 19 to 21, it will sell tickets at rate of one and one third fare for the round trip. Tickets to be sold April 18, 19 and 20th, limited for return to April 22d.

YOUR BLOOD

Undoubtedly needs a thorough cleansing this season to expel impurities, keep up the health-tone and prevent disease. You should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and system tonic. It is unequalled in positive medicinal merit.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, effective, but do not cause pain or gripe. Be sure to get Hood's.

$25.00 REWARD!

For information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves who forcibly gained entrance to the store building occupied by W. The Celebrated Stallion

GIPSEY CHIEF.

Will make the season of 1892 at the owner's farm, at the Bridgewater Mills, River Raisin.

GIPSEY CHIEF is the grandest sire in Southern Michigan, producing from mares of different blood, more matched colts, than any other stallion. Parties wishing to raise colts uniform in style and color, would do well to look at Gipsey Chief and his get, before booking their mares. He is the sire of the celebrated horse Tipton Boy, record 2:24 1-2, and other fast ones.

GIPSEY'S colts all have fine style and action and find ready sale at good prices. For pedigree and terms, address

DR. GREGG'S ELECTRIC BELTS & APPLIANCES.

Do you know why? Because it is plain to be seen that the TRUTH ONCE TOLD is enough. The Surprising Promptness with which all classes of people respond to our announcements, and the rapidly increasing demand for Dr. Gregg's Goods wherever introduced, conclusively prove that true modesty is always recognized and the quality of merit takes care of itself, metaphorically our statement is the Button—the Public Press it, and

DR. GREGG'S ELECTRIC SPECIALTIES
"Do the Rest."

The extent of Pressure on the button and the success of Dr. Gregg's Goods in "Doing the Rest" is most satisfactorily shown in the marvelous growth of our business the past 60 days.

Repeated and increasing demands for The Gregg Electric "Foot Warmer" are coming in from all parts of the country with profuse acknowledgements that so much comfort for $1.00 (the price) is like buying Gold Dollars for ten cents.

The Delicate Organism of Woman subjects her to many peculiar ailments and unfortunate misery. The extreme sensitiveness of her Nervous System very frequently requires artificial stimulus. The Gregg Electric Belt and other Appliances supply this as nothing else can.

The Rugged Constitution of Man, when once broken, becomes pitiable in the extreme, from which there is absolutely no escape without assistance. The Gregg Electric Belts and Appliances in cases of this kind, have honestly won their title of King of Remedies.

Rheumatism is conquered, sufferers from Obesity are speedily relieved, Dropsy quickly yields, spinal difficulties and Paralysis disappear, and many other diseases of Men and Women are permanently cured, fully described in complete catalogue for 6c, or elaborate circular free. We guarantee to forfeit twice the price of any of Dr. Gregg's goods found not to be genuine. We make an elegant little $3 Electric Belt, which is selling very rapidly and which we take in exchange for any higher power belt (except $5 belt) and credit $3 on the price of new order. Remember the Electric Foot warmers are $1 a pair, worth $10. Address

MACON CENTER CHIPS.

The young peoples' social is Friday evening of this week, at Grange Hall.

The recent warm rains make wheat and grass look fine, but is not so good for travel upon the roads.

The religious services of the Reformed church, at the central church, for the month of April, will be at 10:30 a. m. Preparations are being made to have an Easter service upon that day.

The next regular meeting of Macon Grange will be held Saturday the 16th inst., at 2 o'clock p. m., sharp. Let all members who can attend this afternoon meeting do so. In addition to other business, a review of the work of the ritual will be given by the lecturer.

Macon Grange was fairly attended last Saturday, and some important business was transacted. The silver question was discussed for some some time, and on motion, was carried over until Friday the 15th at 7:30 p. m. at which time an open meeting will be held and every one is invited to be present, and those who wish will have a chance to take part. Let there be a general turnout and a free talk upon both sides of this great question. Resolved, That the free coinage of silver would be beneficial to the people of this country.

Sheep Shearing.

The annual Sheep Shearing of the Southern Michigan Sheep Breeders and Wool Growers Association will be held at the residence of W. E. Kennedy, 1 1-2 miles north of Somerset, on Wednesday April 13, 1892. This shearing is open to all breeds of sheep and their grades. Sheep shearers are invited to be present to shear the sheep. There will be three premiums for the best shearing.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

Mrs. A. Easlick visited at Milan two days last week.

Mrs. Lucretia Goodrich moved into Calvin Davenport's house Monday.

Manager Bowen will switch the Macon branch onto the main line at the News office.

Van Badger, of Holly, is moving back to Detroit and will re-engage in the furniture business.

The heavy gale Saturday downed two telegraph poles this side of Ridgeway. The line man fixed it.

Hiram Kellogg's house was struck by lightning during the storm Monday night and burned down.

P. Southard has sold his house and lot to Bloom Sherman. Both are moving this week, Southard into John Boyd's house east of the tile works.

Lew Martin, of Leslie, will move onto his farm on the Ridge, and spend the summer and some money in repairing buildings and fences.

L. C. Grady of Caro got a lay-off and free pass last week, and with his son, Clorsie, came out to see his sister Mrs. H. Cole, who is afflicted with creeping palsy. They made flying visit with other friends, returning Wednesday.

Election passed off like a June frost on Sunday. The Republicans casting 54 the most votes. There were 7 blanks and 4 tickets without party choice. The Prohibitionists lost 8 votes by removals from the township.

Ed. Easlick got a lively shaking up Saturday; his colt became frightened at the cars between Ridgeway and Britton and made for the north fence, crossing the big ditch in a terrible hurry. When the fog cleared away, the only damage was found to be a broken thill and a general mudding up of everything in sight.

Mrs. David Lavourie met with a sad accident Thursday while moving from near Holloway onto their farm west of the Lake Ridge house. She was driving a horse to an open buggy, the horse became frightened at a boy riding by horseback and commenced kicking, breaking the thills, dashboard and one of Mrs. Lavourie's legs. She was taken to Thomas Murphy's, and Dr. Morden sent for. She is doing as well as can be expected.

NORTH-EAST FRANKLIN.

Ozro Whelan moved into the old "Blair" house last week.

Ezra Simmons, and some others, have taken up their sap pails.

Mrs. H. W. Woods, of Hillsdale, visited her relatives here last week.

Wm. Hanis, Jr., has now commenced his second summer's work for Ed. Wisner.

Miss Viva Taylor, who was laid up with the grip last week, is now improving.

Rob Hanford, who has been laid up since Christmas, is able to be around again.

Tipton band furnished some pretty good music at election, Monday. A collection of $10.40 was taken up for them.

Al. Morseman has secured the services of Wm, Hanis, Sr. to assist him in his labors on the Roberts farm, this summer.

Jim Eddy finished his work for Ezra Simmons Thursday, March 31. We understand he is to labor near Britton this summer.

J. C. VanDoren and wife are preparing to keep house in a home of their own after this. We will call on you when you get settled.

Charles Bennett moves on Boyd's west place this week. He will not work his father-in-law's farm this season as we reported some time ago.

Franklin polled the smallest vote Monday, that has been cast for several years. The republicans received a majority ranging from 14 to 47.

The lyceum at G. W. Allen's March 26th, was poorly attended on account of bad roads. They have adjourned the meetings for four weeks, when they will again try single tax.

School commenced in the following districts with the following persons as teachers: "Stone" school house, Miss Cadmus; "Brick," Irene Allen; "Center" Celia Brewster; "Paragon," Tina VanValkenburg.

NEWBURGH NOTES.

H. A. Stacy sold his colt to G. Mattis.

Allie Cutting was visiting in New Burgh Friday.

H. A. Stacy is putting up a new fence around his lot.

Miss Cora Bowen, of Hudson, is visiting at E. Bowen's.

Married, in Clinton, by Rev. H. R. Williams, Mr. Freeman H. Gove to Miss Nettie E. Dove.

Miss Tena and Anna Martiny, of Clinton, were guests of Gertrude Steffens last Sunday.

STRENGTH AND HEALTH.

If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If the grippe has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on the liver, stomach and kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with sick headache you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. MACON MUSIC.

Wm. Frost moved into the John Buck farm in Saline, Tuesday.

The mush and milk social last Friday night netted about seven dollars.

A stray overshoe was found on a certain porch. The cigars will stop further proceedings.

Reorganization of the Sabbath School Sunday afternoon, April 10. A full attendance is desired.

Why on earth don't the farmers go to Heck's and get their flour and stop grumbling about poor bread.

Mrs. Elizabeth Peck, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Horace Burgess, returned to her home in New York last Monday.

M. V. Hendershot has an eye on a few jobs of carpenter work and has hired Jesse Frost to drive the Roans for two months, and will soon be making sawdust fly overhauling and repairing Geo. Hendershot's barn.

The University Democrats.

The Democratic Club of the University of Michigan, desirous of awakening among the students of the University a more lively interest in matters pertaining to the political welfare of the country and of uniting them by the closer bonds of association, have resolved to celebrate the anniversary of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, the brilliant exponent of true democratic doctrines and the founder of the Democratic party. Concordant with this resolution, the Club, assisted by the citizens of Ann Arbor, will give their first annual banquet Wednesday evening, April 13, 1892. The following speakers of national fame will be present and deliver addresses:

Roger Q. Mills, U. S. Senator from Texas; Don M. Dickinson, Ex-Postmaster General; Gov. E. B. Winans of Michigan; W. C. P. Brekenridge, Congressman from Kentucky; W. G. Ewing, President of Iroquois Club, Chicago; Ex-Congressman Geo. L. Yaple of Michigan; Chauncey F. Black, President Democratic National Clubs; Jno. C. Black, Ex-Commissioner of Pensions; Hon. Thos. E. Barkworth of Michigan; and Hon. Ed. F. Uhl, Mayor of Grand Rapids. Others who are expected are Ex-Gov. Campbell of Ohio; Hon. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier Journal; Benton McMillan, Congressman from Tennessee; Hon. Frank Hurd and Hon. Allen W. Thurman of Ohio; Benj. F. Chively, Congressman from Indiana; and Congressmen Gorman, Chipman and Weadock of Michigan.

Arrangements have been made for the accommodation of six hundred guests. The hearty co-operation of the democrats of the State of Michigan and the country at large is earnestly desired and all are cordially invited to attend. All desiring tickets can be accommodated by applying immediately to W. J. Manny, Treas., 29 East Ann St., Ann Arbor, Michigan, and enclosing $2 for banquet ticket.

In A Railroad Wreck.

Geo. Myers, the stalwart young stock buyer, had an experience in railroading, early Sunday morning last, that he is very desirous of not repeating; and, in fact, he has cause to congratulate himself that he is now alive and well. He was on his way to Buffalo with some cattle and the train was considerably belated, being no further than Sylvania between the hours of 3 and 4 a. m. At that point a train just ahead broke in two, the head section of which went on to Toledo, and the rear part being left behind, the train that Myers was on was flagged and also came to a stand-still. But a local freight just behind failed to do so, for some reason, crashing into the caboose where Myers and five other drovers were sleeping. How they should have all escaped with their lives from such a wreck is nothing short of miraculous. Myers got out without a scratch but Daniel Bay and Ell Lewis, of Ogden—the other three stock men being Wm. Bay, Rollin Clement and John Hazzard, of the same township—were not so lucky, receiving such injuries that they have since been confined under medical care at Sylvania. The caboose caught fire and with four other cars was burned up.

Engineer Andrew Currin, of Jonesville, was somewhat injured in jumping to save his life, and was removed to a Toledo hospital.—Morenci Observer.

THE APRIL ARENA

The April Arena is rich in able, thoughtful papers. Its table of contents is as varied as inviting, as will be noted from the following: "Vital Statistics of the Negro," by Frederick L Hoffman. "The Money Question," by Hon. John Davis, M. C. "Volapuk, the World Language," by Alfred Post. "The Speaker in England and America," by Henry George, Jr. "Rational Views of Heaven and Hell," by Rev. George St. Clair. "The Farmers Alliance and its Leaders," by Annie L. Diggs (illustrated by two full page portraits and four smaller photogravers). Pontifex Maximus," by W. D. McCrakan. "A Remarkable Psychical Experience," by Louis Chandler Moulton. "How Uncle Nottaway Squashed the Indictment," a Southern character sketch, by Will Allen Dromgoole. Part IV. of "A Spoil of Office," by Hamlin Garland. "Two Hours in the Social Cellar," by B. O. Flower. "Books of the Day": Reviews by Solomon Schindler, Henry Austin, and the editor. Although the most liberal and progressive of all the great reviews, the Arena is prospering in a manner which indicates the trend of public thought and proves that the people admire brave, outspoken, and earnest magazines.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, April 1, 1892.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, proposes doing all in his power to transfer the free coinage fight, which petered out so oddly in the House this week, to the Senate, although he admits that the same influences which slowned the silver men in the House will be powerfully exercised in the Senate. He gave notice early this week that he would next Monday call up the bill for the free coinage of silver and he says he intends pushing it to a vote, as he wishes to put the Senators on record, whether the bill is passed or not.

It is evident that the outcome of the silver fight in the House has left much bad blood. Representative Watson, of Georgia, who is the leader of the third party members, says of it: "It is the death knell of the old democratic organization. Many thousands of Southern voters have felt that the democratic party would give them financial relief, if it had the chance, but it did not accept it. It was only by the help of nine people's party members and 11 republicans that the immense democratic majority escaped a Waterloo. No power on earth can now prevent the electoral vote of Georgia being cast for the people's party and I believe other Southern States will do the same." Representative Bland, author of the bill says: "I cannot say what will be done. It all depends upon the attitude of the Speaker, and his immediate advisors, which does not at present appear to be favorable to the bill." Representative Washington, of Tennessee, a prominent free coinage democrat, says: "The party; the majority is on record against gag rule, and even for the silver bill, which we want passed, we cannot afford to reverse our position upon that question. It is unfortunate that the situation is what it is, but anything is better than the adoption of the gag rule."

The usual talk which is always heard about this stage of the long sessions, of an early adjournment of Congress is now on foot, and new members are actually making as early a date as June 1, for all summer, but the veterans like Holman and Barrows, who have been through the operation enough to know how futile such a wish is will say the session of Congress before the middle of July or first of August is not at all probable and that it is not to be desired by either party. Congress is now deep in session four months and even eliminating the silver bills the programme mapped out by the majority on the House at the start, no half of the work has been done.

The immigration investigation now being conducted by the House and Senate committees has uncovered a big departmental scandal, which would, of course, have had to come out soon. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Nettleton accuses Immigration Commissioner Owen of being an unfit person to fill a responsible public position, and has filed a bill of particulars with Secretary Foster, in the shape of formal charges, the counts of which embrace incompetency, untrustworthiness and lack of integrity—not much left to the imagination either. Mr. Owen denies, but the explanation he has made of one of the charges is not very clear in its vindication of him, and the impression here is that he will have to go. However, he has big friends, among them President Harrison, and if he wishes to make a fight to stay he can make a strong one.

General debate on the free wool bill is to be closed this week, and the bill is to be passed under a suspension of the rules, next Monday.

The ending of the dispute with Great Brittian has given general satisfaction here, and the unanimous vote by which the Senate ratified the arbitration treaty shows that Lord Salisbury's last communication had a most soothing effect on the belligerent Senators.

There seems little doubt that President Harrison has told friends that unless it is apparent before the assembling of the Minneapolis convention that the renomination without a struggle he will not allow his name to go before that convention at all.

The Cleveland democrats have made most of the side tracking of the silver bill in the House, which they claim has greatly increased Mr. Cleveland's chances of getting the democratic nomination. It has certainly given him a temporary boom here, as it is generally recognized that he is closely allied with the interest which were from the first working against the free coinage bill.

"COMPLETE PROTECTION."

Congressman W. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, Shows How the "Complete Protection" Given By the McKinley Tariff to the Iron Industries Has Affected the Workmen.

When the conference report upon his bill was about to pass the house Maj McKinley, in reviewing its provisions, said: "Nothing has been done in the metal schedule that can call for a reduction of wages or diminution of the number of employes." In fact, the metal schedule was made up and dictated by the American Iron and Steel association, just as the other schedules of the McKinley bill were made up and dictated by the receivers of taxes, without regard for the interests of the payers of taxes. In the May following its passage Mr. Swank, the secretary of the association, in his report to its president, said of it:

"During the long period in which this measure received the consideration of congress the views of this association concerning the proper framing of the metal schedule of the new tariff were frequently solicited and were promptly given," and that those views were sacredly respected is implied in his next sentence: "This schedule, as it was finally adopted, is, in my judgment, the most harmonious and completely protective of all the metal schedules that have ever formed part of our tariff legislation."

"Our iron and steel manufacturers have reason to be thankful that the new tariff adequately protects their interests from injurious foreign competition and also adequately protects all other American interests. It is working admirably."

In connection with Maj McKinley's statement and with the assurance of the secretary of the Iron and Steel association that the new tariff is "the most harmonious and completely protective of all the metal schedules ever formed," and adequately protects the manufacturers' interests, it will be interesting to read the following lists of reduction of wages in the iron and steel industries of the country, compiled from recent notices by the New York Times:

READING, Pa., Jan. 26.—Yesterday the reduction in the wages of the employes of the Brooke Iron Co. at Birdsboro, this county, announced some time ago, took effect, and all the puddlers, heaters and other employes continued at work excepting some of the nail feeders. The firm employs nearly 400 hands.—Philadelphia Ledger (Rep.), January 27, 1892.

The wages of the puddlers in the employ of the Chesapeake nail works at Harrisburgh, Pa., have been reduced from $4 per day to $3.50 per day, taking effect on the 15th inst.—Iron Age, February 18, 1892.

On the same day a reduction in wages varying from 7 to 11 per cent. went into effect at the Central iron works, Harrisburgh, Pa.—Iron Age, February 18, 1892.

Cofrode & Saylor of the Reading Rolling Mill at Reading, Pa., on Thursday night notified their employes of a 10 per cent. reduction of wages, to take place next week. The firm employs about 630 hands.—Iron Age, February 25, 1892. Also by Associated Press, February 19.

Early last week the Jefferson Iron Works of Steubenville, O., notified their nailers of a reduction in wages amounting to 25 per cent. [This was afterward withdrawn.]—Iron Age, February 25, 1892.

The Columbia Iron & Steel Co., of Pittsburgh, whose plant is located at Uniontown, Pa., have made a demand for a reduction of 25 per cent. in the wages of their employes.—Iron Age, February 25, 1892.

The Pottsville (Pa.) Iron & Steel Co., will reduce the wages of its employes at Pottsville 10 per cent.—Boston Commercial Bulletin, February 20, 1892.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 28.—Following the discharge of the puddlers from all the furnaces at J. Painter's Sons' mills last week came the dismissal of 200 puddlers on Saturday by Jones & Laughlin. * * * There is but one thing to do, and that will be to reduce the wages of puddlers.—Special dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean (Rep.), February 29, 1892.

It has been definitely decided by the tin plate manufacturers that wages on black plates must be reduced.—Pittsburgh special to Philadelphia Press (Rep.), March 2, 1892.

We can state that all the nail factories in the Pittsburgh district are being operated under private arrangement with their men as regards wages to be paid for cutting nails. While it is true reductions have recently taken place at one or more mills, the men have no recourse in the matter.—Iron Age, March 3, 1892.

The "harmony" of the schedule must be something ravishing to the ears of the workingman. All the music seems to be on a single string.—Letter to St. Louis Republic.

RECIPROCITY BY TAXATION.

Who Will Pay the Duty on Venezuelan Coffee and Hides?

On Tuesday last Mr. Harrison issued a proclamation levying taxes on coffee, hides and sugar imported into this country from Venezuela, Hayti and Colombia. He levied 3 cents per pound on coffee, 1½ cents per pound on hides and 7-10 of a cent per pound on sugar testing 75 degrees by the polariscope, with 2-100 cent for each degree above that up to 13 Dutch standard. The tax on sugar is of little consequence, as we import none from these countries, except some $33,000 worth (1891) from Colombia. The other taxes are much more important. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1891, coffee was imported from these three countries in value as follows:

Venezuela	$10,514,871
Colombia	2,441,811
Hayti	1,958,316
Total	$15,256,997

During the same year from the same countries hides were imported in value as follows:

Venezuela	$ 898,197
Colombia	567,811
Hayti	74,025
Total	$1,540,133

The value of the total imports of coffee into the United States from all sources for the same period was $96,123,777. The coffee that Mr. Harrison has decided to tax was, therefore, 15.9 per cent. and over, or, roundly, 16 per cent. of the total supply of the country. The average price of the coffee imported from these countries was 18.66 cents per pound, and the tax of 3 cents per pound is a little over 18 per cent. of the cost. It would also be equivalent to 2½ per cent. tax on the total importations from all sources. The imports of hides from all countries for 1891 were $47,360,759. The imports from these three countries were, therefore, 6 per cent. and over of the total amount. As the quantity of hides is not given, we are not able to state what rate of taxation the 1½ cents per pound would amount to. It is, of course, impossible to calculate exactly the effect of these taxes upon the trade in the various articles, and upon their cost to the consumer. The theory under which they are imposed is that they will lessen the demand for coffee and hides in Venezuela, Columbia and Hayti, and so inflict punishment upon these countries for their "reciprocally unequal, and unreasonable" duties on American goods. But it is plain that if the American demand remains the same, the demand on these countries can only be decreased by transferring it to others, where the price will be accordingly enhanced. In the main, the tax will be paid by the American exporter, who will add it and a little more to his prices to the jobber or manufacturer, who will repeat the process to the retailer, until the consumer will pay the tax, and a considerable addition.

Under these circumstances it is well to see what our trade to these countries is, since the sole avowed purpose of taxing our own people is to force these countries to reduce or abolish their taxes on our goods. The value of our exports for 1891 was as follows:

Venezuela	$ 4,716,047
Colombia	3,108,989
Hayti	5,589,178
Total	$13,414,213

The value of the imports which it is now proposed to tax was, for the same period, of coffee, $15,295,626; of hides, $1,690,164, or a total of $16,985,790. Mr. Harrison, then, has decided to tax a trade of $17,000,000 in order to compel a reduction of taxation on a trade, at most, of a little over $13,000,000. We do not know what part of this latter trade is now taxed by these countries. It is probably considerably less than the whole, and to the extent that it is less the absurdity of the operation is greater. Our exports to these countries are varied, and of no one article are they very important. In the exports to Venezuela, for instance, amounting in all to $4,716,047, food products are about $2,000,000, the chief items being as follows:

Beans and peas	$ 66,131
Potatoes	16,591
Lard	452,085
Butter	123,866
Wheat flour	1,063,605
Breadstuffs	43,359
Bread	84,256
Corn	110,965
Total	$1,960,872

The next most important export was of cotton cloths, $515,284. Of manufactures there were some $750,000; of illuminating oil, $428,000; of chemicals and medicines, $150,000. Certainly a trade of this sort is desirable and profitable and is capable of some expansion, and the government should do nothing to interfere with it. But it is a very clumsy and unreasonable way to go about it to tax the American consumer of a necessary of life like coffee and the materials of an extensive industry like hides. If the various countries thus threatened yield, that will be Mr. Harrison's good luck. But if they do not yield, the disturbance to trade will be considerable. The only possible palliation of his silly attempt at legislation is that it is, fortunately, on a relatively moderate scale. Within its limits, however, it is about as foolish as it well could be.—N. Y. Times.

EXPORT TAXES.

A Tax on the Payment For Breadstuffs Exported is Really a Tax on the Exports.

As long as the exporters of the Mississippi valley cannot get back from their European markets without being heavily fined on all manufactured merchandise they try to bring back in exchange for their surplus, they must use their exported surplus to bid for gold in Europe, bidding up the price of gold and forcing down the price of their surplus. In a famine year they can get gold cheaper in Europe—so much cheaper that the McKinley bill does not stop the export trade; but in the average year they bid gold so high that they cannot dispose of their surplus except in decreasing quantities.

This the Harrison administration is obliged to confess in the treasury report on foreign commerce for 1891, just issued. A table in this report gives the average exports of leading articles for 1891, compared with the average for the preceding five years, showing a marked falling off in the exports of corn and cornmeal, wheat and wheat flour, barley and all other grain, tobacco and dairy products. The value of corn and cornmeal exported in 1891 was $10,234,000 less than the average exports of the preceding five years. The effects of the republican tariff on the wheat and breadstuff exports of the valley states are illustrated in the following table:

Breadstuffs Exported.	Dollars
1880	88[illegible]
1881	27[illegible]
1882	18[illegible]
1883	23[illegible]
1884	10[illegible]
1885	16[illegible]
1886	15[illegible]
1887	15[illegible]
1888	12[illegible]
1889	[illegible]
1890	[illegible]
1891	18[illegible]

It will be noticed that the value of our total exports of breadstuffs tended steadily down since 1889, and that they were worth $160,000,000 less in 1891 than in 1880. The trade of the valley goes steadily from bad to worse under the taxes against its return cargoes. There can be no assurance of prosperity for the valley states until they are assured of their right of way to and from market.—St. Louis Republic.

Cleveland as A Candidate.

Grover Cleveland speaks upon the presidential question in such unmistakable terms that no further doubt can be expressed as to his candidacy. The question was asked of him by Gen. Bragg, of Fon Du Lac, Wisconsin, under date of March 2. Mr. Cleveland's reply is dated four days after, and the correspondence is given to the public to-day. Very likely this correspondence was timed to reach the south just as David B. Hill commences his delegate hunting trip to that rock-ribbed democratic stronghold.

Mr. Cleveland does not say in so many words that he is a candidate, but the only inference to be drawn from his letter is that he is a candidate and wants the nomination. It was a dignified statesmanlike letter and, will deeply impress the democracy of the country.

Mr. Cleveland is the natural leader of the great army of tariff reformers. He is the great leading democrat and he is the foremost American citizen. Why should he not be the democratic candidate and be the next president? His candidacy may not please place hunters, but the people will rally to his support and if nominated in Chicago he surely will be elected in November.

For Cleveland and honest government economical administration, lower taxes, equalized burdens, and a progressive democratic republic. That is the banner of Cleveland democrats. Where is the democrat who cannot march under that leadership and win victories under that banner?—Toledo Bee.

Man is not merely the architect of his own fortune, but he must lay the bricks himself.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

"Faith" was described by an Ohio boy as "expectin' somethin' ye ain't goin' to git."

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT.

Single Tax Investigation in Washington.

The most important public occurrence in the District of Columbia in favor of the single tax cause took place last Saturday, March 12, when the district commissioners gave a public hearing on Tom L. Johnson's bill to shift taxation in the district from improvements to land values. To those not familiar with the form of district government it should be said that there is no municipal legislative body here. Congress passes all the municipal laws and has them administered by three commissioners, appointed by the president. Each house of congress has a district committee, to which all matters pertaining to legislation for the District of Columbia are referred. The district committees customarily refer much of their business to the commissioners, whose approval or condemnation in most instances determines the action of the congressional committees. Mr. Johnson's bill, on being introduced in the house, was referred to the district committee, and by that committee referred to the district commissioners. It was therefore here that the first contest had to be made, and in accordance with public notice the friends and opponents of the bill assembled in the office of the board of commissioners Saturday at noon.

It was an interesting little assemblage. The three commissioners, experienced looking, white-haired men, sat together in a bow window with a large table before them. At one end of the table sat Mr. Johnson with his maps, books and papers, and at either hand Congressman Warner and Congressman Simpson. Near by sat Charles Hemingway, who had drafted the bill. Ranged about the room and crowding in the doorways were prominent citizens, "property owners," and persons conspicuous in the single tax movement. Against the wall, but in places where they could hear, sat the district assessor, Matthew Trimble, and his three assistants, one of them a middle-aged, fine-looking colored man.

The chairman of the board, Commissioner Douglass, politely, and in the briefest manner, explained the reason of the hearing, and read the bill under consideration, after which he called upon Mr. Johnson to speak upon it.

Everybody gave close attention when Mr. Johnson arose. "I appear in behalf of this bill," said he, "which proposes to change the plan of assessing property in the District of Columbia by relieving improvements and putting taxation entirely on land values. I do not come here in antagonism to any interest in the district. I am not unfriendly to the district. I come to urge what I believe will be a great benefit to the district and its people."

Commissioner Douglass gravely nodded assent and Mr. Johnson went on: "We find by looking at the assessment returns of the district for 1891, that the value of improvements just about equals the value of the land. That is to say, the result of that assessment is that the house, the improvements, all that lies above the land, is about equal in value to the land itself. So that if the tax assessment remains as it is and you were to take the tax off the improvements, to raise the same amount of money you would have to levy twice the rate on the land or $3 instead of $1.50."

Mr. Johnson then spread out on the table a large map of the district of Columbia. He said that at first blush it might be thought that this change would fall heaviest upon the poorer people of the city, but the contrary is true. He had taken twelve blocks in the most important part of the business centre, and ten blocks in the poorer residence section, and found that, according to the assessor's published figures, in the latter locality the value of improvements amounted to 69 per cent., and the value of the land 31 per cent. of the total real estate assessment; while in the former section, that is, in the business centre, almost the reverse is true, 59 per cent. of the assessed value constituting the value of improvements, and 61 per cent the value of the land. In other words, that in the residence section the improvements exceeded twice the value of the land they rested upon, while in the business section the land value amounted to almost double the value of the improvements.

"If you start from the center of the city," said Mr. Johnson, pointing to the map, "you find the value of the improvements low as compared to the value of the land; and as you approach the outskirts you find the value of the improvements is high. So that to relieve improvements of taxation does not relieve the people in the center of the city, but the people in the small houses towards the outskirts—the people having small homes."

The commissioners seemed interested in this statement, the chief assessor was a little confused, and a bunch of single tax men, sitting in a corner, broke into loud applause and looked as happy as if they had just heard that they were heir to large fortunes. Mr. Johnson smiled and said that that was only the beginning, that his deductions had been drawn from the official assessments, but that those assessments were far from the true conditions, since after a careful study of the subject, employing the services of six experienced and well known real estate agents, he had concluded that the most valuable land in the city was greatly undervalued by the assessor. These real estate experts selected twenty-eight typical blocks from various parts of the city, and without knowing what the information was desired for, had determined land value, exclusive of improvements, from their knowledge of recent sales. The value of the land of these twenty-eight blocks as given by the assessor was $3,850,000. As estimated by the experts this value amounted to $15,294,000. In one block, perhaps the most valuable block in Washington, the assessor's valuation amounted to only 14 per cent. of the expert's valuation, and some lots were assessed at $ a square foot, for which the owners had refused $65 a square foot. But working away from the center of the city it was found that the assessor's valuations were found to be nearer and nearer the true value of the land. The assessed value of the land in the whole district is $76,451,000. The true value, as based on the estimate of these twenty-eight typical blocks, is 305,904,000.

Commissioner Douglass: "That is, as you go towards the outskirts the assessment and valuation approach each other?"

Mr. Johnson: "Yes sir."

Commissioner Douglass: "And as you come towards the centre of the city, where land is more valuable, the assessment and valuation get wider and wider apart?"

Mr. Johnson: "Yes, sir. And that is natural when you come to think about it. The small owner who has only a small amount of property has not the time to go to the board of equalization, and have his assessment cut down. My attack is on the fundamental principle of the scheme. Taxing improvements is in favor of the rich and against the poor; it operates to prevent improvements, and puts a premium on the miserable shanty which stands next to a fine building. And it is the man who will put up the fine buildings, and who will make other improvements in the city that we would like to have. We would like to get rid of the shanties. This plan makes it every man's incentive to do the thing we want done. We charge him no more tax whether he has a building on the land or whether it is vacant. Under the present system we tax him in proportion as he improves."

Mr. Johnson then handed around some cards containing the following tabulations:

Present revenues from land	$ 1,131,695
Present revenues from improvements	1,030,882
Present revenues from personality	180,366
Total	$ 2,342,943
Official assessment of 28 typical blocks	$ 3,850,609
True value of 28 typical blocks	15,294,367

Assessed value is, therefore, 23 per cent. of true value.

Official assessed value of all land in the district	$ 76,451,028
Estimated true value of all land in the district	305,904,112
Revenue from true value of land:
At $0.75 on each $100	$2,342,943
At 1.00 on each 100	3,059,041
At 1.00 & $1.50 on each 100	4,588,000

Mr. Johnson then pointed out that if a true valuation of the land were made by the assessor a sum far in excess of the present revenue would be raised without increasing the rate of taxation. The present revenue obtained from taxing both land and improvements amounts to $2,342,943, and the present tax is $1.50 in $100 on residential and business land, and $1 on farming land in the district. On a true valuation of the land, $4,588,000 could be raised at the present rate of $1.50 and $1 in the $100, $3,059,041 could be raised by a tax of $1, and the present revenue of $2,342,943 by a tax of 76 cents. Mr. Johnson said, in conclusion, that he had taken great care in making his estimates, and thought that if there was anything wrong with them it was that they were too conservative. He then announced that if the commissioners had any questions to ask he would be glad to try and answer. But the commissioners had nothing whatever to say. They denied nothing; they affirmed nothing. They did not open their lips.

But a lady, the only lady present, Mrs. E. E. Briggs, a large land owner, wanted to say something. She put in a vehement protest against transferring taxation from improvements and concentrating it on land. "I own a square" she said. "It is open, save for one house, which I occupy. It is practically an open park and improves the value of the houses facing it. I don't get a penny for it. I have already to pay money out in the taxes."

Commissioner Douglass: "She is one of the persons whom the bill would hurt. She is one of the large owners of unimproved property."

Mr. Johnson: "It is not possible to devise a scheme that does not hurt somebody. It would not hurt her if she improved her land. It offers an inducement to improve land. The present plan offers an inducement to keep land unimproved."

A man in the back got up at this point. It was our good single tax friend Monahan, who couldn't keep still any longer. Addressing the lady he said: "I would like to ask what would be the condition of Washington if everybody used their land as this lady does—with only one house on a square?

Mr. Johnson answered that "the effect would be that Washington would soon be without a population," and there was loud laughter.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

The Single Tax.

The single tax is a tax on land, regardless of its improvements and in proportion to its value. It implies the abolition of all other forms of taxation, and the collection of the public revenues from this source alone. It would be certain, because land values are most easily appraised; wise, because, by discouraging the withdrawal of land from use and encouraging its improvements, it would expand opportunities for labor, augment wealth, and increase the rewards of industry and thrift; equal, because every one would pay taxes in proportion to the value of the land, of right the common property of all, which he appropriated to his own use; and just, because it would fall not upon labor, enterprise and thrift, but upon the value of a special privilege. It is more fully explained in the single tax platform in another column; and in "Progress and Poverty," by Henry George. Every point is discussed and every objection answered.

Let Them Swear.

It is reported to us that the new assessment of real estate in the farming districts in this county is being put very materially below former figures, while there has been an increase in the valuation on real estate in town. While this may rejoice the single taxers to see a step made in their direction, though only a little one, yet we opine that there will be little else but swearing amongst the vacant lot owners and speculators in the city.—Parkersburg (W. Va.) Daily Sentinel.

NEW ORLEANS SUFFERS.

A Fire Destroys Property Valued at Nearly $4,000,000.

The Flames Reduce to Ashes Four Big Cotton Presses and 80,000 Bales of Cotton—Many Residences Also Burned.

A GREAT BLAZE.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—Property valued at $4,000,000 was destroyed and a hundred or more persons robbed of their homes by fire here Sunday. Flames were first discovered at 10:30 in the morning among some cotton on the sidewalk in front of the fire-proof press on North Front street. The parties who saw smoke issuing from among the bales gave the alarm. The department responded promptly, but the wind was so high and the cotton so dry that it burned like tissue paper. The flames ran high and in an almost incredibly short time had communicated to the press and were working their way along the woodwork of the roof. The firemen worked like demons to arrest the progress of the flames, but all their efforts were unavailing.

The walls of the different burned presses fell within a short time of each other. The district burned over is bounded by Peters, Front, Thalia and Robin streets, and the presses destroyed were the Fire Proof, Penrose, Hirsh, managers; the Shippers, Boyd & Herrick, proprietors; the Independence cotton yard, the Orleans cotton press, Adam Lorich, manager.

The total amount of cotton burned, as near as can now be ascertained, is estimated at 80,000 bales held by factors and commission merchants and covered by their open policies. Much of this cotton will be sent to the pickeries and saved, so that the total loss will probably not exceed $30 a bale, making the total on cotton between $2,000,000 and $2,250,000. Loss on presses and sheds estimated at $150,000. It is thought the fire started from a cigarette which some person threw among the cotton.

The people who lived in the square bounded by Laurel, Magazine, Second, and Third streets began to feel alarmed at the encroaching flames. At first they packed up valuables, but as the element refused to be subdued they took fright and a wild scene ensued. Houses were dismantled of their contents and carried away. House after house went down, and the efforts of the firemen seemed in vain in the face of the overwhelming odds.

Every building in the four squares mentioned except four were destroyed. Most of the houses were small, but some very handsome houses on Magazine street were destroyed. Hundreds of people have been left homeless by the fire and in many cases nothing will be saved. The scene presented was truly one of desolation. Nothing remains of the many handsome buildings embraced in the four squares but tall, gaunt-looking chimneys, like huge spectral forms standing guard over the blackened ruins. The losses by this fire are estimated at $250,000. It is believed that the buildings are mostly insured

Small Bills Are Scarce.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Several of the banks in this city, and especially those up town who do a large business in paying checks over the counter, are complaining of the scarcity of small bills, especially of ones, twos and fives. Some of the banks have found it impossible to get from the treasury more than one-fifth of the amount asked for.

Six Persons Killed by Dynamite.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2.—Friday afternoon the Sterling dynamite works at Bessemer exploded, killing six men. The explosion was in the gas reservoir and its force was tremendous, nearly every glass in a town of 5,000 people being broken. The shock was plainly felt in the city, 15 miles distant.

Failures in Three Months.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The business failures in the United States for the quarter ended yesterday, numbered 3,207, against 3,401 during the same time last year; total liabilities, $35,361,749, against $44,348,788 in the same period in 1891; total assets, $17,754,944, against $22,861,833 in 1891.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The public debt statement shows an increase in the interest bearing debt of $350 since February 29. The total interest bearing debt is $585,028,630. The aggregate of interest and non-interest bearing debt is $971,026,528, a decrease of $1,256,912.

Fatal Accident at Grand Rapids.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 1.—Washington Davis, manager of the Grand Rapids Storage & Transfer Company, was instantly killed while superintending the unloading of a heavy box of plate glass. The box slipped and he was caught under it and crushed to death.

Elmer Farris Acquitted.

PARIS, Ill., April 1.—The trial of Elmer Farris for the murder of Thomas Benson ended Thursday. The jury acquitted the defendant. Benson was killed June 11, 1891, after a quarrel with Farris. The defense claimed that Farris acted in self-defense.

Bardsley's Stealings.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—The Bardsley investigating committee reported yesterday that Postmaster General Wanamaker had nothing to do with the wrecking of the Keystone bank in this city. Bardsley's stealings were found to be $1,268,509.

Literally Cut to Pieces.

BAY CITY, Mich., April 2.—Fred Wells, a Michigan Central brakeman, fell between his moving train at 1 o'clock Friday morning near Pinconning and was literally cut to pieces. Three trains passed over the body.

Confessed His Awful Deed.

BUFFALO N. Y.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All sores, cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Sunburns, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Scalds, Irritation, and all disorders attended with Inflammation.

It penetrates to the seat of disease, restores the natural functions of the skin, equalizes the circulation of the blood. By this means a counteracting power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is soothed into a state sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it cures readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such, that as we have no space here to insert one of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

THE TOWNSHIP ELECTION.

The election last Monday passed off very quietly and a light vote was polled, the total number of votes cast being 396. Of these 364 were cast at the west precinct and 232 at the east one. The division of the township into two voting precincts, in accordance with the new election law, necessitated the appointment of a duplicated election board throughout. The board at the East precinct consisted of Alf. James, W. C. Burridge, Percy Fitzsimmons, J. D. Shull and M. L. Root, with Will Hayden and Will Ingersoll as gate tenders. At the West precinct the board was composed of Jehiel Davidson, Geo. Field, J. F. N. Bowen, Horace Weller, Don Bowen, with Levi Hayden and W. S. Morse as gate tenders.

The principal contest seemed to be on the offices of Clerk and Treasurer. The friends of the candidates put in their best work for these two offices. On a party vote the Republicans had about ten plurality. The prohibition vote was much lighter than usual and the Republicans evidently got the benefit of this reduction. Below we give the result in detail, showing the vote for each candidate:

Elections in Other Towns.

The elections in the adjoining townships resulted about as usual, Clinton, Ridgeway and Raisin choosing democratic Supervisors; Macon and Franklin Republican Supervisors. In Franklin and Clinton there were but two tickets, the prohibs failing to connect. Below is the result in detail:

CLINTON.

The election passed off very quietly. The Democrats elected all but one candidate, viz., George Runyan, who was defeated by three majority, by Andrew S. Murphy. The whole number of votes cast was 353, which was a light vote.

WHY POETS RAVE

Over "Spring, gentle spring," is hard to understand by many thousands to whom spring is more a time of trial and suffering than of brightness and rejoicing. Still we believe the poet's idea is the correct one and should be the universal rule instead of the exception. It is largely a matter of health and this can be regulated if proper means are taken. Spring is a trying season for most people and the "breaking-up" which nature goes through means something to them. A good spring medicine is an essential at this time. It tones up the system, raises the spirits and in many cases saves weeks and perhaps months of serious sickness. Just such a medicine is found in Parmelee's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potassa Compound. It is a thorough exterminator of all Blood Poisons and is the best remedy in existence for all complaints arising from an impure condition of blood. Why pay $1.00 for a bottle containing only 12 ounces when you can get this for 50 cents in bottles holding full 8 ounces? Be sure and get Parmelee's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all dealers.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

A Young Man Killed by One Who Professed to Be His Friend.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 4.—The mystery of the brutal murder of George H. Spaulding, of Portage, Wis., at 4 o'clock Saturday morning, was wholly cleared up Sunday afternoon. Young Spaulding's body was brought to St. Paul on the 2:40 train. He was about 19 years old and a son of Hugh Spaulding, one of St. Paul's leading citizens. He was murdered by George Whalen, whose home is also St. Paul. The dead was the fiendish and cowardly crime of a man whom Spaulding considered one of his warmest friends, and indignation is at such a height that if Whalen is brought back here it will take the militia to prevent his being lynched.

Spaulding and Whalen were chums. Last week they planned to take a trip to Chicago together. They left here Friday. Mr. Hughes Spaulding purchased tickets for his son and young Whalen and gave the former $25 and a fine gold watch on their departure. On the way to Chicago Whalen, on murder bent, coaxed Spaulding to leave the train at Portage, Wis., at 3:40 in the morning. Twenty minutes later Whalen brained Spaulding with a coupling pin, stole his money, his watch and even the shoes from his feet, threw the body into the canal and escaped.

PRAIRIES ABLAZE.

Many Farms in Nebraska Swept by Flames, and the Loss Has Been Heavy.

MCCOOK, Neb., April 1.—Reports regarding the numerous prairie fires which have been raging in this country for several days past show that many farms have been wiped out. Many harrowing escapes are announced, but no loss of life as yet, though many of the burned districts are still to be heard from. The largest of the prairie fires seem to have started about 50 miles south of this city, commencing Sunday night about 8 o'clock and reaching the Kansas line at 7 in the morning. Farmers were warned of the approaching danger by messengers mounted on fleet horses, and many were able, by back firing, to save their homes.

NORTON, Kan., March 31.—A very destructive prairie fire swept over Nobis and Highland townships, Norton county, Wednesday, destroying an immense amount of property. Hundreds of families lost their all. William Dunn, in an attempt to save his property, lost his life.

COULDN'T GET A DRINK.

New York Saloons Shut Up and Topers Go Thirsty to Bed.

NEW YORK, April 4.—It was very difficult Sunday to find a saloon in this city to which admittance could be gained. The few that did remain open had "lookouts" stationed outside and no one who was not very well known could get in. The most frequented places down town were closed tight and men might be seen singly and in groups going from saloon to saloon in search for a drink. It was probably the dryest Sunday New York has ever seen. Most of the bars were closed, but in some of them drinks were served with crackers and cheese at tables. It is said that the closing of the saloons at 12 o'clock Saturday night and Sunday is due to the police, who notified the saloonkeepers that they must close. This is probably the outcome of Rev. Dr. Parkhurst's vigorous war against the law-breakers.

Indicted for Murder.

WAUPACA, Wis., April 4.—Indictments have been found for the murder of Banker Mead in 1882. The indicted men are: Fred Lea, of Waupaca, member of the lower house of the legislature; Sam Stout, a Waupaca saloonkeeper; Tab Pryor, of Rhinelander, Wis., and Ed Bronson, of Tacoma, Wash.

The Mississippi Legislature Adjourns.

JACKSON, Miss., April 4.—The Mississippi legislature adjourned Saturday at noon after a three months' session. The legislature of 1892, composed largely of farmers and alliance men, will pass into history as the "shortest" ever assembled in the state.

Whitelaw Reid Is Home.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Whitelaw Reid, United States minister to France, returned from Paris on the steamship La Champagne yesterday. He had with him the reciprocity and extradition treaties between the United States and France.

CO. C INSPECTION.

Last evening occurred the regular inspection of Co. C, 1st Inf. M. S. T. The inspection was conducted by Brig. Gen Lothrop assisted by Quartermaster Gen. Wood and Sur. Gen. Woodward. The inspection of clothing and state property was held in the afternoon at the Armory, and that of the troops at the opera house in the evening. This was the first time for several years that the inspection has been held in the opera house and the friends of the company showed their appreciation by giving the boys a fair turn out of spectators. The inspection was conducted under Upton's old tactics and was very thoroughly done by Gen. Lothrop. He complimented the boys very highly on their improvement since his last visit here, and upon the present condition of the armory and all the company equipments. He fully realized the difficulty of drilling in so small a hall, and regretted that the company and town could not afford a suitable armory. The stretcher drill of the hospital squad, in charge of acting hospital steward Tansley, was a very interesting and creditable feature of the occasion. The splendid music rendered by the City band added much to the evening's exercises. The band boys turned out with 17 men and made a very fine appearance.

After the fatigue of inspection was over, the boys were treated to a genuine and agreeable surprise in the form of a banquet, tendered by the officers of the company. The banquet had every appearance of camp life, being spread in the mess tent in the armory. But the waiter service was performed by a score of Tecumseh's fair daughters, and it was performed with a gentility and eclat, which threw the usual "detailed" squad in blue coats and brass buttons entirely in the shade. Our "boys in blue" have reason to feel proud of the inspection, and Tecumseh has reason to feel proud of Co. C.

SCHOOL SKETCHES.

The class in Botany has commenced the analysis of plants.

Mr. Burroughs, of Iowa, visited the A room Monday forenoon.

The Natural Philosophy class is determining the subject of heat.

Geo. Bond and Frank Chilson have left school to pursue different occupations.

Ex-Superintendent Travis, of Alma, Mich., was a caller at the A room on Monday last.

Herbert Conklin is again in school, and Linna Hall, after a month's absence caused by sickness, is again on duty.

Miss Jones, of the East Branch school, is detained at home by sickness and her place is filled by Miss Metta McBride, a former teacher in that school.

A number of the students in the High School are missing this term, but the large additions to the primary grades more than make up the usual attendance.

The four hundred and fifty botanical specimens contributed by Mr. L. H. Dewey, of Washington, D. E. C., have been received and will furnish extra work for the botany class in mounting them as well as valuable assistance in their study.

Miss Hartbeck passed her vacation in Ypsilanti and Manchester, Miss Latson at Ann Arbor, Miss Monroe at her home in Canton, Miss Wirts at Clayton, Miss McClue at Charlotte and Prof. Kellogg at Ann Arbor visiting the High School and University.

The council will prohibit, at its next meeting, the riding of bicycles on the main streets of the village. The pedestrians will one and all sanction the movement. It is a matter of safety to them.—Blissfield Advance.

Rev. Peter Zeller, of Britton, and Rev. C. D. Page, of this city, are making arrangements for a fine Prohibition county institute and mass meeting to be held at the close of the Free Methodist camp meeting in August. This meeting will be held on the line of the Wabash between Holloway and Britton, and trains will stop for passengers. Mrs. Marion B. Baxter, of Charlotte, is hoped will be one of the speakers, and a big time is on the program.—Michigan Messenger.

So many have been cured of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla that we urge all who suffer from the disease to try this medicine.

WIND'S AWFUL WORK.

A Cyclone Vents Its Fury Upon Kansas Towns.

Over a Score of Persons Killed and Much Property Destroyed—Other Northwestern States Visited—Lives Lost in Chicago.

IN KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—A tornado of mad destructiveness swept over Kansas Thursday night. Butler county seems to have been the scene of the greatest havoc. The town of Towanda was entirely wiped off the face of the earth and Augusta, a few miles distant, was buffeted out of all semblance to its former self.

Towanda is a village of 300 inhabitants, situated 10 miles west of Eldorado. The storm laid the whole town flat with the earth and left not a single house standing. Of the eighty families composing the population, there is not one that is not either mourning for a dead or dying member or sorrowing with the suffering. The killed are:

James Bailey, John Blake, Herschel Cupp, William Bartley, Dr. D. D. Godfrey, infant child of John Blake.

Those fatally wounded are:

Little girl blown from second story of hotel, a distance of 350 feet, badly crushed; Mrs. G. A. Robbins, skull fractured by flying timbers; Elmer Hain, internally injured; Mrs. Walter Mooney, side crushed; Alice Thornton; George Cornelius and wife, badly crushed.

At Olathe, Kan., the general store of Mariner & Marvel was partially wrecked by the storm. Farmhouses and stables in the city were unroofed, but no one was injured.

At Ottawa, Kan., the tower of the water company's building was toppled over, roofs were carried away and sidewalks turned over. Trees were uprooted and much damage was done to orchards.

At August [illegible] were killed outright Harmon Has[illegible] Barnes and a little child of [illegible]s, who was blown out of [illegible]'s arms and dashed against [illegible] wall. Rhodes himself is fatally injured, as is also the wife of Harmon Haskins. Fifteen others were hurt more or less seriously, according to present reports, but all wires are down and it is impossible to get any detailed account from other places.

[illegible]ton and vicinity suffered considerably, and several people were killed. William Little's house, south of Wellington, was blown to pieces and Little and his four children were killed. Wm. Schreiner was picked up by the wreck of the occupants were more or less injured. Sam Butterworth's house and its occupants were [illegible] and John Hill, and some of the family was badly hurt.

[illegible], Kan. Some [illegible] Marvel [illegible] great loss.

South Haven [illegible] from the storm in the way of material [illegible] the business men [illegible] Moorehouse was levelled to the ground and Moorehouse and [illegible] killed, other members of the family escaping. John Barnes was [illegible] and his family was [illegible] Mrs. Barnes was killed. [illegible] Rhodes was [illegible] Haskins was [illegible] Fifteen others were [illegible] Augusta, seven [illegible] Homestead, five dead and seven injured; Strong City, two dead and eight wounded; Salina, fifteen injured, three fatally. These towns are the only ones from which anything like a definite report has been obtained, but from meager reports received the dead at other places will make up the estimate of sixty, as stated above.

SALINA, Kan., April 4.—Reports from various parts of the country bring news of great disaster caused by the storm Thursday night. The little village of Vine Creek was wiped out. At Smolar ever house is demolished and one child reported killed. Oakville, a small village, is blown away and not a house left standing. Several were injured there but not seriously.

IN TEXAS.

SANTA ANNA, Tex., April 2.—Friday night a cyclone passed over this (Coleman) county. In this city many houses were demolished. A boy was killed and eleven inmates of the residence of Mr. Bass were injured. At Bangs four persons were killed. Wires are prostrated, and it is impossible to obtain details.

IN NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, Neb., April 2.—Friday afternoon at Norfolk the Episcopal church was entirely destroyed. The Congregational church was unroofed and its steeple and bell carried away. Wheaton's planing mill was partly wrecked and fifteen houses and barns were demolished. The cyclone swept a track through the city three blocks wide and ten blocks in length. The little daughter of Mike Weir and a child of John Palmer were seriously injured by falling debris.

OMAHA, Neb., April 4.—Thirty of the best residences in the town were completely destroyed by Thursday night's cyclone. Almost every house in the north and west part of the town is more or less damaged, and almost every store in the business portion sustained some injury. The damages are $100,000 and probably more. There was not any tornado insurance.

IN ILLINOIS.

ROCKFORD, Ill., April 2.—This city was visited by a terrific cyclone Friday afternoon, the results of which have been most disastrous. In the city signs, awnings, show cases and a large number of plate glass windows in the stores were demolished. In the country adjacent the destruction seems to have been even more widespread.

IN WISCONSIN.

BELOIT, Wis., April 2.—A fierce windstorm swept over the city about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, doing great damage. Several houses were torn down. A barn was blown to pieces and sheds were wrecked and chimneys and smokestacks were demolished.

IN IOWA.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 2.—The windstorm, which is subsiding, has been one of the worst for many years. The aggregate damage done to buildings in this city will be more than $100,000. Scores of buildings were partially and some wholly unroofed. The roof on one side of the federal building was ripped off.

At the state house a large section of slate roofing was torn up and scattered in the street. Seven residences, so far as reported, were blown down entirely. Several persons were blown down in the streets, and buggies and wagons, unless very heavy, were swept before the wind like so much straw.

Reports received here from different parts of central Iowa say that the damage throughout the country is large. Thousands of tons of hay still in the stack has been scattered, trees have been broken down or damaged and barns and houses unroofed.

IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 2.—A fury of rain and wind swept across Chicago Friday evening. At 14 and 16 Pearce street, on the west side and close to the river, a tall brick building stood in the open, with little cottages clustered all about it. The seven-story giant, rising in the midst of the squatty frame buildings, was battered by the full force of the hurricane that caught the falling sheets of water and tore them into shreds. It was an unfinished structure, and the terrific gusts of wind pushed into the open windows and actually tore the fresh mortar apart. The [illegible] great sheets of brick crashed against the [illegible] mount and ground them to pieces [illegible] death and ruin to a half [illegible] residents. At least forty people are known to have been killed. Eighteen were injured, eight of them fatally. All night busy workers toiled at the [illegible] of debris, recovering the [illegible] and recovering the victims.

Those known to have [illegible] are: Mrs. [illegible] Samuel [illegible] of Joliet, Ill.; Miss J. L. [illegible], Milwaukee, Wis.; [illegible] of age; Mary [illegible], 4 years of age; Alie Hubert, 8 years of age; Daniel Hebert, [illegible] years of age; Horace Mc[illegible], [illegible] years of age, and Miss Mary Walsh, of Joliet, Ill.

In other parts of the city the wind [illegible] to pieces several [illegible] and barns. A number of persons were injured, but no further loss of life is reported. Four men in an unfinished house at Grand Crossing, which the wind demolished, were [illegible] hurt. In Woodlawn a [illegible] in course of construction [illegible] down. Three persons were killed, [illegible] fatally, having [illegible] back broken.

HEMMED IN BY FIRE.

Fatal Blaze on the Steamer Golden Rule at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, April 4.—About five o'clock Wednesday morning a fire broke out on the steamer Golden Rule, lying at the foot of Main street. The Golden Rule was loaded to leave at 5 o'clock for New Orleans, and had fifty or more passengers on board. A panic ensued and a dozen or more jumped into the river. Thus far five lives are known to have been lost. These are: Miss Nellie Maloney; Frank Reilly, second mate; Jim Madison, mate; Nat Homer, white deck hand, and an unknown woman. The boat was valued at $5,000 and the cargo at $50,000.

Fire Losses of £1,000,000.

RANGOON, April 4.—The damage caused by the three fires that have occurred at Mandalay the past few days amounts to £1,000,000. Another fire broke out to-day between the Zagyoe bazaar in that city and the river bank, and is still burning. The frequency of the fires gives strong confirmation of the belief entertained in many quarters that they are of incendiary origin.

Safe Blowers at Quincy.

QUINCY, Ill., April 4.—The jewelry store of M. Huffman was entered by burglars Friday night and looted of diamonds, watches and other valuables to the amount of $15,000. The entire detective force of this city is at work on the case and experts have been sent for from Chicago and St. Louis. The work was done by expert safe blowers.

Gave Her $7,500.

TRENTON, N. J., April 2.—The jury in the case of Abble Van Doven in the suit against the Philadelphia & Reading railroad for $50,000 damages returned a verdict for $7,500. Miss Van Doven was injured near Bound Brook by being struck by a train at an unguarded crossing.

Failures During the Week.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 218, as compared with totals of 281 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 243.

New York Will Celebrate.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1.—A bill has passed the legislature providing for a celebration in New York city of the anniversary of the discovery of America, and designating October 12, 1892, as a legal holiday for the whole state.

Fleet in Behring Sea.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The department of state is advised that at present there are seventy Canadian seal poachers in Behring sea, against fifty-one at this time last year.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House—Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Stewart gave notice that he would Monday next move to take up the senate bill to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver. In executive session the Behring sea arbitration treaty was ratified. The credentials of Roger Q. Mills as senator from Texas were presented. Bills were favorably reported appropriating $30,000 for a monument to John Ericsson, builder of the Monitor; $20,000 for a statue of Robert Dale Owen, father of the Smithsonian institution, and $15,000 to purchase a portrait of Abraham Lincoln, by G. W. F. Travis, to be placed in the capitol.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—A bill was introduced in the senate yesterday to provide for the punishment of violation of treaty rights of aliens. Senator Stanford spoke in support of the bill introduced by him to determine the value of a legal tender dollar. The nomination of Frank L. Combs, of California, to be minister to Japan, was received from the president.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Morgan introduced resolutions directing the committee on finance to inquire into the causes of depression in agriculture and business, and the effect of the silver act of 1890. A bill was passed empowering the managers of the national soldiers' home to select their employes from among soldiers who served in the late war, instead of restricting them, as now, to the officers. The house bill authorizing the president in future to appoint army officers as Indian agents instead of civilians was passed.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A number of petitions for closing the world's fair Sundays were presented in the senate yesterday. The Indian appropriation bill was considered. Adjourned to the 4th.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—In the house yesterday a bill was passed to establish a port of delivery at Des Moines, Ia. The pure food bill, and a bill to make oleomargarine manufactured in one state or territory for shipment into another subject to the laws and restrictions of the state and territory into which it is shipped were favorably reported. Mr. Dolliver (Ia.) spoke against the free wool bill and Messrs. Harter (O.) and McCreary (Ky.) spoke in its favor.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—In the house a bill was passed yesterday extending the privileges of immediate transportation to the city of Marquette, Mich. The free wool bill was further discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The time was passed in the house yesterday in discussing the free wool bill.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—In the house yesterday bills were reported providing for the local self government of the territory of Utah; for the election of judges pro tem in the territory of Oklahoma, and an urgency deficiency appropriation bill aggregating $952,550. The free wool bill was further considered.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—In the house on Saturday a bill was reported as a substitute for the Hatch bill defining futures and options and imposing special taxes on dealers therein. The general discussion on the tariff bill came to an end. The contested election case of Noyes against Rockwell from the Twenty-eighth New York district was reported, with the recommendation that Rockwell, democrat, the sitting member, be unseated, and Noyes, republican, be given the seat.

Death of a Jurist.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Charles D. Drake, ex-chief justice of the court of claims, was found dead in his bed at his residence in this city. His death was entirely unexpected, as Thursday night he attended prayer meeting at the Western Presbyterian church and took part as usual. Returning home he spent an hour or two with his family and retired in apparently good health. Judge Drake was 81 years old.

Minnesota Democrats.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 1.—The democrats in state convention in this city yesterday elected delegates to the national convention instructed to vote for Cleveland for president. The platform opposes protection, favors reform in the system of tariff duties, and demands free and unrestricted coinage of both silver and gold.

Bribery Charges Fall Through.

COLUMBUS, O., April 1.—The house committee appointed to investigate the bribery charges against Representative Daugherty, arising out of the United States senatorial election, has unanimously agreed to report exonerating the member.

Ten Seaman Were Drowned.

LONDON, April 2.—The Norwegian steamer Louise, bound for the Lofoden islands, off the northwest coast of Norway, has been lost. Part of her crew have been landed near Bergen. Ten of those aboard of her were drowned.

Oregon Prohibitionists.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 1.—The prohibitionists met in state convention in this city yesterday and nominated two congressmen, judge of supreme court, presidential electors and delegates to the national convention.

Robbed a Mail Car.

WEEMS, Ala., April 1.—The passenger train for Atlanta was held up here by masked robbers, and the mail car rifled of all its registered letters. The letters contained over $6,000.

Against Sunday Papers.

CARLISLE, Pa., April 1.—Chief Burgess issued a proclamation forbidding the sale or delivery of Sunday newspapers in this city under penalty of the law.

INTERESTING TO LADIES.

DEAR MADAM:
Does your husband seem tired of you, are you always peevish? Do you and your husband have little spats now and then? This is the case with most married people; and the only way you will ever live in perfect harmony is to restore the sparkling eyes, rosy cheeks, strength, vigor and playfulness of girlhood: then your husband will stick to you, like he did in your courting days, and not be seeking the society of other ladies.

If you will try one package of "Rose Buds" you will not regret it; it will make a new woman of you. "IN SOME WAY OR OTHER."

In a rickety house, 'mid a garden of weeds
That flourished unhindered to scatter their seeds,
Where the cobwebs excluded the sweet light of morn,
A woman sat idly, in garments forlorn:
She looked at the holes in the rat-eaten floor,
And the rags, not too clean, that her little ones wore;
Then smoothed her torn wrapper, and peacefully sighed:
"In some way or other the Lord will provide."

Her husband sat out by the door in the shade,
With his head on his chair-back contentedly laid,
While the briars and weeds did his meadows adorn,
And the grass in his field was outstripping the corn.
Of rents (in his trousers) there sure was no lack,
And his coat was just ready to fall from his back,
But he calmly observed, when these facts he described:
"In some way or other the Lord will provide."

"In some way or other," it may be, but sure
The Lord, although patient and long to endure,
Can scarce be expected to stall off the man
Who has not the gumption to do what he can:
And although He bequeaths us the fruit of the land,
And scatters His bounties on every hand,
He doesn't put bread ready made on the shelf,
But even a chicken must scratch for himself.

And I think He is far better pleased with the folks
Who tackle life bravely and cheer it with jokes,
Who rustle and hustle the journey along,
And fill up the chinks with a laugh and a song,
Than with those who so solemnly sit themselves down,
In idleness waiting a robe and a crown,
And piously chant, as they drift with the tide:
"In some way or other the Lord will provide."
—Mortimer C. Brown, in Good Housekeeping.

TRUE AS STEEL.

The Story of Faithful Kitchen Anne.

We called her Kitchen Anne. This was because we had another Anne in the family, and two of the same name in a house makes confusion.

She was a "Svenska" girl—tow-headed, blue-eyed and only sixteen when she came to work for us.

She was rather stupid and slow, but very willing, and so sorry for her blunders that it seemed almost cruel to be impatient with her.

She did try so hard to learn. It was really pathetic to see her with the open cook book before her, tracing with a floury finger the words which she could not read. It was rather a mystery to me that she managed always to open the book at the right place to find the recipe she wished, but when I turned the pages and found a lump of bread dough where the bread-making rules were, a grease spot to mark the pastry pages and sundry egg and sugar traces on the cake recipes, I understood.

She had an innate love of dainty things. She used to take a childish delight in examining the contents of the rag-bags, which we turned over to her. The scraps of bright silk and velvet were her treasures, and I often recognized bits of lace, which had done former duty on underclothing, carefully darned and ornamenting her handkerchiefs. From the borders of some fine linen doilies she painstakingly studied out the patterns of drawn work, and I could but marvel at her patience when I saw that she had reproduced the cobwebby patterns on the edges of some coarse cotton-cloth mats for her washstand.

But I must tell you about Patrick. His name was not the only misleading thing about him, as we found to our sorrow, but that was delusive enough, for he was a Swede. Anne told me he took it because he disliked his Swedish name. Whether it was a given name or surname it went for both, for he said that one name was "a plenta"—so Patrick he was and Patrick only.

He was Anne's lover. Two evenings each week he sat with her in the kitchen, bashful, red-faced, solemn and silent. He sat at one side of the stove, she at the other, each in a wooden rocking-chair. Her chair creaked and his groaned as they rocked slowly and rhythmically, and the rhythm was accentuated by their four feet striking the floor at the same instant.

Scarcely a word was said by him from his first greeting until he said good night, yet somehow his wooing progressed and prospered. On Sundays they went together to the little Swede church.

Thus uneventfully enough their courtship ran on for more than a year, when one day Anne told me that she was going to leave me because she was to be married.

I remonstrated, urging her extreme youth, but she was "most eighteen," she said, and Patrick had already rented two beautiful rooms and had furnished them for her, and he was making money at his trade. So I said no more but helped her in her plans for housekeeping.

And so they were married—just at holiday time—and a proud and happy bride was Mrs. Patrick, possessed of two cozy little rooms, with a stove, six chairs, an alarm clock, a bed, a table and a cupboard full of dishes.

We saw but little of Anne that winter. She had some boarders—some men who took their meals there—and she was very busy.

Sometimes on a Sunday she would come in for a few moments to tell me how she was getting on, and I noticed that she was growing thin and white, and with a worried, anxious look, quite new to our rosy, phlegmatic Kitchen Anne.

Once I questioned her a little. Was she well?

"Oh, yes, well, only tired; not so very tired, just some tired."

"Was Patrick good to her?"

"Oh, yess"—but she must be going now.

One day in the early spring, Christine, Anne's married sister, came to see me about Anne. Patrick, she told me, had "skipped out." Left his debts and Anne and gone "nord to Meenesota." Anne had not said so, but Ole, Christine's "man," had told her so. "An' my man," added she, "says he won't come back to her no more than he did to his other wife."

"His other wife!" echoed I.

"Yes, the one that's to Chicago."

"What! Has Patrick been married before? Is he divorced?" asked I, in one breath.

"No, not divorced. He told her that he didn't want her no longer, an'—an' he was going to marry agen, an' she say 'ver' well, if you likes anoder better than me I am willing.' So he didn't need no divorce."

"And did Anne know this?"

"Oh, no; she wouldn't hear when we tried to tell her, an' now she won't talk none about him. Why, I was there to dinner onct, an' Patrick he come in drunk, an' when he went out I says: 'Patrick, he's pretty drunk, ain't he?' an' Anne she says, awful fierce: 'He hain't drunk!'"

I told Christine to say nothing to Anne of my knowing her trouble, but to ask her if she would come and work for me for a few weeks preparatory to our moving to another city.

Anne came, and soon went about her work just as she used, only that she was very quiet, and looked hollow-eyed and sad. Patrick had gone "nord, to Meenesota," where he could make lots of money, but he would come back. "Oh, yes, he would come back soon," she said, with a little catch of her breath that went to my heart.

Christine came often, and from her I learned that Patrick had taken with him several sums of borrowed money, and that he had said that he did not mean to return.

Anne, with a quiet dignity strange in one of her class, kept her troubles and her sorrow to herself. The day before we left for our new home she came and begged me to take her with me.

"Until Patrick comes?" asked I. Then she broke down and told me all. Patrick had gone for good. He had told her that he was tired of her. She had supported him all winter, and now she wanted to earn money to pay his debts.

I asked how she would dispose of her furniture. It was not hers, she said; it had never been paid for. Patrick had bought it on "credit," and she had sent it back, and now she had nothing—no, nothing of her own, except her beautiful dishes, and she would never have any use for them again. Then she broke down completely and sobbed bitterly.

She packed away her one possession and stored the box at Christine's, and then she came away with us. All of her wages she sent to pay Patrick's debts. We told her that she was not responsible for his debts, and urged her to save her money for herself; but she would not. She said that Patrick had borrowed from those who could not afford to lose their money, and she told us of one old man who, unknown to his shrewd but shrewish wife, had loaned Patrick all of his little hoard of savings. His wife scolded him and sometimes struck him, Anne said, because he was poor, and Anne must pay him back before the old woman found that it was all gone.

At first Anne was diverted by her new surroundings but soon she began to lose interest in her work, and having once broken her silence concerning her troubles, she poured them forth freely. She said that it had all come upon her for a punishment. It was because she had loved Patrick too much—better than her father or mother. She said that now her life was all over, and she was "jung—so jung—only eighteen jears."

As both interest and health flagged, I sent her back to her people, where they said she wandered about in a shabby gown, rarely rousing from her melancholy and seeming half crazed by her grief. Then gradually I lost all trace of her.

Three years ago a friend sent me a slip cut from a country paper. It stated that Patrick had been arrested in Minnesota for bigamy and was now lodged in jail. He had three wives, but two the Chicago woman and the girl who he married in Minnesota, made the trouble. He was sent to the penitentiary for two years, his offense, having two living wives. Anne would not appear against him. Again I lost trace of Anne until one day the postman brought an awkwardly-directed parcel, not quite sure of the address. I recognized Anne's writing and claimed the package. It contained several yards of beautifully-made linen lace, but not a word except Anne's name and address.

Fine and exquisite, I knew what hours of patient and loving labor the lace meant for poor Anne's slow, clumsy fingers, and I was touched by the gift.

A letter of thanks to her brought a long reply. Anne was living in a penitentiary town, working and waiting for Patrick to serve his term, which was nearing completion.

His troubles had made a good man of him, she wrote, and he wanted to marry her when he was free. She had forgiven him and she—well, she loved him—that was all.

"And so they were married" once more, and she wrote me, to quote her words—that "life was sweet agen." She sent me a photograph of herself and husband, brave in bridal finery. They stand hand in hand and look as stiff and awkward as only bridal couples can look in a picture. With a bit of sentiment that has a touch of pathos in it, Anne wears her old wedding gown. It is short in the skirt and cruelly tight in the waist and sleeves—for the Anne of to-day is no seventeen-year-old girl.

Both her face and Patrick's show lines that were not there when I saw them last. The corn-colored mustache which was Patrick's glory had disappeared, and his head is too closely cropped for beauty, but there is an earnest expression on his face which I like, and which promises better things for poor, faithful Anne. And I believe that she will be happy, for such constancy must touch Patrick's heart.

There is nothing that heals a broken heart like time, unless it be a lost lover, come back penitent and tender and true, and now Anne's grief has had both.—Marie More Marsh, in Chicago Graphic.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Painted Him Red.

A half dozen prominent young women of Sault Ste. Marie adopted a novel way of punishing Fred Clayton, a young man who had been scattering scandalous tales regarding them. Dressed in old clothes and armed with brushes and two buckets of bright red paint they called at his home and inveigled him outside. Four of the young women then seized and held him fast while the remaining two vigorously plied the paint brush. When they released him there was not a spot on his clothes, face or head that was not covered with a coat of fiery red paint.

Post Office Buildings.

If a bill now before congress becomes a law the government will erect post office buildings in Michigan at the following places:

Allegan, Alma, Benton Harbor, Bessemer, Buchanan, Cadillac, Calumet, Caro, Cheboygan, Dowagiac, Fenton, Grand Haven, Greenville, Hancock, Hastings, Holland, Holly, Houghton, Howell, Hudson, Ithaca, Lapeer, Lowell, Ludington, Manistique, Midland, Monroe, Mount Clemens, Mount Pleasant, Negaunee, Niles, Northville, Oscoda, Ovid, Paw Paw, Petoskey, Portland, Quincy, Red Jacket, Reed City, Romeo, St. Ignace, St. John, St. Joseph, St. Louis, Stanton, Sturgis, Tecumseh, Three Rivers, West Bay City.

Six Instantly Killed.

The boiler of the East Jordan Lumber Company's mill, No. 2, blew up, instantly killing the following persons: William Beach, aged 18, unmarried; Simon Carney, aged 26, unmarried; Peter Sheldon, aged 22, unmarried; John Brown, aged 20, unmarried; Bert Cooke, aged 30, married; Emanuel Hunt, aged 40, married. Four others were dangerously hurt, one, A. Christy, having since died, and a score badly injured. The mill, valued at $10,000, is a total wreck.

Killed His Wife and Himself.

Abraham Cooley, aged 60, a wealthy farmer living near Richmond, cut his wife's throat from ear to ear with a razor and then committed suicide by drawing the blade across his own throat. Both were dead when discovered a short time after the tragedy. They had been married only about one year and she was his second wife. Cooley left a letter explaining that he committed the crime after trouble with his wife over property settlements.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by fifty-nine observers in different parts of the state for the week ended March 26 indicated that inflammation of the brain and typhoid fever increased, and diphtheria, measles, cholera infantum and pneumonia decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at thirty places, scarlet fever at sixty-three, typhoid fever at thirteen and measles at nine places.

It Came at Last.

James McNubb, of Kalamazoo, has just received a letter that was written to him by his brother from Mobile, Ala., December 29, 1849. The letter was forwarded from Caledonia, Livingston county, N. Y., to which place it was originally addressed, but there was no explanation as to where the missive had been for fifty-one years. The writer of the letter died three years ago in California.

Convicted of Forgery.

Herman B. Preston, the aged farmer who deliberately cut off a portion of his left hand so as to render it impossible for a victim from whom he had realized several thousand dollars by the sale of a forged assignment of a mortgage on his own farm to identify him, was convicted in the circuit court at Lansing and sentenced to Jackson for a term of seven years at hard labor.

Firebugs Captured.

A large number of incendiary fires of late have thoroughly alarmed the citizens of Detroit. The other night a citizen discovered three young men in the act of setting fire to a vacant warehouse, and they were arrested. Their names are John and William Bloom, aged 17 and 18, brothers, and Edward Daniels, aged 23, a brother-in-law.

Short But Newsy Items.

The general store of Mrs. Susan Stonehouse at Escanaba was destroyed by fire, also Justice Stonehouse's office, burning all the records.

Oscar Hoyt and wife, of Mason, were nearly suffocated by gas from a coal stove. Only the most skilful treatment saved their lives.

The trustees of the Michigan female seminary at Kalamazoo have decided to build a $15,000 addition to the institution and spend $3,000 for furnishings.

The Detroit college of medicine turned loose a class of sixty graduates.

Edward W. Simpson, city building inspector, died of heart disease in Detroit, aged 63 years.

Thomas R. Wakeman's 4-year-old son at Port Huron was fatally bitten by five big dogs.

Isaac Martindale, a wealthy farmer of Bloomfield township, Huron county, aged 65 years, has led to the altar a 16-year-old bride.

M. H. Lake, of Michigan, has been elected supreme president of the Patrons of Industry.

Fire in M. A. Burns' dry goods store at Escanaba destroyed $50,000 worth of goods; insurance, $10,000.

Hovey & McCracken's sawmill at Muskegon has started. The number out of Muskegon this year is not likely to exceed 250,000,000 feet.

A section of copper rock in the Calumet and Hecla mine at Houghton, fell on John Revelo and Joseph Julir. Julir was instantly killed and Revelo badly injured.

The jury in the Crosbie murder trial at Bay City reported that it could not agree. They stood on the last ballot six for acquittal and six for manslaughter.

Mrs. Christine Heinzman, of Bay City, aged 88 years, received intelligence from Washington that she had been granted a pension for services as nurse during the war. The joyful tidings made her insane and she died as a result.

GET THE BEST.

Is a good motto to follow in buying a medicine as well as everything else. By the universal satisfaction it has given, and by the many remarkable cures it has accomplished Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption has proven itself unequalled for Consumption and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest. Do not experiment with any unheard of or untried article which you are told is "as good as Dr. Fay's," for its equal does not exist, but be sure to get only Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption. Sold by all druggists, 50c., $1.00 and $5.00. Prepared only by Dr. O. J. Fay & Co., Chemists, Carleton, Mich.

Regular sizes for sale and sample bottles free at J. J. Orr's drug store.

Caller: Tommy, how is your brother Alfred getting in his piano practice? Tommy: He ain't gettin along as well as he used to. He spends too much time in tryin to make his hair look like Paderooski's.

WILL GRIPPE BE AN ANNUAL VISITOR?

This question is under serious consideration by the medical profession and the public in general are deeply interested in the answer. Its visitations during the past three years have impressed upon people a full sense of its power and danger, and the experience of those years has also taught many things in regard to the nature of the disease. One important thing learned is that any results often follow long after the disease itself is supposed to be forty over. It is this insidious, lingering effect which just now is being felt through the country. The colds which come so readily with these spring months develops into full fruit the germs left by the disease, and a long ill[illegible]ness, with great danger of fatal results, is apt to follow. To stop this at the start is most important. No remedy on the market or no physicians prescription is so sure to do this as Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It has been tried in thousands of cases and the manufacturers guarantee full benefits. All lung difficulties are benefitted by this remedy and from its wonderful and speedy relief in cases of Croup and Whooping Cough no household with children should ever be without it. Only 25 cents a bottle. Ask for Hamilton's. Sold by all dealers.

Clinton Column.

CLINTON, MICH., APRIL 7, 1892.

Mat Lancaster is at Whitmore Lake.

F. D. Lancaster went to Adrian on business Tuesday.

H. D. Cutting and family will not go to Belding as they expected.

The annual inventory was taken at the woolen mill last Friday and Saturday.

Frank Wallinger will occupy E. J. Semark's new house as soon as completed.

J. H. Blanchard is making repairs on the house recently purchased of F. D. Lancaster.

The warm weather the first of the week started the milk wagon to running twice a day.

Mrs. N. H. Wells, of Manchester, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. David Woodward, this week.

The lecture next Sunday evening at St. Dominic's church will be on "Civil and Religious Liberty."

Bert and Cora Ames, of Ypsilanti, have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Niblack, for a few days.

The ladies of St. John's church will give an Easter supper at the town hall, Wednesday, April 26.

Service will be held at the Episcopal church next Wednesday at 4 p. m. and on Good Friday at 10:30 a. m.

Miss Ettie Rowland, of Tecumseh, and Mrs. Berkely Griffin, of Clayton, are visiting friends here this week.

Miss Eva Shimman returned from Hudson last Friday, where she has been with her sister, who has been very sick.

Dr. Palmer, of Flint, was called here last Saturday to see Miss Eusebia Walters, who has been very sick for about two weeks.

The contract for building the belfry in the St. John's church has been given to Jacob Nase who will do the work immediately.

Mrs. Ann Frost died of consumption last Sunday at her home two miles west of here. The funeral was held Tuesday at 2 p. m., at St. John's church.

B. F. Thompson has advertised his household goods for sale at auction Saturday, at 2 p.m. He will occupy rooms in the house recently purchased by Orville Barnes.

There was some expectation last week that D. E. Palmer would be given the station of West Detroit, but the railroad company has decided to let him remain here.

There is talk of giving an entertainment, the proceeds of which will go towards purchasing a piano for the town hall. This is a good idea and should meet with hearty support.

Miner Strang was officially notified of his promotion to the Flat Rock station last week and left for that place Monday morning. The household goods have been shipped and Mrs. Strang leaves the last of the week.

The little son of P. C. Smith was hurt quite badly last Saturday. While playing in a barn at Mrs. Lydia Smith's a heavy door was blown against him, throwing him onto a large beam, cutting and bruising his face. Fortunately the consequences were not as serious as might have been expected and the little fellow is now fully recovered.

Fred Wright, an employee of the woolen mill, met with an accident at the depot last Saturday afternoon. He was running on top of the moving freight train and was about to jump from one car to another, unaware that they were uncoupled, when the cars separated and he fell, striking on one of the ties, cutting one foot and leg very badly. This is a hard lesson but it ought not to be without its effect on the boys who frequent the depot, catching on and jumping off the cars while in motion, and doing various other things that they have no right to do.

The Ladies' Home Journal.

Mrs. Gladstone, the wife of the famous British statesman, in the first of her articles, "Hints From a Mother's Life," gives much valuable advice in the April Ladies' Home Journal, which comes promptly to its hundreds of thousands of readers in a dainty Easter cover of pink. The magazine opens with a full-page illustration by W. Hamilton Gibson of an exquisite poem by Eugene Field, entitled "The Singing in God's-Acre." The poem only serves to intensify interest in Mr. John Ballantyne's delightful sketch, with photograph, of the poet's wife, in the series of "Unknown Wives of Well-Known Men." Mrs. Reginald de Koven, daughter of Senator Farwell, follows with a timely article on "Social Life in Chicago." Mrs. de Koven writes entertainingly upon a subject which, as the daughter of a millionaire senator, and wife of one of the most talented of the younger men of her native city, she has had special facilities for studying. Ethel Mackenzie McKenna contributes a sketch, with portrait, of Miss Helen Gladstone, and Miss Bradly the second of her interesting papers on "The Queens of Westminster Abbey." Frederick Dolman writes of a visit to Fanny Kemble, the woman who more than half a century ago was and critic, and who now in her English home is spending her declining days almost by the world forgotten. Grace Greenwood writes of "When I was a Girl;" Ella Wheeler Wilcox of "The Girl Who Brags," and Wolstan Dixey of "Mistaken Literary Success." Mrs. Beecher continues her reminiscences of her gifted husband, and Dr. Talmage, Mrs. Bottome, Robert J. Burdette and Ruth Ashmore write of Easter. Foster Coates talks to boys about training birds and animals; H. H. Battles of "Flowers in Our Homes," and Palmer Cox gives a page of his inimitable Brownies. Mrs. Mallon has several illustrated Easter fashion articles, and Ellen Rexford an unusual amount of floral matter. The serial story, "A Brief Prelude," is brought to an effective ending, and Maude Haywood contributes a special illustrated article on the Baltimore Society of Decorative Art. The Journal's sixteen editors fill their departments with all that is instructive and entertaining, and excellent. This Easter number, with new cover, new features, admirable illustrations, and attractive supplement, is worth many times its moderate price of ten cents. The Ladies' Home Journal is published by The Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia, for Ten Cents per number and One Dollar per year.

OBITUARY.

Sunday, March 20th, word came over the wire from Ann Arbor that Lee Calhoun died that morning at University Hospital. He had suffered for some time from a complication of diseases that baffled the skill of home physicians and had been removed to Ann Arbor that he might have the benefit of the best medical treatment. His case was one of unusual interest at the hospital because of its extreme rarity, and every possible effort was made to save his life, but in vain. The remains were brought home Monday by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Calhoun, and the funeral services were held at their residence on Tuesday afternoon.

Roy Lee Calhoun was born in Raisin June 28th, 1876, and spent all his life on the home farm, excepting a few years in Tecumseh when a child. Last January he united with the Presbyterian church, but this was only an open confession of a life that had long been "hid with Christ in God." He was an extremely modest, sensitive boy, never wishing to make any trouble, but full of thoughtfulness for every one, and especially for the home friends, whose work he was always ready to share, and willing to go far beyond his scanty strength if father's and mother's burdens might be made lighter. His happy face has been taken from us but the lesson of his quiet, thoughtful, trustful life remains, and may we who felt his influence so live that when we are called away we may leave a page as clean as his.

Raisin.

CARD OF THANKS.

To my many kind friends and neighbors who so willingly assisted us during our late bereavement we wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Calhoun.

Spend Your Vacation on the Great Lakes.

Visit picturesque Mackinac Island. It will only cost you about $13 from Detroit or $18 from Cleveland for the round trip, including meals and berths. The attractions of a trip to the Mackinac region are unsurpassed. The island itself is a grand, romantic spot; its climate is most invigorating. Save your money by traveling between Detroit and Cleveland, via the D. & C. line. Fare, $2.25. This division is equipped with two new steamers, "City of Detroit" and "City of Cleveland," now famous as the largest and most magnificent on fresh water. Leave every night, arriving the following morning at destination, making sure connection with all morning trains. Palace steamers, four trips per week between Detroit, Mackinac, Petoskey, the "Soo" and Marquette. Send for illustrated pamphlet. Address A. A. Shantz, G. P. A., Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co., Detroit, Mich.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at J. J. Orr's drug store.

There will be a free for all discussion on the Silver question, or national finance, at the hall, Friday night under the auspices of Macon Grange.

Frank Clarkson, Jim Harrison and Fred Beland made a three cornered move one day last week, just changing places. Frank moved onto his farm, into the 'Hile' Davidson house, where Jim lived; Jim moved where Fred lived and Fred where Frank lived.

There must have been sharp figuring on the returns from Macon, to have produced the pluralities reported in last week's HERALD. Where candidates ran the closest the pluralities are the largest; and the vote for Justice on the Prohibition ticket is scaled down from 19 to 10, just as though people voted for men instead of party.

We understand that Wednesday, Oct. 12th, 1892, is set for dedicating the Columbian Exposition grounds, which under the old Julian calendar, of Columbus' time, will be September 30th, and October 12th, under "Julian" will be October 24th under "Gregory." Now the question arises is either date correct? We are celebrating under the Gregorian Calculus, which is claimed to be right. If the Julian calendar was ten days wrong in 1582, when Pope Gregory deducted ten days, it was nine days wrong (deducting the 29th day of Feb. in 1900) when Columbus discovered America in 1492. So that Friday, Oct. 12th, 1492, under old style, was in fact Friday, Oct. 21st. (12-9x21,) and 400 years from that time will come on Friday, Oct. 31, 1892, the day we should celebrate, being the same day of the week and month that Columbus landed. All dates and intermediate periods exactly repeat every 400 years under new style.

GOOD LOOKS.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic which acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion. Sold at J. J. Orr's drug store, 50c. per bottle.

"What is meant by high church?" "Oh, a congregation so 'way up that a woman rich enough to rent a pew feels in the seventh heaven."

MANCHESTER MATTERS.

April has assumed a March like aspect.

Willis Green, of Bridgewater Center, spent Sunday in town.

Willis Watkins has rented the house belonging to Mrs. S. W. Dorr, in this village.

B. G. Lovejoy is painting the residence of N. H. Wells situated on Clinton street.

Mrs. M. J. Brewster, of Hanover, went home on Monday, after a week's visit with friends.

Mynders Mather, who lives just south of the village, is very low at this writing, from heart disease.

Rev. L. D. Boynton drove out from Hillsdale last Friday to spend a week among his parishioners.

Mrs. Julia Martin is spending her vacation at her parents. She is attending the Ypsilanti Normal.

The "rebus" social at J. P. Lapham's, last Friday evening, was well attended. The collection amounted to over six dollars.

The ladies of the Methodist aid society held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. M. D. Case on Wednesday afternoon.

Messrs. George Torrey, George Johnson and George Service came over from Ann Arbor on Saturday afternoon, to remain until the funeral of George Lazell, their fellow-student.

AN HONEST ADVERTISER

In these days of dishonest advertising, it is something remarkable to see an advertiser who has sufficient faith in the curative value of his remedy to cure Piles, to offer to send a trial package free to all who send stamps to prepay postage. This The Pyramid Drug Co., Albion, Mich., in another column agree to do, and any of our readers who may be suffering should write them without delay. A cure is guaranteed, no matter how long you may have been afflicted.

FARMERS' SOCIAL CLUB.

An adjourned meeting of the Farmers' Social Club was held April 5th at the home of G. B. Garlinghouse. The program was well carried out and a pleasant evening enjoyed. The following committee was appointed to make arrangements to decorate the graves of our departed members May 30: Mrs. F. C. Rector, Etta Coddington, Grace Gillespie and Rhoda Benedict. A cordial invitation was extended by Mr. Everhart's family to meet with them in the afternoon, some time in May, and was accepted by the Club. The date and program will be published later. Committee on program: Anna Everhart, Mr. and Mrs. Will Rector, Grace Gillespie and R. B. Gillespie.

Memorial on the death of Mrs. John Fisher, as adopted by the Farmers' Social Club April 5th:

Surely "God moves in a mysterious way." Another life has gone out, another home darkened. The Great Reaper has been busy wielding his sickle on our right hand and on our left. Again he has come, claiming one whom we all loved, one who has been identified with this organization from the beginning, one on whom we depended, whose home was always opened for our entertainment and who was always ready with heart, voice and hand to aid in every good work. When over the wire flashed the words, "Mrs. Fisher is dead," our hearts fairly ceased to beat and we felt that it could not, must not be. Our hopes for her had been so strengthened by the encouraging news which was passed from lip to lip at the meeting of the Club, and we hoped for a speedy recovery; even then she was suffering with pain which was the beginning of the end an Oh, how soon were our greatest fears realized! So short the time since she was here with us our minds went back only a few short months, when as an organization we gathered at her beautiful home to enjoy our first annual fair. Although suffering with the disease which took her from us, as was ever characteristic of her she forgot self and did all she could for the comfort and happiness of others. As a society we mingle our tears with those of the stricken family, who will miss her as no others can; with the church which has lost one of its most efficient members, yet feeling that our loss is her eternal gain. May we all, like her, "set our house in order," that when the message for us is, "Thou shalt die and not live," like her we may say, "I am ready."

"Be comforted!
O tempest-tossed.—O sorrow worn!—
Catch the glad vision of a bourn
Beyond these vales of dread!
Turn your sad faces from the mournful past,—
Its wreck-strewn shores, its ocean storm o'ercast,
Its black-trimmed barque with banners at half-mast.

Behold! Behold!
God's hand has clasped the diamond pen,
To write this welcome news to men
In characters of gold:
And there shall be no death, no grief-spent day;
Pain shall be banished, crying hushed for aye;
For God himself shall wipe the tears away."

MRS. GEO. GRISWOLD,
MRS. A. P. CODDINGTON, Com.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, April 8, 1892.

Senator Wolcott proved himself a veritable bull in a political china-shop by a speech he made on Senator Morgan's silver resolutions. He was particularly severe on Mr. Harrison and Mr. Cleveland. Of the former he said: "It is apparent that the party in power with negative unanimity, renominate the present magnetic Executive: not because he is the choice of any considerable body of his party, but since the letter of the retirement of the great Secretary who holds his party bound by ties of deepest affection and regard no man of greater statue than the present incumbent has been found willing to stand." Of Mr. Cleveland he said: "Because of the blow that has struck silver aside, it seems equally manifest that the democratic party will present its apostle of tariff reform, whose vision has no other issue, and who desires to be again consecrated to public office."

Fear of what the third party may capture in the South and Northwest is a perpetual nightmare with the politicians of both the old parties, and the private information received since the side-tracking of the free coinage bill in the House is not calculated to add to their tranquility. The democrats, however, have the best of it as it would only throw the election of President into the House should the third party carry several States.

The House spent the greater part of this week in passing the free wool bill, and if the republicans had been inclined to keep up the filibustering with which they consumed one entire day it never could have been passed without the adoption of a cloture rule by the democratic majority. The present rules of the House are a regular "snap" for those inclined to filibuster.

Senator Peffer's bill "to create a fund for the payment of pensions and for setting our army of laborers at work on extensive public improvements; for removing the strongest incentive to crime among the poor and vice among the rich, and for protecting the American from the influx of unjust alien competition" did not meet the approval of the Senate Finance committee which has made an unfavorable report thereon. The same fate was dealt out to Senator Call's bill to repeal the bill prohibiting national banks receiving or paying interest on deposits made by national banks; to Senator Kyle's bill to repeal the law conferring the authority upon the Secretary of the Treasury to anticipate the interest upon the public debt, and to Senator George's resolution instructing the committee to report a bill providing for the issuing and keeping in circulation of legal tender notes to the extent of $10 per capita.

Representative Clover, of Kansas, who is a member of the House committee on Indian Affairs, gave that committee some plain talk this week. He said: "We have given more time to hearing the women of Philadelphia, who never saw an Indian, and to the officers of the Indian Rights Association and kindred organizations than we have to any other class. Some of these people want to take the heart out of the land that is to be thrown open to settlement in the Cherokee country so as to put it aside for the education of the Indian. There are hundreds of young Americans—lads just growing into manhood—who are far more in need of education than the Indians, and they would make better use of their opportunities. I think we ought to look after these young men, and, while the education of the Indian may be a good thing, I do not think we ought to deprive our own people of land needed for homes, in order that a few Indians may be educated."

The passage by the House, under a suspension of the rules, of the most radical anti-Chinese bill ever introduced in Congress—it shuts out all Chinese not officially connected with the legation of that country—has caused much discussion. An overwhelming majority believe the circumstances justify the enactment of such a law, but there is a respectable minority, composed of men of all shades of political belief, who believe that Congress should not deliberately violate existing treaties with China, as all agree that this bill does. Nevertheless it is believed that the bill will become a law, as the politicans on both sides are shy about voting against the bill on the eve of a presidential election.

AMERICAN VS. FOREIGN LABOR.

Our Labor the Cheapest in the World, Says J. B. Sargent.

The following extract from the speech of J. B. Sargent, one of the largest manufacturers of hardware in the United States, at the hardware dinner, shows that our labor is cheaper than that of Europe. Mr. Sargent has traveled around the world several times and knows what he is talking about. The applause which greeted every statement he made shows that the hardware manufacturers agree with his conclusions: "In agricultural tools and implements, at least, we take half the trade of the foreign countries outside of Europe, and in all kinds of edge tools we take half the trade of South America and Asia. But, gentlemen, my time is more than gone, and I will bring my remarks to a close by saying that with the manufactures of this country in their present condition, with our machinery, with our unrivalled help, with our skilled mechanics, and with you, gentlemen of the hardware and mercantile branches, there is no reason why we should not only hold our own in our own country, but take a large part of the trade of all the world.

"The American manufacturer, with the American mechanic, has never seemed to realize his own strength, or the strength of his trade. We have, as I have already said, the most willing, the most energetic, and the most ambitious workers, workmen and mechanics, anywhere to be found. Although our wages in this country—the earnings of men per day—are very much more than those of any other country, and especially of the countries on the continent, who are our competitors, and although they earn so much more per day, still their labor to the manufacturer is cheaper than that of laborers in other countries. In other words, the labor cost of almost any article of American hardware manufacture is less than the labor cost of the same article in any other country. The fear which so many of us have had of the pauper labor of England is a matter unworthy of consideration. The pauper labor of England in the manufacture of hardware, as compared with our labor, may be compared with the cheap farm labor of India, where that class of labor is paid 10 cents per day, as compared with our western farm labor in the raising of wheat. With land as plenty and as cheap, with millions of acres which are not used in India but that are roamed over by wild beasts, with land in plenty and with labor at 10 cents per day (cheap labor in the usual acceptance of the term), still in this country we can produce wheat more cheaply than they can in India, and yet we pay $1 per day for the labor. In other words, the 10 cents per day labor in India, under all the conditions that they have there, is not so cheap in the product obtained as is the $1 per day labor of our western farmers, and so if we will only take courage and go out before the world with our industries, with our machinery, with our intelligence and with our mercantile ability we can conquer the world in industrial pursuits.

"When I look upon this intelligent, this energetic, this ambitious company, it seems strange that anyone should think that the industry and business ability of any other nation on the globe can compete with us in a free field and in a fair fight.

"I have only to add that I know that you, gentlemen, of the hardware trade, you manufacturers and mercnants, will carefully consider the question that must come before you—of the greater freedom of trade; the question of placing ourselves with our raw materials on an equal footing with the manufacturers of England. Whenever we do that we can certainly take care of ourselves in any quarter of the globe."

TIN PLATE PRICES.

Misrepresentations Made By Mr. Cronemeyer and the American Economist—Tin Plate Prices in 1890 and Now.

The Western Packers' Canned Goods association recently held a convention at the Sherman house, Chicago, and the Chicago Grocer published a full report of its proceedings. It is there reported that at the afternoon session of the convention on February 10 the president announced that he was in receipt of "an important and interesting letter from Mr. Cronemeyer, president of the United States Iron and Tin Plate Manufacturing Co.," which letter was then read to the convention.

From this letter, dated Demmler, Pa., February 8, 1892, we quote as follows: "Present indications do not show that the interests of the canning industry have been seriously jeopardized by the additional duty. The prices of tin plate in this country to-day are only a very little higher than what they were eighteen months ago, while export prices in England have been reduced 25 per cent. in order to overcome our import duty. Two years ago the duty was only one cent per pound, or $1.08 per box, and a box of coke tin plate cost in New York $5.20; to-day the duty is 2 2-10 cents per pound, or $2.37 per box, and the price of coke in New York is $5.35 per box; increase the duty $1.30 per box, increase the price only 15 cents per box. Does this not show very clearly that the consumers in this country have paid an immense profit to foreign manufacturers for many years."

What Mr. Cronemeyer's object could have been in so grossly misrepresenting the facts of the case, and on his false statements deducing his conclusions, it is hard to conceive. Possibly he thought that in addressing a body of men who, for the most part, buy their tin plates in the form of ready-made cans from firms who make can-making their sole business, his false statements might pass unchallenged. The convention appears from the report to have listened patiently to the reading of the letter and then passed to the consideration of its regular business.

Knowing the above statement of the cost of coke tin plates in New York City "two years ago" to be false, we obtained access to the invoice book of a buyer of such plates and found there the following prices of coke plates 14x20 I. C.: February 6, 1890, $4.57½; February 28, 1890, $4.50; March 7, 1890, $4.45; March 27, 1890, $4.40. In April purchases were made at $4.37½, and in May, 1890, at $4.35 and $4.40.

It will be remembered that of these cost prices, as Mr. Cronemeyer kindly explains, $1.08 was in the form of duty paid, at that time, to the United States government, and leaves the actual selling price of the tin plates of the kinds in which canned goods packers are interested, less duty, ranging from $3.27 to $3.43½ per box. It is from these values that the "immense profits to foreign manufacturers" have been paid, if paid at all.

Quotations given by the Iron Age at New York City for same period are as follows:

	Penlan Grade.	J. B. Grade.
February 13, 14x20, I. C. Coke	$4 50 @4.55	$4.65@4.70
March 13, 14x20, I. C. Coke	4.45 @4.50	4.65@4.70
April 10, 14x20, I. C. Coke	4.40 @4.45	4.50@4.60
May 8, 14x20, I. C. Coke	4.32½@4.35	@4.45

It was for the American Economist to discover a use for such unfounded statements. In its issue for February 26, 1892, appears an editorial headed "An Example for the Tin Plate Consumers," which begins as follows: "The Western Packers' Canned Goods association, who use perhaps more bright tin plate than any other manufacturers in the United States, held their annual convention at Chicago, Wednesday, February 11. These gentlemen may be assumed to know pretty well the price of tin plate since the enactment of the new tariff law; and, as they do not seem to have any special regard for foreign tin plate manufacturers, except in so far as they need their product, we may rely on the trustworthiness of their opinion. As expressed at this meeting it was as follows:

"Present indications do not show that the interests of the canning industry, etc., etc.," down to "increase in price only 15 cents a box." Exactly word for word the passage quoted above from the letter of Mr. Cronemeyer, president of the United States Iron and Tin Plate Manufacturing Co., and addressed by him to the convention.

Nothing can be added to this statement which can make more clear the duplicity and meanness which characterize the position taken by the American Economist on the whole subject of American tin plate. On the same page of the paper with the article above quoted from is another article headed, "None So Blind, etc." And it takes as a text this from Proverbs, xxvii. 22: "Though thou shouldst bray a fool in a mortar with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him." The editor of the American Economist should paste this in his hat and for Mr. Cronemeyer we would recommend the fifth article of the decalogue.—National Provisioner.

TRUST "ECONOMIES."

Not Until the Trust is Broken Do the "Economies" Appear.

We have been trying to find in the current reports of the trade journals some evidence as to the changes made in prices when the manufacturers in a industry lose the advantages derived from those "economies" which a trust or similar combination enables them to practice. Everybody has heard of these "economies." Everybody has been told by the trust makers that they reduce the cost of production and the selling price of the products. Many have been surprised when they saw prices consider by increased as the combined manufacturers were able enjoy the "economies." It appears also that prices suffer a serious decline, when manufacturers who have been in combination are no longer assisted by the "economies." The facts are curiously at variance with the trust makers' doctrine.

The combination of the manufacturers of steel beams was dissolved some weeks ago. While these manufacturers enjoyed the saving caused by the "economies" the price of steel beams was 3 1-10 cents per pound at the mill, or $69.44 per long ton. A few days ago 2,000 tons were sold in Chicago at the price of 2¼ cents, delivered. Other sales at even lower prices have been reported, as follows:

"It is stated that one large contract, 5,000 tons, for season's delivery, has been placed with a leading architectural works in this city [New York] at 2 cents, Pittsburgh mill."—Iron Age, Feb. 11, 1892.

"In the beam trade the only item of news of the week is the report that contracts for 5,000 tons have been placed in Boston at 2 3-10 cents, delivered."—Iron Age, March 3, 1892.

The price of barbed wire, as fixed by the barbed wire trust, was, at Pittsburgh, on January 28, just before the dissolution of this combination, $2.55 for painted and $3.05 for galvanized. On March 3, about one month after the dissolution of the trust, the prices at the same place were $2.25 and $2.65, and corresponding reductions had been made at other points.

The changes caused by the loss of the trust "economies" may be set forth as follows:

	With "economies."	Without "economies."	Decline pr. ct.
Steel beams	$69 44	$44 80	35
Barbed wire, painted	2.55	2.25	11
Barbed wire, galvanized	3.05	2.65	13

These figures will tax the ingenuity of the professional advocates of trustism. Immediately after the great advantages due to the practice of combination "economies" were withdrawn, the price of steel beams did not rise. It fell 35 per cent. And in the case of barbed wire there was a decline of 13 per cent. The trust's professors should overhaul and revise their chief doctrine.—N. Y. Times.

—There are eleven nail mills in Massachusetts. Nine of them are idle, the remaining two are run without profit, and must reduce wages or stop. The duties of $6.72 per ton on scrap and of 75 cents per ton on coal rob these works of all chance of profit, and send their discharged employes to swell the ranks of the unemployed, who find themselves the victims of a policy established ostensibly for their benefit.

He is Bound to Win.

That there is an irresistible movement within Democratic lines toward Mr. Cleveland as presidential candidate of the Democratic party, is now conceded on every hand. Opposition to him has practically been withdrawn, and wherever uncertainty had delayed determinate action the ranks are closed and solid.

A review of the situation, in the light of recent events, practically assures the selection of Grover Cleveland as the standard bearer. He can carry the great State of New York, and it is doubtful if any other man in the field could do so. He has made no attempt at aggressive interference with the plans of those who sought his overthrow in the Empire State, and no legitimate excuse is given them for opposing his election in the event of his nomination. They are pledged to support the party's candidate and precedent affords ample evidence of their sincerity.

The Rhode Island Democracy has pronounced for Cleveland. Sixty-six out of sixty-eight county conventions in Pennsylvania have declared for him. In the eastern states he is the first choice, and Gov. Russell, of Massachusetts, like Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, pledges his support to Cleveland. The remarkable demonstration in Indiana the other day shows the standing of the Hoosier State. Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan are in line, while Palmer of Illinois, has no ambition save to strengthen Cleveland's hands so long as he is in the field. Boies, of Iowa, is available only in case Cleveland is not. Kansas will join the rush and the man of destiny is booked as Harrison's successor.—Detroit Free Press.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT.

Single Tax Investigation in Washington.

Dr. Robert Rayburn, famous throughout the country as one of the physicians attending Garfield at his assassination, quietly arose and declared himself strongly in favor of the bill. He believed land values should bear the burden of taxation, and gave a number of striking instances of the way the improver was punished and the way the land holder, simply as holder, was rewarded. He earnestly hoped the commissioners would approve the bill, and that it would go into effect.

When Dr. Rayburn sat down another property owner was ready. He was Thomas H. Smith, owner of valuable land, improved and unimproved, and, indeed, of the very building in which the hearing was then going on. He had come in late and stood in a doorway, his eyes snapping and his whole manner breathing defiance. He wanted to know who the bill was "going to benefit." Did it propose to exempt the owner of the big Washington Loan and Trust office building?

Commissioner Douglass answered and showed that he had obtained a clear idea of the bill. He said: "The bill operates without regard to individual interest, the individual being merged in the whole. The argument is that the assessment of land at its true value, as the figures show, would raise $4,000,000 instead of two and a half or three millions. It would make a difference to the Washington Loan and Trust Co., and so it would to the man who owns property next to it, but it would equalize the thing, and would induce people who own land to improve it. At the same time the district should get more revenue."

Paul T. Bowen, representing District Assembly 66, of the Knights of Labor, which had, after exhaustive discussion, endorsed the bill by unanimous vote, was the next to address the commissioners, and he made a ringing single tax speech, saying that his organization supported the bill because they believed it would bring about three great results: Firstly, increase employment and raise wages; secondly, lower rents; and thirdly, give relief from taxation.

After Mr. Bowen came George C. Henning, president of the Traders' national bank, of Washington. He stated that eight years ago he suggested, through the columns of the Washington Post, the plan which now appears in the bill under consideration, without knowing that he had been anticipated by another—Henry George—in regard to this matter of the taxing the value of land. He said that this method of taxation would raise the revenue necessary for the local government with the least expense and the least possible hardship to the people.

By this time Mrs. Briggs had got together again, and ventured to remark that the bill could not help the renter, because the landlord would add his land tax to his rent.

This brought John DeWitt Warner to his feet. "The extent of the rent," said he, "that the landlord can exact from the tenant must depend upon the supply of houses. If we have in the city of Washington, as we do have, a large number of lots that have houses upon them, and a large number of lots which do not have houses upon them, then the system of taxation which fines or taxes the man who puts a house upon a lot, reduces the number of houses which are offered to tenants, and thereby enables the landlord to charge higher rent to the man who wants to rent. While, on the other hand, a system of taxation which will relieve the man who is a public benefactor by building more houses, from any part of the taxes on those improvements, and will offer inducements for building more houses, the number of houses in proportion to the number of tenants will be increased."

Mrs. Briggs: "It seems to me that the poor man who has to pay the rent will be taxed.

Mr. Warner: "So far as my experience goes, it is not the poor man who can afford to hold lots which are unimproved and which have no houses upon them. It is the people who can afford to pay taxes and who do not have to pay rent, but own their own houses, and who can afford to hold vacant lots. So far as the poor man owns any land, it is that on which his little house is located, and under the present system it is taxed more than it would be under the plan proposed."

E. W. Oyster, of the Federation of Labor, was the next supporter of the bill, and spoke in much the same strain as Mr. Bowen. He and Mr. Bowen, he said, represented nine-tenths of all the mechanics in the District of Columbia, and that they were as a unit for the bill.

The last objector to the bill was M. I. Weller, a prominent real estate agent, and a member of the East Washington association, a landowners' organization. Curiously enough, Mr. Weller was one of the experts whom Mr. Johnson had called in to help him determine the real value of the land of Washington. Mr. Weller had "come to scoff and stayed to pray"—that is, he learned so very much before he got up to speak, and from interruptions during his speaking, that he seemed perplexed and confused, and afterwards admitted that he half believed the other side had the best of the argument. Among other things he said that there was now three thousand vacant houses in Washington, whereupon Charles Newburg got up and poured in half a dozen questions that went to prove that there were a great many houses in Washington containing two, three, and four families each, and that if it was proposed to give everybody a separate house there wouldn't be enough houses to go around.

Everybody laughed, and Mr. Weller joined, but he made no attempt to answer. He merely remarked that if houses got so cheap people with money wouldn't invest, at which a voice said: "But wouldn't the mechanic build? Yes, he would."

Jackson H. Ralston said he addressed the commissioners in behalf of the Washington Single Tax club. He made a short, terse, pointed argument that sent every shaft home. Among the things he said was this, that the number of houses was not the only thing to be considered; the character of the houses had a great deal to do with the matter. He cited the case of Baltimore, in which, in 1881 or 1882, that city relieved manufacturing establishments of all kinds, no matter how extensive, of all taxation, and stated that the manufactories had enormously increased in consequence.

Mr. Johnson closed the hearing with the following spirited words: "I wish to thank the commissioners for their courtesy in giving an extensive hearing, and I will only occupy a few moments in closing. There is one side of this question that I purposely did not touch upon in opening this discussion. That was the ethical side. I merely presented statistics to show that the value of the land in this district was really $305,000,000 instead of $76,000,000, as assessed. But the strong side of this case is the ethical side. It is in answer to that question which a man is apt to ask at first, 'why is it that one class of property should bear all the burden of taxation?' Why is it that men should not divide this load of taxation according to wealth?' The answer is very simple, and it is the greatest mistake in civilization to-day that it has not been universally appreciated. Land in the district of Columbia gets every farthing of its benefit from government; every street completed, every sewer built, every single dollar spent in improvements benefit land values, and can benefit nothing else. Just as you beautify the city, you increase the value of the land. The value of any building or of any article of any kind, whether it is a church steeple or a wheelbarrow, is measured by its cost of production. You can not measure land values that way. Land values are measured by an entirely different measure. Imagine all the sewers of Washington, all the pavements, buildings, and everything that makes this city beautiful, taken up bodily and put down twenty miles from here at a place where land is of little or no value. That instant that land would be worth $305,000,000 and this land where we now stand only that of farming land. The value of land is a creation of the community. And it belongs to the community just as much as other things belong to the individual. And why should the community tax other things when it possesses this value, a value more than ample for its support?"

Mr. Johnson was vigorously applauded when he had finished, and Commissioner Douglass, on behalf of himself and his colleagues, expressed warm thanks to Mr. Johnson and the others who had spoken for information they had tendered. The commissioners will report their decision on the bill in a few days.
—Henry George, Jr.

The Poor Millionaires of Cincinnati.

The "Charity Ball" that lately came off in Cincinnati was a swell affair in fashionable circles, and was made the occasion of a display of jewelry so costly and dazzling that the daily papers discoursed upon the "great society event," under bold headlines, as evidence of the immense wealth of Cincinnati, to say nothing of her "munificent philanthropy." It has been observed, however, that only the merest fraction of all this wonderful wealth of Cincinnati has ever come to light on the tax duplicate.

The Cincinnati Post suggests an amusing explanation for this enormous discrepancy between the personal property owned by these wealthy people and the values returned by them for taxation. It says: "Perhaps in some instances the jewels were borrowed from friends or relatives for the occasion," and it offers the ironical reflection that "it is refreshing to know that if these precious stones were purchased for the occasion, the ladies will have something elegant to exhibit when the next Charity ball is given; and the tax duplicate will next spring be increased to a large extent by the returns to the assessors." Of the very wealthy patrons of this affair who were either present or represented, there were at least eleven persons who have for years been known as possessed of from two to eight millions. The wife of one of these millionaires wore, besides other rich jewels, a tiara which alone is said to have cost $40,000.

The Post says her husband is assessed on the tax duplicate as owning $1,500 worth of jewels. He is a very kind-hearted and popular man, and is widely known for his liberality and many charities. He is a devout church member, too, and I presume his conscience is perfectly easy on the subject of his taxes. Doubtless he feels as nine out of ten taxpayers anywhere would feel, that he is lucky to get off so lightly. Or possibly he does not think he is getting off lightly, for the Post names other millionaires whose returns of jewelry to the assessor only run from $200 to $1,000. Of the wealthy company that filled Music Hall that night the papers named over eighty persons who were conspicuous for their elegant attire and jewelry.

If the wealthiest of these are assessed at only $100 or so for $10,000 worth of property, the fact should furnish food for thought for our farmer friends and small capitalists who are determined to "make those millionaires pay taxes according to their means." For most of these tax evaders are amiable people (say nothing of being devout Christians), who really don't mean to do anything very wrong, and don't think it is wrong to get off with as light a tax as possible, and in this I, for one, can not wholly disagree with them; even the people who are clamoring for stricter tax laws and grumbling about the evasions of millionaire tax dodgers would doubtless do something like it themselves.—Klastes.

Fines for Building.

Detroit's assessment of land has increased $17,000,000 in four years, while in the same time its assessment on improvements has increased but $3,000,000, though there have been $20,000,000 worth of improvements made. In Detroit the fine for building a house is light, and speculators do not get all the increase in the value of land.—St. Louis Chronicle.

Annual Encampments of the Grand Army of the Republic—New Officers Elected—Meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps.

ILLINOIS VETERANS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 8.—The twenty-sixth annual encampment of the Illinois Grand Army of the Republic commenced here yesterday. Commander Clark's report shows 620 posts in the state, with 32,984 members, as against 605 posts and 32,941 members last year; 2,107 have been suspended, 263 discharged, and 477 have died during the year.

At the same time the Grand Army of the Republic encampment was convened the ninth annual convention of the Woman's Relief Corps was opened. During the year 1,600 persons have been assisted, including old soldiers, their families and members of the relief corps.

The Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic met and permanently organized the department of Illinois, with Mrs. Philip Gunlock, of Chicago, president. This organization differs from the relief corps in admitting only the mothers, sisters and daughters of veterans.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 9.—The twentieth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, department of Illinois, closed here Friday. It has been one of the most successful encampments in the history of the department. The polls were kept open for the election of officers until 12 o'clock. The result of the vote for the various department officers was announced as follows: Department commander, Capt. Ed. Harlan, Marshall; senior vice commander, W. F. Kenesea, Kankakee; chaplain, W. G. Cochrain, Lovington; medical director, J. R. Corbus. There was no election for junior vice commander and a second ballot was taken, resulting in the election of A. P. Schimpff, of Peoria. The following council of administration was elected: Louis Knighoff, Nashville; A. S. Cadwallader, Lincoln; W. H. Venable, Macomb; T. W. Cole, Rockford; O. F. Avery, Pontiac.

A number of resolutions were adopted. They reaffirm faith in Comrade R. A. Alger and "point to his splendid record as a soldier, as a complete refutation of the slanders of his enemies;" favor the appropriation by legislature of a sum sufficient to do away with the fee that is exacted from visitors to the Lincoln monument at Springfield; approve the establishment of a John A. Logan memorial hall at Athens, Tenn.; oppose the bill in congress to appropriate $100,000 to assist in entertaining the delegates to the national encampment; favor the women's relief corps scheme to establish a home for disabled soldiers, their wives and widows; urge the passage of a law by the legislature, similar to the New York law, for the relief of destitute war veterans by counties, towns, etc.; commend the Sons of Veterans for abolishing shoulder-straps and high-sounding titles; heartily indorse the order deprecating the carrying of the rebel flag in processions participated in by grand army posts.

The following delegates at large to the national encampment were announced late at night: O. H. Oldroyd, Springfield; J. L. Bennett, Chicago; James O'Donnell, Chicago; George Hunt, Springfield; S. H. Castle, Quincy; P. S. Galvin, Pana; Robert M. Woods, Joliet, William Venable, Macomb; J. M. McCloskey, Decatur; R. B. Stevenson, Anna; E. S. Watté, Oak Park; John C. Black, Chicago.

The Woman's Relief Corps elected the following officers: Department president, Mrs. Sarah E. Hannon, Cairo; senior vice, Mrs. Helen F. Bristol, Quincy; junior vice, Mrs. Nellie Stitzel, Pecatonica; treasurer, Mrs. Mary McCaully, Olney; chaplain, Mrs. Salome Wilson, Lincoln. The corps was addressed by Commander in Chief Gen. John Palmer, Col. James A. Sexton, of Chicago, Bishop Fallows, of Chicago, and others.

INDIANA SOLDIERS.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 8.—At the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic yesterday the following officers were elected:

Ex-Congressman Joseph B. Cheadle, of Frankfort, department commander; Phil Dickinson, of Fort Wayne, senior vice commander; George Kock, of New Albany, junior vice commander; Dr. J. M. Jones, of Spencer, medical director; Rev. C. P. Riley, of Fairmount, chaplain.

The Woman's Relief Corps elected officers as follows:

State president, Mrs. Ida McBride, Elkhart; senior vice president, Ella D. Zimm, Indianapolis; junior vice president, Julia Kintz, Fort Wayne; treasurer, Mary Tuseley, Elkhart; chaplain, Dr. Elizabeth Miller, Muncie; secretary, Carrie E. Harper, Elkhart.

Hiccoughing for Eight Months.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 11.—One of the most remarkable cases of hiccoughing known is that of Miss Etta May Cox. She has been hiccoughing at the rate of seventy-five times a minute for eight months, except when asleep. She is so much reduced in strength and flesh that she is only a living skeleton. She came here from Troy, N. Y.

Death of a Well-Known Divine.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Rev. Dr. J. The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.
It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.
The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.
WHAT IT CURES.
All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.
It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.
Over 40 Years,
This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.
Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Support the Local Papers.

Every self-supporting and self-respecting head of a family in Michigan ought to take at least two newspapers—his own home paper and the Detroit Free Press. We give the preference to the local paper because that is the one which comes most closely home to the man, and in which he should have a direct personal and friendly interest. And so, if the demands upon one's resources are such that only a single paper can be afforded, the neighbor who is doing his utmost to help the community, and incidentally himself, is the one who should receive encouragement and support. Newspapers cost so little nowadays, however, that it needs no self-denying ordinance on the part of anyone able to rear his family decently to enable him to take both his local paper and the Free Press, and in no other way is it possible to get so much of pleasure and profit at so little expenditure of money.

Newspapers are not published from philanthropic motives; but many country publishers are often tempted to believe that most of the people in the community in which their lot is cast have this opinion in regard to them. They are asked to grind everybody's ax and they do so most patiently and willingly, provided no one is injured by the grinding; they are expected to know everything that is going on, and to present the local news fully and attractively; they must be wide-awake and progressive, vigilant for the advancement of the material progress of the locality, be on the look-out for helpful projects, and be ready in season and out of season to exploit the industrial, agricultural and social advantages of the section with which they are identified. This work they do. For doing it they should receive cordial and substantial support—a sure incentive to redoubled efforts, making the paper more potent for good in and for the community. Far too often the support is half-hearted and grudging; the publisher grows discouraged at the apparent lack of appreciation of his efforts; he cannot afford the expenditures which are really necessary to make his paper what he would like to have it, and it is said to be running down, when its decadence is, in fact, a reflection upon the spirit and progress of the community.

There is no enterprise which deserves more liberal and considerate treatment at the hands of the people than their local papers. Some of those in Michigan, pioneers in progress, established before there is a clientage sufficient to support them, are necessarily crude and for a time can only expect a scanty living. But the friendly hand should be extended to them, and those which are more favorably situated should be suitably sustained. The local merchant should use them freely, and, demonstrating that advertising pays, should willingly pay a fair price for the returns he receives. The professional and business man, the artisan and the agriculturist should take them and should otherwise patronize them when they have need, and they will find the whole community quickened into new activity by the impulse which the live local paper will give.

The home paper in every community should be made a tower of strength.—Detroit Free Press, April 9.

A Valuable Gift.

A few weeks ago Supt. Kellogg received a communication from Mr. Lyster H. Dewey, a former graduate of the Tecumseh High School and now botanist in the Agricultural department at Washington, D. C., proposing to donate to our school a sufficient collection of botanical specimens of the flora of Michigan to form a nucleus of a reference herbarium for the use of the students in botany, the only condition being that the specimens should be properly mounted and a cabinet procured for their preservation. Mr. Dewey was assured that the condition would be complied with and last week the collection, containing about four hundred specimens, was received. At a meeting of the board of Trustees, held since then, a vote of thanks was returned to Mr. Dewey and Prof. Kellogg was instructed to procure the necessary material for mounting the specimens and also to have a cabinet made. The collection contains many rare specimens from all parts of the State, all properly classified, and in the study of botany will be a valuable aid that few schools possess. It is expected that additions will be made from time to time by the students of the school. The gift is one of exceeding value and will place the Tecumseh High School in the front rank in the advantages offered for the study of botany. Besides it will form the nucleus of a collection which will keep growing in future years. Mr. Dewey is entitled to the thanks of all our citizens for his generous gift.

Hudson's Narrow Escape.

The heart of the business section of Hudson had a very narrow escape from destruction by fire Sunday morning. An old rookery in the rear of the handsome new Holmes-Steger block, was burned at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and this elegant new edifice, the pride of Hudson, was badly scorched.

But again the water works came to the rescue, and with marvelous quickness extinguished the flames before even the wooden buildings that fed the flames, were half consumed. It was extraordinary work by the department, and the praise of Hudson's system is on every tongue. With the ordinary equipment half the town would have been burned by this quick, fierce fire.

The new windows of the Holmes-Steger building were burned out, and the contents more or less injured by smoke and water.

N. J. Holmes, merchant tailor second floor, loses $500 on building and $375 in stock. Insured. H. J. Steger, loss on market building $300. Uninsured. Miss. Nellie Coppin, dressmaking shop, second floor, loss $100, insured. J. J. Wood, bookseller, first floor, loss on stock, $400. Insured. Phil Seewald, jewler, loss on building $100. Insured. Daniel Crown was the owner of one of the old wooden buildings that is a total wreck. Messrs. J. C. McCowen & Co., and Mesdames Crooks and Rawson, dressmakers, who occupy Brown's brick building adjoining, on South Church street, suffered small losses. Steger Bros. market, met with but slight loss.

ARBOR DAY PROCLAMATION.

In accordance with established custom, I hereby designate Thursday, April 28, 1892, to be observed as Arbor Day.

The beneficial effects of the observance of Arbor Day have been noticed with interest and pleasure by the citizens of Michigan. Other States may excel us in extent of natural forests; but in fertile plains, smiling valleys and beautiful lakes, Michigan can nowhere be surpassed.

I earnestly appeal to all our people to observe Arbor Day by the planting of trees along the highways and about their homes. Fruit trees, shrubbery and flowers are blessings which all naturally enjoy, and every citizen can do something to render them more abundant.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the State, at the Capitol in Lansing, this eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and sixteenth.

EDWIN B. WINANS,
Governor.

TAR IN THE ARTS.

In the preparation of tar, pine wood, which is unfit for use as timber, is usually employed. It is cut into billets of a suitable size, which are arranged into large conical stacks, or, as is sometimes the case in Europe, are closely packed in clay furnaces of a suitable shape. The stacks or piles are covered with a layer of earth and ignited above, and the draft is regulated so as to sustain a slow combustion without flame. The tarry products, as they are formed, gradually descend and collect in a cavity at the base of the pile. The tar obtained by slow combustion as described above, is largely employed in the arts for various purposes, and when divided into its constituent parts is in one form or another daily prescribed by the best physicians. It has long been known for its great anti-septic and healing qualities, and for external use has been prepared by Messrs. Jas. S. Kirk & Co., in a most convenient and delightful form, in their Dusky Diamond Tar Soap. In this form, it should be classed among the necessities of every household; it is equally suitable for the delicate skin of the mother and the baby or the hardened cuticle of the workman, keeps the skin soft, clear and healthy, is a sure cure and preventive of dandruff, and strength to their hair.

WHY POETS RAVE

Over "Spring, gentle spring," is hard to understand by many thousands to whom spring is more a time of trial and suffering than of brightness and rejoicing. Still we believe the poet's idea is the correct one and should be the universal rule instead of the exception. It is largely a matter of health and this can be regulated if proper means are taken. Spring is a trying season for most people and the "breaking-up" which nature goes through means something to them. A good spring medicine is an essential at this time. It tones up the system, raises the spirits and in many cases saves weeks and perhaps months of serious sickness. Just such a medicine is found in Parmelee's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potassa Compound. It is a thorough exterminator of all Blood Poisons and is the best remedy in existence for all complaints arising from an impure condition of blood. Why pay $1.00 for a bottle containing only 12 ounces when you can get this for 50 cents in bottles holding full 8 ounces? Be sure and get Parmelee's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all dealers.

The 73rd anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America will be celebrated here, on April 26th, in a manner never before equalled upon such occasion in this village. In the afternoon of that day a public program of speeches, music, etc., will be given in Crabb's hall, under the auspices of the subordinate lodge. Following it, from 5 to 8 o'clock, there will be a banquet for the members of the order and their friends in Odd Fellows' hall. In the evening a "Calico Ball," for the pleasure of Odd Fellows and invited guests, will take place in Crabb's hall, and the fact that it will be managed by the ladies of the Rebecca lodge is sufficient assurance that it will be a grand social and dancing time.—Morenci Observer.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Must Divide Their Pensions.

At the soldiers' home board meeting at Grand Rapids a resolution was adopted by which pensioners shall, if they remain in the home, pay over to the managers all pensions they receive in excess of $4 per month, the money to be forwarded to the dependent members of the family if any, and where there are none to go toward the maintenance of the home. Heretofore, veterans who received $12 or more monthly pensions were not admitted. Under the new rule any old soldier can come in upon paying to the officers all pension money above $4 a month.

Michigan's Apportionment.

As a result of the recent decision of the Wisconsin supreme court upon the constitutionality of the legislative apportionment act, the "gerrymander" law of this state will be brought before the highest tribunal for a decision upon its validity. The republican county convention which met in Houghton to elect delegates to the state convention appointed a committee for this purpose. It will bring up the "gerrymander" of Houghton county, whereby Calumet township was put in a legislative district with Keewanee.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by sixty-three observers in different parts of the state for the week ended April 2 indicated that typho-malarial fever, diphtheria, measles, cholera infantum, pneumonia and erysipelas increased, and typhoid fever, inflammation of the brain and cerebro-spinal meningitis decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at thirty-three places, scarlet fever at fifty-six, typhoid fever at seventeen and measles at ten places.

Forced to Pay for Timber.

Charles Johnson, of Rock River, upper peninsula, last fall purchased eighty acres of state land, and during the winter not only cut the lumber off this tract, but from 200 acres adjoining, belonging to the state. The state swamp land board has accepted his offer to pay the fixed prices of $4 per acre for the lands trespassed upon and $100 in addition as a penalty and in settlement of expenses incurred by the state in the prosecution.

Veterans Gain First Blood.

The case by Veteran William Coe against the soldiers' home board at Grand Rapids on account of the new rule providing that all pension money in excess of four dollars a month shall be turned into the home treasury was brought up in the circuit and Judge Adsit granted a temporary injunction against the board and issued an order requiring the board to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

Fire Bugs Caught.

John and William Bloom, sons of a Detroit fireman, who were caught setting fire to a furniture factory, have confessed to having started twenty-one fires in that city within the last two months. The biggest fire was that of the Beecher elevator, a loss of $100,000, and from that down to $200. They were all office buildings and warehouses or barns, to which the boys applied oiled rags.

Fire partly destroyed the Burroughs stave and heading works near Wyandotte. Loss, $12,000; insured for $7,000.

Washington Davis, superintendent of the Grand Rapids Transfer Company, was crushed to death under a ton of glass.

Fred Wells, a Michigan Central brakeman, fell between his moving train near Pinconning and was literally cut to pieces. Three trains passed over the body.

T. N. Terrell, of Danville, Va., died at Detroit of injuries inflicted by George Snook while they were drunk.

P. N. Ferrell, a traveling salesman for his father, a wholesale tobacco dealer at Danville, Va., was sandbagged by an unknown man in Detroit and fatally injured.

Obituary.

The subject of this brief sketch—John N. Gordon—was born near Ballymena, Antrim County, Ireland, May 3, 1845. His boyhood was passed near his native town. Upon arriving at his majority he concluded to seek his fortune in the Western World and landed in New York City in the spring of 1875 with only five dollars in his pocket. He worked in that State about a year and then came to Macon, Michigan. With the savings of a few years' work he brought his father and mother from the Old Country and purchased forty acres of land in Macon. On the 8th of April, 1880, he was united in marriage to Miss Eugenia H. Church and they began housekeeping the next fall on the Macon farm. In the fall of 1890 he bought the farm north of Tecumseh and moved thereon in December following.

The deceased had always enjoyed rugged physical health. He had scarcely known what sickness was, and when he was taken down with an attack of gastric fever, about five weeks ago, it was not thought that his illness, although severe from the very first, would result fatally. He rapidly grew worse, however, the disease being so complicated and so obscure in its nature that the best medical skill was unable to check its progress, and after a little more than four weeks of intense suffering he gave up the contest and passed over to the other shore on the evening of April 7th. During his illness he bore his sufferings with the utmost fortitude and the attending physicians expressed wonder that he could endure such intense suffering and yet be so patient and uncomplaining. When told that he could not recover he said: "I suppose it must be so, but it is very hard to give up."

The deceased was a man of remarkable modesty and yet possessed a kind and genial disposition that won for him many warm friends. Although so quiet and unassuming he was yet a man of strong and decided convictions and always took a keen interest in politics and the general welfare of his adopted country. As a neighbor he was kind and obliging and always willing to lend his aid at all times. He was an indefatigable worker, exceedingly temperate in his habits, a good citizen, a true and steadfast friend. He had not an enemy in the wide world. Every one who knew "Johnny Gordon" knew him only to honor and respect him. Although making few professions his was one of those rare natures whose lives are a daily example of the spirit of true Christianity that needs no profession of words, and he fulfilled in its true sense the Scriptural injunction to "Live honorably by all men." But his worth was best revealed in his own home, where his perfect unselfishness and constant thoughtfulness for those about him will make his loss one that can never be replaced. His was indeed an honorable and manly life and he fought the good fight to the last.

The funeral services were held at the family residence on Sunday last, Rev. W. H. Babbitt officiating, who offered words of consolation to the mourners. The neighbors and his old Macon friends were present in large numbers to pay a tribute of respect to the departed and to follow his remains to the tomb. The stricken widow has the sympathy of the entire community in her great affliction.

Services are held at St. Peter's church every morning this week at 10 o'clock a. m. To-morrow, Good Friday, there will also be an evening service at 7 p.m. On Easter Day, next Sunday, there will be three services: prayers at 6 a. m., communion at 10:30, Sabbath school at 4 p. m.

Farmers and horsemen, who admire good horseflesh, should examine into the merits of Carl Burger's Suffolk Punch Stallion "Tub." This horse is one of the best heavy horses ever imported into Lenawee county and represents a breed that ought to be cultivated. All inquiries addressed to Mr. Burger at Macon, will be promptly answered.

The three days semi-annual convention of the Congregational churches closed Thursday morning. Space forbids even an outline account of the same, but it was well attended and successful. The association is composed of twenty-five churches, eighteen of which were represented. Seventy-five persons came from a distance, among them eighteen ministers of the gospel.—Addison Courier.

A number of owners of steam yachts in New York intend to utilize them to transport themselves and their friends to the Exposition by way of the St. Lawrence and Welland Canal. They believe it will be of great advantage to live aboard their yachts, and thus be independent of crowded hotels. It is reported that the owners of many steam barges in Canada will fit them with comfortable living quarters, and carry Canadian visitors to and from the Fair.

The village council Monday evening passed an ordinance creating a water board of three members to be appointed next Monday. The council has also secured the services of W. S. Parker, an eastern engineer who has put in several successful systems in this state, to submit plans and specifications and to superintend the construction of the works to be erected in this village. We anticipate that work will soon commence after the appointment of the board.

Few villages give more attention to music than Hudson, and few can lay claim to finer talent. To promote the interest in musical matters still more and bring about a union of effort among instrumentalists and singers, the preparatory steps have been taken toward the organization of a musical society. Occasional recitals will be held to quicken the interest in musical culture and encourage individual effort. Further particulars will be given later.—Hudson Gazette.

M. E. Conklin is again in the field with a full line of the celebrated Walter A. Wood Harvesting Machinery. The enclosed gear mower, the single apron binder and the binding harvester are the three leaders which he will push this season. His headquarters will be at Whitenack's hardware store, where he would be pleased to interview all those farmers who are in need of a mower or binder. The same firm is now manufacturing a horse hay rake which is said to be a superior article.

You who are interested in pensions do not fail to call upon Comrade O. H. Perry, representing C. E. Foote's Pension Claim Agency, Kalamazoo, Mich. He will be at the Hotel, Tecumseh, Mich., Monday, April 25th, 1892. He can give you valuable information relating to pension matters. He will be glad to see every comrade, and the widow or dependent parents of soldiers who may desire to see him relating to pension matters. No charge for advice or counsel. Be sure and take your pensions papers with you. Read carefully Mr. Foote's circulars which have been mailed to comrades in this vicinity. Remember the day and date.

Gov. Winans has appointed April 28th as Arbor Day.

Miss Grace Heesen is enjoying a visit with her friends in Chicago.

The Democratic County Convention will meet in Adrian on Wednesday next, April 20th.

Rev. Babbitt was unable to occupy his pulpit last Sunday evening, by reason of a severe cold.

Wm. Ide got his big water pot in shape and "opened 'er up" on Chicago street yesterday moning.

The next meeting of the Lenawee county Teacher's Association will be held at Morenci, April 30.

Postmaster Conlin, of Tipton, was in town Tuesday. He says that spring trade is opening up lively.

The Common Council, last Monday evening, took some preliminary action on the water works question.

The Ridgeway prohibitionists will hold a meeting at Exelby Hall, to-morrow evening to organize a club.

The Lenawee Baptist Association met in Hudson Tuesday. There was a good attendance and a good program presented.

The bycliclers are out in force this week. Pleasant weather and good roads are bringing them out of their winter quarters.

The percentage of women who successfully pass the examination for government positions is greater than that of men.

Grant Schreder had a beautiful little girl arrive at his house Monday morning. The boys are smoking at Grant's expense now.

Last year at this time strawberries were quite plentiful in market, but unseasonable weather cut the crop short in the south this season.

Hon. Thos. F. Moore, of Madison, returned last week from a four week's attendance as a juror in the U. S. district and circuit court at Detroit. Not being very well he got excused.

A new "spell" has been discovered at the Industrial home for girls. One of the inmates spelled Mississippi thus: "Mrs ipi" and the balance of the class copied it.—Adrian Times. Let the class graduate in 10-A-C.

The death of John N. Gordon was a severe shock to his friends and acquaintances. He was a man who was highly respected by all who knew him and his loss will be deeply felt. An obituary notice appears elsewhere.

The Davidson Bros. are preparing to push the campaign for the Milwaukee Machines this season. They have taken the vacant store of the telephone office for head-quarters, where they have a mower and binder now in position, and are preparing to make things lively for their competitors.

Puck's double-page cartoon of April 13th is entitled: "The Opposition Services." D. B. Hill, in clerical vestments, stands in the dismantled "Church of the Hillites" and gazes despondingly at the throng of states, in Easter bonnets, ascending the steps of "The Tariff Reform Church," at the entrance of which they are welcomed by Grover Cleveland.

S. P. Hosmer & Son have a new card this week. Mr. Hosmer makes a specialty of fitting eye-glasses. The technical knowledge gained by him, while attending a course of lectures by Dr. Julius King of Cleveland, enables him to fill the place of an expert in this line of his business. The firm also carry a very large stock of jewelry, silverware and stationery.

Brainard's Musical World for April is an "Easter Holiday Number," full of beautiful new music and interesting reading matter. It contains three new piano pieces: "The First Kiss" an elegant Gavotte by Wm. Schlueter; the celebrated "Secrenata" by Moszkowski and "Remembrance of Happy Days" a charming piece by Richard Ferber. Also and exquisite new Cradle Song by Ferber, "Oh, Lullaby my Baby." The music in this number is alone worth $2.00. Mailed post-paid for 15 cents in stamps. Published monthly at $1.50 per year.

The Birmingham Times says: Rev. G. L. Hanawalt and daughter, Miss Myrta, gave a very pleasant entertainment at the M. E. church, as announced last week. Their program was quite lengthy but not a bit tiresome. The singing, solos and duets, was harmonious, and showed a great deal of culture, while Miss Myrta as an elocutionist delivered several recitations, both pathetic and humorous, that were received with enthusiasm by her hearers. We hope to hear them again and predict a crowded house, if the admission is put at the usual Birmingham rates. At the M. E. church, Tuesday evening, April 26.

Of a concert given in Shelby, Ohio, by the M. E. church choir, the editor of the Shelby Times wrote the following: We were charmed by the perfect stream of sweet cords and the rolicking songs. We would like to express our appreciation of our favorites but dare not do it, as all did so well. We cannot refrain, however, from saying that "If I Were a Voice" was well sung by Mr. Hanawalt. We had often before heard this song, never before with such touching pathos and so finely cultivated voice, as that of Bro. Hanawalt. You could almost see the "voice," in its spiritual habiliments floating over land and sea on its mission of mercy. At the M. E. church under the auspices of Epworth League, Tuesday evening, April 26.

D. T. Hall is a visitor in Detroit today.

Justice Burridge is suffering from an adjournment of the grip.

Work was commenced on a test well by the village council last Saturday near the Mackinaw water tank.

Jas. F. Cummins, of Toledo, was in town Friday. Jim is still on the road and gets round to Tecumseh occasionally.

The following persons will represent Tecumseh at the Democratic County convention next week: Alf. James, David McNair, S. P. Hosmer, B. J. Garlinghouse, Frank Davidson, Hannibal Osborn.

The regular business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church, will convene in the church parlors at 4 o'clock p. m. on April 20th. Supper will be served from 5:30 to 6:30, by Mrs. Wm. Ide's committee. All are invited.

The society men of our town are talking strongly of a return party, to be given those Leap Year ladies, about the first of May. Some hustling will have to be done to give a return party worthy of that famous bissextile event.

Mrs. M. A. Hazlett, of Addison, has been selected as one of the judges at the annual oratorical contest of the Ypsilanti Normal school on May 13th. She will present the prize to the most successful gentleman contestant, and make the presentation to the lady prize winner. The prizes in both cases is a gold medal and a $20 gold piece.

Last Saturday afternoon Dr. Woodward, assisted by Drs. Howell, Nelson, North and Barnes, performed a very successful thigh amputation on Abijah Packard, who was afflicted with sarcoma. The operation had been once postponed that the patient might consult with Dr. Nancreed, of the University, who fully concurred with Surgeon Woodward, that an amputation should be performed. The patient is now in excellent condition and spirits.

The World's Fair Ministrels—Blissfield talent—played to a good house at Carpenter's Hall Saturday evening. The singing and musical part of the program was very good, as were also the character sketches of E. Ferguson. The show, on the whole, was up to the average of that class of amateur entertainments, and the audience seemed to be well pleased.—Blissfield Advance.

J. R. GREGG'S ELECTRIC SPECIALTIES
"Do the Rest."

The extent of Pressure on the button and the success of Dr. Gregg's Goods in "Doing the Rest" is most satisfactorily shown in the marvelous growth of our business the past 60 days.

Repeated and increasing demands for The Gregg Electric "Foot Warmer" are coming in from all parts of the country with profuse acknowledgements that so much comfort for $1.00 (the price) is like buying Gold Dollars for ten cents.

The Delicate Organism of Woman subjects her to many peculiar ailments and unfortunate misery. The extreme sensitiveness of her Nervous System very frequently requires artificial stimulus. The Gregg Electric Belt and other Appliances supply this as nothing else can.

The Rugged Constitution of Man, when once broken, becomes pitiable in the extreme, from which there is absolutely no escape without assistance. The Gregg Electric Belts and Appliances in cases of this kind have honestly won their title of King of Remedies.

Rheumatism is conquered, sufferers from Obesity are speedily relieved, Dropsy quickly yields, spinal difficulties and Paralysis disappear, and many other diseases of Men and Women are permanently cured, fully described in complete catalogue for 6c, or elaborate circular free. We guarantee to forfeit twice the price of any of Dr. Gregg's goods found not to be genuine. We make an elegant little $3 Electric Belt which is selling very rapidly and which we take in exchange for any higher power belt (except $5 belt) and credit $3 on the price of new order. Remember the Electric Foot warmers are $1 a pair, worth $10. Address

FROM WASHINGTON.

Work of the National Lawmakers in Senate and House.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House — Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—In the senate yesterday an adverse report was made on Mr. Peffer's bill to create a fund for setting our army of laborers at work on public improvements. The Indian appropriation bill was discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Indian appropriation bill was passed in the senate yesterday. Senator Wolcott (Col.) spoke in favor of the free coinage of silver.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—In the senate yesterday a bill was introduced to naturalize Chinamen now residents of this country. The District of Columbia appropriation bill was discussed.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—In the house yesterday a bill was reported authorizing the state of Wisconsin to place in statuary hall a statue of Pere Marquette. No vote was reached on the free wool bill. Bills were reported for relief of settlers on unsurveyed government lands lying in certain railroad land grants.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—In the house yesterday the debate on the free wool bill came to an end, but no vote was taken.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The free wool bill was passed in the house yesterday by a vote of 192 to 60. Favorable reports were made on public building bills appropriating for Ann Arbor, Mich., $60,000, and for Clinton, Ia., $50,000; also on the bill for an estimate cost of construction of a ship canal from the great lakes to navigable waters of the Hudson river of sufficient capacity to transport the tonnage of the lakes to the sea.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—In the house yesterday a bill was introduced to authorize the holding of an international monetary congress in Chicago, to commence August 8, 1893. The bill to admit cotton bagging free of duty was discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—In the house on Saturday the bill putting cotton bagging and ties on the free list was passed by a vote of 166 to 46. A bill was introduced to permit railroads to sell to commercial travelers 1,000-mile non-transferable tickets. A number of eulogies were delivered upon the late M. H. Ford, of Michigan.

FAULT OF A FLAGMAN.

Neglect to Hold a Train Causes a Collision —Twelve Persons Hurt.

MOUNT VERNON, O., April 9.—A wreck occurred near here on the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus road Thursday afternoon—a collision between a freight and an east-bound passenger train owing to a failure of a flagman to hold one train until the other had passed. A dozen passengers were hurt. Those seriously injured are: Mrs. Jonathan Tipton, Black Creek, left arm, wrist, back and internally; Mrs. W. H. Lotta, Columbus, O., back; W. L. Koch, Millersburg, O., hand and arm hurt; H. Irvin, Westerville, head; S. L. Nearing, Danville, left leg; Engineer L. B. Reed, ankle hurt by jumping.

Charged with Murder.

WAUPACA, Wis., April 9.—Assemblyman Alfred R. Lea, Sam Stout, Alfred Pall and David Holmes, all of this city, have been arrested upon indictments returned by the grand jury when it finished its investigation of the murder of Banker Mead. Stout is charged with being a principal in the murder, and Lea, Pall and Holmes as accessories. Tab Pryor is also under arrest at Rhinelander charged with being a principal in the affair. It is thought probably four more arrests will take place soon. The men under arrest will probably be tried at the next term of court in October.

Must Hold a New Election.

LANSING, Mich., April 11.—The supreme court has decided that the election of Joseph Fuller as probate judge of Montcalm county last March is void because a special election was not ordered by the board of supervisors or the governor, and consequently Lucian C. Palmer, who was appointed probate judge by the governor November 13, 1890, upon the resignation of Judge Wallace, and who contested Fuller's claim of election, will remain on the probate bench until his successor is duly elected.

William H. Metcalf Dead.

MILWAUKEE, April 9.—William H. Metcalf, one of the wealthiest men of Milwaukee, died after a prolonged illness, aged 71 years. He was the junior member of the firm of Bradley & Metcalf, one of the oldest boot and shoe houses in the northwest, and was one of the pioneers of Milwaukee. Mr. Metcalf leaves an estate valued at $1,000,000 and over.

Hetherington Acquitted.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—News was received at the navy department Saturday morning that Lieut. J. H. Hetherington, U. S. N., has been acquitted on the charge of killing Robinson at Yokohama about two months ago. Hetherington is the lieutenant in the navy who shot and killed Robinson on account of the latter's intimacy with Mrs. Hetherington.

Pushed Over a Stairway.

BURLINGTON, Ia., April 11.—Peter Kelly, nearly 80 years of age, and John Crush got into a fight in the Denver house, when Crush pushed Kelly over the stairway, causing him to fall to the floor below, crushing his skull and killing him instantly. Crush is in jail.

Won't Sell Oleomargarine.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 11.—Retail dealers in oleomargarine at Pittsburgh will go out of the business to avoid prosecution under the state law. This will stop the sale of about 1,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine monthly, manufactured at Chicago and Cleveland.

MANY CATTLE PERISHED.

Serious Losses During the Recent Blizzard in the Grazing Country.

OMAHA, Neb., April 9.—Delayed dispatches, letters and travelers coming in from the cattle districts bring news of heavy losses to herds from the recent blizzard, which is declared the worst on the ranges since that which crippled the owners of herds in the Niobrara valley ten years ago. Along the main line of the Union Pacific carcasses of animals can be seen from the train. The cattle hunted in vain in the snow for feed for several days, kept drifting before the winds and finally "got down." When the hay which was carted from the ranches for their relief reached them they were too weak to eat and perished. On the North Platte some distance west of North Platte and east of the Wyoming line 1,200 cattle drifted before the storm, plunged into the river and were drowned. They belonged to various herds. From the northern part of the state reports come of yearlings frozen in the stock yards and also in cars, where they had been put with the idea that they could be kept warmer than in the pens. The opinion of railway people and cattlemen is that the returns will show that several thousand head, principally cows and young calves, have perished in the blizzards in Nebraska. Few cattle-owners in the state have neglected to lay up a quantity of hay, but the storm lasted so long that many cattle drifted out of reach.

MANY LIVES LOST.

The Terrible Result of the Recent Floods in Mississippi.

COLUMBUS, Miss., April 11.—The last few days have been the most distressing this section has ever experienced. Wednesday morning the Tombigbee river, already full, began rising rapidly. By Thursday morning all the low lands were submerged, the river having risen 14 feet that night. It continued to rise all that day and by Friday morning it was 7 feet higher than was ever known before. Black and Luxapila creeks joined their waters with the Tombigbee and Columbus was then literally an island with 5 miles of water in every direction.

There has been great loss of life and an immense amount of property destroyed. Fourteen negroes were drowned a few miles from this place. A low estimate puts the loss at fifty in this county. To this time no white persons have been reported drowned. The flood has carried destruction in all directions. Hundreds of homes have been swept away, miles and miles of fences destroyed, and the loss of mules and cattle is large. The river and creeks rose so rapidly that a great number of people were aroused from their slumbers by the rush of water through their houses and, of course, could save none of their household effects.

VICTORY FOR OXFORD.

The Cambridge Eight Defeated on the Thames.

LONDON, April 11.—For the twenty-sixth time since the inauguration of the Oxford-Cambridge boat race, the crew of the Oxford University boat club has passed the winning line ahead of their opponents. The dark blue of Oxford was again carried to victory on Saturday by the strong arms of its wearers, and thundering cheers greeted the oarsmen as they rested on their oars after their well-fought battle for success. Altogether forty-five races had been rowed, one of which, that of 1877, terminated in a dead heat.

Oxford's time was 19 minutes 21 seconds. The time is the best ever made over the present course. It was at first announced that they had won by a length and a half, but the official announcement of the judges put the distance at two lengths and a quarter.

Seeking Heavy Damages.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 11.—The heirs of Dr. Preston B. Plumb, who, while deranged, jumped from a window of the Des Moines Keeley institute and was killed, have sued the institute for $50,000 damages. Dr. Plumb had been a patient, but the institute folks claim he was only a visitor at the time of the accident.

Vessels Overdue.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Shipping circles are at present greatly alarmed over the probable loss of three vessels, the crews numbering forty-eight persons and property to the valuation of about $248,000.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No. 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent;
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, France the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition, and were passed upon by a jury composed of thirty-seven mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only Gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault. Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory.

THE BAFFLED PESSIMIST.

I sat me down to write a rhyme of gloom.
All was in tune for it; my temples throbbed,
In semi-darkness was my cheerless room,
And through the trees the sad breeze soughed and sobbed,
My heart was burning with a fancied woe;
Digestion waited not on appetite,
My spirits came in dull and sluggish flow;
Naught was there in the world that pleased my sight.

My pen itself would not put down the thought—
The pessimistic thought—that held my mind.
Try as I would the fancy flew uncaught,
Uncatchable as any truant wind.
Yet wrote I on, and when the rhyme complete
Stared boldly at me from the saffron page,
I found myself a victim to defeat—
I'd written this a truly happy age!

I'd said that in this life were more of good
Than wicked tatngs; despite the heavy mist
Of prisons trial, those who understood
Life as it really is could not resist
The true conclusion, tried and guaranteed,
That we have many blessings; and no grief,
However much because of it the heart may bleed,
Has never been without some sweet relief.

Alas! that I, disciple true of gloom,
Philosopher of woe, should e'er confess
That joy upon this earth hath any room,
That mortals find here aught of happiness!
And yet, though I seem faithless to my creed
In writing then that optimistic song,
I am not so. It proves its truth, indeed,
When even I, its follower, go wrong.
—John Kendrick Bangs, in Harper's Weekly.

UNDER A "DUMMY."

How a Detective Captured His First Thief.

I was the youngest detective on the force and was burning to distinguish myself.

So far chance had not favored me with a first-class murder or robbery, because the older and more experienced officers were always detailed to ferret out those cases.

Sometimes, through the aid given them by wideawake newspaper reporters, these older foxes were successful, and then, of course, claimed and took all the credit for superior skill and shrewdness. If they failed—as they often did—to bag their game they laid the fault to the papers for making the affair public, and thus giving the rogues an opportunity to slip away or cover up their tracks.

One day, while I was meditating if it wouldn't pay me to go to England and catch Mr. Jack the Ripper, I was called into the inner sanctum by our chief and ordered to report for duty on the morrow at one of the largest and most fashionable retail dry-goods stores in the city.

I was there to see the head of the house and from him learned what I was to do.

Although it didn't look like a job wherein I should run a risk of life or gain a great reputation, I was well pleased at the commission and resolved that my part of it shouldn't be a failure. Accordingly the next morning found me in the private office of the grand store having a strictly confidential interview with its senior partner.

I was informed that in their cloak department many thefts had recently taken place, and that in spite of careful watching there was not the slightest clew to the thief.

The garments stolen had been fur-trimmed cloaks of high value, and were all taken from the dummies standing about the floor, on which said articles were hung to show them to advantage and also beautify the salesroom.

I asked the usual questions concerning the many and decidedly pretty young ladies employed in the department, but the firm scouted the thought that any of them had anything to do with the robberies and gave me to infer that the thefts were committed by professional shoplifters.

After a little more talk, which helped me not at all, I was introduced to the gentleman at the head of the cloak room and left to follow my own way of nabbing the culprit.

The thefts had all, as far as my cloak manager knew, been done during the busiest part of the day when the floor was thronged with lady shoppers. The handsomest and most expensive garments were displayed on the dummies and frequently renewed each day, for, owing to their catching the ladies' eyes by hanging naturally from the shapely skeleton forms, they sold much quicker than if left undistinguished among the hundreds of others.

Taking my position in the establishment as the new floor walker and being so pointed out to the young lady employes, I began my rather unexciting and too easy task.

In my best suit and necktie, with my good looks enhanced by a tonsorial artist, and all smiles and bows, I made out to be tolerably busy at doing nothing, and meeting and greeting the stylishly-dressed crowds of eager shoppers and directing them, as well as my short knowledge of mercantile business let me, to the objects of which they were in search.

I also put on airs of authority for the benefit of the young saleslades so they wouldn't by their manners cause any suspicion to the party or parties I was expecting to capture.

I watched everybody and everything—noticed that each cloak-arrayed dummy was generally being examined by one or more admiring and enthusiastic female shoppers, who not only used their sparkling eyes, but also their daintily-gloved fingers in obtaining a knowledge of the garment displayed as a bait for their husband's hard-earned money.

I noticed, too, that probably half of the shoppers came there without the faintest idea of buying—merely to enjoy the intoxication of hunting for bargains and giving the polite and attentive saleslades as much trouble as possible.

I saw many more things which aroused my suspicions and curiosity during the day, and I never for a moment left my station—not even for lunch—till the place was closed for the night and all the hands had gone.

Then, to my surprise and chagrin, I was informed by the manager that two valuable cloaks had been stolen right under my nose.

The job of catching the thief wasn't as easy as I supposed, and I began to think I wasn't much of a detective, after all—at least when there was a woman in the case.

But I dared not show any signs of not knowing my business, and assuming an "all-right" manner, I told my cloak man that on the next day the bird would be trapped, as it always took a while to make observations and form theories, and then I arranged to meet him on the floor early in the coming morning before any of the employes arrived.

Before I went to sleep that night I laid my plans.

In the morning bright and early I was around and with the manager alone went on the cloak floor to make the needful preparations to distinguish or extinguish myself.

Selecting one of the largest dummies and seeing that the brown muslin dress over its skeleton frame was in good order and reached to the floor, I told my astonished dry goods man that I intended to hide under it and there lie in wait for the thief, who I meant to nab when the cloak over me was removed, being, of course, able to know that by the light of the salesroom shining through the thin muslin covering.

He smiled at the queerness of the proceeding, but told me to go ahead and promised to be on hand in case I wanted assistance.

Putting on the dummy an elegant cloak for bait, he helped me to hide securely under it, and, wishing me success, he left me with a laugh which, I must say, I didn't feel like echoing.

Soon I heard the store people tramping in and the young sale ladies tripping by me and chatting gayly as they laid aside their wraps and hats preparatory to commencing the labors of the day.

They seemed immensely merry over something very funny, and their peals of musical laughter sounded sweet to my eager ears until, alas, I sadly discovered that I, the new floor-walker, was the subject of their witticisms and ridicule.

How I wanted to suddenly pop out from my ignoble hiding place and squelch them as they deserved, but the certainty of only making myself more ridiculous and being met with redoubled laughter kept me in my mean and unhappy position — under a female skirt.

By and by, and greatly to my mind's relief, the smart remarks followed by peals of merriment gave way to the sober hum and bustle of business.

For hours I sat in my cramped and uncomfortable hiding place, feeling like a fool and, no doubt, looking like one. Crazily excited shoppers brushed against the dummy, beneath which a bigger dummy squatted, and several times nearly knocked it over, so I had plenty of occupation in holding it down. Once the cold sweat came out all over me and my hair stood up straight when some one tried to lift my strange tent from the floor and expose the "handsome new floor-walker," squatting like a tailor and looking like a boiled lobster under it.

You may believe I held on with a grip which death itself couldn't unclasp till the danger was gone.

Noon time came. Hungry, thirsty, tired and with bones aching from cramp, there I was and there I had to stick till night or my anxiously hoped for shop-lifter came—if that was her day.

I heard the clock strike "two" and "three," and "four," and in spite of patience and grit, and pride, and everything, I swore at myself and laughed at myself, and vowed to myself that never more would I undertake to be smarter than a woman. Henceforth I should confine my detective abilities exclusively to male "Jack the Rippers" or bank cashiers, or else peddle peanuts for a living.

While thus engaged in sorrowful meditations and trying painfully to ease my cramped body without exciting attention, I was aroused by someone tugging at the cloak, and lifting the dummy's skirt I could just see a pair of dainty feet. Then, in an instant, off the cloak slipped—the dim light shining through the dummy's muslin covering telling me—and like a flash I grabbed the ankles of the pretty feet I was watching, sprang from my hiding hole and—of all the shrieks and blushes and indignation I ever knew, those from the elegantly dressed and exquisitely beautiful young lady I had so ungallantly and meanly captured took the prize.

At once I was the center of a panic-stricken and terribly angry mob of females who wanted to kill me and toss what was left of my miserable careass out of the window. And if the big department manager had not promptly rescued me from their clutches after my coat tails had been ripped off and my side whiskers badly damaged they'd have done it.

During the battle, and, careless of my injuries, I kept tight hold of my fair prisoner—only instead of grasping her pretty ankles I shifted to her equally pretty wrists.

Her sweet, innocent and beautiful indignation seemed so real that I feared an awful mistake had been made and began to figure how many years' salary I should have to pay for damages. But when she was searched, with due apologies for the apparent necessity, the amount of pawn tickets for cloaks found in her stocking—by the female searcher, of course—saved my bacon and put me in the papers as one of the most skillful detectives on record.

But no more dummies for me. —H. C. Dodge, in Detroit Free Press.

A FATAL FIGHT.

Western Cattlemen at War with Stock-Thieves.

It Occurs in Montana, and Eight Ranchers Are Said to Have Been Slain—A War of Extermination Inaugurated.

DEFEATED BY THE RUSTLERS.

HELENA, Mont., April 6.—A dispatch from Dillon, in the southern part of the state on the road to Jackson, in Wyoming, announces that a battle occurred two days ago between a band of thieves and cattlemen on the Montana side of the Wind river country. The news was brought in by a ranchman who talked with one of the participants.

Ranchmen from southern Montana, northern Wyoming and northern Idaho, exasperated by the depredations of an organized band of thieves of the Teton section, assembled by agreement at a point somewhere west of Blackfoot and began the search for the robbers and found a large body intrenched in winter quarters.

They attacked them and were repulsed, losing eight killed and many wounded. The robbers also lost heavily. It is known that the ranchmen had been contemplating this action, and that fact gave color to the rumor. The place where the fight is said to have occurred is isolated and news of the fight would not reach the outside world for several days. This encounter is supposed to have occurred on Green river, where the outlaws have winter quarters.

This band of horse and cattle thieves is incorporated under the laws of Wyoming under a high-sounding name. Plans for a war of extermination have been under formation since last fall. Besides a party of twenty-five that started out from Billings it is learned that a party left Big Timber March 10, under the lead of Sim Roberts. The party composed thirteen men, all of them frontier and mountain men. They loaded two cars with horses, pack mules, guns, ammunition and food. Their departure was kept a secret as far as possible, the newspapers being asked to withhold all information for the present. One hundred thousand dollars' worth of beef was raised for this expedition and the men are paid $1,000 each. The leaders get $2,500.

Bloody war is expected. The outlaws are determined not to yield to arrest. There is still a great deal of snow in the mountains and it may be slow work for the cattlemen to reach their headquarters, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that the thieves will have no chance of getting away from their mountain fastnesses and snowbound basin. Every road from the basin is guarded.

It was in 1884 that the last expedition of this kind was formed. The men started out in June and cleaned out the last thief in December. They hanged sixty men and followed some of them into Canada. The biggest killing took place on Big Bend of the Missouri, where the cattlemen had a battle. The Marquis de Mores figured in that raid. He contributed $5,000 and afterward left the country on a vacation.

FOR GRESHAM AND POLK.

Knights of Labor Leaders Decide to Support That National Ticket.

CINCINNATI, April 11.—Deputy Supreme Master Workman Cavanaugh, who has returned from Philadelphia, says that the conference of the Knights of Labor leaders in that city resulted in a determination to support Judge Gresham for president and Polk, of North Carolina, for vice president. It is stated that Judge Gresham strongly intimated that if a modified platform was adopted he would accept the third party nomination.

Already a Rush for Europe.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The rush to Europe has begun in earnest and the exodus this year promises to be greater than ever before. Several of the passenger agents say that for certain sailings in May and June practically all berths are already engaged. The long engagement of berths is especially true of the higher priced accommodations. The deck cabins and suits of rooms on the City of New York and City of Paris are already nearly all taken for certain sailings.

Killed Himself with Dynamite.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 8.—Michael Curry, living near Port Griffith, was found dead near his home. His body was terribly mutilated and it was believed at first that he had been murdered, but investigation showed he had killed himself, having used dynamite for that purpose. Curry had threatened to commit suicide because of family troubles. He had just got out of jail where he had served a term for abusing his wife.

Clearing House Balances.

NEW YORK, April 9.—At the leading clearing houses in the United States the exchanges during the week ended on the 8th aggregated $1,241,890,287, against $1,083,628,886 the previous week. The increase as compared with the corresponding week of 1891 was 17.8.

Died on a Railway Train.

SOMERSET, Ky., April 9.—Albert H. Watson, an invalid and a retired dry-goods merchant of Unadilla, Mich., died suddenly on a Cincinnati Southern train near here Thursday afternoon. He was on his way to Florida. His body was taken to Michigan.

Found Two More Bodies.

DUNBAR, Pa., April 11.—The search party in the Hill Farm mine near here on Saturday brought out the bodies of Barney Maush and David Hays, who were entombed there in June, 1890. This makes twenty-seven bodies recovered.

A Crazy Woman's Deed.

BERLIN, April 11.—The wife of Customs Inspector Weinherdt, of Bremerhaven, drowned herself and her five children at the North German Lloyd docks Saturday. She is thought to have been insane.

WILL GRIPPE BE AN ANNUAL VISITOR?

This question is under serious consideration by the medical profession and the public in general are deeply interested in the answer. Its visitations during the past three years have impressed upon people a full sense of its power and danger, and the experience of those years has also taught many things in regard to the nature of the disease. One important thing learned is that sad results often follow long after the disease itself is supposed to be fully over. It is this insidious, lingering effect which just now is being felt through the country. The colds which come so readily with these spring months develops into full fruit the germs left by the disease, and a long siege of sickness, with great danger of fatal results, is apt to follow. To stop this at the start is most important. No remedy on the market or no physicians' prescription is so sure to do this as Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It has been tried in thousands of cases and the manufacturers guarantee full benefits. All lung difficulties are benefitted by this remedy and from its wonderful and speedy relief in cases of Croup and Whooping Cough no household with children should ever be without it. Only 25 cents a bottle. Ask for Hamilton's. Sold by all dealers.

A. H. Jackson's store closes this week Saturday.

Miss Mame Bradner, of Manchester, was here Monday.

Guy Belding is clerking for Avery & Co., in Tecumseh.

T. O. Lancaster went to Toledo on business Tuesday.

E. A. Clark bought W. D. VanTuyle's horse last Saturday.

Mrs. Laura Tuttle was in Tecumseh Monday and Tuesday.

There will be baptism at the Episcopal church Easter evening.

D. H. Silvers came here from Chicago Sunday, returning Tuesday.

C. S. Burroughs sold his horse to Frank Jenkins last Tuesday.

Mrs. Albert Barnes has been very sick for the past week with quinsy.

Miss Vesta Mills, of Saline, is the guest of Mrs. L. W. Kimball this week.

Miss Eusebia Walters is still very sick and her recovery is considered doubtful.

Miss Helen Rowland, who has been visiting here, returned to Ann Arbor last Friday.

Miss Anna McMaster returned to Flint Wednesday, after a week's visit with her mother.

Mrs. W. J. Kies and little son, of Elkhart, spent last Friday and Saturday with Mrs. J. S. Kies.

Remember that a good warm supper can be obtained at the town hall next Wednesday for 15 cts.

The board of school inspectors was organized last Monday with Mrs. C. S. Burroughs as chairman.

A good program was presented at the temperance meeting last Monday evening, and the hall was well filled.

George Freese has purchased two building lots of J. W. Bradner just west of Elias DePuy's. He will build on one of the lots.

Misses Calista and Ida Brown leave here Thursday for their new home in Saginaw. Miss Lue Brown will follow them shortly.

It is reported that James Ferrec, boss finisher at the mill, has given in his time and will move away. We hope to hear it contradicted.

L. W. Kimball has severed his connection with the woolen mill, his resignation to take effect April 15. Howard Hause has been engaged to fill the vacancy.

There is a greater demand for houses here this spring than has been known in years, and those who cannot find houses are looking for lots on which to build. Real estate has advanced accordingly.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hall will be sorry to learn of their departure for Milwaukee this week Friday. Mr. Hall has received a very flattering offer from that place and gave in his time here last Friday.

Miss Bina M. West, State organizer of the Maccabees, and Mrs. Auchampaugh, of Adrian, were here last week trying to establish a hive. But twenty-one names have been obtained and twenty-five are desired. Miss West is expected here again soon.

Something new in the musical line will be presented here shortly. The Episcopal society will give a sacred concert at their church about the first of May. The leading singers of Clinton will all take part and it bids fair to be a very fine entertainment.

An Easter supper will be given at the town hall Wednesday, April 20th, from 5 to 7 o'clock, by the ladies of St. John's church. Supper will be served free to the children of the Sunday School; to all others for 15 cts. A liberal patronage is solicited, as the proceeds will go to swell the belfry fund.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. If you have never used this great cough medicine one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at J. J. Orr's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT of payment having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage bearing date March 19th, 1889 executed and delivered by Seth C. Randall to Emma Drake, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan on the 20th day of March, 1889 in Liber 120, of mortgages, on pages 614 and 615 and upon which mortgage there remains due at the date hereof the sum of three hundred ninety-nine dollars and sixty cents (399,60), and no proceedings at law or in equity having been taken to collect the same or any part thereof:

Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained (which has become operative by reason of said default) and by the Statutes of the State of Michigan, in such case made and provided, for the purpose of realizing the moneys above mentioned and interest thereon, and costs of this foreclosure and sale including an attorney fee as provided by law; I shall, on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1892, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the court house, in the City of Adrian, County of Lenawee Michigan (that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden), all that piece or parcel of land situate and being in the township of Ridgeway, County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: The northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section twenty-three (23), town six (6), south of range five (5) east.

Dated April 11, 1892.

ESTATE OF ALBERT VEDDER.

STATE OF MICHIGAN County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Monday the 11th day of April in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two

Present, Richard B Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Albert Vedder, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Emma Vedder, administratrix with the will annexed upon the estate of said deceased alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred and all special legicies have been fully paid, and that she is now ready to close said estate and to render her final admini tration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will of said deceased, that she may be discharged and her bond canceled and for such other order and decree as to this court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 9th day of May, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered. That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A True Copy.)

Anna Bailey came home from Ann Arbor Saturday.

Mrs. Margaret Cheever is visiting in Dundee this week.

Robe Hosmer, of Tecumseh, was in the village Monday.

Mrs. Will Allen returned to her home in Moscow Thursday.

Kittie Clark came home Friday, returning to Adrian Monday.

Dr. R. H. Nelson and wife visited friends in Dundee Saturday.

Master Ernest Kelly visited his grandparents several days last week.

Mrs. Cass Zeluff, of Britton, visited Mrs. Sarah Rappleye last Monday.

Mrs. Jas. Ash, of Raisin, was the guest of Mrs. Jacob Arner and family, Friday.

Vern Allen came up from Toledo Saturday evening to spend Easter Sabbath at home.

Miss Anna Smith, of Macon, visited her sister, Mrs. Ed. Harrison, several days last week.

Geo. Field, Robt. Hicks, Fred. McNair and Bert Day, of Tecumseh, were in the village Sunday.

Mrs. Stowell, of Dundee, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. E. W Rappleye, Saturday.

Mr. Gordon, of Ypsilanti, and Lee Sowle were the guests of Mary and Jennie Osgood over Sunday.

Prof. Drake has rented part of Mrs. Mary L. Arner's house, and his mother, Mrs. Catherine Drake and family, of Blissfield, are moving this week.

Mr. Lewis Miller died at his home in Macon, Saturday morning, April 16th. The funeral services were held at the Church last Tuesday, Rev. Gulick officiating.

Rev. Yager will give an illustrated temperance address one week from Sunday evening. A special invitation is given Rev. Wright, Rev. Zeller and Rev. Gulick and congregations; also a general invitation to everybody.

The S. S. concert Sunday evening was a decided success. Each one taking part did ample justice to themselves and the program. The floral decorations were very fine, especially the Easter piece. "The Empty Tomb," the handicraft of Rev. Yager, was grand.

The home League entertained about 30 of the Tecumseh Epworth League, at the church Wednesday evening. Supper was served at 6 o'clock, after which there was a literary program rendered, participated in by members of both leagues. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.

Harry Smith, our enterprising tinsmith, has, on account of increase in business been compelled to move his place of business where he will have more room. He has rented the shop formerly known as W. H. Arner's wagon shop, and is moving this week. He wishes to inform his patrons that no bell need be rung, he will be found in his shop at all hours of the day.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Philo Mills "took up" school in the Bradley district, last week Monday.

Time, Saturday night; place G. W. Allen's; program, vocal and instrumental music, recitations, and—single tax.

E. Wisner and wife drove over to Manchester Tuesday to see their niece, Myrtie, and found her health improving.

Frank Gove and family are settled in their new home, the Joseph Herbison farm. James Cronk and family have moved into the Derby tenant house, and Mr. Brownell and family have moved into Dow Draper's house on the old Fayette DePuy farm.

FRIDAY, April 15, 1892.

Yesterday morning there stood on the corners, four miles west of Tecumseh, in Dist. No. 2, what was known as the "pink" or Hurry school house. It was built in 1882 at an expense of about $2300, and the tax-payers had but recently finished paying for it. It was one of the finest country school houses in the county. Yesterday school was in session with Miss Haight as teacher. At 1:40 p. m. Mrs. Phil. Penticost heard the bell ring, and a few minutes later a messenger arrived saying the school house was on fire. A number of men were quickly on the spot; smoke was issuing from the roof and the interior, inside the walls and overhead was all on fire. Previous to the ringing of the bell, the teacher noticed that the floor of the school house was getting hot, a snapping and crackling was heard and smoke issued from the registers. Some of the boys were sent into the basement and reported everything all right apparently, but they were sure there was fire some where. When the men arrived at the fire nothing could be done except to save what could be carried out, and the organ, three doors, some recitation seats and the desk were taken out. The fire must have started from the register or flues in some way, just how, is not known. The building was insured for $1500 and will of course be rebuilt.

"Is you gwine ter let dat mewel do as he please?" asked Uncle Ephraim's wife. "Whar's yoh will power?" "My will power's all right," he answerd. "You jes' want ter come out hyur an' measure dis her mewel's wont power."

BRITTON BUDGET.

Charlie DuBois is on the sick list.

J. D. Smith will build a grain elevator.

S. C. Stacy gave us a call one day last week.

Irve Hause was home from Clinton Sunday.

Jim Haight's house is receiving a coat of paint.

Matthew Yates has put up a new barn on his lot.

L. C. Hoagland will be home from Florida to-morrow.

There are rumors of a Masonic lodge being organized here.

James DuBois has sold his farm and moved into our village.

Hear Darius Smith, as the Duch Recruit, the 29th and 30th.

George Bauchman drives the meat wagon for Nobles' market.

Geo. Exelby is erecting a new barn on his east Chicago street lot.

Miss Martha Ackley began her school on the prairie last Monday.

M. D. Britton was home from Battle Creek Sunday, returning Monday.

Don't forget the Dutch Recruit. Cast of characters in next week's issue.

The Maccabees met in their new hall for the first time last Tuesday night.

Henry Miller is back again from Rea, where he went to work some time ago.

A. E. Atkinson, of Litchfield, Mich., visited at Milo Ousterhout's over Sunday.

Lee Sowle, who has been in the South for the past year, returned last Saturday.

Don't forget that Lenardson & Sons sell wall paper. Read their ad in this issue.

Anyone having a notice or an item for this column are invited to leave the same at the postoffice.

Burton Nichols has purchased the cottage home formerly owned by Dave Weigle and latterly by Wm. Osgood.

The Prohibition meeting last Friday evening was well attended, a club being organized with a membership of 32. Let the good work go on.

The property owners on North Main street are having some difficulty in getting desired improvements in the way of drainage and sidewalks.

John Gibson is laid up with a sore hand. Will Winsley and "John L." got to slugging and John L.'s fist smashed a showcase of Lenardson's instead of Mr. Will's proboscis.

The gentlemen cast for the different parts in the Dutch Recruit, that is to be played the 29th and 30th, are mostly married men. The young ladies don't think much of it, either, and kindly implore the manager to use a little more forethought next time.

That ill-bred young man who had the audacity to smoke during the services in the opera house last Sunday ought to have the law of common decency enforced by the toe of someone's boot. We trust it may not be repeated; if so, Mr. Exelby may find it convenient to read the riot act for such young men's benefit.

Don't forget the Dutch Recruit the 29th and 30th. The Dutchman will be on hand and he alone will give you the worth of your admission. The Britton orchestra will make their first appearance then. Come and enjoy some fine music and a good Dutch laugh. Admission as usual—10 and 15 cents; reserved seats 25 cents.

MACON MUSIC.

Several of our Maccabees gave the Britton tent a visit last Tuesday night.

Supervisor Pennington, with his big book under his arm, is looking after those mortgages.

Mrs. Lavinia Jackson, who has been visiting old neighbors and friends at Moreville, returned last Monday.

There was a good attendance at the "monument" social last Thursday night and ample justice was done to chicken pie.

Elwin Camburn and wife and George Harmon and wife went to the State Encampment at Ann Arbor last Wednesday.

Will Gibson is now a qualified constable and we advise all disorderly persons to look a little out, for if Will gets after you you are "gone suckers."

The meat market, under the supervision of Mr. Randall, formerly of Britton, is now in full blast. They placed their first meat on the block last Friday.

TIPTON TOPICS.

Jimmie Hunter is on the sick list.

Nettie Camburn visited in Tecumseh over Sunday.

F. D. Jenkins is in Addison this week hanging paper.

D. W. Love is in town this week, building some Page wire fence.

The Band is doing finely and is looking for bids on uniforms now.

Rev. Palmer, a former pastor here, visited Rev. Gibbs last Friday.

John Burtless has moved his barn and will build an addition of 16 feet onto it.

The many friends of Uzell Whelan helped him celebrate his twenty-second birthday Monday evening.

Edie Burns' many friends gave her a surprise party last Friday evening and report a very pleasant time.

Girl customer: What is the nicest thing in veils? Clerk (smiling): My best girl's face.

NORTH-EAST FRANKLIN.

This is the week for sowing oats.

Come to the lyceum at S. W. Allen's Saturday.

Thos. Conlin is drawing away his wheat this week.

Watson Hunt moved onto his east place last Saturday.

The young people here surprised Ezell Whelan Monday evening, it being his 21st birthday.

S. N. Munger went to Coldwater last week to look after the Hunt estate, of which he is administrator.

Al. Haire came into this neighborhood Monday and sawed S. N. Munger's and Albert Deming's wood piles.

Mrs. L. E. Taylor's health is gradually failing. Miss Bertha Taylor has also been dangerously ill with nervous prostration but is now somewhat better.

The "Pink" school-house, two miles east of Tipton, took fire around the register and burned last Thursday. It was the finest school building in Franklin, built at a cost of $2,300 and insured for $1,500. The organ, teacher's desk, books etc. were saved. They expect to build as soon as possible.

NEWBURGH NOTES.

John Smith spent Easter at home.

H. A. Stacy is having his barn painted.

Miss Minnie Wissing is busy weaving carpets.

C. W. McNeil has set out a fine plum orchard.

Miss Zella Bowen is entertaining friends from Jackson.

John Keyser was visiting relatives in Newburgh the past week.

Chas. Hampton, of Detroit, was visiting at Mrs. E. Sheldon's this week.

WHY POETS RAVE

Over "Spring, gentle spring," is hard to understand by many thousands to whom spring is more a time of trial and suffering than of brightness and rejoicing. Still we believe the poet's idea is the correct one and should be the universal rule instead of the exception. It is largely a matter of health and this can be regulated if proper means are taken. Spring is a trying season for most people and the "breaking-up" which nature goes through means something to them. A good spring medicine is an essential at this time. It tones up the system, raises the spirits and in many cases saves weeks and perhaps months of serious sickness. Just such a medicine is found in Parmelee's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potassa Compound. It is a thorough exterminator of all Blood Poisons and is the best remedy in existence for all complaints arising from an impure condition of blood. Why pay $1.00 for a bottle containing only 12 ounces when you can get this for 50 cents in bottles holding full 8 ounces? Be sure and get Parmelee's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all dealers.

A Complete Schedule.

A complete schedule of all the games to be played by the National Base Ball League for season of 1892, will be sent by applying to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T A., L. S. & M. S. R'y, Cleveland, Ohio., and enclosing two-cent postage stamp This schedule contains the dates, names of contesting clubs, places for scoring, total runs, hits, errors and pitchers names, together with tables of standing of clubs and averages for last season.

AUCTIONS.

The undersigned having sold his farm will sell at auction on the Albert Kennedy farm south of Comfort's brick yard, on Friday, April 22, 1892 at one o'clock p. m. the following property: one pair work horses, 2 milch cows, yearling heifer, 2 calves, 2 breeding sows with pigs, 2 shoats, lumber wagon, buggy, double harness, single harness, two horse cultivator, two one horse cultivators, hay rack, pair of bob sleighs, hay rake, Wood mower and self binder, quantity of hay, plows, harrows, shovels, forks, etc.

Terms all sums of $5 and under, cash; on all sums over that amount a credit of twelve months will be given, notes to bear approved security and at 6 per cent. No article to leave the premises until settled for.

BEN REYNOLDS, Auctioneer.

Columbian Exposition—When to Dedicate.

EDITOR HERALD:—The sense was all knocked out of our article on the Columbian Exposition in last week's Herald by making the figures—12 plus 9 equals 21—read 12-9 x 21, and October 21st read October 31st, whereby the editor of the Adrian Press was so befuddled as to conclude that a common, every-day almanac was based on "Old Style" and October 12th the proper day. Just wait till foreman Smith gets well and back into the editorial chair. He will take an Easlick Perpetual Calendar and unravel the snarl. A common, every-day almanac "ain't in it." Why do we celebrate Washington's birthday on February 22d, who was born February 11, 1732, Old Style, or Jefferson's birthday on April 13th, who was born April 2d, 1743, Old Style, except to correct the error of the old Julian calendar in conformity with the new Gregorian calendar, which was not adopted by this country until Sept. 13th, 1752, when there was a discrepancy of eleven days. Now we will repeat that portion of last week's article containing the error, to-wit: If the Julian calendar was ten days wrong in 1582, when Pope Gregory deducted ten days, it was nine days wrong when Columbus discovered America in 1492 (deducting the 29th day of February in the year 1500), so that Friday, Oct. 12th, 1492, under Old Style, was in fact Friday, Oct. 21st, (12 plus 9 equals 21) and 400 years from that time will of course come on Friday, Oct. 21st, 1892, the day we should celebrate, being the same day of the week and month that Columbus landed. All dates and intermediate periods exactly repeat every 400 years under new styles.

Plan of Taking Assessments.

The following recommendations were adopted by the board of supervisors at their last session, as a guide for taking assessments in the year 1892:

To the honorable board of supervisors: Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to prepare a schedule of prices and a basis of taxation to govern the several supervisors in taking their assessments in the year 1892, said values to be considered the price of an average article of the different classes, would recommend the following:

Young sound horses, $90; 3-yr colts, $65; 2-yr colts, $45; 1-y. colts $30 each. Good milch cows, $25; fat cattle, 3c per lb; stockers, 2 1-2c; sheep $3 each; swine, 4c per lb. Surplus grain as follows: Wheat 75c; oats, 25c; corn in ear, 20c. Carriages, wagons and farm implements in use less than four years, from one-third to two-thirds of first cost.

In regard to the assessment of mortgages, all real estate mortgages should be assessed as an interest in the real estate they cover, notwithstanding any agreement between mortgagee and mortgagor with regard to payment of taxes, and that the supervisors require a sworn statement from each taxpayer iable to assessment on personal property.

And your committee would further recommend that the supervisors be governed by the printed instructions from the attorney general.

WORTH HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS.

My wife used only two bottles of "Mother's Friend" before her third confinement. Says she would not be without it for hundreds of dollars. Had not half as much trouble as before. Dock Miles, Lincoln Parish, La. Sold by J. J. Orr.

Are You Interested in Base Ball?

GOOD LOOKS.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic which acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion. Sold at J. J. Orr's drug store, 50c. per bottle.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box.

AN HONEST ADVERTISER

In these days of dishonest advertising, it is something remarkable to see an advertiser who has sufficient faith in the curative value of his remedy to cure Piles, to offer to send a trial package free to all who send stamps to prepay postage. This The Pyramid Drug Co., Albion, Mich., in another column agree to do, and any of our readers who may be suffering should write them without delay. A cure is guaranteed, no matter how long you may have been afflicted.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, April 15, 1892.

Senator Hill's influence in the House will be given a practical test when the Noyes-Rockwell contested election case, which Chairman O'Ferrell, of the election committee, has given notice will be called up next Tuesday, comes before that body. The election committee with only one dissenting vote made a report, notwithstanding Senator Hill's personal efforts to influence its democratic members, in favor of Noyes, the republican contestant. This greatly angered Senator Hill, and he at the time announced his intention to fight the report of the committee, through his friends, on the floor of the House. It is said, with how much truth only the vote can tell, that Senator Hill has secured pledges from a majority of the House to vote to retain Rockwell in his seat in spite of the committee's report. For that reason the case is looked forward to with much interest.

Secretary Blaine is said to be very much worried because of the persistency of his admirers in talking of his nomination against his wishes. He told one of them this week that he would not accept the nomination to the Presidency if he was unanimously nominated by all the National conventions to be held this year.

Representative Bland took occasion during the debate on an appropriation bill to charge that the defeat of his free coinage bill was due to efforts of the Wall street gold ring.

Many democratic members of the House are showing a disposition to "kick" against the cheese-paring tendencies of Chairman Holman, whose word appears to be accepted as law by the democratic members of the House committee on appropriations, and threats are being made of antagonizing some of the items in appropriation bills, when they come before the House.

Some of the new members of Congress are in danger of falling into the clutches of a syndicate of real estate speculators, which is doing some fine work in the lobbying line in favor of the bill appropriating $3,500,000 for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new patent office on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue. The same syndicate worked the bill through the last Congress for the purchase of the site for the new Washington post office on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, thereby getting about three times as much for a square of very undesirable property as it could possibly have been sold for to private purchasers, although it was known then as well as it is now that the location was a bad one in every respect.

This lobby "convinced" the last Congress that a swamp in which it is necessary to go down forty feet to find a solid foundation to build upon, was the proper place to build a new city post office, and it hopes to be as successful in doing the same with the new patent office, and unless congressmen get their information of the scheme from the outside it looks as though it may succeed, as both of the Washington daily papers are helping along the scheme of selling this property to the Government.

Senator Chandler enjoys the distinction of having been the only senator to make a set speech against the proposed constitutional amendment for the election of senators by the people, but the speech was not marked by any extraordinary oratorical ability, although several points were shrewdly made; for instance, his proposal to include in the constitutional amendment provisions for the election of president, vice president, heads of the executive departments, judges, postmasters and collectors, in addition to the senators, by the direct vote of the people.

The senate committee on Foreign Relations has reported the bill extending the present anti-Chinese laws for a period of ten years from the time they expire, May 4, 1892, which was passed by the Senate sometime ago, as a substitute for the rigid exclusion bill recently passed by the House. Senator Felton, of California, asked that the report, which he said was different from what he had understood it would be, be not acted upon until he could present the views of the people of the Pacific coast on the subject.

MICHIGAN'S NEW TAX LAW.

Sustained by the Supreme Court, It Must Now Govern Assessments.

Reason of Its Enactment by the Democratic Legislature—How It Benefits the Debtor.

The new mortgage tax law having been declared valid by the Michigan supreme court the next assessments will be made under it. All contracts for loaning money must now be made with reference to the new law. It is thus highly important that every taxpayer and every borrower and lender of money should thoroughly understand its practical working. During the progress of the attack on the law and while awaiting the decision of the supreme court, money lenders practically were on a strike, having organized a boycott on the borrower. Bankers were asked to contribute to a fund to defeat the law and undoubtedly many for once paid a voluntary tax, for a large sum of money was used in attacking it. The result strengthens popular faith in the court of last resort and is a commendation of the work of the democratic legislature of 1891.

After giving the subject careful consideration, many, if not all, the objections urged against the practical features of the law appear as groundless as the objections to its constitutionality. It has been claimed that the rate of interest would be raised to meet the tax assessed on the mortgage, or else the borrower would have to contract to pay the tax assessed on the mortgage. Let us take an example. Smith lives in the city and lends money on real estate security. The old law taxes the mortgage to Smith in the city, where the tax rate averages two per cent. If he loans at seven per cent. his net interest is five per cent. The new law taxes the mortgage as an interest in the land upon which it is a lien, and, if situated outside the corporation limits, the tax rate will not average above one per cent., at least in the older counties. Smith would then have six per cent. after paying his tax on the mortgage. In no case would his tax be higher under the new law than under the old. It must be confessed there is nothing in the case cited to make Smith insist that Jones, who borrows his money, must pay higher interest or pay the tax.

It is urged that lenders will foreclose mortgages as fast as they become due, and put the money in the banks. That claim is not reasonable, because so much money put in the banks would bring down interest to depositors. The money would be taxed in the bank as well as though invested in a mortgage, and generally at a higher rate. A mortgage on a good farm in a locality where taxes are low will not be disturbed, and lower rates will be given in the country and on farms as soon as the new law is understood.

It is claimed that money of non-residents will be withdrawn from the state, and that this will tend to raise interest. It is not possible that much money will be taken east, where rates are much lower than here and where it would again be caught by the assessor. It is argued that some would go west where rates are higher. Some goes there now,—in fact all that dare to do so loan in the west. In the Dakotas many farmers have borrowed money of the banks for purchasing seed and stock and paid 8 per cent. a month, settling the interest every three months. There is already sufficient inducement for capital to go west, and if large profits and interest at high rates are sufficient to overcome ordinary objections and the perils of a new country, money will not go there simply because we tax it here.

Our constitution requires that all property shall be taxed at its cash value. Below are illustrative tables that show methods under both the old and new law, as

EXAMPLES OF HONEST AND DOUBLE TAXATION.

Person.	Property assessed.	Value of property.	Am't of tax.
A	House and lot.....	$2,000	$26
B	Cash.....	3,000	39
C	Farm.....	5,000	65
	Total.....	$10,000	$130

Now let A exchange his house and lot for the farm of C, paying the difference with money he borrows of B, and giving for security a mortgage on the farm. No property has been produced or created. There is the same $10,000 in property between them, not a dollar more nor a dollar less. They would be assessed under the old law as follows:

A	Farm..... $5,000	Tax $50
B	Mortgage..... 3,000	" 39
C	House, lot, cash..... 5,000	" 50
	Total for taxation..... $13,000	$130

A is worth two-fifths as much as C and pays an equal tax. B is worth one-half more than A but pays only three-fifths as much in taxes.

This is a plain case of dishonest double taxation. A is more than doubly taxed. B opposes honest single taxation because, by assessing the whole farm to A, that person is compelled to pay $9.00 of B's tax. C, for the same reason, opposes any change because he has discovered that A paid $15 of his tax.

The way the new law affects A, B and C is shown in

TABLE NO. 3.

Person.	Property Assessed.	Value.	Am't Tax.
A	Farm, less value of mortgage,	$2,000	$ 26
B	Mortgage interest in farm.....	3,000	39
C	House, lot, cash.....	5,000	65
	Total.....	$10,000	$130

The whole difference lies in the fact that the new law assesses the mortgage as an interest in the real estate, while the old law assessed mortgages as personal property or credits.

Mortgages, credits, stocks and cash cannot escape under the new law, except by the commission of the crime of perjury, since a subscribed statement under oath is kept on record. It is estimated that enough more personal property will go on the tax rolls to keep the valuation up to $13,000, so that A, B and C will be taxed respectively $20, $30 and $50, the other $30 being charged against property that has heretofore escaped taxation. Should such be the case, no person can have reasonable ground for finding fault with the new law. There certainly can be but a small reduction in the taxable valuations in the aggregate, for the new law will make absolutely no change in that respect save with regard to real estate mortgages. These have heretofore been assessed as personal property, and are now to be deducted from the value of the real estate that is encumbered. If all personal property taxed were deducted, there would not be so great a change as some might imagine who have not given the matter investigation. The report of the labor bureau of Michgan for 1892, page 262, shows that in forty-three cities the personal property amounted to only 16 per cent. of the entire assessment, and that in 776 villages the assessed value of personalty was but 16 per cent. of the entire assessed valuation. And an examination of statistics for the entire state will show even a less percentage of personal assessment. In the city of Detroit the mortgages on real estate amount to $36,437,768 and only $2,810,000 appears on the assessor's books—see report of labor commissioner 1892, page 219. The same report pages 264, 265 shows the total assessed valuation of Detroit to be $175,450,310, and the personalty to be $32,984,900, being a trifle less than 10 per cent. of the total.

The $2,810,000 of mortgages that are assessed in Detroit amount to only 1 6-10 per cent. of the total. Therefore the new law cannot reduce the tax basis but a mere trifle. If more property is brought to light, as there certainly will be, the aggregate valuation upon actual value will doubtless be increased.

The Michigan legislature of 1891 intended to give the people a better law than they have had on the subject of taxation. All agree that the law was passed because fault was found with the old law, and because the patrons of industry and grangers all over the state demanded the change, as was evidenced by the deluge of petitions sent in by them asking the passage of the law. It was passed in deference to their demand. It was passed constitutionally, as the Michigan supreme court has declared. And now that the cloud of uncertainty has been dispelled, it stands another measure enacted by the democrats of Michigan in response to popular demand.

IT WORKS WELL.

Michigan's New Election Law Given Its First Test.

It Secures an Honest Ballot and a Fair Count.

On Monday, April 4, the new election law passed by the democratic legislature of Michigan and signed by a democratic governor was given its first general trial in the state. It had been given a prior test in the municipal election in Detroit in November, 1891. Opportunity has now been given for the thorough study of the law and the results of its practical workings are familiar to every citizen who was public spirited enough to exercise his right of suffrage. And this examination of the law has convinced every elector, it is entirely safe to say, that a genuine debt of gratitude is due to the Michigan democracy for the enactment of a law that insures freedom in the casting of the ballot, that prevents intimidation, that makes bribery impossible and that secures an honest count.

It is not necessary to call attention to the deep necessity for the passage of a law to protect the purity of elections. It was within the power of the republican party for nearly forty years to pass such a law. No one will deny the popular demand for its enactment. But the party in power was deaf and silent. It profited by the old system under which its success was merely a question of majorities. Under it, the laboring men in the cities were given their ballots by their employers; the miners were escorted to the polls by their foreman. And resentful as was honest labor for this outrageous intimidation, it had to bear the burden as the only alternative of being thrown out of work and even out of home.

The democratic legislature of 1891 set itself with earnestness to right these crying wrongs. It heard the cry of the independent free men who prized their liberty of political action as they prized their own manhood and it proceeded to enact a law, the theory of which has now been demonstrated in practice to be patriotic in conception and wise in execution. It is true that on the first test that the law has had there were misunderstandings, and in consequence some votes cast were null. But the wide familiarity that has been gained with the law in all its details will insure but little friction in the elections of next fall. That the democratic legislators of 1891 had the courage to enact laws to secure the purity of elections, municipal as well as general; laws insuring an honest ballot and a fair count; laws that make fraud and deception at the polls practically impossible, must redound to their everlasting credit. The integrity of the individual citizen in his political action is the basis of national patriotism. This integrity is fostered, preserved and made sacred by the election laws that now grace the Michigan statute books, placed there by its first democratic legislature in thirty-seven years.

Another advantage it works is the added opportunity it affords the poor man for official position. The plutocrat has heretofore had his paid workers at the polls, to the detriment of the candidate who had more conscience to keep than money to spare. The system resulted in dishonest officials and corrupt politics. The new law works to the advantage of the poor and honest candidate and to the destruction of rascality and corruption.

MOST people would suppose that a man receiving a salary of $4,000 a year would be able to buy and pay for the newspapers read by himself and family. But Gov. Luce made the people of Michgan furnish his newspapers at an expense of $26 a year.

Cleveland On The Convention.

The letter written April 8 by Mr. Cleveland to a Democrat of Chattanooga, Tenn., deserves the serious consideration of all Democrats. "I am exceedingly anxious to have our party do exactly the right thing at the Chicago Convention," Mr. Cleveland writes, "and I hope the delegates will be guided by judgment and actuated by a true Democratic spirit and the single desire to succeed on principle. I should not be frank if I did not say to you that I often fear I do not deserve the kind things such friends as you say of me, and I have frequent misgivings as to the wisdom of again putting me in nomination. I, therefore, am anxious that sentiment and unmeasured personal devotion should be checked when the delegates to the convention reach the period of deliberation. In any event there will be no disappointment for me in the result."

This is the proper view not only for Mr. Cleveland but for every other Democrat. The question at Chicago will be whether it is better to take the candidate for President or for Vice President from New York. It is possible that it will be easier to hold gains in the West and at the same time to carry New York by putting at the head of the ticket a Western man who is in no way involved in the local politics of New York City and State. Some may deny that this is probable, but even though the probabilities may all be in favor of the old Electoral College combination on New York and Indiana, the possibilities of great advantage from a change are not to be lost sight of.

They must not be thrown away, at any rate, before the convention meets. Reckless enthusiasm is hardly less demoralizing than reckless despondency. Some who were only too ready a few months ago to pronounce Mr. Cleveland out of the question are now only too ready to pronounce him the only Democrat who can be considered.

In addressing such, Mr. Cleveland puts the welfare of the party first. He does not want "a boom." He wants the nomination only in the event that the convention, acting deliberately, shall determine that the principles of the Democratic party can be best promoted by his service as a candidate. He is a good Democrat and a sensible man. He does not want to be forced on the convention or to be forced by the convention on New York.

There should be no booming and no quarreling. It may be decidedly best to nominate a Western Democrat, with the candidate for Vice President from New York. Or it may be decidedly best to nominate Mr. Cleveland. Which is better can be better determined after the report of the Committee on Platform has been made and after due deliberation in convention.—St Louis Republic.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

Mr. Horr Falls Upon the Single Tax.

The single tax theory is at last assailed by a man who has studied it. He is Roswell G. Horr, once a member of Congress. Nor has Mr. Horr studied the single tax in a merely casual way. It is a subject to which he has given "long and patient study." No one would suspect this after reading his criticism, which appears in the Tribune, but he says it is so.

By way of introduction, Mr. Horr informs his readers that "the single tax theory was proposed and advocated in Europe nearly one hundred years ago," and that, after examination, the financiers of Europe discarded it as visionary. He should be more explicit with his facts when hurling what he regards as weighty arguments. Having given the subject long and patient study he must be able to name the place more definitely than "in Europe," and the time more exactly than "nearly one hundred years ago." Who proposed, who advocated, who examined, who condemned, and when and where was all this done? Surely, Mr. Horr does not allude to the Physiocrats of France. This impot unique bore less resemblance to the single tax than a peach pit bears to a peach tree. Besides, as they flourished more than a hundred years ago, the statement that the theory was proposed "nearly a hundred years ago," coming as it does from a man who has given long and patient study to the subject, can not alone be presumed to indicate that he refers to them. Yet we are at a loss to guess his meaning if it is not to the Physicrats that he alludes. It is of little moment, however, for few people will attach as much importance as Mr. Horr does to the conclusions of European financiers who flourished "nearly a hundred years ago."

Passing from history to political economy, our critic makes an exhibition of the kind of long and patient study that he has given to the subject, by repeatedly using the terms "land" and "real estate" as interchangeable. Lawyers, when dealing with legal problems, may do this, for legal principles distinguish property not according to its economic character, but as movable or immovable. But students of political economy may not do it without confusion; economic analysis logically resolves real estate into two classes of things—land and improvements.

Though his readers, especially those who rely upon his assurance that he has given long and patient study to the subject, are liable to be misled by confusion of these terms, Mr. Horr himself does not appear to have been. He really seems to understand that the single tax is intended to fall upon the value of land alone, irrespective of improvements. But he does not comprehend the subject despite his long and patient study. If he did he could not suppose that the single tax would confiscate improvements. On this point he objects that taxing the value of land irrespective of improvements would "of necessity carry with it the right to use and occupy the improvements," because "you can not separate a brick block from the land on which it stands without the entire destruction of the block itself." In the course of his long and patient study, Mr. Horr evidently neglected to confer with anyone conversant with real estate transactions. Nor does his study seem to have involved any very careful thought. Judged by the result, as exhibited in his criticism, it was more in the nature of a "cram" for examination than of a serious inquiry. Of course, no one supposes that we can separate a lot of land from the building it supports without destroying or at least removing the building; but neither does anyone, with the possible exception of Mr. Horr, imagine that the single tax proposes a physical separation of buildings from blocks. What it proposes is a separation of the value of one from the value of the other. That this can be done with substantial equity, almost any school boy knows; and that it is constantly done, any man familiar with real estate transactions could have told Mr. Horr before he exposed the deplorable effect upon his mind of long and patient study.

It should be said that when Mr. Horr speaks of the separation of farm land from farm improvements, such as ditching and fencing, he does disclose a glimmering notion that a separation of values and not a physical separation is proposed, for he remarks that the "two values are so interlaced with each other that no human ingenuity can separate the one without subordinating the rights of the other." But is it possible that Mr. Horr, after long and patient study of the subject, really believes this?

Let us put the question to any fairly intelligent farmer; whose farm lies in a well settled farming community: "If a fire were to sweep over your farm, burning your buildings, your crops, and your fences, and in consequence of the disaster you should abandon the place until the ditches choked up and a second growth had made new clearings necessary, would you have any more difficulty in determining the value of the farm after it had reached that condition than there was just before the fire?" It would insult his intelligence to even hint that he would. Even Mr. Horr could do it if he was familiar with real estate values in the neighborhood. And does Mr. Horr suppose it necessary that the improvements of a farm should be thus destroyed before its land value can be appraised? Is it not as practicable to appraise the land values of improved farms while the improvements exist as when they have disappeared?

This, however, is not wholly a question of what can or can not be done; it is something that is done. Massachusetts, for the purposes of taxation, separately appraises the value of land and the value of improvements; and even in New York, where the two values are appraised together, it is a common method for the appraisers to first ascertain the value of the land and then the value of the improvements, and by adding the two to determine the value of the real estate. Had Mr. Horr studied a little longer, and perhaps a trifle more patiently, or at least more intelligently, he might have learned this fact, together with a good many more of much use to him which he has overlooked.

It is not surprising that a man, whom long and patient study have led into such serious betrayals of ignorance and want of thought, should suppose that all other kinds of property, as well as land, are increased in value by the advances of civilization. Accordingly we find our critic asserting that products of labor would have but little value but for civilization, which gives value to land, also gives value to labor products. It is as unjust to apply the value of land to public use as to apply the value of labor products to such use. This is the familiar criticism that it is as unjust to make land common property as to make labor products common property. How weak the criticism is may be seen by reducing it to its lowest terms, when it would read: It is as unjust to make land common property as to make labor common property. Mr. Horr's patience must have been exhausted and his long study ended before he considered the fact, the common and obvious fact, that advances in civilization constantly tend to diminish the value of labor products, while they tend as constantly to increase the value of land. This tendency alone makes a distinction in justice between property in land and property in the products of labor. For by giving constantly to landowners something that they do not earn, without giving to the owners of labor products anything that they do not earn—indeed, taking away from them an increasing part of what they do earn, for the purpose of giving it to the owners of land—it produces a perennial confiscation of property of some for the benefit of others.

Neither could Mr. Horr have considered the fundamental truth regarding the difference between land values and other values, that labor products come to the owners either by right of production or by a title from the producer, while land does not come to the owners either by production or by purchase from the producer, or in any other way but by physical conquest or unjust laws. If he can not distinguish a difference in the right of enjoyment between the value of property to which the owners have no just claim superior to their fellows, and that of property to which they have the best of all titles—production, his case is hopeless. To study any longer, even with the patience of Job, would be to him a fruitless task, which he might better abandon in favor of protection fables and fallacies, which he is far more expert and quite as entertaining.—The Standard.

Canada.

Robert Tyson, in Progress, writing to the Standard from Toronto, says: It was a rousing meeting that gathered in St. Andrew's Hall upon a call of the mayor in response to a requisition signed chiefly by single tax men. Its object was stated to be "for the purpose of discussing a petition to the local legislature praying that muncipalities be granted the option of relieving from taxation all buildings, machinery, crops, and other products of industry, and of raising their revenue by a tax on the value of land; or the option of raising their revenue in any manner they may deem best.".

Alderman Carlyle, a good single tax man, presided. The meeting turned out to be chiefly a labor meeting. The Trades and Labor Council was represented by T. W. Banton, its president, and F. C. Cribben, its secretary. The district assembly of the Knights of Labor was represented by David Carey, the president, and Robert Glackling, the secretary. Three of these gentlemen spoke heartily and well in favor of the main resolution, which was as follows:

Resolved, That this meeting is of opinion that it would be greatly in the public interest to grant to municipalities the option of relieving from taxation all buildings, machinery, crops, and other products of industry; and of raising their revenue by a tax on the values of land, or the option of raising their revenue in any manner they may deem best; and that this meeting heartily indorses the recent action of the executive committee of the Toronto city council, in conference with the local members of the Ontario legislature, asking legislative powers for the city of Toronto in the above direction.

Alfred Jury, Alderman George S. Macdonald, W. A. Douglas, S. T. Wood, Stewart Lyon, David Boyle and others spoke. The speeches were straight to the point, and elicited frequent applause. The resolution was passed amid rousing cheers and by a standing vote. The chairman had called for objectors, but no one spoke.

All the Toronto daily papers had good reports, and the temper of the meeting may be judged from their remarks. The World (Tory) said: "St. Andrew's hall was like an ice box, and the audience sat with top coats on, but nothing could chill the enthusiasm of the single taxers." The Empire (conservative organ) said: "After last night's meeting, there can be no doubt that the single tax question is a live issue in Toronto."

I should have mentioned that an event of the evening was the frank announcement of Alderman George S. Macdonald that he was a single taxer. He said he had come all the way from the other end of the city to tell it to the meeting. Alderman J. G. Orr also sent a letter expressing himself in favor of the object of the meeting; also Rev. John Burton.

A deputation was appointed to wait upon the city council and the provincial legislature with the resolution.

—There is a deeply-rooted superstition in Scotland that May marriages are unlucky and are bound to turn out badly: Last April there were 2,055 marriages in Scotland, in May there were but 1,008, while in June the number jumped to 4,148—twice as many marriages in April as in May, and four times as many in June.

Friendly Relations with Italy on the Point of Restoration.

The Government Voluntarily Offers to Give 125,000 Francs to Families of the Victims of the New Orleans Mob —Italy Satisfied.

AMICABLY SETTLED.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Inquiry in this city confirms the statement coming from Rome that a complete and amicable settlement has been reached in the international difficulties between the United States and Italy, growing out of the New Orleans tragedy. It appears that the government of the United States has voluntarily taken the initiative in closing the breach, and without committing itself to the recognition of any claim for indemnity, but simply as an act of justice and from motives of comity, has placed in the hands of the Marquis Imperiali, the Italian charge d'affaires here, the sum of 125,000 francs, or $25,000, for distribution among the heirs of the three Italians who were killed at New Orleans and who were found to be subjects of the Italian government. It is understood the money was taken from the annual appropriation of $80,000 to enable the president to provide for unforeseen emergencies in the diplomatic and consular service, so that it will be unnecessary to call upon congress for a specific appropriation.

By this action on the part of the United States government the disagreeable complications in the relations of the two governments, it is believed, have been removed and within a short time the diplomatic relations between the two countries will be restored to the amicable status existing before the New Orleans tragedy, Minister Porter returning to Rome and a minister from Italy taking up his post at Washington.

LONDON, April 15.—A dispatch received here from Rome says that a series of notes had passed between Mr. Blaine, the American secretary of state, and Marquis Imperiali, Italian charge d'affaires at Washington, resulting in a settlement of the differences between Italy and the United States growing out of the lynching of Italians at New Orleans. According to this dispatch Marquis Imperiali has advised the Italian government that he has received from the United States government the sum of $25,000 for the families of the victims.

This money, the marquis adds, was accompanied by a note from Secretary Blaine in which he declared that although the wrong was not committed directly by the United States the latter nevertheless feels its solemn duty in the premises. The note adds that Mr. Blaine declares that he feels great pleasure that the nation should pay to Italy a satisfactory indemnity. In consequence of these instructions given to Mr. Blaine by President Harrison, the latter hopes that the arrangement will end the unfortunate incident; that the former good relations between the two countries will be firmly reestablished and that nothing in the future will occur to disturb such relations.

In his note replying to Mr. Blaine's communication a Marquis Imperiali says that Italy has already with pleasure noted the terms in which President Harrison referred to the matter in his message at the opening of congress. The marquis further says that Italy considers the indemnity sufficient without prejudice to anyactions at law that may be brought by the aggrieved parties. He also expresses the hope that the payment of the indemnity will result in the happy reestablishment of relations between the two governments.

ROME, April 16.—The newspapers contain editorials on the settlement of the New Orleans difficulty. They are unanimous in expressing satisfaction with the terms offered by the United States government and the acceptance of the same by Italy, and the hope is earnestly expressed that the friendly relations now resumed will never be interrupted in the future.

ROME, April 18.—Baron Fava has received orders to return to his post at the Italian legation in Washington.

Recovers His Money.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The jury in the suit of Col. Edward C. James against Lawyer J. Henry Work to recover $200,000, alleged to have been illegally lost in financial operations through the firm of Grant & Ward in 1884-5, returned a verdict of $63,350 in favor of the plaintiff. With the $30,000 he got to release his claim against Grant & Ward, Col. James thus comes out of the Grant & Ward failure with a little more than the actual cash of $90,000 he put in and lost.

A Cowardly Assassin.

MADRID, April 18.—While Father Francisco Marti, of Anglesola, Spain, was celebrating Good Friday services an assassin sprang out from behind the altar and killed the priest with a sword. In making his escape the murderer shot and killed a woman and slashed many persons with his sword.

Sentenced to Be Hanged.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 16.—Allen Harrison, the murderer of Bettie Adams, who refused to marry him, has been sentenced to be hanged on Friday, July 1, 1892. A motion for a rehearing was considered by the court and overruled. An appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

Village of Tecumseh, Mich.,
Council Room, April 5, 1892.

Present—President Bills, Trustees Conkling, Shull, Smith, Wright, Bresie and the Recorder.

Meeting called to order by the President. Minutes of last three meetings read and approved.

The street committee reported that they had engaged Fred Tessman as teamster for the ensuing year at a salary of four hundred dollars; also announced that W. W. Marsh had offered to release Village from its contract to level off gravel bank on his premises for the sum of twenty-five dollars, and recommended that such offer be accepted.

Moved and supported that report of street committee be accepted and adopted and an order for above amount be drawn on the treasurer in favor of W. W. Marsh, on his releasing village from such contract. Motion carried.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

The Street Commissioner reported from March 7 to April 7, as follows:

Corporation team,	2 d. 8 1-2 h.
Hired team labor,	6 " 7 1-2 "	$16.88
Hand labor,	9 " 2 "	11.51
Street Commis'r,	9	18.00

On motion the report was accepted and placed on file.

The Sexton reported one infant interment and also two dollars received for vault rent; also Treasurer's receipt for $40.00 in payment for Lot 24, Block Q; also receipt for $18.00 in payment for lot No. 62, Block Y; also $5.00 for interments.

On motion the report was accepted and ordered filed.

NEW BUSINESS.

Moved and supported that C. A. Wright be appointed purchasing agent for the ensuing year. Motion carried.

The following bills were presented and referred to the finance committee: Tecumseh Electric Co., 31 arc lights for March, $155.00; W. S. Morse, services as gate keeper at election, $2.00; Payne's Adrian Bookbindery, Registration and Assessment rolls, $8 00; T. R. Kyle, services as marshal and lodging 14 tramps, $4.00; Geo. Moved and supported that the saloon bonds for the ensuing year be fixed at $4,000. Motion carred. Moved and supported that the Marshal's bonds be fixed at the sum of $6,000. Motion carried.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The finance committee reported favorably on all the above bills and on motion the recorder was directed to draw orders on the treasury for the several amounts.

NEW BUSINESS.

Mr. Parker, an hydraulic engineer, then addressed the council on invitation of the President, in regard to the proposed waterworks.

Moved and supported that the ordinance committee be instructed to prepare an ordinance creating a water board, according to the provisions of Section 3093 of Howell's Annotated Statutes; such ordinance to be presented at the next meeting of Council. Motion carried.

Moved and supported that a committee of three members be appointed, of which committee Hudson Conkling shall be chairman, to confer with some engineer in regard to plans and specifications for proposed waterworks and engineering services in the construction of the same; such committee to have the power to contract with such engineer. Motion carried. The President thereupon appointed as such committee Trustees Conkling, Shull and Smith.

On motion the Council adjourned till April 11th, 1892, at 7:30 p. m.

WALTER C. BURRIDGE,
Recorder.

Village of Tecumseh, Mich.,
Council Room April 11, 1892.

Called session. Present, President Bills, trustees Smith, Shull, Bidwell, Wright, Bresie, Conkling and the Recorder.

Meeting called to order by the President. The ordinance committee reported favoring an ordinance as follows, which was on motion adopted by the council, ordered placed on file and spread upon the records.

AN ORDINANCE.

An ordinance to create a board of water commissioners of the village of Tecumseh and to define the powers and duties of such board:

It is ordained by the common council of the village of Tecumseh:

SECTION I.—That a board of water commissioners, consisting of three qualified electors residing within the village of Tecumseh, be created and established with such powers and duties as are hereby granted, to take the charge and management of the construction and maintenance of the waterworks of the village of Tecumseh.

SECTION II.—The office of member of the board of water commissioners, hereby created and established, shall be filled by appointment by the council at the regular meeting in April of each year, and the term of office of such commissioner shall be for three years from and after such appointment. Provided, the term of office of the appointees first made under this ordinance shall expire respectively on the first day of April, 1893, on the first Monday of April, 1894, and on the first Monday of April, 1895.

SECTION III.—On the first Monday of April, and each year thereafter, the council shall appoint one commissioner in place of the one whose term of office shall then expire to serve for the term of three years, or until his successor shall be appointed and qualified; provided that, if for any cause the village council shall fail to make such appointment in the time hereintofore provided, the same shall be made at the next regular session of the council, and provided further that all vacancies in said board shall be filled by appointment by the council at the next regular session after such vacancy shall occur.

SECTION IV.—The person or persons so appointed shall take, subscribe and file with the clerk of said village, within ten days after such appointment, the oath of office required by the charter of said village for its officers. Such commissioner may be removed from his said office by a two-thirds vote of the council for malfeasance in office, but no such removal shall be made until after charges are made and opportunity had to defend against the same, at such reasonable time as the council shall fix therefor.

SECTION V.—Such board of water commissioners shall have power and authority to make and adopt all such rules and regulations as it shall deem necessary and expedient for the conduct of its business and management of the waterworks of said village, and to appoint such officers and employ such assistance therefor as it shall deem necessary and required for the proper management of the waterworks of said village, and to prescribe and define the duties, salary and compensation to be paid therefor. Provided the same shall first be approved by the common council.

SECTION VI.—It shall be the duty of said board of water commissioners to take charge of, regulate and supervise the construction of waterworks for said village and to make all necessary repairs of the same.

SECTION VII.—The said board of water commissioners shall have power, subject to the provisions of law, to construct, repair and maintain all necessary reservoirs, buildings, machinery and appliances of every kind connected with or pertaining to the use and enjoyment of such waterworks, to contract for and purchase all things necessary therefor, to lay and repair mains and pipes in and through all the streets, alleys and public places of said village, and in and along the route from the lands selected by said council for the water supply up to the line of said village, for the purpose of furnishing a full power and authority to control, regulate and supervise the same. Provided that no advertisement for bids for any work or material shall be made by said board without reserving the right of rejection or approval by the common council of said village.

SECTION VIII.—All work and materials for construction of waterworks of said village, including mains, pipes, hydrants, valves, gates and all other things needed and required therefor, shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder by said board. Provided that it shall not be lawful for such board to receive bids or proposals for such work or materials without first advertising therefor such length of time and in such manner as the council shall by resolution direct, and provided further that no advertisement shall be made for bids for construction or repairs, nor contract let by said board that shall not state as a condition and require a bond to be approved by the council, in such sum and with such number of sureties as said council shall direct, conditioned that the contractor will indemnify same and protect said village from all damages from the failure of such contractor to perform the conditions of his contract and from all liabilities and costs for injuries caused by or through the fault or negligence of such contractor, his agents and employees, in the performance of the work, and pay all damages and costs for injuries received and recovered against such village by reason of such fault or neglect.

SECTION IX.—It shall be the duty of such board to report monthly to the council all work done under its supervision and no money shall be paid out of the treasury of said village on account of any work done, until the council shall have instructed the clerk to draw the proper order therefor.

SECTION X.—It shall be the duty of said board to make an annual report to the council of the last regular meeting preceding the annual election, which report shall be in detail and cover the transactions of such board during the year.

SECTION XI.—The said board shall fix and assess the water rate to be paid by consumers and such rates shall be as near as may be upon the basis of water used, and shall make all needful rules and regulations to operate and control said waterworks and water supply.

SECTION XII.—The owner or occupant of any lot or premises against which said water rates shall be assessed shall pay the same to the recorder of said village at such times and in such manner as the board may require.

SECTION XIII.—It shall be the duty of the recorder of said village, on the first week day following the time limited for the payment of said rates so assessed, to furnish a list of all delinquents, and thereupon the board shall forthwith cause the connections of such parties with the mains to be severed and the use of water stopped unless the said assessments be paid forthwith.

SEC. XIV.—The recorder of said village shall, ex officio, be clerk of said board and under its direction shall keep a true and fair record of all its proceedings and a full and complete account of all transactions of said board. He shall collect all water rates assessed and give his receipt therefor, and pay the same over to the treasurer of said village and take his receipt therefor, and report at the regular meetings of said council for the amounts collected for the preceding month.

SECTION XV.—It shall be lawful for such commissioners and the agents and employees of said board to enter upon the lands of the public or of individuals to make all needed surveys for said system of waterworks and, subject to the approval of the council, may contract with any person for the purchase of any lands or interest in lands needed for such waterworks.

SECTION XVI.—It shall be lawful and said board is hereby authorized and empowered, subject to the provisions of law and this ordinance, to make and enter into all contracts necessary for the completion or maintenance or repairs of said system of waterworks, and said board shall have such other and further powers as shall be needed to carry into effect and accomplish the purposes and objects of this ordinance. Provided, however, that no contract, except for ordinary repairs, shall be entered into without first having the approval of the council; and provided further that all contracts and bonds herein authorized or provided for shall be in the name and run to the village of Tecumseh.

SECTION XVII.—It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to cut, destroy, mark or deface or in any manner willfully injure the property comprising or included in said system of waterworks, or to tap, perforate or bore, or otherwise open, or cause the same to be done, without the consent of said board, any pipe, main or aqueduct belonging to said system, or cause any connections to be made with any such pipe, main or aqueduct without permit of such board under such rules and regulations as it shall adopt, or to cause the water to be turned on when the same shall by order of said board be shut off for non-payment of the rate assessed as herein provided. Any persons guilty of the offenses herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction before any Justice of the Peace shall be punished by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the County jail not exceeding ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

SECTION XVIII.—It shall be the duty of said board to hold a regular monthly meeting at some time to be fixed by the board, during the week preceding the regular meeting of the council, and it may hold such other and special meetings as it may deem necessary or convenient for the transaction of its business.

SECTION XIX.—The action of said board in fixing water rates, in creating or providing for salaries, in constructing reservoirs, buildings, machinery, jets and fountains, in the purchase of real estate, in the contracting for constructions, repairs or extension, or any other contract creating liability in excess of one hundred dollars, shall be subject to the approval of the council and shall not be valid without such approval, and said board shall be subject to such further ordinances or directions of the council as shall from time to time be made for its government and for the enlarging or restricting of the powers herein granted to it.

SECTION XX.—The books, papers, contracts and all other property held by said board as such shall be and remain the property of said village and shall be at all times open to the inspection of said council or any of its members, and shall, when required by the council, be produced before it for inspection.

SECTION XXI.—The clerk of said board and all other officers and employees receiving or disbursing moneys or having the charge or control of property belonging to and part of said waterworks, shall give bonds to the said village of Tecumseh for such amount and with such sureties as the council shall direct, conditioned that such person shall well and faithfully discharge and perform the duties imposed upon him and will safely keep all property and moneys and account for and turn the same over as the law and the council shall direct, and no person herein required to give bonds shall enter upon the discharge of any duty, or do any act in his office or employment until such bond has been executed, approved by the council and filed with the recorder of said village, and such bond shall be renewed yearly and at such other times as the council shall order and direct. Provided that the bond of said clerk of water board shall be filed with the president of the council.

SECTION XXII.—It shall be lawful for such board to exercise the general powers and duties of boards of water commissioners as conferred by law. Provided, however, that such board shall be subject at all times to the control, orders, directions and ordinances of the council lawfully passed and created.

SECTION XXIII.—No member of said board of water commissioners shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract herein authorized to be entered into for the construction, materials, work, extension, repairs or other thing herein required to be let by contract. Any violation of this provision shall be deemed a forfeiture of his office and the person so offending shall, after due notice and opportunity to be heard, be removed from his office by the council.

SECTION XXIV.—The council shall have power to remove and abolish the board created by the provisions of this ordinance by a majority vote of all its members.

SECTION XXV.—This ordinance is designed to take immediate effect.

On motion the council adjourned till April 18, 1892.

WALTER C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

A runaway fever seems to have struck Lenawee county girls. On Tuesday of last week Miss Myrtle Elliott disappeared very suddenly from Hudson and has not been heard from since. Her parents are much grieved and totally at a loss to understand why she should take such a rash step. Saturday night all the citizens available in Hudson were put on a search for Mattie Armstrong, who had run away from her home in Adrian, with very little money. At a late hour it was found that the girl had started on foot for Hillsdale, walking all night long. Sunday morning she appeared in Hudson and was immediately taken in charge by the officers and delivered to her people. Mattie is a bright girl of 18. No reasons are assigned for her strange actions.

Did it ever occur to you to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best spring medicine? Try a bottle this season. It will do you good.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D. D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that, by a thorough course of treatment, it will cure almost every case of catarrh. Ministers, as a class are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh, seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly."

I used Ely's Cream Balm for dry catarrh. It proved a cure.—B. F. M. Weeks, Denver.

Local and Miscellaneous

Plant a tree on the 28th.

Frank McNeil is on the sick list.

H. V. C. Hart, of Adrian, was in town Monday.

Every citizen of Tecumseh ought to plant a tree next Thursday.

Anderson Bros. are having the front of their store nicely repainted.

Capt Wilson's boat was booked to Lake port yesterday, the 20th.

Mr. C. W. Mixer, of Hastings, was the guest of Dr. Steinhoff last Saturday.

Miss Etta Potter, of Saline, is visiting Tecumseh friends for a few days.

Moreland Bros. & Crane are building a coal house on the Mackinaw depot grounds.

Miss Mabel Jones of Kalamazoo, is the guest of Mrs. VanAntwerp for a couple of weeks.

Our "Franklin Facts" contain the full particulars of the burning of the Hurry school house.

J. C. Rogers is looking after A. W. Clayton's lumber this week at Cheboygan, Cadillac and other points.

Services appropriate to Easter Sunday were held in the churches last Sabbath, which were well attended.

The common council is pushing through the necessary preliminaries, and active work will begin on the water works at an early day.

A postal card mailed at Hillsdale, March 20th, 1876, reached Adrian April 20th, 1892. This shows what rapid transit can accomplish.

Will Orr has been in Virginia for the past two months inspecting lumber for the Lake Shore Railway. He now goes into Kentucky for the same purpose.

An important series of articles on Children, their Models and their Critics, by Mrs. A. R. Aldrich, the well-known authority on kindergarten work, will be begun in Harper's Bazar for April 23.

Peck's last-page this week (April 20) contains another of F. Opper's humorous cartoon series, illustrating the devices practiced to increase the circulation of the modern newspaper. It is entitled: "The Hustling Style of Journalism."

Young lad, son of the editor of the Delta Standard, is making, for exhibition at the Fair, a table upon which is an inlaid map of the state, each county being accurately represented by a separate piece of native Florida wood.

Frank Page has opened a shop in the front part of the building used by the Herald on Railroad street, where he is preparing into a nice trade at repairing and upholstering old furniture. People having work in that line should give him a call.

Forest Coller has received two magnificent pianos of the Shoninger make. There are no better instruments made than the Shoninger. People who wish to buy a first-class piano will have no excuse hereafter for going out of town to make the purchase.

The many friends of Mrs. L. E. Taylor of Franklin, will regret to hear of her continued serious illness, with little prospects of her recovery. Mrs. Taylor is one of Franklin's bright women, has been a most successful teacher, and is one of Lenawee's earnest Prohibitionists, whose illness is a source of sorrow to a large circle of friends.—The Messenger.

Bert Tribou Sundayed in town.

Remember the Hanawalt concert.

Sheriff Baldwin was in town last week.

Levi Hayden visited at Bay City over Easter.

Seth Randall, of Ann Arbor, was in town Friday.

Al Heesen was home from Toledo over Sunday.

D. T. Hall visited the City of the Straits last Thursday.

Old papers for putting under carpets for sale at this office.

Scove Walker spent Easter at his father's home in Brooklyn.

Wm. Henderson, of Leslie, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

L. H. Salsbury and Frank Priddy, of Adrian, were in town Saturday.

The Adrian Land & Improvement Co. have a change of card this week.

David Arnold, of Detroit, is visiting his brother, N. C. Arnold, of this village.

E. F. Gamble, of the University, is recruiting his brain and knee in our village this week.

Joe Stitt, of Evans Lake, was shaking hands with his old Tecumseh friends last Tuesday.

W. J. C. Hastings has secured a position in the work of putting in the new electric plant at Manchester.

Miss Mamie Haight, of Tecumseh, was the teacher in the Hurry school house which burned down last week.

Miss Clarinda Walker, who has been visiting relatives in town for some time, returned to her home in Brooklyn Tuesday.

Our fourth page is devoted to a big grist of Council Proceedings this week, and they will be found interesting reading to every resident of this village.

A meeting of the commercial telegraph line was held in Dr. North's office Tuesday afternoon. The members decided to incorporate the T. & M. line into their system and to issue new call cards for the new combination.

We hope that the council will find some better place for the windmill that stands in the street near the Goodyear house before the electric lights are turned on. The brilliant arc lights and a barn yard windmill side by side is too striking a contrast for Exchange Place.—Manchester Enterprise.

Easter was observed at St. Peter's church this year as usual. A morning prayer service was held at six o'clock, and even at that early hour the church was crowded. At 10:30 a communion service was held, and at four P. M. the Sunday School gave a special service suited to the Easter season. All the services were well attended.

At a meeting of the council Monday night Hudson Conkling, Newbold Satterthwaite and Geo. Heesen were appointed members of the board of water commissioners, to have charge of the construction of the village waterworks according to the ordinance passed last week, which appears at length in our report of the council proceedings in this issue.

Monday afternoon as a freight engine was pulling out near the target on the C. J. & M. track, the cylinder head blew out and scattered numerous bolts and other pieces of iron in all directions, tearing up the sidewalk and the right of way with impunity. A sad and fatal accident was only averted by the absence of human beings at that time near the scene of the catastrophe.

Some measures ought to be taken by the village authorities to stop the scattering of advertising dodgers and other papers on the streets. They only serve to scare horses and litter the street. Hand bills that are placed in carriages or handed to people are read, but when thrown upon the side walk not one in fifty is ever read. There should be a village ordinance to stop the nuisance.

The M. E. church was filled with a large congregation last Sunday evening to listen to an Easter Sunday School concert. A splendid program was presented, consisting of recitations and music. The floral decorations were very fine, and the exercises from first to last were praiseworthy in the highest degree, and reflected credit upon the officers and pupils of the school.

The Easter concert at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening was a notable affair. The pulpit platform was elaborately trimmed with potted plants and flowers. A special Easter service was presented, consisting of recitations, responsive readings and music, the choruses being rendered by the full choir and Sunday School together. The little earthern eggs were collected and "hatched." Their contents yielded about $80.00 for the benefit of the library fund.

The central committee for Lenawee county on "Women's work for the Exposition," met at the residence of C. R. Miller, of Adrian, last Thursday. After the business meeting, an hour was spent by the class in the study of "the stone age." Mrs. R. Cook, Mrs. G. I. Thompson, and Mrs. Patterson, of Hudson, Mrs. Judson, of Clayton, Mrs. Rollin Carpenter and Mrs. Gillmore, of Blissfield, Mrs Geo. Tiffany and Mrs. Laverne Bidwell, of Tecumseh, members of the auxiliary committees, were present. The class adjourned to meet again with Mrs. Miller on the 28th of this month. Any lady can join this organization and will be heartily welcomed.—Hudson Gazette.

Fred Osborn was home from Saginaw over Sunday.

O. P. Bills made a business trip to Toledo on Friday.

A. W. Slayton was in Grand Rapids last week on business.

Lent is now over and orange blossoms are blooming again.

Mrs. W. H. Wiggins, of Adrian, was visiting friends in Tecumseh last week.

Rev. W. H. Babbitt and wife attended a meeting of the Presbytery at Quincy last week.

Mrs. M. E. Corey returned last week from an extended visit with friends at Peru, Ind.

Editor Grandon is preparing a boom edition of the Messenger to be issued early next month.

The rite of baptism was administered to three young ladies at the Baptist church last Sunday evening.

Don't forget that next Tuesday evening, April 26, is the date of the Hanawalt concert at the M. E. church.

Mrs. O. J. Perrin and Mrs. Wm. Ide attended the district convention of the W. C. T. U. at Ypsilanti last week.

F. Brown & Son, of Britton, have a new ad on the first page. This hustling firm intend to get their share of the trade in their vicinity.

The Birmingham Times says: Miss Myrta Hanawalt, as an elocutionist, delivered several recitations, both pathetic and humorous, that were received with wild enthusiasm by her hearers.

The eighty-fourth volume of Harper's Magazine will be completed with the number for May. This old pioneer of the monthlies grows better as it grows older and it still leads all competitors.

One of the most remarkable things of this April is the fact that for 9 out of the last 10 mornings, the mercury has been below freezing. This is something that Aprils for many years back cannot boast of.

Sur. Gen. Woodward left home Monday morning for St Louis, Mo., to attend a meeting of the surgeon's association of national guards and regular army physicians, which convened in that city Tuesday.

A number of Tecumseh Masons visited the Manchester Lodge Monday evening and exemplified the work of the third degree. The exercises closed with a banquet, and the Tecumseh fraters enjoyed the evening immensely.

The sacred concert by Rev. G. L. Hanawalt and daughter, Miss Myrta, is recommended by both press and pulpit as being of a superior character. Those who fail to hear it will miss a rare treat. The admission is only 10 and 20 cents.

Moreland Bros. & Crane have a new card in this issue setting forth the merits of their red crown gasoline and keystone white water kerosene. They are sold by eight different Tecumseh firms and—well, read the card for particulars.

Remember the Hanawalt concert next Tuesday evening at the M. E. church, under the auspices of the Epworth League. The admission is only 20 cents, children under 12 10 cents. We predict a full house. Don't miss this rare treat.

Prof. E. A. Wilson is highly complimented by the city papers for the work he is doing at Paw Paw. He has lately perfected an arrangement by which graduates of the High School will be admitted to the University without examination.

Mr. C. H. Reed, of Lansing, has been engaged to succeed Mr. Rice as foreman of the HERALD office. He has had several years experience in a large job office and is especially well posted in that branch of the business. He comes well recommended and we believe he will fill the position to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The question whether the nominee or the platform should have the greatest weight with voters in the Presidential campaign, will be discussed in the May number of the North American Review, by Senator Quay of Pennsylvania, Senator Vest of Missouri, Representative Boutelle of Maine, Representative Burrows of Michigan, Representative Wilson of West Virginia and Representative Kilgore of Texas.

Otto L. Rice, the foreman of the HERALD office, having secured a much more lucrative position at Mendota, Ill., we felt it our duty to release him, and he left last Tuesday for his new field of labor. Mr. Rice has filled his position here with much credit and we regret his departure. He leaves here on the best of terms with all who have been acquainted with him and we wish him the best of success in his new venture. We believe he will look back with pleasure upon the days he has spent in Tecumseh.

There are some funny things happen. The Adrian Press of yesterday is piling it up on the Times about making so many mistakes, and in a prominent item on the same page announces that Hon. A. S. Partridge will speak at Holloway, April 19th, in the public "hell." We don t believe that Holloway keeps that sort of an institution in running order, and don't believe the Press intended to say so. But it is one of those annoying mistakes that will happen in the rush of getting out a paper, and the Times surely has the laugh on the Press this time.—Adrian Messenger.

This must be the equinoctial storm.

The roads are now good, so bring along that wood.

Don't fail to hear Wolff's full orchestra at the return party, May 6th.

Justice Burridge left yesterday for an extended business trip in the north-west part of the state.

The Bi club took a spin around town Tuesday evening. They had twenty-five members in the ranks.

The committee on decorations for the May party are making special arrangements for something new in that line. Come and see for yourself.

The bicycle club has decided to have a club ride every Monday night at 7:00 o'clock. They would be pleased to have every rider turn out and ride with them.

A citizens meeting will be held next Monday evening at the opera house to take action for the relief of the famine sufferers in Russia. Let there be a full attendance.

The Democratic County Convention yesterday was well attended and a good list of delegates was chosen to the state convention. It was a Grover Cleveland gathering from top to bottom.

Wolff's Toledo orchestra of eleven pieces, and his favorite caller Mr. Calish will be in attendance at the May party. Wolff has never given a concert here with a full orchestra. Be sure to hear it.

Uncle Charley Spafford is working on the Clinton Local at present. In this connection Editor Blanchard says: If you find anything in the paper for a few weeks that don't suit you, lay it to Uncle Charley. We are busy repairing our home recently purchased of F. D. Lancaster.

The Lenawee County Savings Bank have started a "nickel" department and will receive savings deposits in sums as low as five cents. The bank has established an agency in Tecumseh with C. A. Wright & Co. We call attention to their card which appears in another column.

A-head of everything that can be used for washing and cleaning, is PEARLINE. If your work is heavy, it is a necessity; if your work is light, it is a luxury. It lessens the labor of washing, and helps everywhere in the housework. There's nothing so harmless —so effective—so popular as it is now—it is rapidly superseding soap. Try it for cracked dishes—for frosting cake—for cleaning the bath-room—for shining your silver—for making your hair beautiful—for whitening your complexion—for keeping your baby well—for making home happy. Beware of imitations. 283 JAMES PYLE, N. Y.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Work of the National Lawmakers in Senate and House.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House — Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In the senate yesterday a bill was introduced authorizing the Chicago national bank to establish a branch on the world's fair grounds. Senator Chandler (N. H.) spoke against the proposed constitutional amendment to elect senators by a direct vote of the people.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Bills were passed in the senate yesterday to reorganize the artillery and infantry of the army and to increase its efficiency; authorizing the secretary of war to cause an exploration and survey of the interior of the territory of Alaska; to amend the railroad land forfeiture acts so as to permit actual settlers to purchase the lands within three years after forfeiture; to provide for fixing uniform standard of classification and grading of wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye; for the preservation and custody of the records of the volunteer armies, creating a record and pension office in the war department, and for the better control of and to promote the safety of national banks. Mr. Morgan spoke in favor of the free coinage of silver.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In the senate yesterday bills were passed appropriating $500,000 for the erection of an additional wing to the national museum in Washington; appropriating $75,000 for a bronze statue of Christopher Columbus in the capitol grounds, and to extend the free mail delivery. Adjourned to the 18th.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In the house yesterday the urgent deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $1,012,636, was passed; also the bill authorizing the construction of a railway bridge across the Mississippi river at Moline, Ill.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A bill to create a third division of the district of Kansas for judicial purposes was passed in the house yesterday and a bill appropriating $15,000 for the introduction of reindeer into Alaska was reported favorably.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In the house yesterday the bill to indemnify settlers on the Des Moines river lands was favorably reported. The naval appropriation bill was discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In the house yesterday the post office appropriation bill ($80,000,000) was reported. Favorable reports were made for the erection of public buildings in about thirty cities scattered all over the country.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—In the house on Saturday a bill was reported favorably to declare all Indians citizens who have attended school ten years at the government's expense, provided they are 21 years of age. The naval appropriation bill was further discussed.

BACK TO ITALY.

Minister Porter Directed to Return to His Post at Rome.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 16.—Albert G. Porter, minister to Italy, has received a telegram from Secretary Blaine requesting him to return to Rome at his earliest convenience. Mr. Porter has accordingly prepared to leave for Washington Sunday afternoon, the telegram directing him to report there. Minister Porter expresses satisfaction at the settlement and says it means the return of Baron Fava.

Tragedy in Michigan.

PORT HURON, Mich., April 18.—St. Clair county was the scene of another murder Saturday night, the fourth in three months. Richard Cook, aged 54, has resided on a farm in East China township, near here, for thirty-seven years. He has a pretty stepdaughter, aged 22. William Colby, her lover, accused Cook of criminal conduct. The old man became furious and started for Colby with a pitchfork. Colby seized a neckyoke and brought it down over Cook's head, killing him instantly. Colby then gave himself up to officers.

Loss of Miners' Wages.

LONDON, April 18.—It is estimated that the loss in wages to the Durham miners during the five weeks that they have been on strike is £1,250,000 ($6,250,000). The condition of the miners and their families is deplorable, and the distress among workmen in the various industries more or less directly affected by the shut-down of the mines is growing more severe every day. The loss to the mine-owners, too, is great.

Copyright Treaty with Germany.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The secretary of state and Mr. Von Holleben, the German minister, exchanged on the 15th inst. the ratifications of their respective governments of the copyright agreement concluded between the United States and Germany at Washington on January 15. The agreement will go into operation at the expiration of three weeks from the date of its exchange.

McCarthyites Gone to Pieces.

LONDON, April 18.—A dispatch to the St. James Gazette from Dublin says that the McCarthyite party has been completely battered to pieces, and that it has split into four sections, one headed by Timothy Healy and the second by John Dillon and William O'Brien. The third wing is known as the neutrals, while the fourth consists of Justin McCarthy and his son.

Discovered an Ancient Mine.

DENVER, April 16.—An ancient mine has been discovered by prospectors at Silver Mountain. In a niche in the wall was found the mummy of an Indian child. Assayer Herbert Turner made an analysis and found it strongly impregnated with gold.

Will Assist in the Ceremonies.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The president and several members of his cabinet will visit New York on the 27th inst. to take part in the ceremonies incident to the laying of the corner-stone of the Grant monument.

A FURIOUS STORM.

Wind, Rain and Hail Cause Great Damage in Virginia.

A Farmer's Wife Killed, and Her Servant Girl Probably Met the Same Fate —Condition of Affairs in Mississippi's Flooded Section.

SWEPT BY WIND.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 16.—The counties contiguous to Petersburg were visited Thursday night by a most terrific wind, rain and hailstorm the severest ever experienced in this section of the state. The storm was particularly destructive in Dinwiddie county, where the wind attained the velocity of a cyclone and left death and destruction in its path. It covered an area of 15 miles, beginning in the center of the county and extending to the Sussex county line, to within a short distance of Stony Creek, a station on the Petersburg & Welden railroad 30 miles from Petersburg. Houses, barns and fences were leveled to the ground, and immense trees which had stood the storms of half a century or more were torn out by the roots, while others had their limbs twisted into all conceivable shapes.

During the storm the residence of Milton R. Rose, owner of a large sawmill, was taken by the wind from its foundation and carried into the air, and falling some yards away was crushed to pieces, the timbers falling upon Mrs. Rose and her children. Mrs. Rose was instantly killed but the children escaped uninjured. It is stated that a servant girl employed by Mrs. Rose who was in the house at the time was also killed. Mr. Rose was not at home at the time of the cyclone.

It is feared that other damage not yet reported has been done by the hurricane. The storm was also very severe in Chesterfield county, in the vicinity of the county courthouse, where there was a heavy fall of hail, which did much damage in the way of breaking window glasses, cutting vegetation to pieces and destroying fruit trees.

NORFOLK, Va., April 16.—A cyclone struck this section about 8 o'clock Thursday night and left destruction in its wake. The wind attained a velocity of 60 miles an hour, and hail as large as small nuts fell. The greatest damage was done at Lambert's Point where a new roundhouse is being erected by the Norfolk & Western Railway Company. A wall 200 feet around and from 12 to 22 feet high was blown down as if it had been paper.

In Princess Anne county, near Creed's bridge, fifteen dwellings, barns and other farming implements were totally destroyed. Fruit trees were ruined, but the early crops are uninjured. The storm originated in Texas and is sweeping across the continent.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 16.—The town of Bennettsville was visited at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon by the most terrific hailstorm that has ever been known in this state. The cloud came from the northwest. The hailstones were 2 inches in diameter and fell to the depth of 6 inches. Birds, chickens and hogs were killed and many glasses were broken; men and horses were knocked down, vegetables and cotton were completely cut down, and incalculable injury is reported from the country.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD.

JACKSON, Miss., April 16.—Deputy Sheriff Crogker, of Lee county, was a passenger on the first Mobile & Ohio train that crossed the Tombigbee river in eight days. At that point half a mile of track has been washed up and carried a mile, where it was lodged against trees. Capt. Crocker says the published reports do not give half an idea of the wrecks and ruin to be seen in Lowndes, Clay and Munroe counties. Houses, fences and bridges are all gone. Thousands of dead horses, mules, cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and the body of an occasional negro can be seen in every direction. Warrior river, in Alabama, just across the line, rose 47 feet in four hours. The city of Columbia is feeding 500 refugees. The water is falling in the Yazoo and Big Black rivers, in the western portion of the state, and the danger of an immediate serious overflow is about over. Trains are running on through.

John Langtone and his wife and twelve children were drowned in the flood.

His Reason for Suicide.

EVANSVILLE, Wis., April 16.—The remains of J. S. Douglas, aged 43 years, farmer, whose home was near the west shore of First lake, was found in the timber 2½ miles northeast of Oregon, Wis., and 3½ miles from his home April 13 with three bullet holes in his head. A revolver was near, and there was written in an account book found in his pocket: "This is to certify that my life is a failure. I lack brains enough to carry me safely through." He leaves a widow and a 7-year-old son.

Side Doors Were Open.

NEW YORK, April 18.—It was predicted, owing to Superintendent Byrnes' orders to the police captains, that Sunday—Easter—would be the dryest Sunday on record in New York. Such was not the case, however. There was a direct return to the old order of things. Side doors were worked with the same confidence and easy way as before the Parkhurst crusade. Forty-one violators were arrested.

Georgia for Harrison.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 16.—The state republican convention elected delegates at large to the Minneapolis convention and adopted resolutions indorsing President Harrison and instructing the delegates for him. The convention also condemned the refusal of the last legislature to make suitable provision to have Georgia properly represented at the world's fair.

Russia's Gratitude.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—The Russian relief steamer Indiana, which has just returned from Libau, brings many mementos from Russians as marks of their esteem and gratitude.

HOW TO GET THIN.

The only safe and reliable treatment for obesity, or superfluous fat, is the "Leverette" Obesity Pills, which gradually reduce the weight and measurement. No injury or inconvenience. Leaves no wrinkles—acts by absorption.

This cure is founded upon the most scientific principles, and has been used by one of the most eminent physicians of Europe in his private practice "for five years," with the most gratifying results.

Mr. Henry Perkins, 29 Union Park, Boston, writes: "From the use of the Leverette Obesity Pills my weight has been reduced ten pounds in three weeks and my general health is very much improved. The principles of your treatment are fully indorsed by my family physician. In proof of my gratitude I herewith give you permission to use my name if you desire to do so."

A MAN FROM COLOONEY.

The Amusing Vagabond Who Proved Himself a Hero.

He came to us when the last field of wheat had fallen before the irrepressible advance of the reaping machine, and consequently at a time when fresh hands were hardly wanted. His approach was leisurely and philosophical, his manner as easy as the flow of his conversation, his attire light and picturesque. Diogenes going through modern England could not have maintained one tithe of the quiet semi-cynical self-possession typified in the bronzed face and humorous eyes that came down the lane and shone over the garden hedge like a new sunburst.

"The top of the mornin' to ye, sor, and many av thim!"

Civility, as the proverb says, is a cheap commodity. I returned the salutation, the original purveyor thereof meanwhile adopting an easy and graceful attitude against the privet hedge that separated us.

"'Tis foine wither for the harvest, glory be to God, and it's me own hands that is oneasy to be handlin' fork or rake wid the colleens beyant there. Maybe the masther has a job of worruk that he can give to a man loike mesilf."

He slanted his head over in the direction of a field where half a dozen rosy English lasses were engaged in heaping the rakings of a thick crop of wheat. The employment was easy and congenial; I thought it would fit well the disposition of the traveler. The master came toward us at that moment.

"Here is a man who wants work."

"Ah! God be good to yer honor, so I do indade. It's mesilf that has an illigant hand at harvest worruk. And yer honor'll give me a job of worruk?"

His honor wanted no more hands, and said so abruptly, with certain pointed remarks concerning the assurance of people who go idle at the end of harvest.

"Oh! papa! And it is not an hour since you said you could do with another man to take Job's place. Give the poor man something to do."

The poor man looked over the hedge, quick to seize the opportunity. Miss Maud, fresh and dainty as one of her own roses, blushed and started under the frank adoration of those wicked Hibernian eyes.

"God be good to ye, miss, but 'tis only raison that a swate young thing loike yerself should spake soft to a poor man as is wanting worruk so badly. Ah! now, your honor'll give me the worruk that the young lady was spakin' of."

His honor gave in, beaten by the touch of his daughter's little hand and the audacity of the bronzed features before him.

"It's only a waste of money," he said, when the traveler—after a liberal meal—had wandered away to the harvest field in search of the much-desired worruk. "He'll do nothing. These wandering Irishmen never do."

Certainly this one did not kill himself with over-exertion. He performed his task deliberately, if well. There was a tendency about him to sit down every few minutes. If he had an audience close at hand he betrayed a further tendency to discourse on various topics.

"Sure, now," he said, as I stood by him among the corn, what time the sun was doing its level best to burn us all into rags, "'tis moighty improvident this spending of yer stren'th in the hot sunloight. It's aslape we should be at this minit. Worruk in the cool and slape in the hot—that's how we do at Colooney."

"And where is Colooney?"

"Sure, yer honor knows that Colooney is in Sligo. I am from Colooney mesilf."

"You seem to have wandered a long way from home."

"Ah, thin, but what good would I do and me not havin' seen the wurruld? It's the traveled men that makes fortins."

"And you are making your fortune?"

"Ah, sure, but I'm on the way to that same. Ye should see me at my own trade. Me hand's a bit out at the harvestin'. Did your honor iver hear tell of Judy McCann?"

He dropped easily to a convenient sead amid the sheaves and prepared to "discoorse" at his leisure. I moved away, not wishing to give him an excuse for idleness. Looking around ten minutes afterward I found that he had not yet risen. He was probably meditating over the story of Judy McCann.

The man from Colooney stayed on. His sleeping chamber was in the hayloft; he washed at the pump, dispensing in some mysterious fashion with the aid of soap or towel. He lounged easily about the stackyard o' nights, but always retired into the paddock to smoke his pipe—a wise proceeding which ingratiated him with the master, who had no mind to see his stacks burnt down. The women liked him, as they always do like anything handsome and impudent. He fetched and carried for them. One day I found him laboring under a heavy wheelbarrow load of manure, which he was taking from the fold to the flower garden. He was actually sweating heavily and working hard without doubt.

"What does this mean?" I inquired. "I thought you considered this sort of thing improvident?"

The man from Colooney regarded me with a humorous smile. His eyes twinkled, and one of them closed itself for an instant.

"Ah, thin, captain, dear, sure and what can a poor boy loike mesilf do when the sweetest voice in all the worruld axes him to do a little at the gardenin'? And it's yerself that knows what a swate voice that is, captain."

I followed him into the garden and found that under Miss Maud's instructions he had cleared a corner previously given over to waste and weeds and was rapidly bringing it in to something like respectability. He worked hard that day and earned a right to rest and be thankful at night.

"Ye see, captain," he remarked, confidentially, to me as I met him washing away the marks of toil at the pump, "ye see, I'm that soft-hearted wid the ladies. Divil a bit of me that doesn't do me best to oblige thim when they come to me with their murtherin' illigant talk and ses: 'Michael, will ye do this?' and 'Michael, will ye do that?' Ah, it's mesilf that always was a favorite wid the ladies.'"

The man from Colooney was perhaps not far out in his assertion. There seemed to be a movement in his favor among the females, from the mistress to the milkmaid. The master looked upon it with true English disgust.

"Because the man's impudently good-looking and picturesque you rave about him. Lazy fellows, all his sort. Who ever saw him run or get out of his lazy shuffle?"

"I have," said Miss Maud. "He worked like a horse when I brought him into the garden."

I ventured to hint, sotto voce, that anything would brighten up under the influence, and so on.

"That's foolish, and it isn't true. The man from Colooney," said the young lady, "is a good worker if you only manage him right."

One morning a hullabaloo arose in the vicinity of the stables. The master, Miss Maud and myself were close by inspecting the young lady's ponies, and we hurried up. A stable boy had lost five shillings from his coat as it hung in the stables, and was loudly lamenting the fact. The men standing around looked suspicious. The man from Colooney slept next to the stable. The foreman, distrustful of anything Hibernian, gave voice to the public sentiment:

"Jim thinks the Irishman has taken it, sir."

The man from Colooney was close by and heard it. A flush of crimson shot straight to his bronze cheek, and he took a half-step forward. Miss Maud's clear voice stopped him.

"What a shame! How dare you say such a thing? He would no more take it than I should."

The man from Colooney held his head high. Somehow we forgot his rags as we looked at him.

"God bless you, miss," said the man from Colooney. "Thank you."

Nevertheless the Englishman looked askance at him. The man from Colooney went solitary for a few days.

The last day of harvest came. We all went forth to see the last loads brought home. Miss Maud drove the ponies afield, two vicious little brutes, that ought to have had a Hercules to hold them. She drove on before us with a confident air. The master, anxious, shook his head. He did not like the ponies, but he was as wax in his daughter's hands.

The man from Colooney was in his element that day. He talked and laughed with the women, his impudent good humor bubbling up like fine champagne. He worked, too, with the best of them, making light of toil at which he usually would have looked aside.

"I'll be going on my way to-night," said he, as I stopped by him once that afternoon. "It's pinin' for new adventures I am, so ye'll see me no more. Maybe I'll go a long way off."

Toward dusk the last load was filled and dispatched homeward, amid cheers. Miss Maud and her ponies headed the wagons round by the road; the rest of us sought a short cut through the wood, so as to reach home in time to welcome the little procession on its arrival. Going through the wood, the man from Colooney burst into song—tender and Irish. The women hushed their clatter and listened, the bundles of gleaning on their heads swaying harmoniously with the tune.

A startling sound came upon us as we struck the lane—the sound of horses' feet dashing along the hard ground in uncontrollable flight. The lane ran down hill there, terminating at the foot by an old lime quarry a hundred feet deep. We gazed up the hill to the turn, the noise coming nearer and nearer. The man from Colooney had ceased his song and stood watching.

"Maud's ponies!" said the master, and clinched his teeth hard.

They came round the corner like a whirlwind, galloping together like the demons they were, their mistress holding to the phaeton, but helpless. I thought of the lime quarry thirty yards away, and turned sick. The women screamed and fainted; the men stared at the coming whirlwind and groaned. What could stop them in so short a distance?

"Stand clear!" The man from Colooney's voice rang out sharp and strong. He had gone a step or two to meet the ponies as he spoke, and stood there, fair and square, turning up his ragged shirt sleeves.

Crash! The man from Colooney went down before that awful rush; but his hands grasped the bridles. Up, and down again, the blood flowing from his face, and again up, and again down, but still hanging on to the mad beasts until they paused, trembling and wild, on the very edge of the quarry.

"My poor fellow!" The master bent over the man from Colooney as he lay on the bank, panting and ghastly, crushed to death. He turned his face half-round and smiled feebly.

"'Tis young miss he wants," said a woman.

Miss Maud was at his side instantly. She laid her hand on his damp forehead and then, with a womanly impulse, bent forward and kissed him. I think that kiss was his passport for the long journey he had spoken of, for when the girl raised her face the man from Colooney was dead.—English Magazine.

He Had.

"I don't see how you ever let such a mistake as 'the editor lies like a pirate' for 'the editor begs leave to explain' get into print," said the advertising clerk. "You must have lost your head entirely."

"Yes," mournfully assented the proof reader, writing out a little "Situation Wanted" advertisement and handing it over the counter. "I have."—Chicago Tribune.

A RACE FOR HOMES.

Lively Scramble for the Indian Lands in South Dakota.

BROWN'S VALLEY, Minn., April 16.—Under a warm and glorious sun the great Sisseton reservation was thrown open to the public at 12 o'clock Friday, and though the rush over the line was milder than most people expected, it was sufficiently exciting and picturesque to please anybody. In fact, it was wildly exciting, and one of the strongest pictures ever expressed to mortal eyes. As early as 5 o'clock in the morning this town and the country around were astir. People were rushing through the streets, jostling one another, making no apology, bringing their last effects and hurrying away again to take up their stand near the border land. Teams from various directions passed through the village and disappeared up the valley toward the border. In two hours scarcely a solitary being could be found in the town. From the point of entry here to clear along the border as far as the eye could reach a novel sight was presented. Over 1,000 eager home-seekers were scattered and strung out for miles, the line of human beings disappearing in the distance. Many were mounted on broncos, others on livery horses, many in wagons, all anxious for the signal for the race. Many were on foot, waiting, hoping and devoured by nervousness.

Men stood with one foot almost on the line with their bodies bent forward as a sprinter awaits a signal. Twelve o'clock came. Up went Col. Barnard's right hand. The bugle pealed forth the order. Firing began instantly. The guards along the line took up the signal, the roar of the carbines sounding fainter and fainter till it died away.

It is now believed that not over 2,500 persons have located claims and that there will be good lands vacant for a week to come. Many are trusting to this, and a large crowd will leave here with guides to-day on the search. Most of the people in the great rush at noon carried compasses. Army officers assert that there were over 500 people located in the reservation in Indian huts in the brush to the west and in the ravines, where the eye of the soldier as he sped along could not reach them.

Miss Stanfer, of North Dakota; Miss Dehart, Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Burnett, of Minneapolis, and Miss Sharp, all returned Friday night, happy in the fact that they located good claims close to the town site. They sat up all night in a tent, and it was a merry party throughout. Though determined to locate they were materially assisted by the men, who had pledged their assistance and protection.

[The Sisseton Indian reservation surplus lands that were opened to settlement at noon Friday are located in the northeastern corner of South Dakota, covering most of Robert county, lapping over on the edge of Marshall and Day counties, crossing the panhandle of Grant and the sharp point of the triangular-shaped reservation extending down to the center of Coddington, a few miles from Watertown. The northern base of the triangle extends over into Sargent and Richland counties in North Dakota, and for that reason fillings may be made at Fargo. The lands are rich and numerous lakes cover the entire extent of the reservation, a good portion of which is wooded and of a hilly character. In fact the character of the lands reflects much credit on the judgment of the Sisseton Indians, who chose this land as their reward for their help to the settlers in the Indian war of 1862. For nearly thirty years they held the reservation intact but finally concluded that they would prefer to have their lands in severalty and live like whites, so the matter was soon arranged, with the aid of a commission, and Friday's scramble for lands is the result. The Indians have selected many of the best lands on the reservation, but it is estimated that enough for about 4,000 claims of 160 acres each still remained up to noon Friday.]

A FARMER FOUND DEAD.

Shot Down in His Barn Near Geneseo, Ill., by Some Unknown Assailant.

GENESEO, Ill., April 18.—Last Thursday night the report of a gun was heard in the barn on the Taylor farm in Cornwall township and the eldest son of James E. Taylor, who was near the barn at the time, rushed in and found his father lying on the floor dead, having been shot in the head with slugs or bullets fired from a shotgun. Mr. Taylor was 32 years old, and leaves a wife and seven children. The murdered man was a hard working farmer, and had no enemies that any one knows of. It is a very mysterious case, and every effort is being made to find the murderer.

METHODISTS WANT MONEY.

A Great University, National in Character, to Be Built at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Bishop Hurst, of the Methodist church and chancellor of the American university which it is proposed to establish in Washington, has issued an appeal to the Methodists of the country for a fund of $10,000,000 with which to establish and endow the institution in a manner that shall be creditable to the denomination for which it stands. Depositories for the receipt of funds are the agencies for the Methodist book concern at New York, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

Col. Nicholas Vedder Dead.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Nicholas Vedder, brevet lietenant colonel and paymaster, U. S. A., died, aged 74 years. He was on the retired list of the army. Col. Vedder was one of the first paymasters appointed by President Lincoln. He was Gen. Sherman's chief paymaster on his march to the sea, during which time he disbursed $62,000,000.

Two Heavy Shocks of Earthquake.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 18.—At 2:50 o'clock Sunday afternoon two heavy shocks of earthquake were felt in Portland and points near by. Vibrations were from west to east and lasted about ten seconds in each case. Many persons became frightened when buildings began to tremble and rushed into the street. No damage was done.

The Failure Record.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 226, as compared with totals of 208 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 251.

WILL GRIPPE BE AN ANNUAL VISITOR?

This question is under serious consideration by the medical profession and the public in general are deeply interested in the answer. Its visitations during the past three years have impressed upon people a full sense of its power and danger, and the experience of those years has also taught many things in regard to the nature of the disease. One important thing learned is that sad results often follow long after the disease itself is supposed to be fully over. It is this insidious, lingering effect which just now is being felt through the country. The colds which come so readily with these spring months develops into full fruit the germs left by the disease, and a long siege of sickness, with great danger of fatal results, is apt to follow. To stop this at the start is most important. No remedy on the market or no physicians' prescription is so sure to do this as Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It has been tried in thousands of cases and the manufacturers guarantee full benefits. All lung difficulties are benefitted by this remedy and from its wonderful and speedy relief in cases of Croup and Whooping Cough no household with children should ever be without it. Only 25 cents a bottle. Ask for Hamilton's. Sold by all dealers.

Clinton Column.

CLINTON, MICH., APRIL 21, 1892.

Mrs. Felton is quite sick with erysipelas.

Miss Lue Brown left here Monday for Saginaw.

H. D. Niblack is clerking for S. W. Demuth.

George Kies came home last week for a few days.

Nase & Son have begun work on St. John's church.

Laura Clark is working in the office of Clark's creamery.

Mrs. Chas. Fisk, of Detroit, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Dorr.

Mr. Crofoot, of Saline, was a guest at L. W. Kimball's Sunday.

F. D. Lancaster will make extensive repairs on his house this spring.

C. D. Keyes has been at work on S. W. Demuth's books for a few days.

Mrs. Jane VanDeMark has been quite sick for a few days but is gaining now.

Neil Williams came home from Ann Arbor last Friday for the Easter vacation.

Horace Semark expects to go to England in a short time to visit his old home.

Roswell Randall was quite sick the first of the week but is reported better to-day.

Several Masons went to Manchester Monday evening to witness work in the 3rd degree.

Twenty-eight new members were received into the Congregational church last Sunday.

Will Muir is working with a gang of men under Peter Jacob on the main line at Blissfield.

Miss Christine Burton, who has been spending the winter in Romeo, returned home last Saturday.

Howard Hause came home from Detroit last week and has begun work for the woolen mill company.

George Semark went to Detroit on Wednesday to take a position on a boat running between Sarnia ond Detroit.

The interior of the Lake Shore depot has been cleaned and painted and now presents quite a dressed-up appearance.

Bishop Davies is expected here some time next month. We understand that there will be quite a class for confirmation.

Miss Eva Shimman went to Adrian last week to assist Miss Whipple in her millinery store on Saturday. She returned Monday.

Work is progressing rapidly on A. C. Huntington's new house. We understand that the house will be built on the same plan as John Machen's, only larger.

Delegates C. S. Burroughs, E. R. Smith, C. D. Keyes, Peter Jacob, R. D. Gillespie and Philip Kehoe attended the Democratic County Convention at Adrian Wednesday.

Lon Marshall has sold his house and lot on Franklin street to Mrs. Kinney, of Onsted, who will occupy the house. They have given possession of the rooms on the west side.

Easter suppers galore. One at the town hall by the Baptist society last Saturday, one in the M. E. church basement Tuesday and one at the hall on Wednesday by the Episcopal society.

Barney McAdam, who went to Ogden a few weeks ago and was taken sick there with pneumonia, is still very sick. The disease left him in a very weak condition from which he has been unable to rally. He is 81 years old.

Married, Tuesday, April 19th, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. Lew Hendershott and Miss Dollie Sutfin. Rev. Stalker performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hendershott left on the 4 o'clock train for Warsaw, Ill.

J. B. Wells returned to Clinton last Saturday from California, after an absence of ten years. His return was quite a surprise to his many friends here, but time has left so few of its traces upon him that they are all able to recognize him immediately.

A new bank, under the firm name of Smith, Richmond & Co., will be opened in the Smith block May 1st. The members of the firm are E. R. Smith, W. B. Richmond, W. S. Kimball and L. W. Kimball, who will also serve in the capacity of cashier. Success to the new firm.

Eugene VanDeMark received word of the dangerous illness of a friend at Fort Wayne, Ind., Monday, and left immediately for that place. He had not been gone an hour when another telegram was received announcing her death. This is a sad blow for Eugene and he has the sympathy of his many friends.

The Smith block was vacated bright and early Monday morning by A. H. Jackson, as what remained of his stock of dry goods had been made ready for shipment Saturday and Sunday. Ellsworth Cairns, who has been clerking here, goes to Adrian in Mr. Jackson's underwear store. The goods were shipped to Fremont, Ohio.

Easter service at St. John's church was carried out in the impressive manner common to that church. The service was opened by a joyous anthem, "The Lord is Risen." Morning prayer followed, with anthems and chants appropriate for the occasion. After the singing came the administration of the Holy Communion. The offering, "Jerusalem," was sung by Mrs. L. W. Kimball and must have left in the hearts of the people filling the little church the feeling of joy and gladness that is inseparable from Easter.

A MILLION FRIENDS.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. If you have never used this great cough medicine one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at J. J. Orr's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

There are not many people who grow old without beginning to look greasy.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT of payment having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage bearing date March 19th, 1889, executed and delivered by Seth C. Randall to Emma Drake, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, on the 20th day of March, 1889 in Liber 120, of mortgages, on pages 614 and 615, and upon which mortgage there remains due at the date hereof the sum of three hundred ninety-nine dollars and sixty cents (399,60), and no proceedings at law or in equity having been taken to collect the same or any part thereof:

Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained (which has become operative by reason of said default) and by the Statutes of the State of Michigan, in such case made and provided, for the purpose of realizing the moneys above mentioned and interest thereon, and costs of this foreclosure and sale including an attorney fee as provided by law, I shall on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1892, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the court house, in the City of Adrian, County of Lenawee Michigan (that being the place where the Circuit court for the County of Lenawee is holden), all that piece or parcel of land situate and being in the township of, Ridgeway, County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: The northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section twenty-three (23), town six (6), south of range five (5) east.

ESTATE OF ALBERT VEDDER.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Monday the 11th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Albert Vedder, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Emma Vedder, administratrix, with the will annexed upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred and all special legicies have been fully paid, and that she is now ready to close said estate and to render her final admini-tration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will of said deceased, that she may be discharged and her bond canceled and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 9th day of May, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A True Copy.)

RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.

A. E. BARAGAR, Probate Register. feb 11

CHANCERY NOTICE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN. Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee. In chancery.

Lucius V. Judson, Complainant, vs. Leonard Carlton, Malinda M. Carlton, Cass Miller, M. May Miller, Defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court, County of Lenawee, in chancery, at the Court House in the City of Adrian, on the 18th day of April, A. D. 1892.

It satisfactorily appearing to this court, by affidavit on file, that the defendant, Leonard Carlton, is not a resident of this State, but resides at Garden City, in Finney County, State of Kansas.

On motion of Wood & Bird, the complainant's solicitors, it is ordered that the said defendant, Leonard Carlton, cause his appearance to be entered herein within four months from the date of this order, and in case of his appearance that he cause his answer to the complainant's bill of complaint to be filed and a copy thereof to be served on said complainant's solicitors within twenty days after service on him of a copy of said bill and notice of this order; and in default thereof said bill shall be taken as confessed by said non resident defendant.

And it is further ordered that within twenty days after the date hereof the said complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed published and circulated in such County, and that such publication be continued therein at least once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be served personally on said non-resident defendant at least twenty days before the above time prescribed for his appearance.

THERE IS MONEY IN ADRIAN

Property values in the City of Adrian have increased more than 25 per cent. during the past four months. More transfers of property have been made since the first of Januray, 1892, than during the entire year of 1891. More contracts have been let for building than during any one year in the history of the city. And this is only the beginning of a movement which will make Adrian one of the foremost cities of the State within a very short time. It is the work of the Improvement Company—not a private corporation organized for the purpose of reaping the lion's share of such an enterprise, but a Company of Citizens, composed of more than 300 stockholders, whose sole object is to advance the industrial and commercial welfare of the City of Adrian. This Company was organized in Aug. 1892, with a capital stock of $100,000. Since that time they have secured about 260 acres of the finest land within the limits of the city, both for residence and manufacturing purposes. Forty-five acres of this has been set aside for manufacturing sites, easily accessible to two great competing lines of railroad; the remainder has been platted into residence lots, 10x125 feet in size. These lots are all less than one mile from the business center of a city of 10,000 inhabitants, which is the best evidence of their value. Many of them are already worth from $200 to $300 each. Fifty lots are directly along the line of the Electric Belt Ry. eight blocks from the corner of Main and Maumee Streets, the business center. A plat of 300 lots lies a distance of three blocks from the Electric Street Car Line, and will be almost wholly built up during the present year. They are fast increasing in value. Seventeen lots were sold in this vicinity a month ago at private sale at $210 each. Another plat of 325 lots, 48 of which front on South Main Street, the most desirable residence street in the City of Adrian, at a point ONLY SIX BLOCKS FROM THE BUSINESS CENTER, is a part of the Co.'s property. All these lots are valuable NOW. But they will rapidly increase in value during the year. Three new factories will be built, which will bring to Adrian 300 additional families during the summer. On Wednesday, May 18th, the Improvemet Company will offer for sale 1000 of their lots, including two good residences, worth $800 and $1,500, at the uniform price of $150,—$10 to be paid on day of sale, and the balance in installments of $10. Four months from the date of sale a grand distribution or allotment will take place, by drawing, when to each purchaser is assigned one of the lots sold. EVERY DOLLAR realized from this sale will be used in making street and other improvements, and in building up manufacturing industries in the City of Adrian. Every purchase will prove a grand investment. Write your Adrian friends for particulars, and if satisfactory, send $10 to invest for you on the 18th of May, or send direct to the Improvement Company. BRITTON BUDGET.

Chas. DuBois is improving slowly.

A new bell calls you to your meals at the hotel.

L. C. Hoagland returned from Florida Saturday.

John Greenfield moved into the Geo. Smith house Monday.

E. R. Wells began mercantile business last week Tuesday.

W. R. Osgood moved his household goods to Fayette, Ohio, last week.

Regular review of Hendershot Tent of Maccabees next Tuesday evening.

Ladies, gents and boys, read Lenardson's ad in lower corner of this page.

Be sure to be on time to-morrow night, for the Dutchman will ring up the curtain promptly at 8 o'clock.

North Main street property owners have finally succeeded in getting some necessary improvements.

The dance last Friday night was not as much of a success as was hoped for, there being only 40 numbers sold.

A number of Knights from Morden Tent, of Macon, visited Hendershot Tent at its last review. Come again, boys.

Miss Luella Haynes was called to Dundee last week by the severe illness of her sister Mary, whose death occurred last Monday.

Mr. Gogoline, of Flat Rock, will soon be ready to do business in the lumber line, as we are informed his stock is now on the road.

A meeting of the I. O. G. T. will be held at the home of Ezra Sink next Wednesday evening, for the purpose of transacting important business.

Burt Nichols went home last Thursday evening to find his home in the possession of about fifty of his friends, who had called to give him a surprise.

Britton has only eight newspaper agents now. Surely our people ought to keep posted as to the presidential outlook, which is to all appearances McKinley against Cleveland.

MANCHESTER MATTERS.

The work of putting the electric wires in Manchester's stores progresses.

N. W. Edgar and family leave this place for their new home in Jonesville to-day.

Mr, and Mrs. C. W. Case are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter on Saturday, April 23d.

George Huber and J. W. Rauchenberger have each set large plantations of peach trees this spring.

The ladies' society of the M. E. church meets at the residence of Mrs. William Freeman this afternoon.

Mrs. S. W. Clarkson, of Ann Arbor, was the guest of her brother, Willis Watkins, on Saturday last.

William C. Logan is improving the appearance of his buildings by the addition of a fresh coat of paint.

Prof. A. F. Clark's class in vocal music, assisted by other talent, gave a rehearsal at Arbeiter hall on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Matt D. Blosser went to Norvell last Thursday. Her mother, Mrs. Harris, is very sick, with small chance of recovery.

Whitney Watkins, who is very sick at Lansing, where he is attending the Agricultural College, is reported somewhat better.

The firm of Gieske & Dresselhouse has dissolved partnership. Frank Dresselhouse retires from the business and Jacob Blum takes his place.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

The Normal students returned last Monday.

Farmers are sowing oats with overcoats and mittens on.

Miss Anna Bailey is home from Ann Arbor during vacation.

Abe Harrington is nursing what purports to be a boil on his face.

George Miller's shed, 18x58, is nearing completion. George Kempf is doing the work.

Mrs. Wm. Cole, of Saline, sister of Alfred Lewis, died Friday, the 22d, of palsy, aged about 60.

A little girl three years old, daughter of James Collins, was bitten on the cheek by a mad dog last Monday. Wm. Gordon shot the dog.

Joe Sage is rushing the wire fence business. He handles the "Key Stone." He has just completed 80 rods for Chas. Hendershot, and has several other jobs in sight.

Farmers will sit with their arms folded and let the cities have free mail delivery and one-cent postage without raising a protest, while they pay four-fifths of the deficiency expenses. One-cent postage will kill free delivery among farmers.

The discussion of the silver question at the open Grange Friday night was a fair success, but the crowd was a dismal failure—only five Grangers were present, with about the same number of outsiders. It is a question of time when the Grange will learn that keeping out of politics, and voting right along, is poor economy and the worst kind of partisanism. About 25 years ago the Grange was organized for social culture and keeping out of politics. The organic law was written by leading politicians of the old parties, possibly for the special purpose of keeping the farmers quiet, while the then new financial scheme of bonding the nation to cover the circulating medium, controlled by a few capitalists, was being worked to plunder the masses. At that time millionaires, tramps, strikes and the open saloon (exclusively as such) were nearly unknown. To-day they are the rule, with an individual, state and national indebtedness of about thirty billion dollars, and not money enough in circulation to pay the annual interest thereon, which accounts for the numerous business failures and foreclosures of mortgages as the years roll on. Surely the Grange must have nearly graduated in social culture and it is about time the organic law was changed so as to embrace all questions of political economy and practical politics.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Jay Santus was in Adrian Wednesday.

Mrs. W. H. Arner is on the sick list.

Lelia Sutton was in Toledo Thursday.

T. S. VanDuser is very sick with erysipelas in the face.

Mrs. Margaret Cheever returned from Dundee Saturday night.

Kittie Clark came over from Adrian Saturday, returning Monday.

Mrs. Ed Anderson returned to Detroit Tuesday, accompanied by Flotie Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Coller, of Tecumseh, were the guests of Mrs. John Arner Tuesday.

A. L. Scammell, agent of the firm of C. J. Wooley, of Toledo, was in the village Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baker were the guests of Maurice Kelley and wife Saturday and Sunday.

George Winship and wife, of Adrian, were the guests of Chas. Underwood and family Sunday.

The Misses Louisa and Lovina Schreder, of Clinton, were the guests of Mrs. Wm. H. Arner Thursday.

Do not forget the Illustrated Temperance address by Rev. Yager Sunday evening, and general class meeting Sunday morning.

There will be a free-will offering social at the parsonage one week from Friday evening. For further notice see next week's HERALD.

B. J. Coller, wife and son Leon, and Vote Miller, of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, of Cleveland, came to attend the funeral of their father, Lewis Miller, Tuesday.

As a token of their appreciation for drawing the blackboard exercises the Sunday School presented Floyd Smith with a complete artist's outfit and Rev. Yager, the Superintendent, with six lessons in pastel work.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Nina Allen has an attack of scarlet fever.

Dr. Tuttle was called in to see Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Allen's baby yesterday.

School opened Monday morning in the Hurry district in Wm. Fisher's tenant house.

Mrs. L. E. Taylor's condition at last accounts was little changed—the brain perfectly clear, the body racked with intense pain. She has fought her heroic struggle for life through years of suffering, and she bears her sickness now with a lofty courage and cheerful patience which are in exact accord with her past life of tenderness and love to all.

The lyceum at G. W. Allen's Saturday night was well attended. The program was good and lengthy. Charles VanValkenburg, of Manchester, was present and favored the audience with a finely rendered selection. Single tax did not materialize for divers reasons, and is still in prospective. In three weeks the society meets at S. N. Munger's. The debates will be omitted during the summer months.

Democratic County Convention.

The Democrats held their County Convention at Adrian last week, which turned out to be an enthusiastic Cleveland gathering. Below is the list of delegates selected to the State Convention at Muskegon:

NEWBURGH NOTES.

Sunday boat rides are the fashion in Newburgh.

Mrs. Stuart, of Clinton, was visiting at C. W. McNeil's last week.

Mrs. H. A. Stacy was called to Saline Monday by the death of her aunt, Mrs. Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes and daughter, of Manchester, were visiting at E. Foor's the past week.

We understand that George Smith and Henry Steffens have hired out to J. T. Clark, of Clinton.

Spend Your Vacation on the Great Lakes.

Visit picturesque Mackinac Island. It will only cost you about $13 from Detroit or $18 from Cleveland for the round trip, including meals and berths. The attractions of a trip to the Mackinac region are unsurpassed. The island itself is a grand, romantic spot; its climate is most invigorating. Save your money by traveling between Detroit and Cleveland, via the D. & C. line. Fare, $2.25. This division is equipped with two new steamers, "City of Detroit" and "City of Cleveland," now famous as the largest and most magnificent on fresh water. Leave every night, arriving the following morning at destination, making sure connection with all morning trains. Palace steamers, four trips per week between Detroit, Mackinac, Petoskey, the "Soo" and Marquette. Send for illustrated pamphlet. Address A. A. Shantz, G. P. A., Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co., Detroit, Mich.

WHY POETS RAVE

Over "Spring, gentle spring," is hard to understand by many thousands to whom spring is more a time of trial and suffering than of brightness and rejoicing. Still, we believe the poet's idea is the correct one and should be the universal rule instead of the exception. It is largely a matter of health and this can be regulated if proper means are taken. Spring is a trying season for most people and the "breaking-up" which nature goes through means something to them. A good spring medicine is an essential at this time. It tones up the system, raises the spirits and in many cases saves weeks and perhaps months of serious sickness. Just such a medicine is found in Parmelee's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potassa Compound. It is a thorough exterminator of all Blood Poisons and is the best remedy in existence for all complaints arising from an impure condition of blood. Why pay $1.00 for a bottle containing only 12 ounces when you can get this for 50 cents in bottles holding full 8 ounces? Be sure and get Parmelee's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all dealers.

A Complete Schedule.

A complete schedule of all the games to be played by the National Base Ball League for season of 1892, will be sent by applying to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T A., L. S. & M. S. R'y, Cleveland, Ohio., and enclosing two-cent postage stamp This schedule contains the dates, names of contesting clubs, places for scoring, total runs, hits, errors and pitchers names, together with tables of standing of clubs and averages for last season.

FARMERS' SOCIAL CLUB.

Will meet at J. Everhart's Friday, May 27th, with the following program:
Inst. music—Dea Gillespie.
Essay—Mrs. Coddington.
Rec.—Leon Gillespie.
"The Model Husband"—Mrs. F. C. Rector.
Poem—Mrs. O. P. Remington.
Song—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harding and Etta Coddington.
Short talks on gardening, led by Mr. Rector; also on preparing pickles, jellies, etc., by Mrs. Gillespie and others.
Discussion, "How to lighten labor," by all members of Club.

As the time is so near Decoration day it would be suitable for the program to be, as far as possible, on that subject. Come early in the afternoon and have a good social time.

A Word to Bicycle Riders.

The following hints to bicyclers, clipped from the Adrian Times, are equally true in this latitude:

Kindly give me a small space to call the attention of the many wheelmen who are making a great mistake by riding on the sidewalks. You have no excuse for riding on the walk, when the roads are in as good condition as they were yesterday, as they were fine. I counted eleven wheels at one time on the walk, and not one with a bell. This is a violation of the city ordinance. Sidewalk riding is far more injurious to the tire of your bicycle than any road you can ride on, as the sharp nail heads cut and tear the tire badly. If you persist in sidewalk riding the authorities will enforce the law, and you will not be allowed to ride on the walk when the roads are muddy. Remember you are only allowed on the walk by public courtesy, and that you are not only injuring yourself, but other wheelmen, and giving the public a bad impression of a most healthy and delightful exercise. The sidewalk is the place for the small boy and his velocipede, but not for wheelmen. L. A. WHEELMAN.

Teacher's Institute.

A free dinner will be spread in one of the corridors at the school building on the occasion of the teachers' gathering at Morenci, April 30, and the day cannot fail to be one of profit and pleasure to every person attending. The following programme is arranged (subject to minor changes) for the day:

Michigan Pupils' Reading Club—Com. C. F. Field.
The Saving Clause—Prof. Frank Smith, Pioneer, Ohio.
A Model Class in Writing—Mrs. E. Keeler.
A Model Class in Primary Reading—Minnie M. Butler.
A Model Class in Geography—Mrs. Winfield Scott.
The Prospective School Room—Prof. W. N. Yost, Tedrow, Ohio.
Educational Fads—Mrs. Frank Smith.
A Model Class in Advanced Reading or Spelling—E. Keeler.

The fullest opportunity for discussion of, or questions on, any of the exercises will be given, and free access may be had during the day to the Teachers' Library. It is expected to form the "model classes" from teachers present, and every teacher who reads this is invited to be a working partner.

AN HONEST ADVERTISER

In these days of dishonest advertising, it is something remarkable to see an advertiser who has sufficient faith in the curative value of his remedy to cure Piles, to offer to send a trial package free to all who send stamps to prepay postage. This The Pyramid Drug Co., Albion, Mich., in another column agree to do, and any of our readers who may be suffering should write them without delay. A cure is guaranteed, no matter how long you may have been afflicted.

"That's an angel of a house!" said she. "Not quite," he replied. "It only has one wing.

brings the best washing compound in the world, and the original one—all others are imitations. It costs no more than common soap. It does more than soap's work, and half of your own besides. Anything that needs cleaning can be washed with it—without scouring, rubbing and scrubbing, and with absolute safety. Make its acquaintance; millions of women call it their best friend. Every grocer keeps it, because he has constant calls for it.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

Work of the National Lawmakers in Senate and House.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House — Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The senate yesterday agreed to a resolution for an inquiry into the present condition of agriculture in the United States. The West Virginia direct tax bill and the bill to establish a court of appeals for the District of Columbia were passed. The convention providing for a renewal of the existing modus vivendi in Behring sea was ratified.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Senator Sherman announced in the senate yesterday that careful examination of the amendments made to the Chinese restriction act of May, 1862, showed that the restriction laws did not expire until July, 1894. Senator Teller spoke in favor of free silver. A resolution favoring a $300,000 appropriation for the international naval review in connection with the world's fair was favorably reported.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Bills were passed in the senate yesterday to create a third division of the district of Kansas for judicial purposes, and to establish a military post near Helena, Mont. The house bill to prohibit absolutely the coming of Chinese persons into the United States was considered.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—In the senate yesterday the urgent deficiency bill and bills providing for the discharge of the duties of the president in case of his death, and to increase the pension of Mexican war veterans from $8 to $12 per month, were passed. The army appropriation bill was reported. A resolution was adopted extending an invitation to the king and queen of Spain and the descendants of Columbus to participate in the World's Columbian exposition.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Chinese exclusion bill was discussed in the senate on Saturday. Mr. Hoar (Mass.) asked and obtained leave of absence, from and after Monday next, for the remainder of the session.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—In the house yesterday a resolution to provide for greater reciprocity in the commercial relations between the United States and Mexico was favorably reported.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—In the house yesterday favorable reports were made on a bill making eight hours a day's labor in the District of Columbia and a resolution for a joint Mexican reciprocity commission. The bill authorizing such clerks in national banks as might be designated by the Worlds Columbian exposition to open a branch office on the fair grounds was passed.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the house yesterday the time was occupied in discussing the Noyes-Rockwell contested election case from New York.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The contested election case in the house of Noyes vs. Rockwell from the Twenty-eighth New York district came to an end yesterday, Rockwell (dem.) retaining the seat by a vote of 178 to 106. Thirty-nine democrats and eight independents voted with the republicans in favor of Noyes.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—In the house on Saturday a bill was introduced to provide for an international ratio between gold and silver and to suspend the purchase of silver bullion from and after July 1, 1893.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Syracuse Man Shoots His Wife and Child and Takes His Own Life.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 23.—Ernest Rapp, an employe of the Frazer & Jones shops, shot his wife and child Thursday night and then shot himself. Afterwards he took a dose of poison to make his work sure. Jealousy and family troubles were the causes of his act. Rapp and his wife will die. The bullet which wounded Mrs. Rapp passed through the arm of her child. Its injuries are not serious.

Arbor Day in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 23.—Throughout Iowa Friday the teachers and scholars celebrated Arbor day. This apt observance was not bounded entirely to the lines of public schools, but was kept by many private schools, academies and colleges. Many a choice bit of poetry was recited in dedicating the trees and plants and shrubs that were planted to American patriots, American poets, historians and civillians who have reached the top round of statesmanship.

Saloonkeepers Lose Their Case.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., April 23.—A test case against the rapid transit companies for violating the Sunday law was decided by Judge Foley in favor of the companies. He holds that the operation of rapid transit companies is a work of necessity. The saloonkeepers' league has not decided whether it will appeal the case.

Sheep Dying by Hundreds.

JACKSON, Miss., April 22.—Wayne county is the greatest sheep raising county in the south. There are many flocks of 5,000 head each. A new disease has appeared among the sheep, and they are dying in droves. The loss has already reached $100,000.

Dr. G. P. Ransom Dead.

BELOIT, Wis., April 23. Dr. G. P. Ransom, aged 65 years, for forty years a physician of Roscoe, Ill., is dead. He was the surgeon on Gen. Grant's staff at one time during the war, and his health was ruined in the service.

Double Tragedy at Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., April 25.—At Fern Hill, a suburb of this city, late Friday night, Mortimer Lewis, an old grand army man, quarreled with his wife and shot her fatally and then blew his own brains out.

Fire at Saginaw, Mich.

SAGINAW, Mich., April 23.—Wildman Brothers' boiler plant has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $25,000; insurance, $10,000.

TOOK THREE LIVES.

A Terrible Tragedy Enacted Near the City of Des Moines, Ia.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 22.—The most terrible tragedy that has taken place in this vicinity in recent years occurred about nine o'clock Wednesday evening some eight miles northeast of the city, near the Polk county poor farm. As a result Mrs. James Cockerham and William S. Davis are the victims of a murder at the hand of James Cockerham, the divorced husband of the women, who, after committing the double crime, put an end to his own existence by blowing his brains out. There is also another woman, name unknown, a companion of Mrs. Cockerham, who escaped the murderer's hand, and who at last accounts lay unconscious from fright near the scene of the tragedy, with some doubts of her recovery.

Cockerham and his wife had been married twenty-one years and their life was a series of quarrels until their separation a few years ago. Since their divorce the man Davis had been visiting Mrs. Cockerham, and it is said they were soon to have been married. The knowledge of this aroused Cockerham's jealousy, and during the last summer he tried to kill his former wife.

THREE MEN KILLED.

And Three Others Fatally Hurt by a Falling Wall in Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—Three men were instantly killed at Jonesboro Friday afternoon by the collapse of a brick wall in the courthouse. The county authorities were having some new vaults put in and the walls had been nearly completed, being about 35 feet high. Seven men were on the wall when it gave way without a moment's notice. Six men were carried down with it and buried under the debris.

When they were removed three were dead. They were: Bruce Eldridge, Frank Maynard and James Wilson. Three others were badly hurt, and it is learned all will die. The contractor, J. J. Adams, who was also on the wall, saved himself by swinging to a pole in midair until rescued. The collapse was probably due to the absence of a tie wall and too generally faulty construction. Suits will be brought against the contractor and the county for damages by the families of the dead men.

DEATH IN THE GALE.

Four Persons Drowned at Norfolk, Va., During a Fierce Tornado.

NORFOLK, Va., April 25.—Another storm in the shape of a tornado struck this city Friday night and did considerable damage, blowing down buildings, etc. In Berkley, a suburb, three persons were severely injured by falling debris. While the storm was at its height the schooner S. W. Rowley was capsized near Money Point and before assistance could be sent Mrs. Rowley, her little daughter and two of the crew were drowned. Capt. Rowley was picked up by the tug Virginia.

The Louisiana Election.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—The vote of Louisiana—fifty-two parishes, including Orleans, official and seven estimated—is: Foster, anti lottery democrat, 53,561; McEnery, democrat, 46,788; Breaux, custom house republican, 11,112; Tannehill, people's party, 7,556. The legislature stands: Foster, democrat, 60, including several farmers' alliance men; McEnery, democrat, 57; republican, 10; farmers' alliance and people's party, 7.

He Founded the Cincinnati Enquirer.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Henry W. Derby, the famous book publisher, died here Wednesday afternoon, aged 71 years. Over forty years ago he established the book publishing house of H. W. Derby & Co., the latter being the Harpers, of New York. He also founded the Cincinnati Enquirer. He came to Columbus and owned awhile the Ohio Statesman, which he sold to the late Congressman Samuel S. Cox, of New York.

Bank Depositors Get Their Money.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., April 23.—The Muncy bank depositors have received their money at last. Receiver Collins paid out checks to the amount of $70,000, the depositors whose claims were fully established receiving dollar for dollar. There remains to be paid out about $30,000 on claims of fifty persons whose accounts have not yet been fully straightened out.

Will Call a Bimetallic Convention.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The national silver committee at its meeting here decided to call a national bimetallic convention, to meet in this city on Thursday, May 26, 1892. The formal call, which will be accompanied by a brief address, will be issued Saturday evening.

Springer Retired for the Session.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Hon. A. E. Stevenson, of Illinois, is back from a visit to Representative Springer at Virginia Beach. Mr. Stevenson reports that Mr. Springer will be unable to take any part in the work of the present session of congress.

Miller, the Boy Murderer, Hanged.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 23.—Charles Miller was hanged shortly after 9 o'clock a. m. Friday. In September, 1890, Charles Miller, then 15 years old, shot and killed Waldo Emerson and Ross T. Fishbaugh in a box car on the Union Pacific railroad.

Sentenced to Electrocution.

NEWBURG, N. Y., April 23.—Fred Maguire, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Amelia Gregory at Middletown last October, has been sentenced to be electrocuted at Sing Sing prison during the week commencing Monday, June 6.

A Young Widow Commits Suicide.

MARENGO, Ill., April 25.—Mrs. John Byers, aged 32 years, committed suicide Saturday by shooting herself through the breast with a revolver. Despondency caused by the death of her husband was the cause.

Death of Dr. Burroughs.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Rev. Dr. John C. Burroughs, formerly president and one of the principal founders of the old Chicago university, died at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at his home, 3508 Ellis avenue.

ESTATE OF ALBERT VEDDER.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Monday the 11th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present, Richard U. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Albert Vedder, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Emma Vedder, administratrix, with the will annexed, upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred and all special legacies have been fully paid, and that she is now ready to close said estate and to render her final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will of said deceased, that she may be discharged and her bond cancelled and for such other order and decree as to this court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 9th day of May, next, at 9 o'clock, in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A True Copy.)
RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
Such as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9. No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 8.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To work I incline,
For I'm ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent;
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

The Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, where the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition, were passed upon by a jury composed of eighteen mechanical experts, two of whom were leading sewing machine manufacturers. This jury, after exhaustive examinations and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded the company the highest prize offered—the Grand Prix—giving other companies only silver and bronze medals.
The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized order of France.
See No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing purposes, are the best in the world.
If you want a sewing machine of any description, and there is not one of these in your town, write to us, and we will put you in communication with a reliable dealer for the No. 9 or No. 12 machine. If he doesn't keep the machine you want, we will send you descriptive catalogue and terms, and will sell you at the lowest uncompromised terms.

IN A SUMMER GONE BY.

There's a rusty old sword hanging up by the door,
That a youth of the patriot army once wore:
And a broken old spinning-wheel under it stands,
That once whirled 'neath a patriot maiden's fair hands.

The sword has grown dull with the wear of the years,
And a cobweb alone on the spindle appears;
But the blade it was blue and the wheel it was spry,
When Washington fought in a summer gone by.

Sweet Betty sat turning the wheel in the sun,
In a sad-colored gown, as demure as a nun,
When Hiram came in at the white wicket-gate
By the lavender-bed, to discover his fate.
She looked at the sky and she blushed rosy red,
And she stooped for a sprig from the lavender-bed;
For she knew very well by the light in his eye,
Young Hiram came wooing the summer gone by.

He spoke of the cot in the woodland's embrace,
With windows that waited to frame her sweet face,
In a temple of roses, and where so the end
Their lives and their pleasures would peacefully blend.
But swiftly she turned with her cheeks in a flame:
"Why speak ye of peace or of pleasure—for shame!
While others go forth for our country to die."
Said the patriot maid in that summer gone by.

"There is bloodshed and famine abroad in the land;
Go get you a sword and troop to command.'
'Tis a year since the congress proclaimed we were free;
Go fight for the rose girdled cottage—and me!"
He went, with a sob swelling up in his throat,
And the lavender-sprig she had dropped in his coat;
And she watched him from sight with a smile and a sigh,
'Mid the roses and pinks of the summer gone by.

No message, no letter, and deep lay the snow,
"It will come, though," she said, "when the crocuses blow."
No letter, no message, and sunshine and rains
Had summoned the roses to hedges and lanes.
She sat at her wheel with the tears dropping down,
And a lavender-sprig in the breast of her gown,
When they told her how bravely a soldier could die,
And brought her his sword in a summer gone by.

And laid her pale lips in a kiss to the blade;
"I gave thee my dearest, my country!" she said,
"And I die for his sake!" and she suddenly pressed
The bloodthirsty blade to her beautiful breast.
Green lieth her grave on the hillside afar;
Above it each night hangs a luminous star;
And the lavender grew in the garden-bed nigh,
As it grew in the dew of a summer gone by.

THE ORACLE.

A Somber Prophecy and How It Was Verified.

I have never believed much in fortune-telling, or palmistry, or anything of that kind; but when my two dear cousins, Amy and Dolly, who were devout believers, urged me to go with them to Fatima—Fatima was the last new prophetess—I could not refuse them. I felt that they, or one of them, had a right to know what there was to be known about my future, because I was going to marry one of them.

Both were delightful girls—Amy a lovely blonde, Dolly a sparkling brunette. Each had fifty thousand dollars, and each, I think I may say, was quite ready to marry me. I only hesitated between them because I could not bear to gratify one at the expense of the other; and, in spite of their amiability, I had seen unmistakable signs of a little rivalry between them.

We went all together to Fatima's, and I took my stand before her, exactly equi-distant from a cousin on either hand—I was not going to give Fatima a lead if I could help it. The prophetess was a plain woman of about thirty, and she looked rather sour when I insisted on both the young ladies being present. However, she went to work and droned out some details of my past life, giving special attention to my smoking habits—I knew I smelled of cigars—and my debts; which latter information she might just as well have kept to herself. At last she could not shirk the question of my matrimonial future any longer. She cast puzzled glances, first at Amy, then at Dolly—both were looking at me with sweet affection. She turned to me; I gently took a hand of each and pressed it affectionately. Fatima sighed and gave it up.

"You are loved," she said in a deep tone, "by two beautiful women (the girls looked pleased); one is fair (Amy blushed), the other is dark (Dolly colored). You love both in a measure (I pressed the two hands), and" — Fatima paused.

"Well, which is it to be?" I asked.

She bent over my hand. "I see a double line, once broken. I see a wedding, and a death, and a wedding; and the time for all this is short. You will wed one; but let the other endure; the joy of the one will be destroyed with her life in a little space, and the other shall be satisfied. I have spoken. The charge is one dollar."

"But stop," I cried. "Which is to marry me first?"

"The lines say naught as to that. One you will marry, and she must die, and the other follows."

"But hang it! is there no way out of this?"

She knitted her brows and looked again. "Aye, if you will; but that way lies a red hand—a hand dyed as though in blood. 'Ah, 'tis a woman causes it!'"

The girls shivered, and I hastily flung down the dollar and went out, considerably impressed, in spite of my skepticism, with the somber prophecy. My cousins were rather silent on the way home and met all my somewhat forced attempts at making fun of Fatima with coldness; both were distant in their manner to me and not over-cordial to one another. I daresay this behavior was natural enough, for, if Fatima spoke true, one of them was doomed to early death, leaving her rival triumphant; and this doom was only to be averted if I committed a murder. Was I to murder one of them? Horrid thought!

Before many days were over I wished heartily that we had never been to Fatima's. No more pleasant talks tete-a-tete, now with Amy, now with Dolly! They both avoided me sedulously. On the other hand they began to show almost exaggerated affection for one another; they were never apart, and treated one another with the most loving, almost anxious friendship. In fact, I should have found my stay in the house very dull had not Mrs. Girdlestone, a pretty little widow with great hazel eyes and a mass of auburn curls, consoled me a little.

I soon found out the meaning of the girl's changed behavior.

I was smoking in the study one morning, when I heard them talking in the veranda outside.

"My darling," Amy was saying, "why think any more of such nonsense? I know you love him. Accept my willing, willing sacrifice, and be happy with him; he loves you."

"My sweet Dolly, you are too, too generous. I think Fatima's story all nonsense, and, just for that reason, I cannot, will not, purchase happiness at the cost of your misery. I resign him—but what do I say? It is you he loves."

"I'm sure it's you, Dolly," resumed Amy. "He's always looking at you. I wouldn't say so if I didn't believe it; and how you can pay any attention to that stuff, I don't know."

"You're quite wrong, Amy. He all but told me it was you. It's absurd of you to pretend not to know it."

Something followed I did not hear; then the tone of the voices changed, and Amy said, with the sound of a choked sob:

"You're a horrid girl; you want me to die, and then you'll marry B-B-Bob."

"I thought you loved me," sobbed Dolly, in reply; "and now you're planning my death. I hate you, Amy."

Lunch was a somber meal that day. The girls would speak neither to me nor to one another; only Mrs. Girdlestone tried to keep up the conversation. It was just as bad all day; they snapped at one another and they snapped at the little widow, and, worst of all, they snapped at me until really the horrid thought that had struck me before would have seemed less horrid if only I could have relied on the efficiency of the bloodhounds of justice; but the police happened to arrest a murderer about then—he walked into the station, and that stayed my fell imaginings. Besides, I should not have known which to murder any more than I had known which to marry.

In very low spirits, I started on a solitary walk next afternoon, thinking I would come to a definite conclusion. I arrived at no such thing. I knew they would both refuse me as matters stood, and, although justly incensed, I knew I should not have the nerve to take the alternative fate offered. The rain came down, and I turned to go home. To my surprise, I met Mrs. Girdlestone.

"Why have you ventured out such a day as this?"

"Oh, I had some shopping to do."

"Could not I have done it for you?"

"Indeed, no," she answered, with a laugh and a blush.

"Or one of the servants?"

"No; servants chatter so."

"It's a secret, then?"

"Well, yes, it is—from you, anyhow, Mr. Thompson."

"Did you get what you wanted?"

"Yes; I have it here."

I noticed she was carrying a fair-sized parcel wrapped in tissue paper.

"Oh, let me take it for you?"

"Will you be very careful? I don't know what I should do if it came to grief."

I promised to guard it like my life, and we walked on. Presently the rain stopped, the sun came out, and we lengthened our walk. She was very kind and sympathetic, and at last I told her the whole story. Nothing could be nicer than the way she spoke, and I became quite engrossed in our conversation. It lasted up to the very door, and we paused in front of the house, while she stopped to say a last word, pressing my hand and telling me "how grieved, how very—"

At this point a butcher-boy came along, carrying a basket. The boy ran against Mrs. Girdlestone's parcel. There was a sound of breaking glass. I dropped the thing, but not before my hand was covered with blood—as I thought.

"Oh, oh, oh!" I cried: "my hand's cut to bits."

The widow looked at it.

"I must stanch the blood!" I cried.

"Nonsense, Mr. Thompson. It's not blood; it's—it's—well, it's my hair-wash!" and she blushed very becomingly.

"Hair-wash!"

"Yes," she murmured; "my hair is—"

"Woman, don't hesitate at such a moment!"

"Well, pale red; and that dries a lovely auburn."

Her hair might have been blue for all I cared. She was a charming woman, and had rescued me from a fearful temptation and one of my cousins from an early death. I proposed to her on the spot.

Then I went in and told my cousins. They leaped up and rushed into one another's arms, exclaiming, in furious tones: "The old cat!"

We were married in a month. I have no word to say against my wife; only it is a fact that she had nothing but one thousand dollars a year, which ceased on re-marriage. Each of the girls had, as I said, fifty thousand dollars.

So my gift to Fatima cost me exactly fifty thousand and one dollars.

I think the law should be impartially administered, and all such persons put in prison.—St. James' Gazette.

—There are a number of societies in the world that bear strange names, but probably one of the most curious was a club founded in 1735 by an English actor. It was called "The Sublime Society of Beefsteaks," and had among its members the prince of Wales and other royal personages. They met in the painting-room of the Covent Garden theater, and dined upon beefsteaks. The club was in existence for more than a hundred years, and became quite noted because of its odd customs. Another strange name was that of the "Scriblerus Club," which Swift founded in 1714, and to which Pope, Gay and other literary men belonged.

A PLOT EXPOSED.

The Infamous Scheme of Wealthy Wyoming Cattlemen.

A League of Murder, Treason and Insurrection Formed—For Every Rustler Killed the Sum of $50 Was to Be Paid.

A HORRIBLE SCHEME.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 23.—Through Sheriff Malcolm Campbell, of Converse county, it is learned that Sheriff Angus and County Attorney Bennett, of Johnson county, have prepared evidence against the cattlemen. They unearthed the design of the expedition and extent of the depredations intended. The baggage of the members of the expedition captured proved it to be planned that the whole party can be indicted not only for murder, but for treason and insurrection. In the grip-sack of Canton, one of the prominent men of the expedition, was found a list of seventy rustlers, who were to be either shot or hanged, also a list of ranch houses that were burned. They claim also to have the evidence that a contract has been made with the Texans of the party to give them five dollars a day and $50 all around for every rustler killed.

The plan of operations, Sheriff Campbell says, included the capture of Buffalo and the murder of several men of that town, together with the destruction of their property. They were also to capture Casper and Douglas and visit vengeance on several men at each place. The operations of the expedition were to cover the counties of Johnson, National and Converse, and that the invaders were to be joined by a similar expedition gotten up in Evanston, Wyo., and at Billings, Mont. These two forces were to be joined in Johnson county the week following the date of the capture of the cattlemen's party. The evidence is said to implicate more than twenty prominent stockmen of Cheyenne, whose names have not been mentioned heretofore, also several wealthy stockmen of Omaha, as well as to compromise men high in authority in the state of Wyoming, who will all be charged with aiding and abetting the invasion, and warrants will be issued for the arrest of all these parties at an early day.

BUFFALO, Wyo., April 23.—A message in reply to the appeal from the people was received from President Harrison Friday evening. The message was circulated among the people and was well received. The people feel better now that they know the president and public are aware that they wish an investigation and justice done to all parties. The president says:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, April 22.—To C. J. Hagerman and Others, Buffalo, Wyo.: The governor of your state made a call upon me, in conformity with the constitution of the United States, for aid in suppressing domestic violence and threatened bloodshed. I could not know anything of the situation except as related by him, and could not refuse the aid of troops to preserve the peace. The prisoners will, as soon as the state authorities are prepared to receive them, be turned over to the civil authorities and our connection with the matter will end unless further called upon to aid the state authorities to preserve the peace.

"I do not doubt that the executive and judicial authorities of your state will, without fear or favor, bring to trial and punishment those who have violated the law by ordinary methods. Nothing will be done by me to shield any guilty person. My council, as your fellow citizen, is to use every effort to allay excitement and to proceed in all things peaceably and upon lawful lines. I will, of course, see anyone you send, but you will see that I can do nothing except to act with the state to prevent violence. Everything else rests with the state authorities.

"BENJAMIN HARRISON."

Sheriff Angus has turned the prisoners in jail over to Col. Van Horne. Violence is not apprehended at present, but if the rumored invasion should occur or if some vicious rumors should gain credence in the present state of excitement one cannot tell what might happen.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 23.—In an interview on the Wyoming war Gen. Wesley Merritt, commanding the department of Dakota, said:

[illegible] I have heard from the little knowledge I received of these people when in that country several years ago [illegible] their cattle holdings. It would not [illegible] that they have [illegible] almost all of the latter [illegible] by the trust. In fact, [illegible] the cattlemen appeared to be the others are the rustlers [illegible] to get their cattle back. The [illegible] taken advantage of by evil characters. I understand that they have stolen [illegible] cattle belonging to the larger owners, precipitating trouble and leaving the latter at the door of the rustlers. That seems to be the secret of the trouble. The [illegible] to deal with the small owners [illegible] with the smaller ones is another question.

Robbed of His Savings.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 23.—George M. Babbitt, an old recluse living at Mansfield, Mass., has been robbed of $24,000 in stocks and bonds which he had concealed in barrels, trunks and tomato cans about the house. His grandson, 18 years old, J. M. Trant, of Great Falls, N. H., and D. J. H. Hain have been arrested for the theft.

A Record Broken.

QUEENSTOWN, April 23.—The steamship Parania, which sailed on Friday, took 800 Irish emigrants to Boston from this port and 400 from Liverpool, making 1,200, being the largest number carried by any steamer across the Atlantic during the past year.

New York's Population.

ALBANY, April 22.—The new city census shows that the alien population of New York city is 377,000, while that of Kings county is 159,000. In New York city there is one alien in every five of population. The total population of the state is 6,483,652.

She Saw Washington.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—Frances A. Arm, a colored woman, died in this city yesterday, aged 104 years. She was born a slave at Richmond, Va., and several times saw Gen. Washington.

Death of Countess Tolstoi.

LISBON, April 23.—The Countess Tolstoi, wife of the celebrated Russian author, died here Thursday at the residence of her brother, the Russian minister to Spain.

MONROE, Mich., July 18, 1891.

Dr. O. J. Fay & Co.:

Gentlemen,—It is with pleasure that we reply to your letter asking about our success with Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption. Six months ago we gave our first order and since then we have sold eight times as much as our first order amounted to more than any other lung medicine we sell. Our customers after once using it want no other and they are always sure to recommend it to some other sufferer. It could not give better satisfaction and we have so much faith in what it will do that we are not afraid to recommend it to any person in need of a lung medicine. With many wishes for your success.

Yours truly,

WILL GRIPPE BE AN ANNUAL VISITOR?

This question is under serious consideration by the medical profession and the public in general are deeply interested in the answer. Its visitations during the past three years have impressed upon people a full sense of its power and danger, and the experience of those years has also taught many things in regard to the nature of the disease. One important thing learned is that sad results often follow long after the disease itself is supposed to be fully over. It is this insidious, lingering effect which just now is being felt throughout the country. The colds which come so readily with these spring months develops into full fruit the germs left by the disease, and a long siege of sickness, with great danger of fatal results, is apt to follow. To stop this at the start is most important. No remedy on the market or no physicians' prescription is so sure to do this as Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It has been tried in thousands of cases and the manufacturers guarantee full benefits. All lung difficulties are benefitted by this remedy and from its wonderful and speedy relief in cases of Croup and Whooping Cough no household with children should ever be without it. Only 25 cents a bottle. Ask for Hamilton's. Sold by all dealers.

A NEWSY LETTER FROM ANN ARBOR.

Some Facts about the Progress and Present Status of Co-Education at the University.

If there are those who may still look with disapproving eye on the "fair co-ed," and think that womanly grace and refinement are only perfected in ladies' seminaries and colleges—in fine, that co-education is a failure,—to such, perhaps, a short review of the increased growth of our noble University, the first great institution to admit women on an equal footing with men, may serve to change their misconceived notion.

As early as 1858 the Regents of the University received a petition from several young ladies asking admission, the granting of which the regents disapproved, thinking it could be attended only by evil results.

In 1867 President Haven, a broad-minded man who afterward had reason to change his views, said: "I am confident that such a change could not be made without a radical revolution that would require a large expenditure of money and give a totally different character to the University, and infallibly be attended by a breaking up of its prosperity and success."

However, it was the opinion of the Legislature that the high objects for which the University of Michigan was organized would never be fully attained until women were admitted to all its rights and privileges.

Under the administration of that great and good man, Dr. Henry S. Frieze, the battle was won and in the year 1870 Miss Madalon L. Stockwell, the first to take advantage of the new privilege, braved many obstacles, and by her dominant will smoothed the pathway for those who were to succeed her.

The following figures will show how the numbers have increased with the years: In '76 there were 117, in '89 301, in '90 369, in '91 445, and for the present year, though the exact number has not been ascertained, probably about 20 per cent of the 2692 students of which the University can boast are women.

Of course the greater proportion are to be found in the Literary department, pursuing their work as taste and abilities seem to direct: the first two years in doing required work, leaving the remainder of the time for the elective studies. The classes in languages and literature are nearly equally divided, and as to the comparative work done we have the words of one of our worthy professors. He says: "After an experience of several years as student and instructor—an experience, moreover, which began in a somewhat violent prejudice against co-education—I am of the opinion that the average scholarship of the lady student is somewhat higher than that of the gentleman."

It must not be thought that the Literary department monopolizes this fair element, for the co-ed may be a "Medic," "Dent," "Law," or "Pharmic," and this year, for the first time, one venturesome spirit has even invaded the engineering ranks.

College life is one continual rush—a grabbing of books and wraps, hurrying to some class, perhaps to sit through some dreaded quiz, only to make a disgraceful "flunk" when one's name is called, or what is still more to the delight of the student, to wait the allotted five minutes and find it a "bolt" on the part of the professor.

Surely one is never too old to learn, for here we see the gray-haired matron seeking after knowledge with as much ardor as the co-ed of eighteen or nineteen summers.

All types of faces may be seen on the Campus, and while many are undeniably plain, the proportion of bright, pretty faces is above the average.

The co-ed forms an important factor in the recreation so necessary to the overtaxed (?) brain of the college youth. Self-sacrificing creature that she is, she will patiently allow him to row her for hours on the beautiful Huron, or even take an hour now and then from her studies to indulge him in a game of tennis, a walk around the Boulevard or out to School-girl's Glen.

An organization was formed two years ago, known as the Women's League, having for its object the promotion of a spirit of harmony among the co-eds and the furtherance of a more intimate acquaintance between them. It consists of many of the women students and wives of members of the faculty. Monthly receptions are given at the Chapel, Newberry Hall, or often some of the beautiful homes are opened for the occasion.

Surely it would seem that in no other way could a young woman spend four of the best years of her life more pleasantly and profitably than in a co-educational institution. And among them all our own State University stands at the head.

"Did you hear that Miss. Callow had eloped with her grocer's boy, Mrs. Parvenu?" "Yes, and I was electrocuted by the news, I assure you."

Joblots: It was a great mistake to make man of dust, in view of the hereafter. Elder Berry: What would you have him made of? Joblots: Asbestos.

OBITUARY.

Died, at his late residence, on Saturday morning, April 16, 1892, Mr. Lewis V. Miller, in the 86th year of his age. Thus has passed away another pioneer of Lenawee Co., Mich., at a good old age.

Mr. Miller was born in Seneca Co., New York, Nov. 10, 1806. He came to Michigan in 1835 and lived near the place of his death for over fifty years. He was a man of undoubted honest principles. His neighbors speak of him in highest terms of appreciation and cherish his memory in love. He was looked up to as an adviser in all matters of agricultural interest and his loss is keenly felt. His end was peaceful. He retained all his faculties until the very last hour of his mortal life, then gradually sank away so that those who watched beside his dying bed scarcely realized the moment of the separation of the spirit from the body.

He was the father of ten children, eight of whom survive him. He leaves a widow and eight sons and daughters to mourn his departure. The Bible was his study and delight, especially toward the latter part of his life. His funeral was attended by a large circle of friends on Tuesday, April 19th, at the M. E. church of Ridgeway, and his remains were laid away in the Ridgeway cemetery, in the hope of a glorious resurrection.

A Successful Amputation.

Dr. C. M. Woodward received the following letter yesterday, which speaks for itself:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 28, 1892.
LIEUT. COLONEL C. M. WOODWARD,
Surgeon General M. S. T.,
Tecumseh, Mich.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the lower two thirds of left thigh amputated in the case of Abijah Packard, late Co. C, 65th Ohio Vols., for tumor, with history.

An examination of the tumor by the Microscopist, Dr. Wm. M. Gray, shows it to be a round-cell sarcoma, and, as far as can be judged from the amputated portion of the limb transmitted to the Museum, the operation seems to have been perfectly justifiable.

Thanking you for this contribution to the Museum collection I remain.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
By order of the Surgeon General:
JOHN S. BILLINGS,
Major and Surgeon, U. S. Army,
Curator Army Medical Museum.

Mr. Packard's wounds were healed and the stitches all removed on the sixteenth day after the amputation. He is now able to sit up some and is getting along finely.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Village of Tecumseh, Mich.,
Council Room, April 18, 1892.

Regular session. Present, President Bills: Trustees, Bresie, Conkling, Shull, Wright, Smith, Bidwell and the Recorder.

Minutes of last meetings read and approved.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

Committee appointed to confer with engineer reported in writing that they had engaged the services of W. S. Parker for the sum of five hundred dollars, and also attached to the report contract in writing with such engineer. Committee also reported that they had engaged W. Carpenter to bore a test well; that he had been down 150 feet without striking water, and had worked five days and six hours. On motion the report of the committee was accepted and adopted, ordered placed on file, and the committee instructed to proceed with such well.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

The street commissioner reported that from the last report to date there had been thirty and one-half days team labor including nine days labor of corporation team, and thirty-seven and one-fourth days hand labor on the streets of the village. On motion the report was accepted and ordered placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

The following bills were presented and referred to finance committee: Geo. Mize 7 1-2 days labor with team, $18.75; Lorenzo Youngs 5 days 8 hours team labor $14.50; Dell Hubbard 3 days team labor $7.50; Jas. O'Riley 3 1-4 days team labor $8.13; G. R. Goff 2 days team labor $5.00; Oscar Packard 7 days labor $8.75 Bert Packard 4 days labor $5.00; Joseph Tessman 1 day labor $1.25; Jno. McWilliams 5 1-2 days labor $6.88; James Watson 4 days 8 hours labor $6.00; Chas. Dickson 4 days labor $5.00; Theodore Lewis 1 day labor $1.25; Albert Hyde 10 days labor $20.00; Jehiel Davidson, taking assessment, $15.00; C. H. Carpenter 5 6-10 days work on well, $67.30.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The finance committee reported favorably on all the above bills and on motion orders were directed to be drawn for the several amounts.

NEW BUSINESS.

The saloon bonds of Wm. J. Arnold, Eugene Service, Jacob Cheever and John McCone and the drug store bonds of C. A. Wright and James Potter, Sr., were offered and accepted.

The council then proceeded to appointment of a board of water commissioners by ballot.

For member of board Water Commissioners for three years, Hudson W. Conklin having received all the votes cast was declared elected. For member of the board of Water Commission for two years, Geo. Heesen having received all the votes cast was declared elected. For member of the board of Water Commissioners for one year, E. N. Satterthwaite having received all the votes cast was declared elected. A communication was read asking aid for the Russian famine sufferers, and on motion a committee of three was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Shull, Bills and Burridge, to call a citizens meeting to take some action in the matter.

The Council then adjourned.

WALTER C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

DESERVING PRAISE.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. J. J. Orr, druggist.

SCHOOL SKETCHES.

Latin IV. are reading the sixth book of Virgil.

The anxious inquiry is, "Will I get an examination notice for next Friday?"

Misses Lizzie Russell and Lena Lawrence are absent on account of illness.

Prof. Eagan, instructor of English and Anglo Saxon in Ann Arbor, visited the School last Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles Burridge, a member of the visiting committee, visited the A room Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Grace Heesen, of Tecumseh, and Mrs. Jermaine, of Adrian, were visitors at chapel Tuesday morning.

Walter Burnett, Mina Tremaine, and Herbert Conklin, all 11th grade students, are absent, materially reducing the boys' attendance in the A room.

Last Monday, while the boys were playing ball east of the Union, Oscar Woodbeck was hit in the face by the ball. He was hurt so severely as to require the services of a physician.

The complete novel in Lippincott's Magazine for May, 'The Golden Fleece,' is by Julian Hawthorn, who conducts his readers to the Pacific slope and the borders of the desert. It is a curious medley of the modern and the antique, of the weird and the practical, of civilized manners, wild adventures, Aztec hidden treasures, and legends or superstitions of long ago.

Volume five of The Arena closes with the May number. The Arena is only two years and six months old, but its circulation exceeds that of any high-priced review published in this country with one exception. During the past six months its list has increased over one-third. It is rapidly forging to the front as the leading exponent of liberal opinion in this country. Its list of contributors embraces the ablest thinkers and best writers of the civilized world, including every phase of science, politics or religion. This Magazine has a great future before it.

The Salt manufacturer's association of Michigan has agreed to make the salt exhibit for the state, and will get up a display which, doubtless, will attract a great deal of attention. A Bay City man has made a life study of salt manufacturing, and has learned the methods practiced in all ages for making salt. It is the intention to have him make models of all salt manufacturing apparatus used from the earliest days down to the present time, from the most primitive to the modern saltblocks, and in connection with the models show all the processes now practiced in producing salt. The association will, of course, show a full lime of salt.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D. D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that, by a thorough course of treatment, it will cure almost every case of catarrh. Ministers, as a class are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly."

I used Ely's Cream Balm for dry catarrh. It proved a cure.—B. F. M. Weeks, Denver.

It is a rare thing that a railroad smash up occurs on the Jackson Branch. An exception to the rule happened last Tuesday. An extra freight train bound north early that morning was wrecked near Eldred. The trucks under one car gave way and several cars were piled up in a heap on the track. Fortunately no one was hurt, but it took several hours to clear the track. The passenger train south did not go through here till after dinner. The Dundee train was withdrawn and sent up to the wreck to convey Jackson passengers south. All the afternoon trains were running as usual.

The Hanawalt Concert at the M. E. church last Tuesday evening, was a musical entertainment of more than ordinary merit. The entire program was rendered by two singers, Rev. Hanawalt and his daughter, consisting of ballads and home songs, which were beautifully rendered. The concert reminded one of the musicales which Pixley & Grannis used to give twenty-five years ago, and was equally as entertaining. Miss Hanawalt is a fine elocutionist and her recitations added much to the program, all of which were heartily encored. A delighted audience greeted the singers and a goodly sum was added to the Epworth League treasury.

A new volume of The Century will begin in May with a number of unusual interest. Three important serial features will be commenced in this number, namely:—Senor Castelar's "Life of Christopher Columbus"; "The Chosen Valley," a novel of western life by Mary Hallock Foote; and a series of articles describing the architectural features of the World's Fair, which a well known architect is to contribute.

The editor who is afraid to speak out on a public question, least some subscriber will stop his paper, will never secure a very large circulation or an extensive influence. The editor who expects to please everybody will wind up by pleasing nobody. The first lesson of independence for the newspaper man is to keep his paper as nearly right as possible without fear of the subscriber who stops his paper.—Press and Printer.

It is expected, we believe, that Memorial Day will be suitably observed here. To do so it will be necessary that the public take hold of the matter in time to make the necessary preparations. This is a matter which concerns the citizens here and of the surrounding towns, and we believe from the interest shown by them on former occassions, that they will cheerfully make all the neccessary arrangements in time for the same. To that end we would suggest that a public meeting be called for that purpose in the near future.

We have received from Richard A. Saalfield, 794, 796 and 798 Tenth Avenue, New York, the first number of a musical monthly entitled, The New York Musical Monthly. It is a marvel of cheapness and excellence. It fairly staggers us. How any publisher can afford to give so much for so little surprises us. We all know what music costs, but here is a publication of 32 pages of music, large size, large print, equal in every respect to high priced music, which is offered to the public at 15 cents per copy; or $1.50 per year, post paid. This monthly is printed on elegant paper, and we can hardly say enough for it. Our subscribers would do well to send 15 cents for a sample copy, or, better still $1.50 for a yearly subscription to the publisher.

TECUMSEH, MICH., April 28, 1892.

The political pot is beginning to boil pretty lively now.

The Cleveland reaction is sweeping everything before it. The fact is plain that the rank and file of the party believe in Grover as the man of destiny.

Harrison evidently has the call on the Republican nomination at present. The indications now are that Harrison and Cleveland will again be the opposing candidates.

The reports from the Democratic primaries are becoming exceedingly monotonous. Scarcely a name but Cleveland's is mentioned since Hill made his famous swing round the Southern circle.

The Indiana Democrats had a red-hot convention last week, as they always do. Cleveland was endorsed, with Gov. Gray as second choice, which means Cleveland or a Western man, and that means victory.

The Democrats are getting down to business in choosing their delegates to the National Convention. It becomes more and more evident every day that the nominee will be Cleveland or a Western man.

The reduction of the tax on sugar was a great relief to the people, but under the present tax the sugar trust gets a nice little plum of fifteen million dollars a year. Wouldn't it be a good scheme to compel the sugar trust to go wholly free?

The Democratic State Convention to be held at Muskegon next week should insert a plank in their platform making an unequivocal demand for the election of U. S. Senators by the people. This is a popular reform and it is bound to come sooner or later.

"We are not boosting Mr. Cleveland for the Democratic nomination," says the St. Louis Republic, Democratic, which is for Cleveland or a Western man. "We merely assert what we believe to be facts: that he is strongly available for the nomination, and that, if nominated, he can easily be elected against Harrison."

The result of the Louisiana election is peculiarly gratifying to the Democracy. The scheme of the lottery managers to smash the Democratic party was a fair enough feature in the Anti-Lottery Democratic victory, which was elected by a rousing majority, which will reach at least 20,000. The result is another illustration of the fact that the road to Democratic success is paved with it.

"We feel very sure on one point," says the Washington N. Y. Messenger, Dem., "that Hill, could not possibly carry New York if nominated. He would be overwhelmingly defeated and that Cleveland could get a much larger vote in that State than Hill could get. It may be wise to take a Western man. But it is almost certain that Cleveland will be nominated for the people want him. The people have all too much been fooled by politicians and wire-pullers."

Indications have appeared in Congress, and the Democratic organs of both States, that the Democratic leaders are preparing to make the Democratic party believe that the organization of 1892 is to be conducted on the issues of tariff reform upon which to issue the Presidential campaign, Cleveland and Gorman only in the event of his nomination, being alleged to, for any reason, as expedient that the party present the name of Gorman.

The Grand Rapids Leader says: "There are a good half dozen prominent Michigan Democrats, scattered over different sections of the state, any one of whom would make a fitting and popular senatorial nominee; and to attempt at this early date to marshal public opinion in favor of any one particular man will have a tendency to weaken rather than strengthen the demand for a senatorial nomination. Let Democratic opinion first be massed in favor of such a nomination by the regular state nominating convention; this accomplished the question of the candidate will settle itself at the proper time."

$200,000 A YEAR!

The Amount Taken Off the Shoulders of the Taxpayer

And Placed on the Railroad Corporations—Done Despite Desperate Opposition.

In no particular does the work of the last Michigan legislature bear more creditable inspection than in the railroad legislation it enacted. The people for years have demanded that the railroad corporations should pay taxes commensurate with the great privileges they enjoy. At session after session in the long line of republican legislatures efforts were made to pass bills increasing the ridiculously low and unequal share of taxes paid by them; but all in vain. The railroad corporations will remember the year 1891 as the opening of a new epoch for them.

The necessity and the justice of increasing the taxes on the railroads in this state needs no demonstration. While state expenses have been piling up higher and higher, a large proportion of the increase being due to these very same railroads, the hand of legislation has been caressingly laid upon their interests.

The individual taxpayer has had less attention, except by the assessor and the collector, who have been very regular in demanding of the proceeds of his labor and the profits of his business at a rate double that paid by the mightiest corporations. The people have dongdoded for years in vain that laws should be enacted that would equalize taxation between the corporations and the individual.

The election of 1890 showed that they were determined to try to bring about a change by changing the administration, placing a new set of lawmakers in the capitol. The change was made, and the very demands ignored by the republicans is the first successful legislative work performed by the democratic party. In vain the corporations argued to be let alone. They were answered that they did not pay one-half as much in taxes in proportion to their property as other interests; that they had been favored too long and too much; that they now receive as much for carrying people in most cases as was allowed by law when farmers sold wheat for $2 a bushel, wool for fifty cents, pork for a shilling, beef for 10 cents, and butter for 30 cents a pound; that now farmers are selling wheat for 80 cents a bushel, pork for from 4 to 5 cents, wool for 25, beef from 3 to 5, and butter from 8 to 20 cents a pound. No power of argument, no fortune of circumstance, and no favor that could be shown or offered by the railroad attorneys and lobbyists had any effect on the faithful representatives of the people. The measure was passed.

By the authority of act No. 171 of the public acts of 1891, the railroads will pay [illegible] into the people's treasury than they have done heretofore. After the taxes shall have been collected from the railroads next year, and the law will have been a full year in operation, more money will be sent into every school district by thirty cents for every child between the age of five and twenty years. This is the result of electing honest, fearless legislators, whose principles and practice are formulated in the democratic axiom: "Special privileges to none." The railroad corporations are going to pay hereafter their money to defray your school district, by the command of the law enacted by a democratic legislature. Are you pleased with such legislation? Then show your pleasure at the ballot box.

There is good field for more work in this direction. Many corporations and professions in the state should be called upon to pay more of the public expenses. There are thousands of professional men who were educated in public institutions, which is supported by taxes on the [illegible] property of the citizens, professionals who enjoy more privileges, protection and profits than the common people. These all should pay their full proportion of the state's expenses. Injustice is done the people, the property of the individual is [illegible] need not be taxed a farthing for state purposes. All money needed for the expenses of an honest administration of our state government can by just and proper legislation be collected from the corporations.

To return the republicans to power in this state in spite of their past extravagance and corporation favoritism and in the face of the record made by the democratic party for economy and equal taxation, would be a confession that the people are willing to be bunkoed for the benefit of corporations.

BUSINESS-LIKE METHODS.

Are Those Adopted by the Michigan Board of State Auditors.

And Taxpayers Are Benefited by the Economy.

The general business management of the affairs of the state of Michigan is intrusted to the board of state auditors. The secretary of state, the state treasurer and the commissioner of the land office constitute the board. They act as the state's agent in the purchase of supplies and in the making of contracts. They are the state's confidential financial managers, auditing all bills and passing upon all claims. In the execution of their work there is opportunity for the exercise of that strict economy and keen business shrewdness that characterize the successful business man in the transaction of his private affairs. The democratic party in the platform of 1890, which carried to success the state ticket of that year, pledged itself to an economical administration of the state's business. In no single department was there better opportunity for fulfilling this promise than in the extensive field occupied by the board of state auditors. Here, where a sum amounting to about $150,000 annually is spent, the same discretion and prudent business methods that characterize the managers of private commercial enterprises can be brought into play.

The legislature of 1891, appreciating this, directed itself to placing the work of the board of auditors upon a business basis. It passed an act requiring the secretary of state to advertise for bids and contracts for taking state work and furnishing state supplies in such a way as to secure the best possible terms, the board being given such discretionary power as will prevent impositions on the state. Under this act, owing to the wisdom and careful management of the board and its clerk, such contracts were entered into a few months ago for the years 1892, 1893 and the first half of 1894, as will secure for the state a great saving in expenditures. In no instance is this better shown than the contracts for printing entered into by the present board under the new act. An illustration by comparison with former prices paid will show the saving worked. The former administration paid 27 cents per em for composition on laws, public and local; present prices 24 cents. The former paid for composition on the legislative journal and documents, governor's message, reports of departments and institutions, legislative manual, and similar printing, 30 cents per 1,000 ems; the present price is 27 cents. For composition on legislative bills and joint resolutions, the former price per 1,000 ems was 14 cents; the present price 13 cents. In many other items pronounced reductions have been secured on printing rates, which will amount to a large saving when it applies to about $40,000 of business annually. Great reductions have been secured on binding rates, which will average about 10 per cent. The state annual expenditure for binding is about $18,000.

Below are the former and present prices on some of the paper materials and car loads, giving an idea of the importance of the economy of the present board:

The disbursements of the board of state auditors amount to $150,000 annually. A very moderate estimate of the saving worked by the board under its new contracts, as provided by the act of the last legislature, is 10 per cent., or $15,000 a year. Taxpayers should remember and reward promises fulfilled when the battle of the ballots is fought.

Profitable Travelling.

William Jenney, republican, was elected Michigan's secretary of state in November, 1878, and held the office for four years, says the Jackson Patriot. Mr. Jenney was quite a traveler while in office. He made money while on the road. There runs have been over 50 per cent. profit, even when he paid his fares; but, when journeying on free passes, the amount he was paid was all profit. The records at Lansing show that his two terms of office he traveled 11,479 miles—not quite equal to half way around the world—at a cost of 10 cents a mile, and 220 miles at a cost of 20 cents a mile, on business for the state. His total of 11,699 miles cost the people $1,191.99. His hotel and hack bills for the same period foot up $224.10. From eight to nine hundred dollars of this total must have been clean profit. Clearly, during those palmy days of republicanism, public office was for Mr. Jenney a profitable private snap. Access to the books at Lansing by a democratic administration reveals many artful dodges whereby the state officials made office-holding, at low salaries, profitable, and many instances will be mentioned during this year's political campaign.

The Michigan Spring Elections.

So far as the spring charter elections held in Michigan can be relied upon as showing the relative strength of the parties contesting, they clearly indicate that democracy has held its own in the [illegible] As is usually the case, [illegible] contributed largely to results, and where democratic losses are [illegible] in some instances, most gratifying gains are found in others. With these local and temporary influences eliminated, as they will be when the great national issue is made at the coming presidential election, the strength of the democracy as displayed Monday will be equal to the securing of a party victory next fall.

The democracy has occasion to be greatly pleased at the result of the election in Rhode Island. The state went republican, but by a greatly reduced majority and the same ratio of increase throughout the United States would insure an overwhelming republican defeat. The returns from Wisconsin are proportionately encouraging. Milwaukee gave Harrison 4,000 plurality in 1888 and at the late election gave 2,013 democratic plurality. The chances are two to one that Wisconsin goes democratic this fall.

THE citizens of Muskegon, irrespective of party, are preparing a royal welcome for the democrats who attend the state convention May 4.

The Minnesota Resolutions In The East.

The Republic is glad to see that the Free-Coinage plank of the Minnesota Democratic platform is acceptable to Eastern Democrats as it to the west. Even the Springfield Mass., Republican, which has been unduly apprehensive of the effects of a free gold and silver currency, admits that the platform states the Democratic principle correctly. "It would be difficult," it says, "for the National Convention to improve on this plank. It states what is true, that by the traditional principals and policy of the Democratic party, so far as it has traditional principals and policy, the functions of government are limited solely in money matters to certifying to the weight and fineness of the money metals brought to the mints for that purpose, and government should not concern itself with attempts to regulate the values of such metals." In connection with this we repeat, for information, the Minnesota resolution:

We hold, in accordance with a traditional policy of our party, to the use of both gold and silver, and the sole function of the Government is to examine the relative value of the metals of coinage as established by the commercial world, and if there has been sufficient fluctuation in the value of either to make the existing ratio unequal, then to readjust the ratio so that the number of grains of either metal in the unit of coinage, the dollar shall be equivalent in value, and then to permit the free, unrestricted coinage of both metals.

With the Minnesota platform on the tariff and the currency and with a sound Western Democrat nominated on it the Democrats can easily drive the Republicans out of the Senate. The Minnesota coinage plank stops the yell of "seventy-cent dollar," and opens up for review the Record the Republican party has made in suspending altogether the coinage of silver and of piling up speculative bullion in the Treasury vaults to be held there out of circulation and unrepresented except by legal-tender warehouse receipts issued on the gold basis. And it promises that every ounce of silver offered for coinage shall be at once coined, freely, to enter circulation at a fair coinage ratio with gold.

Whether we nominate a Western Democrat or Mr. Cleveland on such a platform we will elect him. The Republicans cannot stand up against it. It means fight with all Democrats in line and enthusiastic.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 54 doses, 25 cts. Samples Free, at Baker & Hall's.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, leading baritone of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

Suffering Children

Our girl was a beautiful baby, fair and plump and healthy. But when she was two years old, sores broke out behind her ears and spread rapidly over her head and forehead down to her eyes, and into her neck. We consulted one of the best physicians in Brooklyn, but nothing did her any good. The doctors said it was caused by a scrofula humor in the blood. Her head became offensive to the smell and dreadful to look at. Her general health waned and she would lay in a large chair all day without any life or energy. The sores caused great itching and burning, so that at times we had to restrain her hands to prevent scratching. For 3 years with this terrible humor. Being urged to try Hood's Sarsaparilla we did so. We soon noticed that she had more life and appetite. The medicine seemed to drive out more of the humor for a short time, but it soon began to subside, the itching and burning ceased, and in a few months her head became entirely clear of the sore. She is now perfectly well, has no evidence of the humor, and her skin is clear and healthy. She seems like an entirely different child, in health and general appearance, from what she was before taking

PETITION OF TEXTILE WORKERS.

They Ask That Wool Be Put on the Free List—The McKinley Tariff Has Not Proved a Benefit But is Positively Harmful.

The following is a portion of the petition in favor of free wool sent to the committee on ways and means by the Kensington Reform club of Philadelphia. The club is composed of workmen in the large woolen factories of that city:

"Although labor is most directly interested in the tariff schedules, it has been customary for those who favor high protective duties to turn a deaf ear to its appeals despite their protestations of solicitude for the welfare of the toilers, whilst the clamors of those who find a special interest in high duties, leaving the time and means to besiege the doors of congress, have not been unheeded. The fat that is being fried out of the workingmen enables them to render special service to the partisan machine, and thus they can make their weight felt far better than the fleeced workingmen.

"Now, however, that there is once more an opportunity to be heard upon an equal footing with the capitalists, we, the Kensington Reform club, as an organization composed of workingmen in every branch of the textile industries, send greeting to the friends of fair play and honest and equal government with a prayer for the immediate passage of the free wool bill now under consideration in the house, which, whilst it may not fully meet our desires, is yet a measure offering great relief to the whole people.

"The labor in the woolen mills has never been in so depressed a condition as in the past year. The carpet industry was never so demoralized. Wages have been reduced both in a direct way and by the subterfuges called adjustments, readjustments and fines, and the cost of living has been perceptibly increased, until the condition of labor is well nigh unbearable. Employment has grown more unsteady, many mills working but partial time, some closed entirely, while in others the waiting for warp and filling amounts to a loss of from one-quarter to one-half time.

"This is no idle talk, but the result of investigation, as it is one of the missions of our organizations to intelligently watch the effect of legislation upon labor; and we here add that there has never been an increase of tariff rates that was not almost immediately followed by reductions of wages. This is surely contrary to what was promised as a result of the tariff law passed by the last congress, and it is, therefore, not surprising to find workingmen realizing that they have been fooled once too often.

"If, as has been asserted in congress recently, the manufacturers do not need or want a high tariff, and that it is solely for the benefit of labor, which never get any of them, then there is not the slightest impediment to a mutual agreement for its abolition. But since the gentlemen who make this assertion still oppose a reduction, the workmen who do not are certainly justified in praying that these kindly souls may stop their benevolent endeavors to raise wages by law, which they cannot do, and set about raising them in the mills, which they can do, and if they will only divide with their workmen that which they usually give to the party machine it will make a perceptible difference in the workers' pay rolls.

"We here reiterate the fact that the greater cause for the inability of American manufacturers to compete with their foreign rivals is because of the unjustifiable tax on the raw materials and not the difference in wages; and that this tax amounts to from three to five times more than the entire wage account in the product. It is needless for gentlemen to imagine that they can forever fool the workingmen by their expressions of solicitude for wages, while yet willing and even anxious to bear the enormous burden of this unnecessary tariff on the raw materials.

"To the workingman of ordinary intelligence this looks like trying to find excuses for the further reduction of wages, for so long as they can be made to believe that their wages are princely as compared with the wages of the workmen on the other side of the water, the more ignorant of them may be induced to submit to reductions without knowing that they are rapidly nearing the level of the so-called "pauper labor" of Europe. Intelligent workingmen, however, are praying deeply just now that their protectionist friends may cease their hard labors to raise the wind by tariff laws so as to take time to give their professions a practical turn by raising wages in fact. But if we may judge men by their actions we are justified in asserting that if these professional friends of labor thought that a tariff would raise wages they would drop it quickly.

"In a recent number of the Manufacturer, the organ of the protectionist manufacturers, its editor in a labored article tried to show that the English manufacturers were selling their goods here as cheaply as they did before the present law went into effect, and that this made it evident that the foreigners were paying the tax for the privilege of selling in our markets. In another article of the same number the fact is stated that Botany tops have declined in the London market 16 cents per pound, and this is given as a partial reason for their ability to sell at the old rates, but when we consider that this decline in wool prices is equivalent to a saving of 32 cents and upwards of every pound of manufactured cloth, we may find it to be the whole reason. Here is a pretty mixture of facts and fancy; but then if the tariff advocates facts were given without a mixture of fancies their cause would suffer badly.

"On a par with this is their averment that the materials of manufacture are not deteriorating. They dare not put their workingmen on the stand to testify to this under oath, for then there would be a full corroboration of the statements made to your honorable committee of ways and means by the Wool Consumers' association that the McKinley law has largely prompted the adulteration of woolen manufactures. If is only necessary to state one fact to expose the falsity of their claim. If all the wool in the country, domestic and imported, outside of that used in carpets, were made into pure woolen goods, we would have not over 80,000,000 pounds of cloths, dress goods, hats, blankets, underwear, etc., for our 61,000,000 people, or a little over 1¼ pounds for each individual.

"Who dares to say that this is sufficient to keep us from becoming a nation of shakers at the slightest blast of cold, and who dares to say that 80,000,000 pounds will cover all the goods sold to the American public as all-wool manufactures in a year? One must be silly indeed to believe this. But we must not forget that they have learned to manufacture wool by putting old cast-off clothing through a chemical process which cuts out all but the wool in them, and this residue is recarded and used to mix with other wool, but as the life is out of it it is no better than cotton, and thus between the cold and diseases transmitted through the old clothes there is at least one infant industry well protected—that of the doctors.

"With reference to the difference between American and foreign wages we are prepared to show that in many branches our rates are even below the English rates, and the same is true even of actual earnings. The rate paid for woolen weaving in the Huddersfield (England) district varies from 1 cent for eight picks to 1 cent for six picks, according to the grade of work, with extra pay for extra heddles, extra colors and extra beams, while ours is from 1 cent for nine picks to 1 cent for five picks, with no extras. Thus for sixty pick work the English rate is 7½ cents to 10 cents per yard, extras to be added, while our rate is from 6 cents to 12 cents per yard and no extras.

"If the American weaver earns more money in a week, it is simply because he works faster and turns off more product.

"Now we declare, without fear of contradiction, that there is not now a woolen manufacturer in Philadelphia who does not privately long for free wool and those who openly advocate tariff wool are actuated by partisan rancor; and we are still more emphatic in the declaration that there is not in Philadelphia one woolen worker in a hundred who would not openly ask for free wool if he were free from the sinister influences of the bosses. As we prefer our own prosperity and bread and butter to party success, we ask for free wool without reference to its effects upon party."

The stubborn perversity and dishonesty of the protectionist is nowhere better shown than in their steady refusal to correct the glaring inconsistencies and mischievous discrimination of the tariff laws even after their attention had been called to them repeatedly. One is the discriminations against American manufactures involved in the adjustment of duties between the raw materials and the finished products, and the other the placing of a heavier tax upon the poor man's necessities than upon the rich man's luxuries. We called their attention to these points as far back as the spring of 1886, and the protectionist national association of woolen manufacturers pointed out substantially the same errors in their letter to the secretary of the treasury in the fall of 1885, and hence they could not consistently overlook it, and yet in the make-up of the McKinley act this infernal piece of injustice was not only retained but made worse than ever.

This shows that in a vicious and determined purpose to serve a few masters they lost sight entirely of their duty to do justice to the people. In fact it appeared to be a pleasure to them to shift the burdens of taxation off the shoulders of the rich to those of the poor—to make labor the pack-mule of the rich. The unanimous cry of the protectionist manufacturers now is that the McKinley law be let alone because it is doing the manufacturers a great deal of good. Yet in the face of this there has yet to be recorded one important instance of a raise of wages, while instances of the paring down of wages are imminent.

OAT MEAL.

A McKinley Tariff Drama in Five Acts.

Act I. Scene: Congress, October, 1890. (duties raised)—McKinley increases the duty on oat meal from half a cent to one cent per pound in the interests of several large oat meal manufacturers of Ohio.

Act II. Scene: Columbus, O., January, 1891 (trust formed)—Under the heading, "All the Oat Meal Mills Consolidated," the New York Tribune describes what occurred as follows: "Incorporation papers were filed at Columbus to-day for the Consolidated Oat Meal Co. with a capital of $3,500,000. All the oat meal mills of the country are brought under one management with headquarters at Akron, O."

Act III. Scene: Factory (wages reduced)—Soon after the formation of the trust the wages of the men and women employed in the Akron mills, the largest in the trust, were forced to accept a large reduction in wages. Some had been compelled to submit to three reductions since the opening of the first act.

Act IV. Scene: Offices of the trust (prices raised)—Oat meal that sold for $4.90 per barrel before the trust was formed, now sells as high as $7.40 per barrel.

Act V. Scene: Ravenna, O., April 1, 1892 (factories closed)—The Quaker mills, with a daily capacity of 400 barrels, have been closed by the trust for an indefinite period and 100 men are thrown out of employment.

—It is a bad day for McKinley when several strikes, lock-outs, wage reductions, or close-downs cannot be credited to his pet measure—which by the way is doing more to injure our industries, our laborers and our farmers than any other bill that ever became a law in this country. Here are a few of the items reported on April 9, 1892. At New Castle, Pa., notices have been posted at all the furnaces of a general reduction in wages to take effect April 17. The turn men will be reduced 15 cents, and the iron men three-quarters of a cent per pound on their scale. This will give the turn men $1.75 and the laborers the magnificent income of $1.35 per day.

TOWNS WELL SHAKEN.

Severe Earthquake Shock Felt in Northern California.

A Great Deal of Damage Results in the Portions Visited—No Persons were Injured, But Several Had Very Narrow Escapes.

THE EARTH TREMBLED.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 22.—There was another earthquake shock at 9:45 Thursday morning, lasting twenty seconds. Plastering fell from a number of ceilings, several old chimneys toppled over and glassware was broken in crockery stores. A large portion of one of the plaster statues over the portico of the state capitol fell, and struck 40 feet from the building. It was discovered that a crack was made in the ceiling extending from one end of the building to the other. Books were thrown from the shelves in the library by the shock.

WINTERS, Cal., April 22.—Another shock of earthquake was felt here at 9:40, completing the destruction of the two-story Masonic hall, Cradwick's building, Bertholet's two-story stone building, Humphrey Bros.' one-story stone building, and generally demolishing goods, fixtures, etc. One man was badly hurt by a falling wall. Three brick and stone warehouses west of town, injured Monday night, were completely wrecked.

DIXON, Cal., April 22.—At 9:40 a. m. Thursday a severe shock of earthquake reached here, completing the wreck which was before threatened. Only two or three brick buildings in town are safe, and these fortunately possessed thick walls. No one was injured, but there were many narrow escapes. Every available mechanic and laborer is at work cleaning away the wreckage and taking down condemned buildings before fatal accidents occur.

ESPARTO, Cal., April 22.—A severe shock of earthquake occurred here Thursday morning, completely leveling the brick portion of the town. Every brick chimney was blown to the ground and wooden buildings were wrenched all out of shape. W. H. Shulte, an engineer, was seriously, if not fatally, injured by a portion of the walls of a blacksmith shop falling on him. Levy & Schwab's brick store is almost a complete wreck, the entire fire wall and part of the east and west wall being thrown down. Barnes' hotel suffered a severe loss, a hole 8 by 6 feet in the east wall being made. The bricks crashed through the roof and floor of the balcony and the cement walk was torn out of shape. Loss, $2,500. Mrs. J. R. Davisson was taken out of the debris of Levy & Schwab's store unconscious. A baby in her arms was unhurt.

Reports from the surrounding country show great destruction of property. Teams broke and ran away, wrecking valuable vehicles and injuring stock. Extensive excavations are reported between here and Woodland.

THREE VAGRANTS KILLED.

Tramps Who Had Abducted a Michigan Boy Slain in a Quarrel.

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., April 25.—Three men were killed here Saturday evening in a drunken row. Two days ago three tramps, who had kidnaped two boys from Saginaw, Mich., came to Fairmont, and camped near town, keeping the boys in confinement. Saturday evening the gang was joined by a man named Tracy, of Dunbar, Pa. A row was started and the gang turned their pistols on one another. Tracy was killed, one tramp was shot through the left nipple and another had his jugular vein cut. The boys gave the alarm.

Did Not Want Sitting Bull Killed.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A communication was laid before the senate Friday from Secretary Noble recommending the granting of medals and pensions to Indian police who suppressed the recent Sioux uprising. The communication closed with this sentence: "The killing of Sitting Bull was neither demanded nor directed by the department or under its direction."

Gen. Edwin P. Goodrich Dead.

BOSTON, April 23.—Gen. Edwin P. Goodrich, who served on the staff of Gen. Burnside during the war, died here. He was brevetted brigadier general for meritorious service. After the war he filled several positions of trust. At the time of his death he was connected with the Boston Herald. He also did some work for the Army and Navy Review.

Refused to Plead.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Dr. Henry M. Scudder was arraigned in the criminal court for the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Parker W. Dunton, his mother-in-law. On the advice of his attorney he refused to plead either way and motion was made to quash the indictment. The motion was neither granted nor denied. A day will be set for hearing arguments.

Bad for the Prohibitionists.

BOSTON, April 23.—By a vote of 91 to 72 the house refused a third reading of the bill enabling a political party holding 2 per cent. of the votes for governor to make nominations. This bill was in favor of the prohibition party, and was supported by the democrats and opposed by the republicans.

Given a Life Term

NEW YORK, April 23.—Annie Walden, who shot and killed her husband, James Walden, the night of October 30, 1891, was found guilty in the court of oyer and terminer of murder in the second degree, the punishment for which is imprisonment for life. When the verdict was announced she fainted.

LADIES

In delicate health, the result of irregularity in the natural functions or of any of the ills peculiar to your sex, if you will write me, I will send you full information in regard to my cure, together with a few samples of the genuine testimonials I have received from thousands of thankful women. The M. U. Pastilles have stood the test of 18 years in a very extensive medical practice and have never failed to give beneficial results. Sample 12 cents; full box $1.00. Do not fail to learn more of them at once. Dr. H. H. Jackson, 103 State Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The following letter is but a sample of the many which are constantly being received by me. The name and address will be given any lady asking for the same:

"DR JACKSON,

Dear Sir:—I gladly recommend your M. U. Pastilles to all ladies suffering with female diseases. Having myself been bedfast for ten months and could find no remedy until I began to use your Pastilles, when I soon began to recover, and after using about two boxes I was well and sound, for which I thank God. I have since directed very many ladies to the use of your Pastilles with wonderful success. The use of them should be known to every suffering lady." 21tf-cy

The Celebrated Stallion

GIPSEY CHIEF.

Will make the season of 1892 at the owner's farm, at the Bridgewater Mills, River Raisin.

GIPSEY CHIEF is the grandest sire in Southern Michigan, producing from mares of different blood, more matched colts, than any other stallion. Parties wishing to raise colts uniform in style and color, would do well to look at Gipsey Chief and his get, before booking their mares. He is the sire of the celebrated horse Tipton Boy, record 2:24 1-2, and other fast ones.

GIPSEY'S colts all have fine style and action and find ready sale at good prices. For pedigree and terms, address

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Boil to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALTRHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASES.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will accompany the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by druggists and medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you and you will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO N. Y.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates it cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Clinton Column.

CLINTON, MICH., APRIL 28, 1892.

J. B. Hause has a new windmill.

Dr. Tuttle is enlarging his house.

Neil Williams returned to Ann Arbor Monday.

Lawyer Bird, of Adrian, was in town Wednesday.

E. M. Collor, of Tecumseh, was in town Tuesday.

Dr. Kotts made his usual weekly visit here Wednesday.

A. F. Freeman, of Manchester, was in town Wednesday.

Jay Fox, of Bridgewater, is working for C. S. Burroughs.

Alonso Marshall will move his family into Ed Semark's new house.

Mrs. George Hard and Mrs. George Kies visited Tecumseh Tuesday,

L. W. Kimball went to Detroit Tuesday and returned Wednesday night.

Misses Hattie and Louise Platt visited friends in Tecumseh over Sunday.

The Masons are negotiating for an organ to be placed in their Lodge room.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kishpaugh visited Tecumseh friends last Saturday.

C. S. Burroughs was drawn to serve as petit juror at this term of Court, but was excused by Judge Lane.

W. S. Kimball has commenced repairs on his residence that will make it, when completed, one of the prettiest places in town.

Eugene VanDeMark has obtained a position in Chicago with Wm. Diety, selling rubber stamps. He has the city trade.

George Freese is improving his new lot by grading. He has purchased three hundred loads of dirt to fill in in front of the lot.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Hendershott returned from Toledo last Friday, remaining here until Monday, when they left for Warsaw, Ill.

The Episcopal social will be held at the residence of Mrs. E. VanDeMark Thursday, May 5th. Supper from 5 to 7. All are invited.

D. E. Palmer has obtained a position as station agent at South Chicago. He will leave the last of this week and his family will follow in a few weeks. He offers his house and lot for sale.

Mrs. Mary Burroughs, who left here last fall for Forest City, Florida, is obliged to leave that place on account of her health and will go to Seneca Falls, N. Y., where she has a sister.

Thirty-four members of Tecumseh Chapter came up Monday evening to witness the Exaltation of the Royal Arch degree. Members were also present from Grand Rapids, Jackson and Manchester.

Dr. Tuttle was called to Battle Creek last Friday to assist in bringing home Miss Eva Rector, who has been taking treatment at the Sanitarium. They arrived here Saturday afternoon. Miss Rector is still very low.

Jacob H. Stark, who died of blood poisoning last Tuesday at Ann Arbor, was brought here Friday for burial. Mr. Stark resided here several years ago. He had been janitor at Ann Arbor court house for some time.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Will Hall, who left here recently for Milwaukee, that they are very pleasantly situated and more than pleased with their new home. Their household goods were shipped Tuesday.

The ladies of the Clinton Episcopal church gave an Easter supper Wednesday evening. The edibles went to swell the citizens and the proceeds to swell the belfry fund. Most everyone was on the swell.—(Adrian Press.) This is a pretty swell town, anyway.

Four loads of straw were being drawn through here Tuesday for the paper mill, and just as they reached J. T. Clark's creamery it was discovered that the back part of the second load was falling off. While the men were reloading the horses started suddenly, throwing the driver violently to the ground. Dr. White was called immediately and pronounced him badly injured though not fatally. One ear was partly torn away from his head and he was terribly bruised. He was taken home in about an hour after his fall.

Miss Eusebia Walters died last Friday morning at 5 o'clock, after an illness of four weeks. The funeral was held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the house. Mr. and Mrs. Walters are doubly bereaved, this being the second daughter they have lost within a year. She was a girl of very quiet manners and retiring disposition, but who won as friends all those who knew her, by her unvarying goodness. Her sickness has been peculiarly sad, and each change in her condition has been anxiously noted by the entire community, who were hoping that it might soon change for the better. But as days went by and her suffering was only intensified, it was almost hoped that death, which to her could only be but a beckoning angel to a better life, would claim her for its own. It is not for her we mourn, for she has gone where "there shall be no sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain," but to the stricken father and mother our unreserved sympathy is given.

The World's Fair.

Large crowds are daily visiting Chicago for the purpose of viewing the World's Fair buildings, which have commenced to assume their appearance of future greatness and beauty.

With the excellent facilities afforded by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R'y, whose through trains, equipped with all the conveniences of the age, daily pass our doors, the trip to Chicago consumes but a short amount of time and is attended with many pleasures.

It will pay any persons having the time and inclination to make a trip to Chicago now, placing them in a position to better understand and enjoy the Fair next year.

Don't talk about yourself in company; it can be done much more satisfatory after you have left.

A Cry for Bread

Comes to us from starving Russia that must be heard, as people are dying daily there from want of food. The undersigned committee, appointed at a public meeting held last Monday evening, suggest that that those who wish to donate to this cause will leave their grain (no matter how small the quantity) at either of the Tecumseh mills, take a receipt for the same, and hand it to any member of the committee, and as soon as a sufficient amount is collected, the flour will be forwarded immediately.

All money donated will be used for purchase of flour. Immediate action is necessary. Do not delay. Let Tecumseh send a liberal donation.

S. P. HOSMER,

About none of the magazines of this month seems there to be such a freshness of spring time as the May Ladies' Home Journal goes out to its hundreds of thousands of readers laden with song, story, and a wealth of good material. The number opens with "A Day in Patti's Castle," written by Florence Wilson, a young Englishwoman, who obtained permission from the famous diva to describe minutely the daily life at Craig-y-Nos, Patti's castle in Wales. This article is accompanied by drawings and engravings taken from photographs made specially for the Journal by Madame Patti herself. Mrs. John Wanamaker gives a strong paper on "The Patient Work of Motherhood;" Mrs. William Evart Gladstone contributes her second article, "Hints from a Mother's Life," and Miss V. Stuart Mosby furnishes an interesting sketch, with portrait, of the wife of ex-Senator Ingalls. Altogether the May Journal is more than usually attractive, and no woman can afford to be without it. Published by The Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia for Ten Cents per number, and One Dollar per year.

The Atlantic for May

Mr. Scudder should be congratulated on his success in obtaining for The Atlantic the brilliant correspondence of Ralph Waldo Emerson and Thoreau, which occupies the first place in the issue for the month of May. The letters are edited by Mr. F. B. Sanborn, of Concord, and they give characteristic glimpses of the life, physical, mental, and spiritual, of the two friends during "the 'Dial' period," as the editor calls it—in other words, 1843. A fit companion-piece to these letters is the Roman Journals of Severn, the friend of Keats, which give quite a thrilling picture of the events preceding the fall of Papal Rome. These papers are edited by William Sharp. Apropos of Rome, Harriet Waters Preston and Louis Dodge contribute the first of a series of articles on "Private Life in Ancient Rome," and Mr. Crawford continues his Italian serial, "Don Orsino." The short story of the number, with odd title "A Cathedral Courtship," is furnished by Kate Douglas Wiggin. Two unsigned articles will attract attention for their cleverness, the first being "A Plea for seriousness," the second "The Slaying of the Gerrymander," a keen thrust at this political monster. Two papers remain, which are more than usually valuable: Professor J. J. Greenough's article, "The Present Requirements for Admission to Harvard College," and David Dodge's semi-historical view of "Home Scenes at the Fall of the Confederacy." A few other papers, some poetry, and reviews, including of course the inevitable criticism of Mrs. Ward's "David Grieve," and Hardy's "Tess of the D'Ubervilles," complete a strong number of this standard magazine.

The Docter has treated in the last 12 months more than 3,500 cases of all forms of eye trouble and errors of refractions, such as Glancoma, Ulceration of the Cornea, Granulation of the lids, Presbyopia, Paralysis of Accomodation, Spasm of Accomodation, Hypermetrobia, Aphakia, Myopia, Astigmatism, Anisometropia, Strabismus, Diplopia, Asthenopia, etc. Have you ever stopped to think how many people in this world are blind from their own negligence and carelessness in not giving their eyes attention at the proper time? You now have the opportunity of consulting one who gives all his time in treating cronic eye trouble. Thousands of persons in this world that do not use glasses that should, then again there are thousands of persons using gasses they think suited to their eyes, but the truth of the matter is, the glasses do not correct the trouble, but aggravate it and produce headache, spots before the eyes, inflamation, granulation, winking, trembling spells, various nerve and brain affections, catracts, burning and smarting of the eyes, etc.; entailing not only positive injury to the sight, but untold misery and blindness.

John Gibson has resigned his office of deputy sheriff on account of his far removal from town. John has been an able and efficient servant of the people and by his earnest efforts has done much to bring offending miscreants to justice. We only trust that his successor, whoever he may be, will leave as good a record behind him as has John.

Last Sunday being the 25th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Underwood, who reside about half a mile east of the village, a celebration of the event was planned for Saturday, as it could not properly take place on the Sabbath. The daughters, ably seconded by their aunt, Mrs. Geo. Gripton, consummated plans whereby a very pleasant and unexpected surprise was brought about. By the well laid conspiracy thus hatched Mr. U——, who at the time was away from home, was induced to return, to find his home in the possession of the invaders to the number 50 or 60, consisting of relatives, neighbors and friends, who presented Mr. and Mrs. Underwood with many fine gifts, consisting of a set of chairs and rockers and various other articles of luxury and comfort. A grand feast of everything good followed, after which all repaired to their homes, but not without first wishing Mr. Underwood and wife many happy years for their future.

A Book—Ike Marvel's Dream Life.

Not many books by American authors will receive from book-lovers so nearly unanimous a verdict of "delightful" as Ike Marvel's (Donald G. Mitchell) "Dream Life;" so the new edition of it, reduced the price from $1.25 to 20 cents (postage 5 cents extra) just now offered by John B. Alden, Publisher, is sure of an immense sale. It is a very pretty volume, large type and dainty cloth binding, notwithstanding its fabulously low price, which is accounted for by the expiration of copyright and the passing into Mr. Alden's hands from the higher priced publishers. Mr. Alden's Catalogue of Choice Books, 128 pages, issued monthly and sent for a 2-cent stamp is a veritable "literary gold mine." Address, JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 57 Rose Street, New York.

Albert Daniels has sold a large tract of timber to Mr. Nogar, of the Onsted sawmills, and the lumbermen's shanties are going up already. The timber will be taken on trucks to the mill, and oh, what roads there will be along that route this rainy spring. "Jordan" will be nothing in comparison to them.

A resident of this vicinity received a letter the other day from a green goods man, who stated among other wonderful things "that all our very rich men got their start by dealing in 'green goods;'" also that "no sensible man in these days allows conscientious scruples to stand in the way of making money," and that "Heaven is the only place for men who still believe in old-fashioned honesty," and assured his correspondent that he (the g. g. m. aforesaid) was a straight, honorable (?) man in his dealings, and to anyone sending him $650 in U. S. currency he offered to send in return $30,000 in money that could not be told from that of your uncle Samuel. There's generosity for you.

Tribute of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Y. P. S. C. E. of Raisin Valley, relative to the death of Mertie A. Comstock, of Ottawa Lake, Mich:

WHEREAS:—In God's providence, it has pleased Him to call from labor to reward our beloved co-endeavorer, Mertie A. Comstock.

WHEREAS:—We are constrained, in so far as words can do so, to show our recognition of her high moral and religious worth as a member of our society.

RESOLVED:—That while we bow in humble submission to the will of the Most High, who has for the first time, visited our ranks by death, we do not the less mourn for the co-worker who has been taken from us.

RESOLVED:—That in the death of our sister, the society loses a faithful and valuable member, one, who, in her daily life, evidenced her earnest consecration to God. By her constant cheerfulness of disposition and Christian kindness of heart, she won the friendship and esteem of all with whom she came in contact.

RESOLVED:—That while we feel deeply our own loss, we would not forget those to whom she was more dear, extending to them our most heartfelt sympathies, and commending them to Him who ever looks with pitying eye on those weighed down with sorrow.

RESOLVED:—That these resolutions be spread upon the records of our society, and be published in the Michigan Messenger, Sylvania Times, and Tecumseh Herald, and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

Miss Maggie Boyd, who has been troubled for some time with spasms of labored respiration, died very suddenly about 4 p. m. Saturday, April 30th, 1893. She assisted with the dinner and helped her father, John Boyd, off for town. In fact it was thought she was improving so much that the hired girl had been dispensed with. It was a terrible shock to the family and neighbors. Maggie had been considered a very hale and hearty woman and was the mainstay of the household.

There is a rumor afloat that the Canadian Pacific R'y will send its World's Fair passengers over the Lake Shore R'y from Detroit. If it does they will pass through Adrian to Chicago. There seems to be some reason for placing credit in the rumor, from the fact that the road between Monroe and Lenawee Junction is to be ballasted with gravel and relaid with new rails. The work train began Tuesday unloading gravel through Monroe.

Mrs. Breamish, who several years ago purchased the Central Hotel property in this village, of A. W. The first of this week, with her case under the supervision of J. H. Pound of Detroit and W. C. Burridge of this place, she received judgement to the tune of $3500.

Harper's Weekly, published May 3d, will be largely devoted to the illustration of the great Naval Review at New York. Occupying the front page will be a characteristic picture of striking naval incident drawn by T. de Thulstrup. A double-page illustration will present a view of the fleet as it appeared at the time of the review, while a superb eight-page Supplement will illustrate the passage of the vessels from the bay to their anchorage in the North River. Other scenes and incidents of the occassion will be appropriately illustrated. The number will also contain an attractive miscellany of timely articles on other subjects of current interest.

A Moist Spring.

The deeply frozen ground will gradually relax under the warmth of spring while the earth will throw off its moisture and dampness will fill the air. No condition could be worse for the development of rheumatism. Extreme cold is bad for it, but a moist spring is worse. Suffering is very great and it will increase and intensify, unless, as sensible people do, we provide ourselves with St. Jacobs Oil, the best remedy known for this plague. It is a torture in bad weather.

WORLD'S NAVAL REVIEW

A GATHERING OF WAR SHIPS SUCH AS THE UNIVERSE NEVER SAW BEFORE.

Cruisers of Foreign Powers.

THEIR SIZE AND ARMAMENT COMPARED WITH AMERICAN VESSELS.

Distinguished Guests From Abroad.

The naval review of 1893 in New York harbor will go down to history as the most imposing marine spectacle the world has ever seen. Never before has such an array of war vessels been gathered together.

School children, as well as many "children of a larger growth," have been taught to regard the "Invincible Armada," with which the misguided Philip II., King of Spain, fondly imagined that he would be able to effect the conquest of England, as the most formidable naval demonstration ever known. This is of course a ridiculous error, for on many occasions since then there have been gatherings of war vessels which would have annihilated the misnamed "Invincible Armada" in an hour.

The great Spanish armada was made up of 65 galleons and large ships, 25 urcas of 300 to 700 tons burden, 10 tenders of 70 to 100 tons, 18 small frigates, 4 galleoses and 4 galleys, in all 130 vessels, with a total tonnage of 75,868 tons. This is less than one-third of the tonnage participating in the great naval review. One vessel of the new United States navy, the Columbia or the New York, could lie at anchor and permit the entire armada to pepper away at her for a week without making a return, and she would not be injured at all. Any one of our rams could destroy the entire armada without suffering any damage and without discharging a single gun.

UNCLE SAM'S SHIPS.

Roll of Our Vessels Taking Part in the Review.

These are the ships of the United States navy taking part in the review, Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, commander-in-chief:

Baltimore, first class cruiser, Capt. W. R. Bridgman, 24 guns.

Chicago, first class cruiser, Capt. J. S. McGlensey, 27 guns.

Philadelphia, first class cruiser, Capt. A. S. Barker, 29 guns.

San Francisco, first class cruiser, Capt. C. Watson, 28 guns.

Atlanta, first class cruiser, 20 guns.

Bennington, gunboat, Commander R. Bradford.

Dolphin, gunboat, Commander B. W. Buckingham, 9 guns.

Newark, first class cruiser, Capt. S. Casey, 28 guns.

Vesuvius, torpedo cruiser, Lieut. Seaton Schroeder.

Yorktown, gunboat, Commander S. Wilde, 14 guns.

Concord, gunboat, Commander E. White, 14 guns.

Charleston, first class cruiser, Capt. H. T. Picking, 22 guns.

Bancroft, "practice cruiser," Lieut.-Commander Asa Walker.

Cushing, torpedo boat, Lieut. McR. Winslow.

Miantonomoh, monitor.

This places America at the top of the list, as it should be, with the greatest number of ships in line.

Strength of Our Cruisers.

The cruiser Philadelphia, the flagship of Admiral Gherardi, is one of the best known vessels of the navy. She has been in commission nearly three years, and has been the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron. On her trial trip, in July, 1890, she won $125,000 for her contractors by surpassing the terms required in the specifications. She developed a speed of 20.678 knots per hour, the best record made up to that time by any vessel of her class.

The Philadelphia is 327.6 feet long, is 48.6 feet broad, draws 19.2 feet of water, has a displacement of 4,324 tons and a maximum horse power of 8,815. Her armament consists of twelve 6-inch breech-loading rifles, with a full outfit of smaller guns. The cost of building her was $1,342,000.

The Newark, the flagship of the first squadron, and in command of Rear Admiral Benham, was begun in 1885 and was built by the Cramps of Philadelphia. Her dimensions are: Length on the load water line, 310 feet; extreme breadth, 49.2 feet; draught, 18.9 feet. Her displacement is 4,083 tons. The maximum indicated horse power of her triple expansion engines is 8,869, and her speed is 19 knots per hour. Her armament consists of twelve 6-inch breech-loading rifled cannon, and a complement of rapid firing and Gatling guns. The cost of the hull and machinery of the vessel was $1,248,000.

Of the other vessels of the first squadron the Baltimore, which is the sister ship of the Philadelphia, is a protected cruiser of 4,834 tons, engines of 8,815 horse power, and a speed of 19.678 knots per hour. The San Francisco is considered the finest of the American cruisers. She has a speed of 20 knots per hour and is 4,083 tons in burden.

The Atlanta is a steel protected cruiser of 3,819 tons, engines of 4,080 horse power, and a speed of 15.6 knots. The Bancroft is a new steel practice vessel of 838 tons.

The Chicago, flagship of the second squadron, Rear Admiral Walker commanding, is 325 feet long, 48.2 feet wide and has a draught of 19 feet. She has engines of 5,084 horse power and has a displacement of 4,500 tons. Her speed is 15.83 knots per hour. Her armament consists of four 8-inch breech-loading rifled cannon, eight 6-inch rifles, two 5-inch rifles, two 6-pounder and two 1-pounder rapid-firing guns, seven Hotchkiss revolving cannon and two Gatling guns.

ADMIRAL GHERARDI.

Of the other ships of the second squadron the Concord and Yorktown are steel gunboats of 1,700 tons each, the Charleston is a steel-protected cruiser of 4,040 tons; the Vesuvius is a steel-dynamite cruiser of 930 tons, and the Miantonomoh is a steel double-turreted monitor of 3,990 tons.

THE VISITING TERRORS.

Descriptions of the Ships Sent By Foreign Powers.

ARGENTINA—Nueve de Julio, protected cruiser.

BRAZIL—Aquidaban, battleship; Tiradentez, gun vessel; Republican, protected cruiser.

ENGLAND—Blake, armored cruiser; Australia, armored cruiser; Magicienne, protected cruiser; Tartar, partially protected cruiser; Partridge, partially protected cruiser.

FRANCE—Jean Bart, protected cruiser; Arethuse, unprotected cruiser; Hussaro, unprotected cruiser.

GERMANY—Kaiserin Augusta, protected cruiser; Seeadler, unprotected cruiser.

RUSSIA—Dmitri Donskoi, armored cruiser; General Admiral, armored cruiser; Rynda, partially protected cruiser.

SPAIN—Reina Regente, protected cruiser; Infanta Isabel, unprotected cruiser; Nueva Espana, torpedo vessel.

The English Ships.

The Blake is a 9,000 ton armored cruiser, having four vertical triple expansion engines, in separate compartments, with an average speed of 19.28 knots per hour under natural draught. Her armament consists of two 9-inch twenty-four-ton rifles in armored towers at the bow and stern; ten 6-inch rapid-firing guns, six on the spar deck and four on the main deck in casements; sixteen 3-pounders; seven Nordenfeldt machine guns and four 14-inch Whitehead torpedo tubes. She has a curved steel protective deck, from three to six inches thick, and above it the top of the machinery has an 8-inch steel protection. The casements of the main deck guns have 6-inch steel on the out board sides and two inches inside. The ammunition tubes leading from the conning tower have eight inches and the conning tower itself twelve inches of steel protective sheathing.

The Australia is a belted cruiser of 5,000 tons displacement, carrying an armor belt ten inches thick for a distance of 190 feet amidships. The protective deck is from two to three inches thick and the conning tower has a sheathing thirteen inches thick. The triple-expansion engines develop 8,500 horse power and a maximum speed of eighteen knots per hour.

ADMIRAL WALKER.

The Magicienne is a single screw protected steel cruiser of the third class, with a carrying capacity of 2,850 tons. She is 265 feet long, with a 42-foot beam and a draught of 17.6 feet. Her indicated horsepower is 9,000, and her speed is nineteen knots per hour. She was launched in 1889 and cost £180,000. Her armament includes six 6-inch five ton breech-loading rifles, nine 6-pounder quick firing guns, one 3-pounder quick firing gun and three machine guns. She has also two fixed and two launching car torpedoes.

The Tartar is a third class twin-screw cruiser of 3,770 tons displacement and somewhat similar to the Yorktown. She is 225 feet in length with a beam of 39 feet and a draught of 14 feet. Her indicated horse power is 8,500, and her speed is 17.35 knots per hour. She cost £85,000. Her armament consists of six 6-inch breech-loading rifles, eight 3-pound rifles, two machine guns, two launching car torpedoes and one fixed torpedo carriage.

The Partridge is a first class composite gunboat of 1,755 tons. She is 165 feet long with an 11.4-foot beam. Her engines have an indicated capacity of 1,200 horse power. Her speed is 13.25 knots per hour. Her armament consists of six 4-inch rifles and four machine guns. She was launched in 1888 and cost £37,810.

Of the French contingent the Jean Bart is a protected cruiser, which was built in 1887 and cost, complete, 7,000,000 francs. She is 352 feet in length, with a beam of 48.6 feet, and a displacement of 4,162 tons. Her engines develop 8,000 horse power. Her speed is 18.65 knots per hour. Her battery is four 6-inch rifles and six 5-inch rifles, with a secondary armament of four 3-pounder rapid-firing guns, six revolving cannon and six torpedo tubes.

The Arethuse is a fine-looking, old-fashioned wooden ship. Her dimensions are 277.4 feet long, 48.6 feet beam, and 21.9 feet draught. She is a gun deck frigate, with a topgallant forecastle and poop. Her armament consists of four 16-centimetre breech-loading rifles, twenty-two 14-centimetre rifles and eight machine guns. Her speed is 14 knots per hour.

The Hussard is a smaller ship than the Arethuse. She is bark rigged, with graceful lines. Her dimensions are: 211 feet long, 32.6 feet beam and a draught of 13.7 feet. She was launched in 1877, and her speed is twelve knots per hour. Her armament consists of four 14-centimetre breech-loading rifles and six revolving cannon.

The Czar's Contingent.

The Dimitri Donskoi, the flagship of the Russian fleet, is a twin screw, steel, first-class cruiser of 5,893 tons and a speed of 15.5 knots per hour. She is 296 feet long, with a beam of 50 feet and a draught of 24 feet. Her engines are capable of developing 7,000 horse power. Her armament consists of a pair of 8-inch breech-loading rifles, fourteen 6-inch breech-loading rifles, fourteen machine guns, and four long 6-ton cannon. She also carries four fixed torpedo carriages, and four launching torpedo carriages. She was launched in 1883.

The General Admiral is a single screw protected cruiser of iron, copper sheathed. She is 285.5 feet long, with a beam of 49.3 feet, and a draught of 22.9 feet. Her displacement is 4,600 tons and her engines have an indicated horse power of 4,472. Her speed is 12 knots per hour. Her armament is similar to that of the Dimitri Donskoi.

The Rynda of the Baltic Sea fleet is a cruiser of 2,950 tons, 265.3 feet long, a beam of 45.9 feet and a draught of 16 feet. Her engines give an indicated horse power of 3,600. Her speed is sixteen knots per hour. Her armament consists of ten 6-inch rifles, six machine guns, four torpedo tubes and four fixed torpedo carriages.

The Vessels of Italy.

The Etna, the Italian flagship, is a steel protected twin screw cruiser of 3,536 tons, 282.2 feet long, with a beam 42.7 feet. Her armament consists of two 28-ton breech-loading rifles, six 4-ton rifles and four torpedo carriages.

The Giovanni Bausan is one of the vessels present at the Columbian naval parade in New York harbor last October. She is a protected cruiser, carrying the same battery as the Etna, but is somewhat smaller, with a displacement of 3,068 tons.

The Dogali is a steel protected twin screw cruiser of 2,030 tons. She is 250 feet long, with a 37-foot beam and a draught of 14.6 feet. She is one of Italy's fastest cruisers, with a speed of 19.6 knots per hour. Her armament consists of six 6-inch rifles, nine quick-firing guns and three torpedo carriages.

The Eriodno is an unarmored transport and carries ten guns.

Cruisers From Germany.

Germany sent the Kaiserin Augusta and the Seeadler. The former is a protected steel cruiser of 6,052 tons. She is 390 feet long, with a beam of 49.3 feet, and a 23-foot draught. She has three propellers, and is one of the swiftest cruisers afloat. Her engines have 12,000 indicated horse power, and she can go at the rate of 20 knots per hour. She is armed with twelve long 6-inch rifles, eight machine guns, eight quick firing guns, and eight torpedo tubes.

The Seeadler is a twin screw steel gunboat, 143 feet long, with a beam of 49.3 feet and a draught of 10.2 feet. Her speed is nine knots per hour. She is armed with two heavy rifled cannon, two machine guns and two torpedo tubes.

The Spanish Vessels.

The Spanish flagship, the Reina Regente, under command of the Duke de Veraqua, is a composite steel protected cruiser, 318.5 feet long, with a 56-foot beam and draught of 20 feet. Her displacement is 5,000 tons and her speed is said to be 20.7 knots. Her armament consists of six 6-inch rifles, six 4-inch rifles and ten torpedo tubes.

The Infanta Isabel is a protected cruiser, 210.9 feet long, with a beam of 32.2 feet and a draught of 12.5 feet. She has a displacement of 1,130 tons. Her armament consists of four 4-pound rifles, two long rifles, four quick firing guns and two torpedo tubes.

A correspondent of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Despatch makes this curious statement: "In Uruguay, some of the rivers are so impregnated with the roots of Sarsaparilla as to possess sanitary qualities for bathing purposes, and the people who drink their waters are said to be exempt from skin diseases arising from impurities of the blood." The Uruguay sarsaparilla is probably the same variety of plant as that of the neighboring state of Honduras, of which Ayer's Extract of Sarsaparilla is made, and which is richest in medicinal qualities of any sarsaparilla root known to science; hence, of course, the extraordinary curative properties of Ayer's famous blood medicine.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. If you have never used this great cough medicine one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at Orr's drug store. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

An old tree in Carroll county was found to contain 200 rings. It was the only thing in Maryland that was ahead of Somerset county politics.

The man who called sarsaparilla a fraud, had good reason; for he got hold of a worthless mixture at "reduced rates." He changed his opinion, however, when he began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It pays to be careful when buying medicines.

Why is it that a man thinks he is doing things up brown when he is painting the town red.

ADMITTED THE FACTS.

Newspaper editors have to be very careful in opening their columns for statements. But aware that the Dr. Miles Medical Co., are responsible, we make room for the following testimonial from R. McDougall, Auburn, Ind., who for two years noticed a stoppage or skipping of the pulse, his left side got so tender he could not lie on it, his heart fluttered, he was alarmed, went to different doctors, found no relief, but one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure cured him. The elegant book, New and Startling Facts," free at Baker and Hall's. It tells all about Heart and Nervous Diseases and many wonderful cures.

PRIDE OF THE STATE.

Dedication of the Michigan World's Fair Building.

A Brief Account of the Ceremony—Description of the Building—Something About the State's Exhibits at the Great Exposition.

DEDICATED.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 29.—This was a great day for Michigan. Her state building at the fair was dedicated. The ceremonies were held at Jackson park, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. Hon. John T. Rich, governor of the state, members of the senate, house and supreme court and nearly all of the state officials participated. The following programme of exercises was carried out:

Presentation ..... Hon. I. M. Weston, world's fair commissioner.
Response ..... Gov. John T. Rich.
Address ..... President of the national commission, ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer.
Address ..... Director General George R. Davis.
Address ..... James B. Angell, president of the University of Michigan.

Other addresses than those noted above were made by prominent residents of the state and by world's fair officials. It was the intention to hold a reception during the evening in the house, but owing to disappointments in the electric lighting arrangements it was transferred to the Hyde Park hotel, where the functionaries from the state were quartered. The evening programme consisted of musical and literary features, dancing and a reception to Gov. Rich and staff and the members of the state legislature. The house, during the fair, will be under the care of the matron, Miss Beebe, formerly of Jackson, Mich.

The Michigan building is not the least pretentious of the state buildings. It is, in fact, one of the finest of that magnificent collection of state buildings at the north end of Jackson park. It is located at the intersection of two of the finest avenues in Jackson park.

The building is very houselike and the interior is very homelike. It has a ground area of 100x40 feet. There are three stories and on each are large, comfortable rooms, with open fireplaces, easy chairs, tete-a-tetes, etc. Of course it is all made from Michigan materials. Over the mantels are heads of Michigan deer. Throughout the building are pictures of noted Michigan men, Michigan scenes, etc. The first floor of the building is a general reception floor, the second contains three large exhibit rooms, one of which will be used for meetings both of business and social nature.

On the first floor the gentlemen's reception room, 43x37 feet, was finished and decorated by the city of Saginaw at an expense of about $5,000. Muskegon did her duty by putting $4,500 into a reading room. Grand Rapids spent $10,000 for the ladies' reception room, which is also on the first floor. It is finished in stucco and hung with beautiful tapestries. The woodwork is enamel white.

THE MICHIGAN BUILDING.

The house is not only a home, it is a show. On the second floor the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, the finest institution of the kind in the west, will show a fine collection of native birds, animals and reptiles. In another room are to be shown the resources of the state, specimens of copper, iron and gold, salt, woods, etc. The geological room has a large assembly room. The house will have pianos in the main rooms and in one a large pipe organ, made expressly for use in the Michigan building. The Michigan newspaper men will find accommodations there and files of all home papers of note. The building has check rooms, post office, barber shop, information bureau, private rooms, and everything to render ease to tired visitors from Michigan.

The outside of the building is pretty and imposing. The main tower has large, illuminated clocks which may be seen a long distance and from all the passing railroad trains. The rotunda has balconied porches all around the outside, and the whole effect is harmonious and pretty. Its total cost to the state is about $36,000, and contributions of about $20,000 more have been advantageously used. The plans were by M. S. Smith & Co., Detroit. C. H. Pelton, of Grand Rapids, was the contractor, and E. A. Russell, of Muskegon, superintended the construction.

Michigan has more space in the Mines and Mining building than any other state in the union. Here are shown every species of mineral to be found in the state, arranged in shapes as best to show off the beauty and utility of the various specimens. Over the entrance to the exhibit is a vast archway, built of Michigan sandstone from four different quarries, and set in it are shields of different Michigan ores and mineral products. There are some beautiful specimens of verde antique, white marble, conglomerate copper ore, etc. Inside the various ore rather under it, is a fountain, from which will flow mineral waters from the state, and above it is a frieze, made of copper, showing brownies at work in the mines.

Perhaps the first thing that the sightseer will notice is the long line of paintings around two sides of the space, showing the mines of the upper peninsula. There are views of Lake Angeline, the Pittsburgh, the Barnum, the Salstury, the Calumet and the Hecla and other mines. The whole process of making copper from the native ore is shown by working models.

The exhibit of minerals is one of the finest ever put together, and is taken in part from private collections. There are specimens of copper in all sorts of kinds, rag copper, nail copper, block copper and every other kind found. Then there is iron ore, some of the richest ever dug, gold found near Ishpeming, and the specimens shown would assay at least $10,000 to the ton. Then there are silver, marble of different kinds and colors, verde antique, serpentine, which is a finer grade of verde antique, granite, whetstones from native navaculite, graphite, fire clay and common clay, fire sands, coal, amethyst, agate and chlorastrolites. This is an exceedingly beautiful mineral. It is found only in Spain, and on Isle Royal in Michigan. Carnelian of all sorts of colors is shown, as well as red analcims, abophyllites, prehnite, datholite, stilbite, dolomite, calcite, micaceous hematites, grape ores, kidney ores, oolites, needle iron ore, amygdaloid, pipe ore, calcite crystals containing native copper and so on through the entire list.

Michigan's vast forestry interests are displayed, not alone by a model of a logging camp, but by a display of all the native woods, pine, maple, beach, oak, elm, walnut, butternut, hickory and other hard woods. In addition to the woods themselves, there will be exhibited the methods of making lumber, which the lumbermen of Michigan have perfected. The extensive pine lumber mills of Saginaw and Bay City, Muskegon, Alpena, Oscoda, Tawas, Cheboygan, Big Rapids and all the other lumber cities will be represented by exhibits in the forestry building.

In its agricultural exhibit Michigan again comes to the front. In the Agricultural building, in almost the center, the Michigan space for her agricultural exhibits is found. It contains about 2,000 square feet. Here will be found a collection of the varied agricultural products of the state. On top of the central pavilion will be two deer, both brought from the woods of Michigan. The exhibit comes from all parts of the state, and will comprise wheat, corn, oats, peas, beans, buckwheat, rye, clover and other kinds of seeds, timothy, popcorn, butternuts, walnuts, hickory nuts, beechnuts, hazlenuts, turnips, beets, cabbage, cucumbers, tomatoes, potatoes, ruta bagas, melons, citrons, peppermint, blackberries, raspberries, squash and many other products of this fertile state.

The state is known as a great fruit-producing country, but the greatest part of this exhibit will be in Horticultural hall. Maryland is her only competitor in the peach-raising industry. She is a leading state in the culture of fish, for the lakes are filled with them, and the state is filled with lakes. At Petoskey is a branch of the government fish hatchery, in charge of Ralph Connable, but this interesting feature, that is a source of pride to Wolverines, will be more fully exhibited in the Fisheries building. There will also be exhibits of pomology, horticulture and live stock. There will be exhibits from the peppermint farms, the celery fields and the cranberry marshes of the state.

A large section of space will be devoted to an exhibit by the Agricultural college, located at Lansing, the capital of the state. It has about 800 students, who work the experimental farms. In the Manufactures building the students will have an exhibit of the work done in their machine shops, laboratories, etc.)

A man in Cadillac the other day called a Toledo, Ann Arbor & Northern Michigan engineer a "scab," whereupon he received a blow on the head from the engineer which fractured his skull. He will probably die.

E. F. Moore, of the state railroad commissioner's office, is making an examination of the Ann Arbor engines which recently exploded. State officials propose to investigate the many accidents of late on the road.

The death is announced, from Saginaw, of Rev. C. L. Eberhart, president of the Lutheran theological seminary and presiding officer of the Synod of Michigan and for thirty years pastor of St. Paul's church at Saginaw.

The body of Monroe Ream has been brought to Three Rivers from Indian territory for burial. He and eleven others were shot by United States soldiers for crossing over into the Cherokee strip to have first choice in the claims.

Mrs. Cornelia Bliss, of Saginaw, has brought suit against the Union Street Railway company for $10,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been sustained in a collision between a street car and a Michigan Central freight train last September.

John Walker, a railroad employe, fell from a train at Kalamazoo and was killed. The coroner's jury, in its verdict, censured the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad company for negligence in having him do work which he did not understand and was no part of his business.

GIVEN A LIFE TERM.

John Butcher's Punishment for Killing William Lampman at Charlotte.

CHARLOTTE, April 28.—The jury in the butcher murder trial brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree Thursday afternoon. This means that they consider John Butcher guilty of killing William Lampman, whose death occurred last November. Lampman was 75 years of age and was found tied to his bed and in such a condition as to indicate he had been brutally beaten and then strangled to death. Butcher was sentenced by Judge Smith to state's prison for life.

Odd Fellows Celebrate.

DETROIT, April 26.—From many points in the state come reports of the observance of the seventy-fourth anniversary of the birth of odd fellowship in America. Among the more notable ceremonies were those which took place in this city, Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, Sheridan, Kalamazoo and East Tawas. The day was spent in parades and the evening in banquets, speechmaking and dancing.

Died After a Short Illness.

SAGINAW, April 27.—Rudolph Bruske, one of Saginaw's enterprising business men, and well known throughout the state as a successful druggist, died Wednesday morning after an illness of about thirty hours. He was a resident of Saginaw for the past thirty-nine years, having come here from Germany when but 3 years of age.

Trout for Michigan Streams.

MENOMINEE, April 27.—Fifty thousand brook trout have been received here from the state fish hatchery at Sault Ste. Marie and will be deposited in the different streams in Menominee county.

His Life Crushed Out.

GRAYLING, April 27.—John Geuck, 35 years of age, and married, was instantly killed at Penoyer's camp, 28 miles from here. The skidding broke and the logs rolled over on top of him.

Because the alleged steel which is put out by inexperienced manufacturers have gone down in ordinary winds, leaving us to prove that the Steel Wheel is made. Judge it only by the Axle dust.

In this year's blizzards and cyclones the Aermotor has proportionately much less than any wooden wheel, while the loss of the imitation steel ones has frequently been total.

45 sold in '88
2,288 sold in '89
6,268 sold in '90
20,049 sold in '91
60,000 will be sold in '92

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermoter. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country." Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, disturbances in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—if you want the tower you don't have to climb—the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one $100; write for copyrighted illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 2-27 Beale St., San Francisco.

No. 176

T. C. SHERWOOD,
Commissioner of the Banking Department.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood; by this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

A WORLD AT HER FEET

Chicago's Hour of Triumph in Jackson Park.

THE GREAT WORLD'S FAIR OPENED

A Memorable Scene Which Calls Up Memories of the Last Three Years—Tableaux in the History of Chicago's Mighty Effort—Success at Last.

WORLD'S FAIR, May 1. — [Special.] — Nothing like it was ever seen before. Neither Solomon nor Nero ever dreamed of so much magnificence. It was precisely at noon today that President Cleveland, standing in the midst of a multitude, pushed a little button no larger than his thumb. Instantly the electric current loosened the mightiest forces of steam and electrical energy ever bottled in one spot tore down the veil from a number of beautiful statues; started columns of water playing toward the sky from many fountains; floated in the breeze thousands of flags and streamers from as many tall staffs planted upon the roofs and towers of a score of palaces; set in motion acres on acres of the most intricate and wonderful machines man in his best century has invented and perfected; sparked into brilliancy more than a hundred thousand electric lamps, a modern defiance at noon-time of the darkness of midnight.

Thus the World's Columbian exposition of 1893 was opened this day. As I sat near the president on this occasion—a moment which will survive vividly in the memory as long as one may live—my thoughts wandered in retrospective paths. All this splendor nominally in honor of that Columbus who four centuries ago landed on the low shores of Watling Island—his San Salvador—in the Bahamas. The people of that island are to-day suffering famine and pestilence. The only good fortune that has visited them in recent years was when an enterprising Chicago newspaper sent an expedition thither to erect with much expenditure of silver coin a monument on the very spot where Columbus' feet first touched the soil of the new world, that lucky and yet luckless Columbus, shortly afterward returned to Europe in chains. As this Columbian fair is opened his descendant, now loaded with wealth and honors, sets within ten feet of me.

Seven Grecian cities praised Homer dead
In which the living Homer begged his bread.

Who first suggested this form of celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery? Probably we shall never know. Claimants for the honor appear every day or so, the caveat of each newcomer carrying him farther back than the earliest date given by his most previous rival. There can be no doubt, however—and it is a fact worth clearing in this connection in behalf of the truth of history—that the man who first made the idea of a Columbian exposition, known and talked about as a serious, practical proposition was Col. A. D. Anderson, of Washington, D. C. He interested the people of the capital, and statesmen lent a hand, too. Apparently it was determined there was to be an exposition, and it was to be held in Washington under government auspices. They had the site selected, on the shores of the Potomac. Other plans were perfected. But clouds soon appeared in the horizon. The mayor of Chicago had called a meeting of citizens to discuss the proposition to hold an international exposition in this city. New York heard of it, and called a meeting, too. St. Louis not to be outdone in enterprise, nominated herself.

Then ensued one of the most interesting, spirited contests for supremacy ever seen in this or any other country. In fact, all history may be ransacked in vain for a parallel. It was a municipal tournament which brought out the energy, the characteristics, the good nature, the wit and the public spirit of all the rivals. Early it was seen that New York and Chicago were evenly matched. Washington and St. Louis were not factors. The east was pitted against the west. What a campaign it was! Chicago won. All the reasons why have never been made public—never will be. The superior energy and stronger public spirit of Chicago were quickly manifested. While the easy-going New Yorkers were giving dinners to congressmen hustling Chicago had its men in every state in the Union, working boards of trade, legislatures, railway corporations, public sentiment—controlling the influences which controlled congressmen.

AS IT WAS IN 1891.

Then not many people appreciated the significance of that decision of congress. Now everyone appreciates it. Chicago's victory was the victory of the Mississippi valley, the interior and the farther west. It moved the actual center of the country two hundred and fifty miles to the west at one fell swoop. It pushed Chicago ahead twenty-five years at a bound. Today Chicago is the first city of the world. All this summer she will be the first city of America. After this year she will fall back beside her great and only rival, and the future race between New York and Chicago will be at hot pace.

As I look over this throng, gathered for the supreme moment in the most magnificent spot of the exposition, I see scores of Chicagoans who have devoted their energies for two years or more to the cause of the fair. They are proud and happy now, as they have a right to be. Nothing in this world but love is sweeter than triumph, and love is triumph itself. But there have been times, during the past twenty months, in which many of these men, and nearly all men in Chicago, have said they were sorry New York did not beat them in congress. At the same time New York chuckled and pretended to congratulate itself upon its escape. Neither expression was sincere.

Chicago has had her troubles, and at times the outlook has been very dark, indeed. But there was never any surrender, never any cessation of effort. As the human acre in the center of this wonderful scene, this culmination of the struggle, this victory, shouts with joy after the pressing of the mighty button, my thoughts still run to the hours and days of the busy past.

It has been a series of tableaux. Only three years and two months ago it was that we had in congress the memorable scene of Chicago's victory over New York. A month later Chicago was brought face to face with the serious side of her undertaking. Bitterness erupted in her stockholders' meetings. Dissension, disruption were threatened. One ringing voice, that of a little man no bigger than the finger of the statue of the republic which stands in the basin yonder facing Grover Cleveland—Thomas B. Bryan—quelled the storm. "The eyes of the world are upon you," he shouted; "be men!" Those words have been ringing in Chicago's ears ever since. They quelled many more storms.

Then the conflict, the inevitable conflict about the site. This was raged long and bitter. Predictions were made that Chicago would fall in an epileptic riot, result of too much pressure between rival sections of the city, and that the fair would perish. It was the autumn of 1890 before the site was finally chosen—wisely chosen as the most zealous advocates of other locations now admit.

The Illinois legislature was not going to pass a law enabling the city of Chicago to issue bonds in aid of the fair, and the people wouldn't vote the bonds, anyway. So said the pessimists. Without municipa aid Chicago couldn't raise the money and the whole enterprise was going to the dogs. In sixty days the bonds were sold in the money market. All predictions and cavilings that Chicago could not raise the ten millions of dollars required of her by congress thus came to naught.

Before the enterprise was fully on its feet another danger, the greatest danger of all, appeared. Congress had created a national commission and recognized a local board of directors. The inevitable conflict between them arose. More bitterness, doubt, contention, darkness. So great was the tension that one or two of the Chicago papers began to throw out hints of abandoning the enterprise. Eastern papers were not slow to act on this hint, and soon it became a mooted question not only in this country but in Europe whether there would be a fair or not. Indeed, it was at one time generally believed in Europe that the Chicago people had confessed the task to be too great for them and given up the job. They did not know Chicago!

This difficulty was finally adjusted. Then it became necessary to disabuse the world of the notion that there was to be failure in Chicago. A score of men were sent traveling through Central and Southern America to secure governmental cooperation and private exhibits. Other agents were sent to Asia and to Africa. A commission of prominent men traveled all through Europe, and turned toward the fair the tide of continental opinion that had been running strongly away from it.

Two years ago this marvelous spot on which we stand today was a mud-hole. Big dredges were at work scooping out lakes and using the earth thus acquired for the construction of islands and building sites in the swamp. A year ago I stood right here and saw one half-finished building, four or five with complete foundations, a dozen more existing only on the map or in piles of material. The transformation that has come over this scene in the short space of one year is the most sublime thing I have perceived in this whole enterprise. It is a thing which cannot be described and which must go forever unrealized except by those who saw it. If some photographer had had the wit to prepare a series of views illustrative of the rise in two years of this city of palaces on its mud-hole site, he might have made his fortune with it. The pyramids, St. Gothard, St. Petersburg, Suez, Pacific railroad, were memorable examples of the power of organized human energy. Greater, far greater than any of these, considering the time employed, is the achievement of which to-day is the climax.

Three years ago Chicago shouting in the capitol at Washington.

Two years ago dredging and scooping as if she were constructing a canal.

One year ago laying broad acres of floors and contracting for more work atop them than she had money in sight to pay with.

To-day, the world at her feet!

How will Chicago come out financially? Don't worry. Chicago will attend to that. But do not forget that she did this: When a ten million dollar fair was perceived to be too small she went ahead and made it a twenty million dollar fair, regardless of consequences. She bonded and borrowed and turned corners and even conquered in small measure a congress which all the experts thought was unconquerable. She modified none of her plans on account of expense, but rather enlarged them and spent more. This was nerve. It was courage. It deserves its reward.

No American stands in this great presence today and views this majestic opening without feeling proud of Chicago and of his country. ROBERT GRAVES.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen.

Lord Aberdeen, formerly lord lieutenant of Ireland and the next governor-general of Canada, has arrived at New York en route to Chicago. He was accompanied by Countess Aberdeen, Lady Arnote, Miss Arnote, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Sullivan. Both Lord and Lady Aberdeen are well known in this country and Canada and are not strangers in Chicago. The Irish village has Lady Aberdeen as chief patroness, and she will give her personal attention to many of the details in connection with the exhibit.

Bureau of Awards.

John Boyd Thatcher's bureau of awards has been installed in pavilion B of the Administration building. As there are thirteen main departments of the exposition, the bureau will consist of thirteen departments, all of which will be subordinate to the chief. Articles to receive the bronze medal and accompanying diploma, which constitute an award, will be selected by the executive committee on awards.

OBITUARY.

Died, at Tecumseh, Mich., on Friday April 28, 1893, Miss Fannie Stocking, aged 59 years. Miss Stocking was the daughter of Amos and Theodosia Stocking, who were among the earliest and most respected settlers of the town of Tecumseh. The house in which she was born, being the first one north of Theodore Crane's, was one of the first frame houses built in the place. Miss Stocking was born in November 1833. Her life has been one of the most quiet and yet one of the most useful of lives, having been spent, nearly all of it, in or near her native place, and in occupations which are more honorable and self-denying than conspicuous or remunerative. She early developed a taste for books and was a pupil of the Tecumseh school, of that of Prof. Estabrook and of the State Normal. She began teaching in Franklin at the early age of sixteen. She taught many years in Clinton also, where she is lovingly remembered for her labors. But it is in this, her native town, that she was best known and most widely and fully appreciated. Here she united at an early age with the Presbyterian church, to which she was warmly attached, and of which she was a consistent, and until the loss of her health an active and useful member, being for a long term of years the teacher of a large class in the Sabbath school. Here in Tecumseh also she conducted a private school, of whose advantages many parents were glad to avail themselves. Here for some years she discharged with loving faithfulness the duty of caring for her invalid father. All the work she undertook was performed in such a quiet cheerful way as to convey the impression that it was easily done. Her pupils were always greeted with a pleasant smile and addressed in gentle tones even when her nerves were ready to give way on account of the strain placed upon them, and they always remembered her with affection after they ceased to be children and grew to the stature of men and women. An impression has been left by her on the mind and character of many of the youths of Tecumseh, which will never be entirely effaced. The secret of her attaching so many to herself as she did, was no doubt in part the naturally aimiable and refined disposition which she possessed. But above and beyond this it was her beautifully developed christian character which caused so many to trust and love her and which will cause her memory to be long cherished with affection and respect. It was both her natural virtues and her christian graces which caused her to be the recipient of so many spontaneous and tender ministrations in the time of her illness and on the occasion of her death. For all these tender ministrations a grateful brother and sister desire to express to those who rendered them their heartfelt thanks. W. H. B.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. feel very grateful for the excellent sermon given them by the Rev. Varner on the evening of the 9th, and wish we might often be encouraged in the same way. We feel that it was not alone for our good but strengthened and increased the interest in the great cause in the hearts of all who listened to it. The result was seven new members that night and more to come.

Build on the rock of all thats true,
Our door is open; my friend, we welcome you:
Our home is large and strong; our hearthstone wide;
Enter, my friend, and with thy friends abide.
Our mission is to help the weak against the strong.
Our hope to banish evil and to conquer wrong
To make this land of ours, so richly blessed,
A land of blessing, not a land oppressed.

No more the tryant's power shall hold its sway
Nor rum its tolls collect in God's highway,
Its toll of broken hearts and blasted souls—
A thousand human wrecks its daily tolls!

Nor shall the powers of darkness rule the land,
And cast its withering blight on every hand—
Nor rob the people of the wealth of toil,
And claim they own the earth and all its soil.

A wakening race is rising from its sleep,
The goats are separating from the sheep—
A shepherd's hand can already be seen
To lead us to the hills and pastures green.

Fifty thousand children in one hundred and five schools were examined by English physicians. Over thirty per cent. were suffering from physical and mental defects attributed mainly to the drinking habits of their parents. Three million women in Spain can neither read nor write. Sixty-one women serve on school boards in the little state of New Hampshiae.

SHINGLING THE RUMSELLER'S ROOF.

One night a poor wretch in a wayside saloon,
Who lingered half drunken about,
Heard the voice of the rumseller's wife, as she said,
"Go put yonder drunken fool out,"
The rumseller laughed as he shrewdly replied,
In tones that would brook no reproof,
"Let him stay, if he will; he's doing no harm;
The fellow is shingling our roof."
The months passed away, but he came not again,
The rumseller noted with pain,
And seeking him out with a hospitable air,
He begged his "old friend" to explain,
"You want me to visit again your saloon,
And ask why I linger aloof?
With thanks for your kindness, allow me to say
Because I am shingling my roof!"
—WORLD'S WHITE RIBBON.

"I've got orders, positive orders, not to go there—orders that I dare not disobey," said a youth who was being tempted to enter a smoking and gambling saloon.

"Come, don't be so womanish; come along like a man," shouted the youths.

"No, I can't break orders," said John.

"What special orders have you got? Come, show 'em to us, if you can; show us your orders."

John took out a neat wallet from his pocket and pulled out a neatly folded paper. "It is here," he said, unfolding the paper, and showing it to the boys. They looked, and one of them read aloud: "Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of wicked men. Avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it and pass away."

"Now," said John, "you see my orders forbid me going with you, they are God's orders, and by his help I dont mean to break them.

I had a severe attach of catarrh and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from roaring in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh, take Ely's Cream Balm and be cured. It is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh. A. E. Newman, Grayling, Mich.

GONE TO HIS FINAL REWARD.

The death of William Bresie, at the ripe age of 76 years, removes from the social and business circles of Tecumseh, one of our foremost citizens. But few men typified better than he the restless energy and activity of the western Pioneer, and his life was a long and eventful one. He was born in Tioga Co., N. Y., April 25, 1817, and when six years of age his father's family moved to Conesus, Livingston Co., N. Y., where the subject of this sketch lived for ten years, obtaining such a meagre education as the schools of those days afforded. At the age of seventeen he caught the prevailing western fever, and started for Buffalo afoot and alone. Upon arriving there he took a boat to Detroit and thence walked to Michigan City, Ind. Here he obtained work at driving stage and for about two years subsequently, he made his headquarters in Chicago. In the spring of 1839 he returned East and upon the 20th of March in that year he married Mary A. Johnson of Groveland, Livingston Co. with whom he lived a most happy domestic life for over half a century. Soon after his marriage he moved to Conesus, where he kept the village hotel, for about six years. He then lived on a farm in Groveland for a time and from there moved to Dansville, Livingston Co. where he kept the Western Hotel for several years. In 1850 he moved to Hornellsville, Steuben Co., N. Y., and began work on the Buffalo and New York City R. R., now the N. Y. L. E. & W. Ry. He was employed first as baggage master and then as passenger conductor for a period of seven years on a run between Buffalo and Hornellsville. He then resigned to take a position with Mr. Geo. B. Gates, who was proprietor of the first sleeping car line—the first sleeping car having been put in use about 1858—and he served in this capacity for Mr. Gates during a period of ten years running on the N. Y. Central, the Buffalo and Erie and the Cleveland & Ashtabula railroads, the two latter now forming a part of the Lake Shore system. Mr. Bresie enjoyed the distinction of being the first regularly appointed sleeping car conductor. He was in several wrecks but always escaped unhurt. At the expiration of his ten years' service here he took charge of a sleeping car line between that city and Chicago. He then moved to Glenville, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland, where he dealt largely in real estate. While a resident of Glenville he became a pioneer in the operation of street railways. He obtained the right of way and the original charter of the St. Clair St. R. R. Co., a street car line running from the heart of Cleveland to Glenville. To encourage the enterprise the owners and citizens along the route donated the use of the line without rent, and he managed it very successfully for ten years. His property in Glenville increased very much in value and gave him a handsome competency.

In 1874 he moved his family to Tecumseh and took up his abode on forty acres of land just north of the village, which has made a model home for him during his declining years. His house was a historical landmark, being in an early day the homestead of Gen J. W. Brown, one of the founders of Tecumseh. Within its hospitable walls he celebrated his golden wedding on the 20th of March 1880, and here he passed the remainder of his earthly pilgrimage. For nearly twenty years he was a resident of this village. He served as township supervisor, as village councilman, and as janitor of the cemetery, in all of which positions he displayed the same business tact and ability which made his early life such a marked success. Four children blessed his married life: Wm. R. Bresie, of Decatur, Ill., Mrs. Elizabeth Crowell, of Cleveland, Mrs. Sarah Betts, of Edmore, and Amanda, who died at the age of three years. The three surviving children and the widow have the sympathy of the entire community in their affliction.

Although he had always enjoyed rugged physical health, still his whitened locks betokened that he was surely approaching that goal to which all mortals tend. Early in April he went to Cleveland to visit his daughter, Mrs. Crowell, and while there was taken seriously ill. He recovered sufficiently to return home, but was taken worse upon his arrival and on Sunday evening, April 23d, he surrendered to the messenger, who summoned him to the other shore. The funeral obsequies were held at the family residence on Wednesday afternoon, April 26th, and were attended by a large concourse of friends, who assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. The Baptist choir sang two beautiful selections, Rev. H. A. Smith spoke words of comfort to the mourners and his earthly remains were then consigned to the tomb in the same burial grounds, which had received the impress for so many months of his own supervising care. We shall all miss his genial salutation and hearty greeting, his family will miss his fatherly care and kindness, the community will miss an honored citizen, and his church will miss a generous hearted Christian. He has fought the good fight, he has finished his course, he has gone to that "sinless, stirless rest, that change which never changes."

The Tecumseh Celery Company is complaining that the C. J. & M. and Wabash roads have treated it unfairly in the matter of rates. E. J. Hollister will appear to prosecute. The Wabash has filed no answer to the charges. The Celery people are claiming extortionate rates.

The Presbyterian Society held a business meeting on Tuesday evening to take action on Rev. W. H. Babbitt's resignation. The meeting was a very affecting one, as the members were loath to relinquish him. But the condition of his health is such that a rest for a season is imperative and hence the society reluctantly accepted his resignation. The regrets of his own parishioners will be shared by many outsiders who regard Mr. Babbitt as a Christian gentleman and an able minister of the gospel.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and leads to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

FAIL TO DO THEIR DUTY.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty toward themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from weak headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbeck, of Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from Nervous Prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Nervine caused sound sleep every night and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks use of Nervine for headache, nervous prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists. Trial bottle free.

I used Ely's Cream Balm for dry catarrh. It proved a cure.—B. F. Weeks, Denver.

Few people realize that the nervous system has more to do with health of the body than has stomach, liver and the organs of the body which are so often doctored. They forget that the nerves reach and control all parts of the body. Hence many cases are misunderstood and wrongly treated. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is a nerve remedy, a recent discovery by an eminent specialist, which acts directly and quickly on the nervous system to cure every nerve disorder. Is backed with a guarantee of $500 for an incurable case. $1.00 bottles or trial samples free at Jno Ort's.

first three, those nations have no navies at all, or none to speak of, and the defense ships of China and Japan are never permitted to leave their own shores. Moreover, China and Japan do not specially desire to have their war ships inspected by other nations.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

The Importance of the Affair Greatly Diminished by the Early Date.

Had congress fixed a seasonable time of year for the review its importance would have been greatly increased. Twice the number of foreign ships might have been in attendance. In a "function" of this kind each of the leading maritime nations is largely influenced by the display that other navies make. For instance, Great Britain would have sent whatever ships were necessary to outshine the fleet of any other power. Similarly France and Russia certainly and Germany and Italy probably would have sent some of their most powerful ships if each knew that the other would be so represented.

Owing to the delay in getting the necessary appropriation from congress our government was unable to push preparations until the last moment, and as foreign nations could not be expected to take action any earlier than ourselves, no arrangements were definitely made until very recently.

Russia Set the Pace.

Now, in this matter a great deal depended on Russia. The sympathy of that nation for us in 1861-65 has been well remembered here, and whenever the warships of either nation have appeared in the waters of the other the occasion has been one of hearty welcome. If, therefore, Russia decided to send to our Columbian review a strong squadron of powerful ships Great Britain would be forced to outdo her; but if Russia sent only a meagre display of force Britannia could afford to rule the waves with a very much weaker detachment.

Russia's choice for the parade was one that showed a continuance of her warm regard for this country. Seven of her most powerful ships were detailed for duty in our waters and if they could have arrived here in time for the review Great Britain's big battle ships would have been found leading the foreign end of the parade. But alas! our worthy legislators made no change in the date assigned to the review in their bill, and in April it had to be held. Consequently the Russian armorclads, blocked in the Baltic by ice, could not be got away in time to take part in the review, and the Russian squadron that could be present was limited to a few light cruisers.

A Limited Representation.

That limitation set the keynote for all the other powers. England sent only one first-class ship—the Blake—and a few indifferently good cruisers; France only one more vessel than she sent to the naval parade last October; Germany a couple of modern cruisers and Italy one or two more than she had last fall.

But if Russia could have sent her seven stately battle ships, Great Britain could not have sent less than ten, the tricolor of France would have been seen on seven or eight, Germany would have had to keep step with her Gallic foe, and even Italy would have been forced to send something better than the Bausan and the Dogali.

AMERICAN NAVAL OFFICERS.

Rear Admirals Gherardi, Walker, Harmony and Benham.

Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, commanding the fleet, was made a lieutenant-commander in 1862; in 1863-1864 he successively commanded the gunboat Chocorua and the steamer Port Royal and in the latter vessel took part in the battle of Mobile Bay, where he distinguished himself. He was promoted to a captaincy in 1874, was made commander in 1884, and became rear-admiral in 1887. In 1886 he succeeded Admiral Ralph Chandler as commandant at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and in February, 1889, was appointed to the command of the North American station.

Acting Rear-Admiral John Grimes Walker, whose flagship is the Chicago, saw service on the Atlantic coast blockade in 1861, in the steamer Connecticut; was transferred to the Winona in 1862, and participated in the blockade and capture of New Orleans, and in the subsequent operations against Vicksburg. He had command of the Baron de Kalb in 1862-1863, and after the fall of Vicksburg was in charge of the naval operations on the Yazoo river. He was made captain in 1877; was appointed chief of the Bureau of Navigation in 1881, and was promoted to the rank of commander in 1889. He was appointed to the command of the South American station in 1890.

Rear-Admiral David B. Harmony, whose flagship is the Philadelphia, served with distinction in the civil war. He took part in the capture of Mobile and its defenses, and commanded eight vessels in an expedition to Montgomery, Ala., in 1865. He became a captain in 1875, commodore in 1885, and rear-admiral in 1889. He was appointed chief of the Bureau of Docks and Yards in 1885, and assumed command of the Asiatic squadron in 1891.

Rear-Admiral A. E. K. Benham is the fourth ranking officer of the United States navy, and was appointed to the service in 1847 from the state of New York. His earliest services were in the East Indies and in the home squadron. In 1855 he was promoted lieutenant, and in 1860-61 was attached to the Crusader, of the home squadron. He took part in the battle of Port Royal, was attached to vessels performing blockading and cruising duties, and in 1862 received his promotion to lieutenant-commander. He served with the famous West Gulf blockading squadson, sharing its fortunes and participating in all its excellent work, and after the close of the war was detailed to the Susquehanna. In 1867 he was promoted to commander, and after duty at the navy yard, New York, and as lighthouse inspector, was ordered to the command of the monitor Canonicus, and subsequently of the monitor Saugus. After being promoted to captain in 1875 he commanded the Richmond on the Asiatic station, and when his cruise was done returned home, and was assigned to duty at the Portsmouth navy yard, and later to the command of the lighthouse district, New York, the most important assignment in that line. In 1885 he was made a commodore, and commanded the navy yard at Mare Island, and upon his promotion to the rank of rear-admiral was ordered to the command of the South American station.

THE NEW SANTA MARIA.

Almost an Exact Counterpart of the Original Caravel.

The new Santa Maria, counterpart of the caravel in which Columbus sailed, is 22.60 metres (74 feet 2 inches) long, and has 7.80 metres (25 feet 7 inches) breadth of beam. Her depth at the centre or main deck is 4.10 metres (13 feet 5 inches), which the high upper works increase to 4.90 metres (16 feet) at the bow, and 8.20 metres (96 feet 10 inches) at the stern. These measurements are believed to be those of the original caravel. It will be seen that the hull is short, narrow, and very high as compared with modern ships. The curves are also different from those of any ship built at the present time.

Two small anchors, relics of the time of Columbus, which have been preserved in the navy yard of Carraca are on board the caravel. Although they are in very good condition in spite of their four centuries of exposure, they are more for ornament than use.

The officers' quarters are in the upper part of the ship at the stern. The furniture of the commander's cabin is like that of the ancient ship, which was fully described by Columbus. It consists of a bed with the famous red curtains which were such a source of delight to the Indian chief Guacanagari, a wardrobe with drawers for maps and books, one armchair, two small chairs, and a little table at which two persons can dine.

THE DUKE OF VERAGUA.

Sketch of the Distinguished Descendant of Chistopher Columbus.

The Duke de Veragua, who, with other distinguished foreigners, came to this country to see the naval review and attend the World's fair, is the thirteenth in descent from Christopher Columbus, and for this reason alone is a notable man. But he is not one of those indolent beings who are content with ancestral honors. On the contrary, he is noted for his vigorous personality and for the originality of his views on those subjects to which he has given a lifetime of thought—namely, cattle breeding and agricultural improvements. Moreover, he is a statesman of no mean calibre and his opinion carries considerable weight in the liberal councils of Spain.

Though comparatively wealthy, the duke is by no means as rich as some of the older families of Spain. His income, much of which is derived from his extensive and well managed estate, is estimated at $50,000 a year, and this is small when compared with the incomes of a few very old families, whose ancestors were potentates when Christopher Columbus was unknown. The duke, however, is one of the greatest grandees in Spain, and the prestige which necessarily attaches to his descent from Columbus is very great.

SCARED INTO IT.

The Ingham County Savings Bank, at Lansing, Closes Its Doors.

Confidence of the Directors Shaken Because of Troubles a Week or So Ago —They Brace Up and Declare That They Will Resume.

SUSPENDED BUSINESS.

LANSING, April 28.—The Ingham County savings bank has closed its doors. This is the bank on which the run began April 19. At that time Bank Commissioner Sherwood made a speech which calmed the excitement for the time. The closing of the bank was due to its inability to realize on securities, and to the severe shock given the confidence of the directors by last week's trouble. The directors met on Wednesday night and decided that it would be best to close the bank for a time. They attribute the bank's difficulties to the unsatisfactory condition of the money market as much as to the Barnes failure.

The directors declare that the bank is entirely solvent and there is ample evidence that this is so. None of the other banks have experienced any difficulties or unusual experiences of any kind during the day. The Ingham county bank had, according to its last report, made December 9, last, a capital of $50,000, surplus of the same amount, and $50,000 in undivided profits. Its deposits Wednesday night approximated $26,000.

Notwithstanding the bank's action there was no excitement in local banking circles. The citizens have confidence in the solvency of all the financial institutions of the city. The directors of the Ingham county bank realize that their decision not to open for business Thursday was entirely unwarranted, and are perfecting arrangements which will enable the bank to resume business not later than Thursday of next week. The bank has not rediscounted a dollar's worth of its paper, and with $250,000 worth of gilt-edged securities will probably experience no difficulty in securing the necessary currency.

Commissioner of Banking Sherwood has completed his examination of the Central Michigan savings bank, which closed its doors last week, and his statement shows the assets are sufficient to pay depositors in full, even though the Barnes paper should be wholly worthless, a contingency in no wise probable.

AT LANSING.

A Synopsis of the Business Transacted by the Legislature.

LANSING, April 21.—Gov. Rich sent to the senate a communication from the governor of Minnesota requesting the appointment of a commission of ten to cooperate with a like commission from each of the states to meet in convention and organize an interstate conference to consider the attitude and effect of the coal trust. It was referred to the committee on federal relations.

The house committee of the whole agreed to a bill setting apart the use of West Manistique lakes, in the upper peninsula, for the purpose of experimenting upon the feasibility of the propagation of whitefish in the inland lakes. The senate committee of the whole agreed to a bill reenacting the old law providing for the election of presidential electors, which was in force when the Miner electoral law was enacted.

LANSING, April 25.—The world's fair bill appropriating $25,000 additional for the Michigan exhibit at the Columbian exposition passed the senate in the afternoon after it had been twice defeated there. The bill, as it passed the house, provided for the appropriation of $50,000. The house concurred in the senate amendment, however, so the bill as amended has gone to the governor.

Representative hall was given up to the opponents of the church taxation bill. Arguments against the passage of the bill were made by a number of ministers representing all denominations. John McAdam, of Detroit, spoke in favor of the bill.

A truce has been patched up between the warring political factions in the house, and today the Barkworth protest, which the democrats unsuccessfully sought to have the supreme court order spread on the journal, was received and will appear on the printed record.

LANSING, April 26.—After passing the World's fair appropriation bill of $25,000 yesterday both houses of the legislature endeavored to recall the measure for the purpose of making some amendments, with the apparent desire on the part of some of the members to kill the appropriation. The attempts of both houses failed, however, and the governor lost no time in affixing his signature to the bill, thereby gilding it beyond recall. The senate passed the bill making Saturday afternoon a half-holiday.

The house passed the bill which permits Detroit to expend $200,000 for a contagious disease hospital, and makes the mayor, controller and members of the board of health the hospital commissioners. The money is to be borrowed and bonds issued therefor. There was a further hearing on the bill for the taxation of churches by the judiciary committee of the house.

LANSING, April 27.—After an animated discussion the senate passed the bill for the incorporation of lodges of Orangemen, amending it by providing that none but citizens of the United States shall be admitted as members of such institutions, and the purpose thereof shall not be repugnant to the constitution of this state nor the United States.

The house passed a bill appropriating $2,000 for the expenses of a commission to locate the position of Michigan troops on the battlefields of Chickamauga, Chattanooga and Mission Ridge, also a bill requiring the closing of barber shops on Sunday.

LANSING, April 28.—There is a probability that murderers will be hanged in Michigan. The house judiciary committee Friday made a favorable report on Representative Kline's bill to punish by hanging those convicted of murder in the first degree. There is a proviso that no sentence of death shall be imposed where the conviction is had wholly upon circumstantial evidence. In no case, however, shall the punishment for murder be less than confinement at hard labor for life. The house killed the bills making eight hours a legal day's work and providing a bounty for the killing of wolves. The general game law was passed by the senate. Both houses adjourned until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Gov. Rich and staff left Friday morning for Chicago and the world's fair by way of the Grand Trunk railroad, and the legislative party, numbering 250 persons, left over the Michigan Central at 7 o'clock Friday night.

New Tax Act Unconstitutional.

LANSING, April 28.—The supreme court in a decision has set aside as unconstitutional the act amending the general tax law of 1891, providing that the value of real estate mortgages of banks and insurance companies shall not be deducted from the net assets of said companies for assessment purposes.

Death of Col. Standish.

GRAND RAPIDS, April 29.—Col. John H. Standish, formerly district attorney of the western district of Michigan, died at his home in Newaygo Friday. Col. Standish was once prominent in business circles in Chicago and Oakland, Cal., and had a fine military record.

Fell Eighty Feet.

ISHPEMING, April 27.—Richard Vancoe fell 80 feet down a shaft of the Lake Superior mine, striking James Sowden on the head. Vancoe was killed and Sowden dangerously hurt.

CARTER'S

CURE
Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK
Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD
Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

It does the work. Mr. Chas. Gocha, of Gaylord, Mich., says: "I am asked 'did Brant's Balsam do you any good? Well, I should say it did! La grippe left me with a serious cough and lung trouble, for which I took about all the cough remedies I had ever heard of, without benefit. Mr. Russell, our druggist, suggested Brant's Balsam. As it was a large bottle for 25c. I took one. It helped me; I used six bottles and was cured completely. (Cost $1.50.) Can heartily recommend it; it's a great medicine." 25 and 50c bottles at Orr's drug store.

Commissioners.

TO HORSEMEN AND BREEDERS.

Nutpatch, Standard, Rule 6. Reg. Vol. VII. Bay Stallion, 16 hands; foaled 1884. Bred by Glenview Farm, Louisville, Ky. Nutpatch is large, handsome and very fast; can trot in 2:25 without much work. He is one of the best bred sons of his illustrious sire, and a great stock horse. He is a sure foal getter, and his colts are large, strong and very handsome, and show splendidly at the trot.

Nutpatch was sired by the greatest sire that lives or ever has lived, age considered, Nutwood, 2:18 3-4. The sire of 104 in 2:30 or better, 22 of which have records from 2:20 to 2:09 3-4 in 1891. He had 19 sons and 18 daughters that had produced trotters in 1892. 33 of his sons and 25 of his daughters produced fast ones, while he got 26 with records from 2:30 to 2:15 1-4. This is the best showing ever made by any sire, living or dead, to date. His sons and daughters produce early and extreme speed. His daughter, Manette is dam of Arion, 2-year old record 2:10 3-4, as a 3-year old 2:10 1-2; the fastest colt ever foaled, and sold for $125,000 cash. He made the season of 1892 for $2,500. Only one Stallion in the world produced at 4 years old a yearling colt that got a record below 2:30, and that is Woodline by Nutwood.

Nutwood by Belmont, he by Alexander's Abdallah, he by Hambletonian 10; here are four great stallions because they all had great dams. Miss Russell is dam of Nutwood 2:18 3-4, Maud S. 2:08 3-4, Rustique 2:21, Cora Belmont 2:24 1-2, Russia 2:28, and six sons that have produced extreme speed, also 4 daughters that produced speed. Lord Russell out of Nutwood's dam got Kremlin, 2:07 3-4, the acknowledged race horse stallion of the world.

Nutpatch's first dam, Patchen Maid, is the dam of Astral, 2:18, and Marshal Kleber, sire of Mistake 2:29 3-4, etc.; she by Mambrino Patchen 58, brother to Lady Thorn 2:18¼, and sire of London, 2:20 1-2 and 23 others. Dams of Crawford (p) 2:09 3-4, Riley Medium (p) 2:10 1-2, Constantine 2:12 1-2, and 80 other standard performers; also grandsire of Nightengale 2:10 1-2, Walter E., 2:11 3-4, etc.; second dam Lady Eleanor, by Mambrino Chief 11, sire of Lady Thorn 2:18 1-4, 5 others, and dams of Director 2:17, Piedmont 2:17 1-4, Iona 2:17 1-2, and 21 other standard performers. Also sire of dams of 62 speed producing sires, including Red Wilkes, Almont, Belmont, etc.

TERMS—The terms have been placed at the very low figure of $25.00 for the season.

JEHIEL DAVIDSON,
Commissioners.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the 1st day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

Present Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of William Bresie, deceased

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of William R. Bresie, a son of said deceased, praying for the probate of an instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased and that administration of said estate may be granted to Mary A. Bresie, the executrix named in said instrument or to some other suitable person.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 29th day of May, 1893, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.)
A. E. BARAGAR, Probate Register.

Sheriff's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a writ of fieri facl issued out of the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee, in favor of Chas. E. Williamson, Plaintiff, and against the goods and chattels and real estate of Frank Montgomery, in said County, to me directed and delivered, I did, on the 4th day of May, A. D. 1893, levy upon and take all the right, title and interest of the said Frank Montgomery in and to the following described real estate, that is to say: All that certain parcel of land described as situate in the township of Ridgeway, Lenawee County, Michigan, and being the East Half of the North-West Quarter of Section Seven, of Town Six South, of Range Five East, and containing sixty acres of land more or less. Such interest being a life estate, subject to claim of Emma Lowe, under the last will and testament of Augustus Montgomery, deceased. All of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the front door of the Court House in the City of Adrian, in said County, on the 17th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated this 29th day of April, A. D. 1893.

Deering to the Front

TO THE FARMERS OF LENAWEE COUNTY.

For the season of 1893 I wish to bring to your notice the great advantage you can derive during your harvest of hay and grain by the use of the latest improved and best harvesting machine in the world—made by Wm. Deering, of Chicago.

Here are a few reasons why you should buy a Deering:

1st—It has a jointed platform which when folded will allow the machine to pass through the same space as an ordinary buggy.

2nd—In ease of handling and lightness of draft it stands at the head.

3d—It never fails to tie, never chokes nor clogs, and uses less twine than any other competing machine.

4th—It needs no expert to understand its construction. It requires no bothersome tinkering.

5th—All running journals are mounted in brass boxes, insuring easy running and long wearing qualities.

6th—The levers are so easily adjusted that any boy can run the machine who can drive a team.

7th—No weight on the horse's necks, as the machine is rear geared.

8th—Best material only is used in the construction of the Deering which is guaranteed by one of the oldest and best known firms existing.

Furthermore this company make their own twine and are not in the combine. Much more may be learned by calling at my warehouse and looking at the machines always on hand. Can prove their merits.

Yours truly,

C. L. Albaugh.

We have never had such a fine array of harvest machines to show farmers as this season. Every one shows inventive skill, strength and symmetry derived from the touch of

WALTER A. WOOD.

The Wood machines, as made for 1892, are winning crowds of new friends. Examine the new chain-drive, and balance-reel, on the Wood harvester. Examine the new spring lift and the new axle extension on the Wood mowers. Examine the Wood hand-dump rakes, virtually self-dumping.

I am again in the field with a full line of the celebrated WALTER A. WOOD Machinery for 1893. See the list.

I ALSO SELL THIS SEASON THE CELEBRATED MINNEAPOLIS BINDER,

This Binder, as it stands to-day, has more friends than any other three canvass binder made.

The "Minnie," with the only 40 inch drive-wheel, stands out alone against the craze for pretty machines, which has tempted makers to reduce their wheel four and even six inches in diameter, and reduce the other proportions of their binders all the way through. The farmers say to us: "The big Minnie wheel don't slip, drives strong, and runs well on all ground." We make it as firm as an oisland. We shape the rim to shed sand instead of spooning it up and pouring it on gears and hub when the wind blows or the machine tips. This powerful wheel runs the machine through thick and thin—particularly thick. No other compares with it for the big hustling West. While you cheerily sail your "Minnie" through perhaps a storm-tossed crop, and not a wave of trouble rolls across your peacful breast, look at your neighbor foundering with his 34-inch-wheel pleasure binder, and don't gloat, but silently bless the "Minnie" that there is nothing small about her but noise.

The soldiers monument association of this place, wish, through the Herald to extend their thanks to Robert H. Hendershot the true Drummer Boy for aid given toward the soldier's monument. Some time last November the association induced the Major to come and give them one of his drum concerts, giving him half the proceeds, the other half to go into the monument fund. The result was about $20 to start out with for a monument, and then subscription was in order, the Drummer boy heading the list by subscribing $25. Sceptic's said he would never pay it, but Mr. Hendershot has redeemed his pledge. The association received a check on the First National Bank of Chicago for the full amount of his subscription and the association have the money now in hand and arrangements are being made to place the monument in the cemetery Decoration day. The association will ever hold Major Hendershot in high esteem.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Village of Tecumseh, Mich.,
Council Room, May 2, 1892.

Regular session. Present. President Bills; Trustees, Bresie, Conkling, Shull, Wright, Smith, Bidwell and the Recorder.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The committee appointed to call a citizens meeting for the purpose of securing aid for the Russian famine sufferers reported that such meeting had been called and that a subscription paper was being circulated. On motion the report was accepted and commitee discharged.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

The Street Commissioner reported that from April 4 to May 2 there had been 18 1-2 days team labor on the streets, that there had been hand labor to the amount of $103.38 and hired team labor to the amount of $92.76; that there had been $36.00 poll tax collected.

The Marshall reported that licences had been granted to the amount of $6 and presented treasurers receipt thereof.

Also that parties had been depositing coal ashes in Maiden Lane Street contrary to the ordinance; also that the sidewalks about the village were getting out of repair.

The sexton reported three interments and one lot sold and also presented treasures receipts for $10. for interments and $16. for sale of lots.

On motion the several reports were accepted and ordered placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

The following bills were presented and refered to Finance committee. Tecumseh Electric Co., $155.00; T. R. Kyle, services as Marshall $7.15; H. Nyland, Lumber, $165.58; Temple Mfg. Co., Lumber, $6.00; Chas. H. Carpenter, supplies and work on well $123.42; Geo. Mize, team labor, $19.38; Lorenzo Young, team labor, $19.50; Oscar Packard 8 day's labor $10.00; Jno. McWilliams 4 1-2 day's labor $5.63; Jno. Alexander 4 day's labor $5.00 E. Ames, 5 day's labor $5.00.

Chas. Moody, one day's labor 1.25; Albert Hyde, 10 1-2 day's labor 21.00.

The drug bonds of Baker and Hall J. J. Orr and the saloon bonds of Keyser and Kennedy were offered and accepted. On recomendation of chief of Fire Department, not to exceed $5.00 was appointed to send a delegation to the state firemens convention.

On motion the Council proceed to appoint a member of the board of water commissioners to take the place of Geo. Heesen who declined to serve.

S. P. Hosmer having received all the votes was declared elected to fill the vacancy.

On motion, the council proceded to the appointment of a board of review for the ensuing year. Geo. Heesen and Geo. Frazier having received all the votes cast were declared elected. The Marshall's bond of T. R. Kyle was offered and approved. The finance committee having reported favorably on all the above bills, on motion orders were directed to be drawn on the Treasurer for the several amounts.

The Council then adjourned.

WALTER C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Earl Allen has not been so well this week.

A letter from Mrs. J. D. Davis states that Gertie is suffering from nervous prostration; it also says that James Eddy is helping with the farm work. Mr. Davis has been very sick but is now better.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The ladies of the Evart W. C. T. U. have by their petition to the village council secured passage of an ordinance restraining the boys and girls from being on the streets after 8 o'clock p. m. The ordinance also provides that a bell shall be rung, and that no child under sixteen shall be allowed on the streets unaccompanied by a guardian between the hours of nine p. m. and five a. m.

Milwaukee in her anxiety to attract visitors during the World's Fair has secured a proposition from one of her citizens to the effect that the seven big breweries of that city erect a mammoth beer mug on the city hall square and keep free beer on tap for all visitors.

In his book, "The People I've Smiled With," Marshall P. Wilder says: "Some of my most successful work has been in the line of after dinner speeches and I have been asked how I could go through ten or twelve courses of food, and six or eight different kinds of wine, and then have any head on my shoulders. The answer is very easy—I don't. I never drink wine or any other kind of liquor . . . I don't want to give away any other business secrets, but I venture to say that the best after dinner speakers in the United States are the most moderate diners. If you will cast your eye at the table in front of some man at a big dinner who gets up and makes a capital speech, you will probably see one of two things—either that all his glasses are turned upside down or that they are entirely full. In other words, he has been drinking little or nothing."

If the vast army of saloon-keepers in this land decide that barmaids will draw better than bartenders of their sex, those barmaids they will have—and if twenty or thirty millions of Great Britain and Ireland require 70,000 barmaids, as the Chicago Tribune states, the sixty millions of our land will require twice seventy thousand—and then we shall have in ten years another great army of brazen, besotted women to swell the ranks already rushing on to death. We wonder if the Mrs Lynn Lintons who are so horrified at the "wild women" that are consecrating time, money, talent, everything to the service of their kind, can spare one thought to this army of women, wild, not with philanthropy, but with drink? The drinking of the women in Great Britain is the dispair of temperance philanthropists there; it will soon become the dispair of American philanthropists, if the barmaid is allowed to secure a footing here.

WHY POETS RAVE

Over "Spring, gentle spring," is hard to understand by many thousands to whom spring is more a time of trial and suffering than of brightness and rejoicing. Still we believe the poet's idea is the correct one and should be the universal rule instead of the exception. It is largely a matter of health and this can be regulated if proper means are taken. Spring is a trying season for most people and the "breaking-up" which nature goes through means something to them. A good spring medicine is an essential at this time. It tones up the system, raises the spirits and in many cases saves weeks and perhaps months of serious sickness. Just such a medicine is found in Parmelee's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potassa Compound. It is a thorough exterminator of all Blood Poisons and is the best remedy in existence for all complaints arising from an impure condition of blood. Why pay $1.00 for a bottle containing only 12 ounces when you can get this for 50 cents in bottles holding full 8 ounces? Be sure and get Parmelee's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all dealers.

$150 Cabbages.

The Hillsdale (Michigan) Fair will give this year for the three largest and best cabbages on exhibition there $100.00 and $50.00 to second. These we believe are the largest vegetable prizes ever offered in America. This fair also offers $40.00 to the best five apples for market and $20.00 for second, and the rules require only five apples of each variety to be shown. Like premiums are also offered for the best five varieties of apples for dessert and also the best five varieties for cooking.

The above and other premiums offered by this popular society are open to the world for competition. Entries will close Sept. 27th. Fair Oct. 3 4 5 6 and 7 1892.

THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED AND "THE BIG 5."

TWO GRAND TRAINS DAILY BETWEEN THE WORLD'S FAIR CITY AND THE FOOTHILLS.

One Night Out, or One Day Out. Take Your Choice. Business Demands it, and the People Must Have it.

The popularity of "The Great Rock Island Route" as a Colorado line—it having long time since taken first place as the people's favorite between the Lakes and the Mountains—has compelled the management to increase its present splendid service by the addition of a train that is one night on the road from Chicago to Denver, Colorado Springs or Pueblo. This train will be known as the "Rocky Mountain Limited," and will be put in service May first. Leaves Chicago daily at 10:45 a. m., arriving at above cities in the afternoon of the next day, earlier than any of its competitors. Especial equipment has been built for this train, with the view of making it a LIMITED in every sense of the word, and best of all, there will be no extra charge. The route of this exceedingly fast train is by the Rock Island Short Line, and a few of the large cities through which it passes, are Davenport, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Lincoln, Beatrice, Fairbury, Belleville, Phillipsburg, Smith Center, Colby and Goodland. This makes it a most desirable route, and particularly interesting to the traveler. Another point: The popularity of our dining-car service is still on the increase, and no money spared to make this service what our patrons always, say, "the best."

"Our Big 5" will continue as usual, leaving Chicago at 10 p. m. and arriving at Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the second morning, being but one day out, and this fast and popular train goes through Omaha.

Our No. 11 will leave as heretofore at 6 p. m., arrive at Kansas city at 9:00 a. m., and will reach Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the second morning

Our Colorado service is made perfect by this new "ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED and the "BIG 5." and gives to the traveling public TWO FLYERS DAILY.

Manitou passengers should consult the map and time tables of our line, to fully appreciate the advantages in time saved by taking this route, when on their summer vacation.

JOHN SEBASTIAN,
G. T. & P. A., Chicago.

BEST OF ALL

To cleanse the system in a gentle and truly beneficial manner, when the springtime comes, use the true and perfect remedy, Syrup of Figs. One bottle will answer for all the family and costs only 50 cents; the large size $1. Try it and be pleased. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

Catarrh is not a local but a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 12, 1892.

The House keeps on with its good work of punching holes in the tariff. A bill putting binding twine on the free list was passed last week by a decisive majority.

Iowa is booming Gov. Boies lively. Her State convention will probably instruct for Boies positively. And such action will mean a big straw for Cleveland or a Western man.

The Democratic State Convention last week was the grandest convention ever held by the Michigan Democracy. It spoke with no uncertain sound upon the great issue now before the people, that of tariff reform, and it sent a solid Cleveland delegation to Chicago.

As the campaign proceeds for the election of delegates to the Chicago Convention, the Cleveland tidal wave keeps rising. Unless there should be a remarkable revolution in political sentiment during the next six weeks, Grover will head the ticket, with a western man for second place.

Senator Hill is no longer a presidential possibility. In fact it is doubtful whether his own snap delegation will present his name at Chicago. The practical question now is this: Whether the Hill machine is powerful enough to prevent Cleveland's nomination. The convention alone can determine that fact.

Puck's double-page cartoon of May 11th shows "the Cleveland" Tally-ho starting for Chicago, loaded down with members of the "Favorite Son's Coaching Club." Hill turns his back upon the outfit, and stands disconsolately upon the steps of the "Snap Convention Hotel." Puck advises him to "stop sulking and join the excursion."

The Toledo Blade does not see how the free wool bill could raise the price of wool and warns the farmers that the bill threatens their industry. It might not raise the price absolutely, but his wool clip would be worth more relatively to trade for articles into which wool is made. Again, the experience of the last fifty years has shown that the higher the tariff on domestic wool, the lower the price in dollar and cents.

It seems paradoxical to some people that so many strong free silver Democrats in the west favor Cleveland, in spite of his currency views. There are two reasons for this. They believe the tariff is the paramount issue and on this issue he is the strongest candidate. They respect his courage and honesty, and it is the possession of these qualities that gives him such a hold upon the rank and file of the party.

Suggestions regarding "logical candidates" have filled the soul of Czar Reed with longings to rattle around in the white house. Mr. Reed believes that because the state of Maine has furnished one candidate for his party the lightning may strike again among the pine woods. If republicans would like to repeat the contest which resulted so distressingly for them in 1890 they might name as a ticket "Reed and McKinley." This would mean force bills and high taxes. Reed would stand for the principle of doing "our own counting," and McKinley for that other idea of doing our own taxgathering.—Chicago Times.

The following from the N. Y. Evening Post is strictly true and the same statement could be made with equal truth of every debatable state in the north:

Senator Palmer is quoted as saying, since the adjournment of the Illinois Democratic Convention, that Mr. Cleveland can carry that State if nominated by the Chicago Convention, and that he (Palmer) desires his nomination. We think that Gen. Palmer's vision is unclouded. We think that Mr. Cleveland can carry Illinois, and that he is the only Democrat who can do so. Gen. Palmer is, no doubt, the most popular man in his party there, but he is not able to draw votes from the Republicans and from those upon whom party ties are relaxed and relaxing, as Mr. Cleveland can. What is true as to Illinois is true as to Wisconsin and Iowa also. Mr. Cleveland is stronger in those three States by far than their respective favorite sons, whoever these may be, and he will unquestionably receive the votes of those States at Chicago on the first ballot.

LUXURIES LOOTED.

The Constitution Ignored by Conscienceless Officials.

Thousands of Dollars Spent In Defiance of Law and Against Express Prohibition.

A Record of Republican Extravagance and Misfeasance Run Riot—Public Office Made a Private Snap.

Michigan is now favored with a democratic administration in every department as the result of a determination on the part of the people to correct abuses that had sprung up and flourished like Jonah's gourd, under thirty-four years of republican rule. It will be remembered that one who was charged and intrusted with the reformation of one department, forgetting the pledges of his party, and that well settled article of democratic faith that "a public office is a public trust," repeated rather than reformed the abuses of his predecessors. But he was at once invited by our sturdy Jeffersonian governor to step down and out, that the affairs of his office might be properly administered.

It will also be remembered that the republican press throughout the state with one accord fell upon ex-Secretary of State Daniel E. Soper, even as buzzards fall upon some new found carrion. They gloated over his shortcomings, even to the minutest details, and this with a pharisaical assumption of holiness unknown even among the hills of ancient Judea.

Our republican friends should remember that those who live in glass houses should not throw stones, for even while they were so hilarious, the files and records of the various offices were being looked over, and was being duly revealed that was as mountains to molehills when compared with the shortcomings of Mr. Soper.

But the guilty republicans were permitted to serve out their terms, and were even elected to second terms. The following statement of facts will show how pleasant and remunerative it was to be "in it" during the halcyon days of republicanism, when "anybody could carry Michigan."

They refer to the nomadic nature of several old republican state officers and reveal their migratory tendencies and globe-trotting proclivities, indulged at an expense to the people of ten cents a mile each way and allowed by the board of state auditors as the reports of those years verily show. Facts are stubborn things, and those are compiled from the official records of republican administrations; and while, they are incomplete, they will give the taxpayers a glimpse at a part of the infamous extravagance of a party which was too long trusted with the affairs of government in this state.

The constitution of Michigan, besides fixing the salaries of state officers, provides that they or fees whatever for the performance of any duties connected with their office. The statutes provide that state officials may be allowed by the board of state auditors only actual and necessary traveling and personal expenses while employed away from their office in the actual service of the state.

Now, as to the observance of the constitution and the statutes.

William Jenney was secretary of state the four years beginning 1879. Mr. Jenney was something of a traveler—at the taxpayers' expense. The records show that during his two terms of office he traveled 11,479 miles at ten cents a mile and 220 miles at twenty cents a mile, a total of 11,699 miles, for which he received $1,191.90. Mr. Jenney's "rake off" on the mileage bills helped him to $840.93, to which he was not only not entitled under any provision of law but which he was positively forbidden. His hotel and hack bills footed up $221.10 for the same period. His bill for over and extra time was $653.33 and his newspaper bill, principally for the Detroit Post and Tribune, was $90.50. Does anyone wonder that he wanted a third term? Surely a public office to him was a private snap.

W. Irving Latimer was auditor general for the same period of time. And he, too, apparently enjoyed traveling. His bill foots up the modest distance of 22,215 miles, for which he charged the state ten cents a mile, making a total for mileage of $2,221.50, a clear overcharge of $1,555.05. His bill for extra time was $279.66 and for the partisan newspapers with which he passed his leisure hours, $65.60.

Benjamin D. Pritchard was state treasurer for the same four years, and, following the prevailing fashion, he did considerable romping. His bills were invariably sent in and allowed at 10 cents a mile. He traveled 13,130 miles and received for it $1,313 or $919.10 in excess of regular railroad fare. His bill for extra time and services was $44, and he at an expense of $140.60.

James M. Neasmith was state land commissioner and had the distinguished honor of being connected with these illustrious gentlemen heretofore named as composing this irreproachable set of republican state officials. But Mr. Neasmith was not up to snuff; he was not so much of a traveler. His bill was only for 6,106 miles at 10 cents a mile, a clean grab of only $427.42. His bill for extra services was $89, while the people only had to pay $48 for his personal newspapers.

Otto Kirchner and J. J. Van Riper filled the office of attorney general from 1879 to 1883, the former for the first two years and the latter the second two years. Mr. Van Riper did most of the traveling. His jaunts took him to Detroit, Chicago, New York, Niagara Falls and Washington. Mr. Kirchner traveled some, and their bills together show 13,928 miles. They charged the same uniform republican price of 10 cents a mile, which was more than three times as much as there was any warrant in law, even if they paid their fare instead of riding on a free pass. Their bills for extra services were $995, and for newspapers $90. These two officials of the G. O. P. profited at the expense of their innocent taxpaying constituents to the amount of $2,059.96.

The extra services charged here are only those for which the official himself received the extra compensation. The total amount was 67,078 miles, at 7 cents per mile above the regular railroad fare. The overcharge for mileage, granting that these officials paid their fares and never used passes, thus footed up $4,075.46. The charges for extra time were nearly all, if not all, absolutely illegal. The charges for partisan newspapers were entirely without warrant of law or decency. The overcharges mentioned amount to nearly $10,000, which was filched from the taxpayers by extortion levied by a few republican officials. Shades of Thomas Jefferson! Can such things be and no prosecutions follow?

The constitution and the statutes ignored by officials elected to enforce both, and ignored for the benefit of their propensities for travel and their anxiety to fatten their pocketbooks!

These are but instances of the luxuries looted,

High Jinks! What elegant times those republican officials had. Imagine them, when not on a junket, gathered in one of their luxuriously furnished offices, some, mayhap, reclining peacefully on a $18 sofa-bed, others lounging in $18 easy-chairs, cleaning their teeth with state toothpicks; toying with one of those elegant $4.50 jackknives or perchance fondling the office pet that cost the state $2; their heads resting softly on that $12 pillow and their dainty silk stockinged feet placed on the right elevation on that $12 foot-rest, while the $75 marble clock ticks the pleasant hours away.

Anon the scene changes, and our imagination pictures the pleasure-loving group gathered around the $15-card table, playing a social game with those No. 21 playing cards (see bill), and one hears the musical clink of the cut-glass goblets or 90-cent tumblers as the 30-cent three-gallon jug is manipulated from the elegant walnut sideboard. No need to ask further, for the 20-cent corkscrew and the five ounces of cloves show the preparations were complete. Napkins, decorated tea and sauce plates would indicate that dainty lunches were often in order on such occasions. The $25-vases, $100-elk horns and scores of rugs show well the æsthetic tastes of these state officials.

Had honest, conscientious Farmer Winans been governor those years, more official heads than one would have dropped into the basket, for, with reform, honesty and economy ever his motto our tried and true democratic governor would have issued his edict of death to official corruption and infamous disregard of the constitution and decency alike.

"Several of the leading parishioners have complained to me," said the pastor, as he wiped his glasses, "of the loudness of the dresses worn by some of the young ladies of the congregation, but I have refused to interfere in the matter, as I am so deaf that they cause me no annoyance."

For all forms of nasal catarrh where there is dryness of the air passages with what is commonly called "stuffing up," especially when going to bed, Ely's Cream Balm gives immediate relief. Its benefit to me has been priceless.—A. G. Case, M. D., Millwood, Kas.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharge was cured.—O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

"Ah!" said an enthusiastic young woman, as she listened through the telephone to a distant chorus, "this is as if one were listening to the heavenly choir." "Yes," replied her more practical companion, "but it's only the electric wire you know."

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is because it possesses true merit, and no claim is made for it which is not fully supported.

"RECIPROCITY."

How Much Hawaiian Reciprocity Cost Us—How Much It Benefitted the Farmer.

Hon. Hilary A. Herbert, chairman of the committee on naval affairs, writes on "Reciprocity and the Farmer" in the North American Review for April. Of course no rational man really believes, after he has given the matter a little consideration, that the farmer will ever obtain in the nomadic and agricultural nations, which Blaine and Harrison intend to subdue with the reciprocity club, important markets for agricultural products. These countries are in the agricultural business themselves and wish to sell, more than to buy, such products. Mr. Herbert; however, for the benefit of those who have not thought on the subject, or who will not accept any conclusion not tested and proven by experience, cites the history, and notes the effects of the only case of reciprocity indulged in by the United States. He says:

"The actual results of the Hawaiian treaty for thirteen years are before us; from 1877, when it took effect, to 1889 inclusive, carefully compiled by Mr. S. G. Brock, government statistician, in an official report June 20, 1890. The figures used in discussing this treaty are from that report. The Hawaiian treaty admitted free of duty into the ports of the United States Hawaiian sugar, rice, etc. Sugar constituted the bulk of these importations. All agricultural and most manufactured articles from the United States were admitted free into the islands."

Under stimulus of the treaty our imports from these islands increased rapidly. In 1876, the year before it took effect, such imports were $1,876,681. In 1889 they amounted to $12,847,740. Exports also increased. In 1876 our exports to these islands were $524,207. In 1889 they footed up $3,336,040. This is the bright side of the picture and it is painted in glowing colors by Mr. Claus Spreckels in the North American Review for March, 1891, where he highly extols "the wise and far-seeing policy embodied in the Hawaiian treaty." No one knew better than Mr. Spreckels the cost at which tax-payers of the United States had maintained that treaty, for much of that cost had gone into his own pockets as profits upon sugar. As to that side of the question he was industriously silent. But Mr. Brock gives us the information, page 9 of his report, thus:

"If the merchandise, admitted free under the treaty, had paid the duty levied upon the similar goods imported from other countries, the duty would have amounted to $5,452,311.97 for the fiscal year 1889, and to $43,898,978 for the thirteen years ended with that year, or since the reciprocity treaty has been in force."

This sum, $43,898,978 our consumers paid to the growers of Hawaiian sugar, rice, etc., as premiums on their products. To appreciate the exceptional fact that in this case the duty went to the foreigner, it must be borne in mind that these islands furnish only about one-tenth of our imported sugar. On the other nine-tenths we paid a tax averaging 2.06 cents per pound. The consumer of duty-paid sugar of course paid to the importer the price it had cost to bring the sugar to our ports, plus the tax, and this enabled the importers of these free sugars to add also to their article the price of the tax, although they had never paid it; this for the plain reason that the supply of free sugar not being equal to the demand, the owner of such free sugar would always withhold it from market till the market price of the tax-paid article was offered. The tables collated in Mr. Brock's report, page 37, corroborate this reasoning, and show that the people of the Pacific coast did not save a penny in the price of their sugar by reason of the treaty. Every dollar of the $45,000,000 of taxes released on Hawaiian sugar went into the pockets of the producers of that article—Mr. Claus Spreckles and others. And so it would have been if the sugar imported free of duty had amounted to nine-tenths instead of one-tenth of our total imports. This brings us to see clearly that if we impose an import tax on sugar and rely to any appreciable extent on taxed sugars to complete our supply, no exceptions in favor of particular countries, giving them free access to our markets, will avail to reduce the price of the product of these favored countries in the American market below the price of the tax-paid article.

It will be seen that we have not taken the trouble to ascertain the relatively pitiful sum of duties released to our our people by the Hawaiians. We simply put against our actual losses, in release of duties, the full values of all our exports. Balancing the account for thirteen years, and counting in those exports that would have gone to the islands without any treaty, as well as those that went because of it, the sum total of all our exports for this period is $35,870,801. Deducting this sum from $43,898,978 of duties released, we have $8,028,177, which we could have realized as clear profit by purchasing all our merchandise exported to the Hawaiian islands during the period in question.

The treaty grew worse for us year by year. Our largesses stimulated the production of Hawaiian sugar and rice, and each year we released more and more of duties, which under a sounder policy would have gone into our treasury to pay government expenses, thus enabling us to reduce taxation. Our people at large would have profited immensely if the protectionist, who once wished for a wall of fire around our country to keep out foreign trade, had been permitted in 1876 to erect and maintain his flaming structure between us and the Sandwich Islands.

The results grow worse still when looked at from the standpoint of the farmer. Farm products constitute usually three-fourths of all exports from the United States; yet of this Hawaiian market, opened up for him and paid for at such a fearful cost, the farmer has had less than one-fourth. Out of the $3,336,040 exports from the United States in 1889, breadstuffs, provisions and animals foot up only $759,653. Is the farmer to fare any better in those new Central and South American markets we hear of? South America is a vast continent, with much the same climate as ours, and it has millions of square miles of cheap and fertile lands that when brought into cultivation bid fair not only to supply its own wants, but to rival the United States in the bread and meat markets of the world.

What is to be the effect of discriminating against the nations that refuse our terms? The tea-growing countries have so far all refused. We will tax their tea, pay more for their breakfasts and nobody will be hurt except ourselves. But besides the reciprocating countries there are seventeen peoples sending us sugars, thirty-one sending us coffee and forty-one supplying us with hides. What will all these do but make arrangements in self-defense to divert their trade in other channels? Who can measure the friction, the ill-feeling, the disturbance of trade relations, and even of political amities, that are to result from this scheme? What can Nicaragua say if a proclamation is levelled at her products and not against the coffee of Peru; and what will the Argentines say if their hides are taxed while the hides of Chilli or Ecuador escape?

The political enmity now existing between France and Italy and which has caused the latter to join the dreibund between herself, Austria and Germany, has grown largely out of a reciprocity treaty. Spain and France are quarreling over a similar question.

Mr. Foster said recently in a speech in New York that no nation could make reciprocity treaties that had not a protective tariff. He ought to have said that no nation except one that has a protective tariff has need of such treaties. If he had said this he could have proven the truth of his remark by pointing to the difference between the trade of Great Britain and of the United States with the very countries we are seeking to capture. The United Kingdom buys from Latin America eighty-nine millions. She sells there one hundred and seventy millions, exporting two for one without making a threat or paying a dollar of bounty. We buy from the same countries two hundred and seven millions and sell them ninety millions—more than two to one against us—and then when we enter the field to buy and threaten our way into these markets from which we have excluded ourselves by our own laws, we boast that no nation can tax its own people to pay bounties to foreign nations except one that has such laws as we have. Certainly not.

How different all this is from that just and fair and profitable reciprocity with all the world which Jefferson had in mind when he declared for "peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none."

MORE HUGE REDUCTIONS.

How the McKinley Tariff Works in Pittsburgh.

The following letter to the New York Evening Post from its Pittsburgh correspondent shows how the McKinley tariff is working there:

"Five announcements this week, bearing directly or indirectly on the tariff question, furnish little comfort to the American workmen, especially those who labor in iron and steel. Simultaneously with the news of a "great victory" in Rhode Island, comes the warning from an organ of the manufacturers to the iron workers that wages must be reduced this year. Along with the actual reduction of wages at Andrew Carnegie's Twenty-ninth street mill in this city, I hear that W. L. Abbott, chairman of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., who commenced work at nineteen years of age in the humble position of timekeeper, is to retire at forty with a million; also that Mr. Henry Phipps has leased for the summer Knebworth, the ancestral home of Lord Lytton's family, with its 8,000 acres, in Hertfordshire, England.

"The exact condition of the iron market is a puzzle to the outsiders. The organs of the manufacturers, the Iron Age, of New York, the Iron and Steel Bulletin, of Philadelphia, and the American Manufacturer, of Pittsburgh, are placing the market in its worst light. Puddlers to-day are paid $5 a ton. The Iron Age says they must come down to $4, the lowest rate since the civil war. The Iron Age does not say so, but they evidently expect the puddlers—the hardest worked employes of the mills—to humbly acquiesce, for it claims that the great fight will be on the rates for finishing iron, and incidentally it mentioned the fact—humorous to fair-minded people—that there must be a new scale of wages for sheet rolling, in order that the great American tin plate manufacturers may have an opportunity to thrive and do business.

"The numerous blast furnace firms of the Mahoning and Chenango valleys of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, have reduced wages ten per cent., and several thousand men are concerned, but these two regions are affected by local conditions, in that they are more distant from the Conellsville coke region than Pittsburgh, and the latter city is said to be favored in freight rates.

"Fifty of the best paid workmen at the Edgar Thomson steel works of Andrew Carnegie, at Braddock, were discharged this week. They were replaced by the improved machinery of a 'direct process' for making steel from pig iron.

"The axle-hammermen of Carnegie's Twenty-ninth street mill in this city are on a strike against a reduction in wages amounting to from 7 to 9 per cent. The wages of the blacksmiths at this mill were at the same time reduced from $3.50 to $2.75 a day, and their 'helpers' from $1.80 to $1.60. Both branches are unorganized from the labor union standpoint, and the blacksmiths philosophically accepted the situation, while the axle-hammermen, who evidently had more spunk, threw down their tools and left the shop. They will be gratified to know that one of their employer's partners, Mr. Phipps, has invited Mr. Carnegie to share the prospective occupancy of a castle across the sea, and that his eldest daughter is about to make her entrance in British society."

—At Paterson, N. J., two strikes are on—one of twenty helpers at the Phœnix silk mills and the other at the Dolphin jute mills, where one hundred doffers are out. The mill has been shut down and the spinners and other workmen have been thrown out of work.

INTO A FURNACE.

Horrible Method of Suicide Chosen by a Drunken Man at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9. — Charles Tanelin, a young stevedore, filled himself with whisky Saturday evening and then tried to commit suicide. First he threw himself in front of a fire engine, but he was rescued. Then he went aboard the fire boat Governor Irwin and asked to be allowed to warm himself near the furnace. The fireman went away for a few minutes. When he returned he was horrified to find Tanelin's clothes by the furnace door, while the wretched man lay writhing in agony on the red-hot coals upon which he had cast himself. By aid of tongs used in stirring the fire Tanelin was drawn out. His entire body was roasted. He was breathing, but died a few minutes later.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER.

Head Brakeman G. W. Irwin Held Responsible for a Wreck.

DIXON, Ill., May 9.—George W. Irwin, whose criminal carelessness on the Illinois Central railroad at Sublette Tuesday night, resulted in the death of Engineer Trude, and the serious injury of several others, was placed under arrest in Amboy Thursday. He was brought to this city by Deputy Sheriff Norman Jewett, and placed in the county jail to await the action of the coroner's jury. Irwin is a young man, and was the head brakeman of the ill-fated freight train. The charge against Irwin is murder.

ESTATE OF JOSEPH HARBESON,

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday the 27th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Joseph Harbeson, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charles Burridge, administrator of the estate of said deceased, alleging the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred have been fully paid, and that he is now ready to close said estate and to render his final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed to the parties entitled thereto, that he may be discharged and his bond canceled, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, that Monday the 22nd day of May, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

THE RETURN PARTY.

The Most Brilliant Social Event that Tecumseh Has Witnessed in Recent Years.

The Leap Year Party, which the young ladies of Tecumseh gave in February last, was conceded by all to have beaten the record in the direction of leap year balls. For several weeks after the affair, it was the talk of the town. The young ladies were glunting themselves over its unqualified success, and the young gents were praising its beauties and wondering whether it were possible to excel it. But as all social events can be improved upon with a sufficient expenditure of time, money and labor, so it has been demonstrated that even our famous Leap Year party of 1892, could be equalled at least, if not excelled.

After the gentlemen had sufficiently recovered from the grand ball to accurately compute their latitude and longitude, a committee of twenty assembled together, pledged their fortunes and sacred honor to the task and began arrangements for the Return Party. Money and work, they considered, were matters of minor consequence. The chief object in view was to get up a party worthy of the forerunner, which prompted this latter event.

The first requisite to a good dance is first-class music. This was secured at the outset by engaging Wolff's celebrated Toledo orchestra, comprising ten pieces and their favorite caller, Mr. Calisch. Having fastened the music and fixed the date, the committee gave their attention to the invitations. The engraver was summoned to the task and three hundred beautifully engraved invitations were scattered broadcast among the disciples of Terpsichore in Northern Lenawee. All the little details, and big details too, were properly looked after, and when the 6th of May arrived, nothing remained but good weather and a liberal attendance, to insure a brilliant gathering. "Old Probs" vouchsafed the former and our mirth loving citizens the latter. The result was a party which will mark a red letter day in the social annals of Tecumseh.

The opera house was elegantly decorated and furnished, the decorations excelling anything hitherto attempted. Spans of white and orange bunting were suspended from the central chandelier to the side walls. Festoons of orange were fixed to the front of the gallery. The front of the stage was ornamented with pink and green. A background for the orchestra was also constructed of pink and green, concealing the rear of the stage from view. The footlights were covered with potted plants and flowers. A row of couches surrounded the room under the galleries, in lieu of chairs. Curtains were hung at all the windows. The stage, which was utilized as a refreshment room, was transformed into a veritable fairy bower. The forest scenes were taken out to form the sides and rear of the room, while the ceiling and front were of green and pink bunting. Rugs, piano lamps, upholstered settees, and Japanese screens completed the furnishings. Two arc lights, together with the regular gas lights, produced a brilliant illumination.

Shortly after eight o'clock the orchestra took their places on the platform and gave the musical program, as it appeared in last week's issue. The selections were all fine, especially the last one, which was heartily encored.

Promptly at nine o'clock the dancers filed upon the floor, keeping step to the music of the grand march. This was led by Mr. Will H. Hayden and Miss Hattie Conklin, assisted by Mr. Levi C. Hayden and Miss Hatch of Ann Arbor. Several new and intricate figures were introduced which required the utmost skill in the execution, and it can be said without exaggeration, that a finer display of the kind was never seen in the opera house. The galleries filled with spectators, the decorations, the richly attired dancers on the floor, the rich orchestral music, toned up beneath the rays of the electric light, combined to produce a scene of rare beauty and brilliancy. The grand march, however, must come to an end; it melted into the opening waltz and from that time Terpsichore reigned supreme until the "wee sma" hours of the morning put an end to the ball.

About eleven o'clock the company began to retire to the refreshment room where a sumptuous repast was awaiting them. The room would accommodate about ten couple at once. John F. Hicks acted as master of ceremonies, assisted by S. P. Hosmer, while Mrs. Jno. Campbell acted as manager behind the scenes. The Menu consisted of a fine array of salads, cakes and fruits, with coffee and ice cream, which would satisfy an epicure. Refreshments were served at intervals during the next three hours until the whole company had been adequately provided for. This method of serving refreshments is certainly a great improvement over the old plan.

Forty-three couple participated in the grand march and about fifty dance tickets in all were sold. The galleries were crowded with spectators from eight o'clock until nearly midnight. Among those present from abroad were Messrs. Tupper, Porter, Gustin and Wentworth of Ann Arbor, Miss Hatch of the same city, Gen. and Mrs. F. B. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Irve Finch, Mr. Tripp and Misses Holdridge, Bray and Boyd of Adrian, Linn Comfort of Jackson, and Chas. LaMarsh of Cleveland. As to the financial result the committee in charge have resolved to keep that a profound secret. They set out with the determination to give a brilliant party, and in that particular it was surely a grand success. Nothing but the modesty of the twenty young men who were "in the ring" prevents our publishing a full list of their names. But they are entitled just the same to the full measure of credit for their efforts. In the long line of brilliant May parties, the Return party of '92 will head the list.

IN HYMEN'S BONDS.

A church wedding is always an attraction for the young. The nuptial event which made Mr. John Keusch and Miss Frances A. Kehoe husband and wife was no exception to the rule. St Dominic's church at Clinton was filled with an expectant company on the forenoon of May 4th, to witness the marriage ceremony. The beautiful marriage ritual of the Catholic church was said by Fr. Terence in the presence of about two hundred and fifty guests. Besides those present from Clinton and Tecumseh, there were many guests from Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Jackson and Monroe. Mr. Will Eagan of Ann Arbor, cousin of the groom, acted as best man; the bridesmaid was Miss Agnes Mc Govern of Monroe, a cousin of the bride. Will and Ambrose Kehoe officiated as ushers. The bride was attired in a gown of Henrietta and the bridesmaid in one of dove color. At the close of the ceremony at the church over two hundred specially invited guests repaired to Mr. Philip Kehoe's residence, where a brilliant reception awaited the newly married couple and a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. After a season of feasting and merriment pleasantly spent, the bridal pair took their departure for Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids for a brief honeymoon, and upon their return they will take up their permanent residence in Clinton.

No young couple in this vicinity for many years have embarked upon their matrimonial voyage under brighter auspices. The bride graduated from the Tecumseh High School with the class of 1890, and is a young lady of fine intellectual gifts and winning manners. The groom is a universal favorite with all who are honored by his acquaintance. Among the many congratulations and good wishes which will be showered upon them at this auspicious time, the HERALD cordially begs leave to join.

POLITICAL ISSUES.

State Conventions Held in Various Portions of the Country.

Synopsis of the Gatherings in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, West Virginia and Several Other Commonwealths.

IN WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, May 6.—The republicans in state convention in this city yesterday elected Henry C. Paine, John C Spooner, Lucius Fairchild and Isaac Stephenson as delegates at large to the national convention. The platform indorses President Harrison's administration, favors protection to American industries and labor, opposes the free coinage of silver, and declares the educational issue in the state as permanently settled.

IN ILLINOIS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 6.—In state convention in this city yesterday the republicans renominated Joseph W. Fifer for governor; Lyman B. Ray for lieutenant governor; Henry L. Hertz for treasurer; Charles W. Pavey for auditor; Isaac N. Pearson for secretary of state, and George W. Prince for attorney general. Delegates at large to the national convention were elected as follows: Shelby M. Cullom, Richard J. Oglesby, Joseph T. Cannon, Joseph Robbins, James H. Gilbert, Miles Kehoe, George B. Swift and Samuel B. Raymond. The platform indorses the McKinley tariff bill, instructs the delegates to vote for Harrison for president, denounces the proposed free coinage of silver and advocates the repeal of the compulsory education law. George G. Willits and Richard Yates were nominated for congressmen at large.

IN MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 6.—The republicans in state convention in this city yesterday elected delegates to the national convention and adopted a platform indorsing President Harrison's administration, protection to American industries, favor a currency based on gold and silver, and denounce speculation in agricultural products.

IN KANSAS.

HUTCHISON, Kan., May 6.—In convention here yesterday the republicans nominated George T. Anthony for congressman at large. The delegates elected to the national convention were instructed for Harrison. The platform heartily indorses President Harrison's administration; commends the McKinley tariff and reciprocity and praises Secretary Blaine's administration of the state department. The delegates at large are Ex-Senator J. J. Ingalls, C. C. James (colored), Calvin Wood, L. A. Bigger, Ed C. Little and A. H. Ellis.

IN WEST VIRGINIA.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., May 6.—In convention here yesterday the republicans elected delegates to Minneapolis instructed to vote for Harrison. The resolutions indorse the administration and the McKinley bill.

IN KENTUCKY.

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 7.—The friends of Senator Carlisle met here and passed resolutions indorsing him as a candidate for the democratic nomination for president. The Kentucky delegates will probably be instructed for Carlisle.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

The Washington Meeting Promises to Be a Big Event.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Applications for accommodations from members of the grand army who expect to be present at the encampment in September are coming in daily. The headquarters have been secured for over 300 posts, bringing 28,000 men, while applications for 15,000 men additional are on file. As it is five months before the encampment will be held this record indicates that there will be a large number of veterans in attendance at the encampment.

Cyclone Near Fairbury.

FAIRBURY, Ill., May 6.—A cyclone from west to east passed through this county 7 miles north of here Thursday afternoon. Small structures and trees, especially fruit trees, in its path suffered considerable damage. McDowell, the nearest telegraph station on the Wabash, reports that it blew there so strong that freight cars sidetracked started and were run into the ditch along the siding.

Killed by an Explosion.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 6.—At Irona, on the Pennsylvania & Northwestern railroad, shortly after 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, freight engine No. 25 exploded, instantly killing Engineer Moulton and Fireman Ake. Both were horribly mangled. Three bystanders were also seriously hurt and the depot was almost torn down. No cause is known for the explosion.

Census Office Investigation.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Chairman Wilcox, of the eleventh census committee, has appointed the following subcommittee to conduct an investigation into the charges against the census office: Messrs. Fithian, Bentley, Lawson of Virginia, Joseph D. Taylor and Huff.

Deep Snow in Nebraska.

RUSHVILLE, Neb., May 9.—Snow has fallen here during the last thirty-eight hours to a depth of 16 inches. It will be severe on cattle in the sand hills and will retard farm work. About three-fourths of the small grain is in and the first sown is up and looks fine.

The Sunday School.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—At the sixty-eighth anniversary of the American Sunday School union, held in this city Saturday, it was shown that 1,664 Sunday-schools have been established during the past year, with 7,018 teachers and 59,551 scholars.

Elevator Destroyed at Trenton.

TRENTON, Ont., May 7.—A fire which broke out in King & Maybee's elevator destroyed between $30,000 and $40,000 worth of property.

Death of O. G. Warren.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 7.—Mr. Orsamus G. Warren, senior proprietor of the Buffalo Commercial, died of pneumonia on Friday.

People took an inside view of the opera house last Friday afternoon, showing the decorations for the May party. It is a beauty.

Last Friday it was discovered that the high water had washed loose a rotten bent in the Brownville bridge, making it unsafe for travel. Street commissioner Hyde thinks the bridge will have to be overhauled.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Detroit conference will be held in the M. E. church of this place, commencing Tuesday evening, May 31st, and continuing two days. A large number of delegates are expected, among whom are Bishop Thoburn and several members of the General Conference, now in session at Omaha.

THE LITERARY CENTURY.
Ann Arbor, Mich.

The annual meeting of the Tecumseh Bicycle Club was held Tuesday night, and the following officers elected:

Pres.—Alfred James.
Vice Pres.—Frank B. Bauer.
Sec. & Treas.—Fred. J. McNair.
Capt.—E. F. Kirchgessner.
Lieut.—Geo. S. Field.
Bugler—Rob. J. McClure.
Ex. Com.—F. J. McNair, Miss Monroe, Percy A. Fizsimmons.

At the school Board meeting last week Tuesday eve., the visiting committee of ladies was present and made a report. They report 68 visits made unexpectedly to the teachers. The report commends the work done in general, but the committee saw and heard a number of things deserving criticism. It is probable that all, or nearly all, can be remedied. They urge the employment of another teacher to relieve the crowded condition of the east and west branch schools. The board will have to make some new arrangement to meet this last mentioned trouble.

Mrs. Fred Deuel went to Toledo Saturday.

K. S. Baker of Adrian was in town Tuesday.

Satterthwaite Bros. have a new card this week.

C. A. Wright has a change of card this week. Read it.

The hack business was on the boom last friday evening.

The last storm is giving the farmers more rain than they need.

The interior of the post office is receiving a new dress of paint and paper.

Mrs. David McNair has returned from a lengthy visit with her son, H. L. McNair, at Aspen, Col.

The Detroit Philharmonic Concert will be given on Thursday May 26th. Secure your tickets early.

The Widows, or Leap Year will be the play this evening at the opera house, by the A. O. Miller troupe.

When you secure your tickets for the Philharmonic Concert, leave your pledges for the next season's course.

Munson P. Henry is shaking hands with his old Tecumseh friends. He expects to remain here a week or two.

Mrs. Elsie Rowland is prepared to do baking at her home, such as cakes, pies, cookies, and would solicit a share of the trade.

The post office was removed into Bidwell's block twenty five years ago and has had an abiding place in the same room until last week.

The great Chief Tecumseh will be there, arranged in festal garb, with all his war paint on at the Opera House on the evening of May 17th.

The Mothers meeting of the W. C. T. U. will meet at Mrs. John Osborn's on Friday of this week, and will be led by the superintendent Mrs. Jackson.

The students of "Raisin Institute" will hold their eighth annual reunion at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Grandville Knight, in Adrian township, June 2d.

"Why don't you speak for yourself John? The spinning wheel" Priscilla, John Alden and Miles Standish all at the Opera House on the evening of May 17th.

Pocahantas, Capt. John Smith and peaceful William Penn will, be in waiting to receive, with old time cordiality, at the Opera House on the evening of May 17th.

The meeting last Tuesday evening to talk up Decoration Day, resulted in a good start. Committees were appointed and another meeting will be held next Tuesday evening to complete arrangements.

H. C. Ingraham has already disposed of seven of his new patent wheat scourers, and they all seem to be working nicely. New orders are coming in and the prospects are bright for building up a large trade. It is evidently a first class machine for the purpose.

Miss Delia Allen, Mrs. Waldron and Misses Bard and Harris have opened dressmaking rooms over Miss Hough's Millinery store. They would solicit a share of the trade in plain and fancy dressmaking.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. Church will hold the monthly social in the church parlors on Wednesday May 18th. Business meeting at 4 p. m. Supper will be served from 5 1-2 till 6 1-2 by Mrs. Whittier's committee.

May the 17th, is the date of the Colonial tea Museum and Art Loan at the Opera House. Supper will be served from five to seven for ten cents, an admission fee of ten cents will be charged at the door, and not any extra charge for the Museum or Art Loan.

We are indebted to Capt. Jas. C. Wheeler for tickets to the May Musical festival, comprising four festival concerts to be held at the Detroit Rink May 19, 20 and 21. This will be a musical event of more than usual merit, and doubtless many people from this section will select that time to pay a visit to Detroit.

When the post office stepped out of the old quarters so suddenly last week, some people were disposed to criticise the removal. The change, however, seems to give general satisfaction. The new location is both central and convenient, yet out of the business hubbub. A large majority of the patrons of the office evidently regard the new arrangement with favor.

We have received a copy of the new calendar of the University of Michigan, containing the full courses of study and lists of faculties and students. It makes a pamphlet of 260 pages. The total enrollment for the present college year foots up 2692, of this number 1352 are residents of Michigan, and sixty other states and foreign countries are represented in the list. The calendar gives one some idea of the wonderful growth of the University.

Tickets for the Detroit Philharmonic concert can be obtained of S. W. Anderson, J. H. Smith, S. P. Hosmer or C. F. Field. All persons who purchased season tickets last fall, will be entitled to an admission ticket to this concert free. In order to meet a posible dificiency and at the same time avoid confusion seating the crowd, reserved seats will be sold the same as heretofore, for 10 cents extra. The reserved seat sale will open at Adamson's Tuesday, May 24th, at 7 a. m., standard. Patrons of the course will be asked to leave their pledges for next season's course with the committee when they procure their admission tickets to the concert.

"Do the Rest."

The extent of Pressure on the button and the success of Dr. Gregg's Goods in "Doing the Rest" is most satisfactorily shown in the marvelous growth of our business the past 60 days.

Repeated and increasing demands for The Gregg Electric "Foot Warmer" are coming in from all parts of the country with profuse acknowledgements that so much comfort for $1.00 the price is like buying Gold Dollars for ten cents.

The Delicate Organism of Woman subjects her to many peculiar ailments and unfortunate misery. The extreme sensitiveness of her Nervous System very frequently requires artificial stimulus. The Gregg Electric Belt and other Appliances supply this as nothing else can.

The Rugged Constitution of Man, when once broken, becomes pitiable in the extreme, from which there is absolutely no escape without assistance. The Gregg Electric Belts and Appliances in cases of this kind have honestly won their title of King of Remedies.

Rheumatism is conquered, sufferers from Obesity are speedily relieved, Dropsy quickly yields, spinal difficulties and Paralysis disappear, and many other diseases of Men and Women are permanently cured, fully described in complete catalogue for 6c, or elaborate circular free. We guarantee to forfeit twice the price of any of Dr. Gregg's goods found not to be genuine. We make an elegant little $3 Electric Belt which is selling very rapidly and which we take in exchange for any higher power belt (except $5 belt) and credit $3 on the price of new order. Remember the Electric Foot warmers are $1 a pair, worth $10. Address

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS.

A Michigan Convict Serving a Life Sentence Given His Liberty.

Gov. Winans has pardoned Goodwin Bates from the state prison. Bates was convicted of murdering his brother Truman more than thirty years ago and given a life sentence. The trial judge recently began an investigation and brought out some facts not presented at the trial to the effect that Bates was the subject of abuse for a long time at the hands of his brother, and that he would in all probability have not committed the offense had he not been in fear of his own life. He is the second convict at the prison, so far as time service is concerned, and the pardon board unanimously recommended his release.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by seventy-two observers in different parts of the state for the week ended April 30 indicated that cholera morbus, pneumonia, inflammation of the brain and cerebro-spinal meningitis increased, and measles, typhoid fever scarlet, fever and consumption of the lungs decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at thirty-seven places, scarlet fever at sixty-six, typhoid fever at eighteen, and measles at nineteen places.

Improved Conditions.

The weekly crop bulletin of the Michigan weather service shows that there has been comparatively a gain in the condition of crops during the week in most counties, they having been materially benefited by heavy rains and warm weather. Not much growth has been made in wheat and grass, but they are looking well. Plowing and seeding are progressing rapidly. The outlook is flattering.

Authority on Dogs.

Eugene Glass, of Battle Creek, editor of the Dog Fancier, and president of the Western Michigan Kennel club, has been appointed chairman of Michigan's world's fair committee on dogs. The company also includes Charles H. Ruhl and E. L. Kimball, of Jackson, and P. O. Riley, of Crosby.

Death of a Pioneer.

After a long and painful illness Joseph Crow passed away at the advanced age of 84 years. Mr. Crow was a wealthy farmer, living a few miles from Utica, and his latter days had been full of physical suffering. In his death another of the pioneers passes away from that vicinity.

Now Subject to Taxation.

Attorney General Ellis gives his official opinion that the new mortgage tax law of 1891 repealed the law of 1889, which exempted the stock of buildings and loan associations and mortgages held by them from taxation. He says this class of property is now subject to taxation.

ESTATE OF ALBERT VEDDER.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Monday the 11th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Albert Vedder, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Emma Vedder, administratrix, with the will annexed, upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred and all special legacies have been fully paid, and that she is now ready to close said estate and to render her final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed according to the terms of the will of said deceased, that she may be discharged and her bond canceled and for such other order and decree as to this court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 9th day of May, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

WHAT A GIRL DID.

Her Influence for Good in Ancient Plumville.

Plumville "foh de wah" was an interesting little village lying in a remote valley of a New England agricultural district. If the soil was thin, the rocks were thick—so thick, indeed, that it was a grim joke that a shotgun was needed to get the seed-corn into the first and between the second. Owing to this bed rock, the drainage was poor, and what the drought spared, sudden showers swept away.

All the young men went west, the old shoemaker had moved away, and even the minister had departed, leaving a monumental pair of crossed poles to bar the entrance to the meetin' house. And yet these natives—New England men and women—were not lacking in shrewdness and common sense. They were simply discouraged. With all their hard labor they never got beyond the bare necessities of life. They had no amusement, no expectations, no hope. The women never had time to sit down, but spent their days cooking and washing in the kitchens. The front room was always closely shuttered, the front steps were overgrown with coarse weeds, and the front gate refused to open. Everybody came and went by the back door, along the narrow worn foot-path. No flowers were cultivated, and few varieties of vegetables. News was old when it reached Plumville, and excited little more interest than archæological stories. Few books were bought, and those few of a kind in which no rational being could feel an interest. Games of cards were tabooed. There could be no social life in so sparsely settled a region. It was a custom for the farmer who had "arrants" in the village to bring the occasional newspaper or rare letter for the inhabitants on his route. So if Brown saw Smith jogging along towards "the Center," he (Brown) knew that on Smith's return an hour or two later he would find anything the mail had brought him in his yard, tossed there by the obliging Smith.

Once a year, perhaps, there would be a wedding, for in Plumville all widowers speedily replaced their "first." On these occasions it was usual to borrow white kids from the doctor, who had sentimentally or economically (for he had himself worn them at two separate ceremonies) preserved his with care.

In the spring of 1880 old Mr. Elkins fell sick. His wife had just died, and he had no children. It was an added burden to the weary neighbors, who felt that they must "do" for the old man. At the best it was fragmentary service, and the invalid was alone many hours out of every twenty-four. The relief was great, therefore, when somehow or other a nephew's widow, or a cousin's daughter, appeared as nurse and housekeeper. She brought a niece with her—a slip of a freckled girl about sixteen years old, whose name was Milly French. Milly assumed the care of the chickens, milked the cow, fed Towser, and as she came and went about these duties the neighbors wondered to hear her singing like a happy bird. She threw open the front blinds and let the sunlight sacrilegiously stream through the windows. She even set the sacred front door ajar, and sat on the door steps on pleasant afternoons with her knitting work. If the sunset was very gorgeous she was seen with idle hands. The spindling grass was sheared off, so that the gate would swing back easily.

"It is enough to make Miss Elkins turn in her grave," said Neighbor Flint.

As the summer advanced, all unconscious of Plumville etiquette and conventionality, Milly wandered in the fields hunting for orchids, or took long walks to Bacon's woods, fetching her basket full of plants, which she industriously transplanted in the virgin soil of the Elkins front yard.

"Well, I never!" said Mrs. Flint, as she peeked through an opportune crivice of her side window. "What won't she do next?"

But Milly watered her honeysuckles, propped up her daisies, put rich loam into the sandy waste, and was rewarded by multitudes of blossoms. When the hens scratched up her treasures, she contrived an inclosure of palings that circumscribed their operations. By and by she added a trellis for a wild rose bush, and a long tent of twine for her fluffy wood-clematis. Little by little the small house, unpainted, but tinted a soft, silvery, weather-beaten gray, began to outline its windows in bright green, and to throw woodbine garlands all over the homely porch. Season after season went by. Milly now had seeds and cuttings to give away. She carried bouquets to the sick, potted a root for a friend, brought a jar of mignonette from Lincoln, or received a package of seeds from a florist. It thus came to pass that every house in Plumville soon boasted a flower bed, and in winter every kitchen had at least one window full of petunias or geraniums, the steam of cooking or washing causing them to grow wonderfully. Cold frames for pansies were manufactured; even strawberries and asparagus were attempted. And that these improvements might not fail, the land about the house was drained, low branches lopped off, the sink nozzle extended to a safe distance, till light and air and dryness came to these denizens of the kitchen.

You would not have known Plumville. Why, the shoemaker, who came back to stay, pretended he had never seen it before. It was rumored that a baker's cart would come over from Lincoln once a week, and on the strength of it the postmaster cleared off a shelf and drove six nails in the loose doorsteps. But this Plumville boom is far ahead of my story. Long before the flowers had begun to be very common there, Milly French puzzled much over the unused church. One day she got the key and went in. Though it was August, the interior was cold and damp, almost like a cellar. Cobwebs hung from the two long stovepipes that extended the whole length of the building. Torn hymn-books were lying about, and several window panes were broken. A general air of desolation prevaded the place. Milly sat for a long time thinking, thinking. Then she walked very quickly to Mrs. Flint's, who lived near by.

"Oh, Mrs. Flint, isn't it disgraceful to have our meeting house shut up?" she cried, on entering.

"La, child! what should it be open for?" asked Mrs. Flint, in amazement.

"Why, to have a minister, as they do at Lincoln, and everywhere else but just here in Plumville."

"There's no use talkin', Milly; we haven't any money, nor any public spirit."

"If you'll help me, I'll have that church open next Sunday," cried Milly.

"Me! What can I do?" sighed poor Mrs. Flint, aghast.

"If you'll get your husband to mow the grass and sweep out, I'll do the rest."

"I don't believe he can."

"Yes he can, if he has a mind to. It wouldn't take an hour," asserted Milly.

"Well, I'll ask him, but I know he won't."

"Oh, don't ask him; tell him he must," said Milly, decidedly.

After much protest Mr. Flint agreed to cut a few swaths in front of the church door, but no persuasion could induce him to attack the cobwebs inside.

A notice in a feminine hand appeared on the post office door, and another was nailed to the big elm (the natives called it ellum) at "the Corners," to the effect that "Sunday, August 28, D. V., there will be services in the Congregational church. All are invited." Old men put on their spectacles and read these notices slowly through—usually aloud, and also usually said: "I declar' for't!"

No one could tell anybody anything further; but the farmers drove back to their lonely homes with a pleasant thrill of anticipation. Something was going to happen at last even in Plumville. The women, when they heard, were much excited. The most dissipated among them had never seen a circus or a minstrel show since they were very young; that was so long ago it did not seem as if they saw it. Some pious souls had sorely missed "religious privileges," and all had felt the need of a gregarious motive.

This news was wonderful. Miss Bacon perked up and got her "alapacca" gown out of the camphor "chist" to baste fresh lace at the wrists. Mrs. Smith went to "talk it over" with Miss Brown and staid to tea—an unheard-of self-indulgence. Half the women (exactly four) at "the Corners" harnessed up and drove to "the Center" to learn particulars. But no particulars were forthcoming. There were the two notices in a feminine hand; there was a freshly-cut path to the church door and the crossbars were down; that was all. Curiosity was at a tremendous pitch.

On Sunday morning, August 28, the farmers for five miles around came over the hills and plunged down into Plumville valley. The horse shed was full of "teams;" every hitching post was in use. Even Deacon Bird was on time, marshaling his numerous progeny down the aisle, quite unconscious (as all good men are) of the makeshifts in their attire, called thus suddenly to do duty as Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes. The soft summer air swayed the long cobwebs depending from the rusty stovepipes and blew out the musty taint of moldy months.

It was half past ten. Perfect silence reigned in the little bare church. Some gray heads were bent forward, as befitting the place, but lively eyes glanced over the spectacles in eager expectation. A few women shaded their eyes with coarsened hands in a pretense of being at prayer, but even there a profound alertness was visible. Then this happened: Milly French rose and came forward to the communion table, upon which stood a basket of lovely ferns and late roses. She looked serious, but not at all frightened. She read a Psalm in a clear voice, gave out a hymn, which was sung by three elder women in the front pew, then she opened a book and read Phillips Brooks' sermon from the text: "Comfort ye my people." It can be imagined, perhaps, how these sympathetic words chained the attention and touched the hearts of all present. It was a pretty sight, and never to be forgotten by those who saw it.

At the close the doxology was given with a will. And thus, D. V., the Plumville church was opened on Sunday morning, August 28, and it has never been closed since. That was years ago, but Milly French still reads a sermon there every Sunday morning. She has educated that people far beyond their means to pay for. They invite no candidate to their pulpit. They are familiar with the great preachers of the world. Some incline to episcopacy, and do not see "how you can get around the laying on o' hands." Some are Beecherites; others agree with Channing. Dean Stanley and Canon Farrar have a following. Robertson and Maurice are admired and loved. No creed binds their consciences, no formulated vow restrains them. They range over spiritual truths as presented by different and differing minds. Earnest discussion and zealous argument show on occasion unusual thoughtfulness and cultivation.

Thanks to Milly French, Plumville, a bower of vines and flowers, is one of the prettiest of small villages physically, while for intellectual and spiritual training it is one of the most advanced.—Augusta W. Kellogg, in Harper's Weekly.

—Mrs. Briskie—"Johnny, did the doctor call while I was out?" Little Johnny (stopping his play)—"Yes. He felt my pulse, an' looked at my tongue, and shook his head, and said it was a serious case, and he left this prescription and said he would call again before night." Mrs. Briskie—"Gracious me! It wasn't you I sent him to see. It was the baby."

UNDER WATER.

Great Havoc Caused by Floods in Illinois and Iowa.

Ottawa, Peru, La Salle, Marseilles and Utica Deluged by a Swollen River—The Damages Will Reach Millions of Dollars.

ACRES OF WATER.

OTTAWA, Ill., May 6.—The streets of this city are rivers, the public parks lakes of water and mud and private grounds buried beneath acres of water. This is the evidence left by one of the most stupendous rainstorms and cloudbursts that have passed over the Illinois and Fox river valleys in fifty years. The terrific floods of Monday and Tuesday, precipitating oceans of water upon this territory, were but as pigmies to giants in comparison to the awful downpour of waters Wednesday night.

For four hours the storm beat upon the residences and the streets and the factories with remorseless fury, and when dawn broke Ottawa, Marseilles, Utica, Peru and La Salle, with nearly every foot of the intervening farming lands and roads, were a great lake of mud and water. Not a street nor an alley nor a residence lot in the four cities escaped. Perhaps the greatest share of damage fell upon Ottawa and La Salle. In Ottawa the glass factory district, containing five huge glass factories, a pot mill and the powerhouse and car barns of the electric street railway, was buried beneath from 4 to 12 feet of water. None of the factories will be able to operate for a week. It is almost an impossibility to approximate the damages to these five cities, but it can safely be said to be not less than $1,500,000.

Along the Illinois river, which raised to a height of 22 feet above low water mark, the Pioneer Fireproof Construction Company's great plant, the Victor rolling mills, the Porter hay carrier shops and Sanders Brothers' planing mills were several feet under water. Besides this damage to the factories, the residences located in the flats and in the glassworks' district are badly damaged, and on the south side of the Illinois river thousands of dollars' worth of beautiful lawns and parked streets are wrecked.

La Salle is an island in a waste of waters, the immense floods gathering volume from every creek and stream along the Illinois river. The conditions in residence and business districts are the same as in Ottawa and the damage will reach $300,000.

At Peru Water street and the business portion of the town was badly damaged and the lower part of the town is under water, residence and business property being buried beneath hundreds of tons of water. The Peru rolling mills are also under water and the damage is very heavy, being not less than $350,000.

At Marseilles the entire eastern end of the city, known as the "old town," has been afloat all day and hundreds of people were driven from their homes. The loss to the manufacturing district through the ruin of the race and the new power gates and the breaking of the lower levee is very heavy, and may cause the suspension of all the paper and wood mills for a month. The loss to the little city in this case will foot up a total of $200,000.

Utica, the little village west of Ottawa, which was visited by a cloudburst last fall, experienced a repetition of that incident Wednesday night. Besides the flood resulting from the terrific storm, the Illinois & Michigan canal burst its banks and its brimming torrents were but a moment in joining the waters of the "deep cut" and with them descending upon the homes of the villagers, which were soon in the midst of a lake.

JOLIET, Ill., May 6.—Not since August, 1864, has there been so extensive a flood in Joliet as that of the present. Rain began falling at 10 o'clock Wednesday, and increased with incessant lightning and thunder. At 9 o'clock Thursday morning workmen at Hyde's mill, near the upper dam, telephoned to the police station that they feared the dam would go out, in which case the middle portion of the city would be placed under water. Policemen and firemen started out to warn the thousands of persons to get to the bluffs, and in less than half an hour hundreds of homes were left empty, and citizens living high and dry had plenty of visitors. The water ran over the bank of the canal above Hyde's mill before many could leave their homes, and these were taken out by men in carriages and wagons. Spring and Hickory creeks, a mile east of the city, lent their rushing waters to help the work of destruction, and while no one was hurt the damage to property runs into tens of thousands.

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., May 7.—The storm in this section continued Thursday night. In Tower Hill township fruit trees were uprooted and houses blown down, and the Champion district schoolhouse was blown from its foundation. There was a perfect deluge and the streams are all out of their banks.

IN IOWA.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 6.—Continuous rains in Iowa for the last week have resulted in high water and great damage to railroads. Twelve miles of the Des Moines & Kansas City road between this city and Cainesville are washed away. The Diagonal's trains are abandoned and the Rock Island fast trains are laid off for similar reasons. The Winterset and Indianola branches of the same line are also at a standstill. About the only lines in Iowa that have not suffered are the Northwestern and the Burlington. Travel by wagon is impossible on account of the condition of the country roads.

CRESTON, Ia., May 6.—A terrific storm of thunder, lightning and rain swept through this region Thursday night. The rain came down in sheets, the heaviest for years. Country bridges were swept away and great damage was done in the country.

GET THE BEST.

Is a good motto to follow in buying a medicine as well as ever thing else. By the universal satisfaction it has given, and by the many remarkable cures it has accomplished Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption has proven itself unequalled for Consumption and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest. Do not experiment with any unheard of or untried article which you are told is "as good as Dr. Fay's," for its equal does not exist, but be sure to get only Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption. Sold by all druggists, 50c., $1.00 and $3.00. Prepared only by Dr. O. J. Fay & Co., Chemists, Carleton, Mich.

WILL GRIPPE BE AN ANNUAL VISITOR?

This question is under serious consideration by the medical profession and the public in general are deeply interested in the answer. Its visitations during the past three years have impressed upon people a full sense of its power and danger, and the experience of those years has also taught many things in regard to the nature of the disease. One important thing learned is that sad results often follow long after the disease itself is supposed to be fully over. It is this insidious, lingering effect which just now is being felt through the country. The colds which come so readily with these spring months develops into full fruit the germs left by the disease, and a long siege of sickness, with great danger of fatal results, is apt to follow. To stop this at the start is most important. No remedy on the market or no physicians' prescription is so sure to do this as Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It has been tried in thousands of cases and the manufacturers guarantee full benefits. All lung difficulties are benefitted by this remedy and from its wonderful and speedy relief in cases of Croup and Whooping Cough no household with children should ever be without it. Only 25 cents a bottle. Ask for Hamilton's. Sold by all dealers.

HEIGHT OF CRUELTY.

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the pictures of health, they are constantly ailing. To withhold sympathy from these unfortunates is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering, pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppression, choking, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his Restorative Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise on "Heart and Nervous Diseases" and marvellous testimonials free. Sold and guaranteed by Baker and Hamilton.

E. VanDeMark went to Detroit Wednesday.

Mrs. H. R. Williams is visiting her sister in Georgia.

D. St. John made a business trip to Detroit Monday.

Geo. Codling, Jasper, has been spending a few days here.

Darius St. John has the wall laid for an addition to his house.

L. K. Davis has been quite sick with erysipelas, but is much better.

J. R. Blanchard moved into his newly acquired property the first of the week.

Frank Hard, who has been very sick with inflammation of the lungs, is much better.

Miss Kate Ebbitt came home from Chicago last Thursday and returned Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kimball, of Leoni, were the guests of W. S. Kimball last week.

Miss Lou McDermott is expected home from Detroit Saturday, for a few days visit.

Mrs. E. G. Cook, of Tecumseh, spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Tuttle.

We are glad to see Barney McAdam [illegible] again. He moved from Ogden last week.

Mr. Grinnell, of the firm of Grinnell Bros. of Detroit, has been spending a few days with relatives here.

Bishop Davies will visit this parish immediately after the Diocesan Convention, which will occur June 8th.

Mrs. Ella Rose, who has been living in Detroit for the past three years, has returned here and will make it her home.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Mr. Will Matthews and Miss Franc Kress next Wednesday at the bride's home in Bridgewater.

The members of the dancing school give a hop at the hall, Friday evening, May 13th. The music will be furnished by Smith's orchestra from Hillsdale.

Mrs. Kate Fox, who has been sick at her mother's home in Bridgewater, for nearly six months, visited her brother, Will Kalmer, last week, and spent part of a day in Tecumseh.

Sunday, May 15th, is the third anniversary of the Epworth League and Rev. A. W. Stalker proposes to have the morning service for that day appropriate for the occasion.

Presiding Elder E. W. Ryan, of Adrian, gave a lecture on his travels, at the M. E. church, Tuesday evening. On account of the weather the attendance was quite small, but those who were present were well repaid, as the lecture was a very interesting one.

The Editor of the Local was a little mixed on names and politics last week, stating that C. H. Thompson was attending the Republican state convention at Muskegon. He evidently had lost his bearings on the convention question. Rather a bad break for the commencement of the campaign.

The A. O. Miller Comedy Company give "Gamea, the Jewish Mother," at Town Hall this evening, and conclude the entertainment with the farce, "The Hole in the Wall." A part of the proceeds will go into the fund that is being raised for the purchase of a piano for the hall. It is hoped there will be a large attendance as the benefit is a public one.

Long before the hour announced for the beginning of the confirmation services, last Friday, every seat in St. Dominic's church was filled, even to the chairs placed in the aisle. Those who arrived early, however had an opportunity of enjoying the church decorations before the arrival of the Bishop. Ropes of evergreens were stretched from the corners to the center of the ceiling where a beautiful flower bell was suspended. Inside the chancel rail the decorations were equally beautiful, cut flowers and plants being tastily arranged and the altar appropriately trimmed. Bishop Foley arrived on the afternoon train from Manchester, accompanied by a brother of Fr. Ternes, who is also a priest. They were met at the church entrance by Fr. Ternes, and conducted into the vestry, from whence they came promptly at four o'clock and began the beautiful and impressive confirmation service of the Roman Catholic church. The sermon preached by the Bishop, though short, was very interesting, setting forth the beauties of the church and the duties of those who were about to enter it. The rite of confirmation was then administered to over eighty persons, and the service was over. A reception was given Bishop Foley from seven to eight o'clock, at Mrs. Mary Sullivan's.

SURPRISE TO ALL

After using "Mother's Friend" two months I was so speedily and easily relieved that it was a surprise to those attending me. Obituary.

Elijah R. Crossman was born at Burlington, Vt., October 9, 1813. His boyhood was passed in his native town, where he received a common school education and learned the trade of a moulder. He first came to Tecumseh in 1838, but after a few month's residence he returned to Vt. on account of sickness, where he was married and lived for several years. In 1855 he again came west and located permanently in Tecumseh, and this village has ever since been his home. Here he found work at his chosen avocation in the different machine shops of the village and was always regarded as one of the best mechanics. Although a man of quite unassuming ways, he possessed strong convictions upon social religious and political topics, and to the best of his ability, performed all the duties incumbent upon him as father, husband and citizen. He had enjoyed rugged physical health all his life, until recently, but the hand of time finally set his seal upon him and on Wednesday, May 4, he gave up his earthly struggle and joined the great majority.

The funeral services were held at his late residence on Friday, May 6, and were attended by a large concourse of neighbors and many of our older citizens, Rev. J. Phelps officiating, and the remains were conveyed to their final resting place in our evergreen cemetery.

The deceased was twice married, and was the father of fifteen children, six of whom, besides the widow, survive him: Mrs. L. A. Wilson of Kalamazo, Arthur C. Crossman of Atkinson, Neb., Frank E. Crossman of Jackson, Chas. F. Crossman of Toledo, Truman and Martin A. Crossman of this village. He was nearly eighty years of age at the time of his death. During all these years on earth he filled the full measure of his duties in the humble sphere to which Providence had assigned him, and leaves the precious legacy of an honest, well spent life to his children, which they will always cherish in fond remembrance.

Died, in Escondido, San Diego Co., California, of heart failure, March 23, 1892, Mrs Mary J. wife of A. D. Stocking aged 66 years, 5 months and 14 days.

Miss Mary J. Brown was born in Pitts Town, N. Y. in October 1825. She was married to A. D. Stocking 1847, at Wilson, Niagara Co., N. Y. and came immediately to Tecumseh where they resided until the summer of 1852, when they removed to Van Buren Co., Mich. They went to California in December 1887. Mr. Stocking will be remembered by many as a Tecumseh boy that was brought there by his Father Amos Stocking in 1829 and lived there until they removed to Van Buren Co. Mrs. S. was a sister of Mrs. P. Teed who resided in Tecumseh many years ago.

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Elmira McCollum, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charles Burridge, administrator, upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred, have been fully paid, and that he is now ready to close said estate and to render his final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed to the persons by law entitled thereto, that he may be discharged and his bond cancelled, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 6th day of June, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

In the matter of the estate of John Dubois, deceased

The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate court of said County, Commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands of all persons against the estate of said deceased do hereby give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the Township Clerk's Office in Britton, Lenawee county, Michigan on the 11th day of June, 1892, and on the 11th day of October 1892, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days

And that six months from the 28th day of April, A. D. 1892, are allowed by said Probate Court for the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us for examination and allowance.

Dated Britton, Mich., April 27th, 1892.

JOHN BRITTON,
F. E. MORELL,
Commissioners.

IT SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSE.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of la grippe, when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at J. J. MORTGAGE SALE.

Default of Payment having been made of a mortgage made by Edward Rowland and Elsie Rowland, his wife, to Albert Hyde, Sr., bearing date the thirtieth day of December, A. D. 1879, of record in office of Register of Deeds for Lenawee County, Michigan, in Liber 10 of mortgages, on Page 31, on which mortgage there remains unpaid at the date of this notice, of principal and accrued interest, the sum of Eight Hundred forty-four and 62-100ths dollars ($844.62), and no proceedings at law or in equity have been taken for the collection of the same.

Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and by virtue of the statutes of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided, for the purpose of realizing the money above named and interest thereon at 8 per cent. per annum to accrue thereon, the costs of this foreclosure and sale, including the attorney fee provided by law, I shall, on the first day of August, A. D. 1892, at nine o'clock in the forenoon of said day, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the City of Adrian, Lenawee County, Michigan (that being the place of holding the Circuit court for the said County of Lenawee), all that parcel of land situate in the Village of Tecumseh in the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a point in the South line of Logan street, Seventy feet east from the intersection of that line with the East line of Evans street in said Village, thence running South parallel with and seventy feet distant from the East line of Evans street to an alley described in a deed given to Benjamin Farley by Michael A. Patterson and George Spafford; thence East along the North line of said alley seventy feet; thence North to the South line of Logan street aforesaid; thence West on South line of Logan street aforesaid seventy feet to place of beginning—being the same land conveyed by John H. Mills to said Edward Rowland by deed bearing date December 29, 1879,—and comprising dwelling house and premises and blacksmith shop and premises thereon.

Dated May 5th, 1892.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Get a straw hat at Lenardson's.

The Britten postoffice supports a new sign.

Fair weather seems to have come at last.

L. C. Hoagland visited at Blissfield last week.

Dr. Sickles is in town curing aches and pains.

L. H. Salsbury, of Adrian, was in town Monday.

Some talk of a balloon ascension in the near future.

Charlie DuBois was up town for the first time Friday.

"Gamea, the Jewish Mother," at the opera house June 4th.

O. B. Lenardson has a new picket fence in front of his residence.

Brown's big cat, Tommy, made a flying trip to Detroit a short time ago.

Eugene Zeluff, of Toledo, visited at home last Sunday, returning Monday.

Mrs. C. B. Tripp is quite sick and under the doctor's care at present writing.

Albert Kniffin has a yearling Clydesdale colt that weighs 888 pounds. How's this?

Tony Brunk, our jeweler, received an invoice of fine clocks last week. Give him a call.

Mrs. David Weigle, who has been quite sick for the past few days, is slowly improving.

Arthur Beasley cut his foot quite severely with an ax one day last week and now he goes about on crutches.

Joe Wiggins, while leading two colts to water last Saturday, was kicked by one of the animals, nearly breaking his lower jawbone.

On account of the rain the social held at the DeSpelder church last Friday was not as much of a success financially as it would otherwise have been, the receipts being only about $5.

The box social given in the opera house last Wednesday under the auspices of the Ladies' Home Missionary society, netted the society $11, notwithstanding the rainy weather and muddy roads.

We understand the question of that disputed road is to be settled permanently to-morrow. We knew the newly elected administration would get to the front, get the right men in the right place, and things generally go right along.

30 carrier or homing pigeons were sent here from Detroit Monday. They were let loose at 10:30 a. m. After flying about for half an hour all but four or five disappeared in a northeasterly direction toward Detroit; the four, when last seen, flying in a northwesterly direction.

Gripton Bros. are preparing for a more extensive run in the sorghum manufacturing business this year than ever before. They have out about 300 pounds of Early Amber cane seed. Although the present outlook for cane is discouraging, nevertheless they are entirely remodeling the interior working apparatus of their extensive plant, have added a new 45-horse power boiler, and will be ready when the season opens to attend to all work promptly.

On Saturday evening, June 4th, A. O. Miller, with his dramatic company, will present, at Exelby's opera house, the famous play entitled "Gamea, the Jewish Mother," concluding with the appropriate farce, "The Hole in the Wall." Mr. Miller comes here under the auspices of the Britton Library Association, and all who have ever heard him know full well his ability to please and should not fail to witness this grand entertainment. Admission 25 cents; proceeds to go to library fund.

MACON MUSIC.

There were several went to Adrian's boom, Wednesday.

Florence and Carrie Camburn were home from Ypsilanti over Sunday.

Miss Dora Jackson of Moreville visited at Edwin Howell's last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Helen Hatch who has been visiting her brother in Manchester returned home last Monday.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Reform Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Duncan Robison Wednesday, May 25th. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

All that are interested in side walks are requested to meet at the school house next Saturday night, May 21st, to talk the matter over, elect a treasurer and such other business as may come before the meeting.

There will be a Night-Cap Social at Sage's vacant house next Tuesday night, May 24th. Proceeds for side walks. Now let every one hunt up their old night-cap and come and lend a helping hand to a project that is so much needed.

NEWBURGH NOTES.

Work has commenced on the celery farm.

G. W. Stacy of Buffalo is visiting relatives here.

Miss Mary Holmes is visiting at her sisters' Mrs. Toor's.

Miss Flora Mattis was visiting at G. Mattis, this week.

Milburn Keyser and Gates Smith were fishing in Newburgh, Monday.

Daniel Linn was in Adrian last Wednesday.

Miss Lelia Sutton went to Toledo Thursday.

A. R. Arner returned to work last Wednesday.

Brose Arner came home from Marshall Monday.

Dr. Begel of Holloway preached last Sunday morning.

Several went to the big boom at Adrian yesterday.

Mrs. James Pocklington is very low at the present writing.

Eugene Harrington of Blissfield was in the village Friday.

Mrs. Crysilda Arner is visiting friends in Tecumseh and Clinton.

Mrs. D. W. Loree visited friends in Eaton county several days last week.

The Library doors are being repainted. Ezra Sink of Britton is doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Shephard went to Flint for a several days visit Tuesday.

Mrs. Yager went to Blissfield Saturday to attend the funeral of Roy Harrington.

Mrs. Charlie Smith of Britton was the guest of Mrs. James Pocklington Tuesday.

Vote Miller came home from Jackson Saturday night, returning to Detroit Sunday night.

We made a mistake in the amount of collection received at the last L. C. S. Instead of $10.50, they received $11.65.

The person that through mistake exchanged umbrellas Sunday morning can have their property by calling on Flota Smith.

On Monday morning as Joe Wiggins was leading his colts to water one turned and kicked him, bruising him very badly; he was unconscious when found.

Fifteen ladies of the village met at the home of Mrs. A. J. Sutton Wednesday afternoon of last week to do sewing for Mrs. James Pocklington who is very sick.

A. D. Scammell, wife and four year old girl of Toledo, will give a concert at the M. E. Church, on Wednesday evening, May 25th. They come very highly recomended and the public will be enabled not only to be entertained by them, but C. J. Wooley has kindly offered to send a pneumatic symphony to add to the attraction of the evening. The Hall Library Association has undertaken this venture and the public will bear in mind the date. For program and full details see bills. Tickets on sale at Andersons', Tecumseh; Post Office; and the library.

All the answer we have to make to the "Query" in last week's Britton Budget, is this: you will have to get up Earl(y) in the morning if you tell the Ridgeway correspondent anything about that event; she dos'nt know.

WHY POETS RAVE

Over "Spring, gentle spring," is hard to understand by many thousands to whom spring is more a time of trial and suffering than of brightness and rejoicing. Still we believe the poet's idea is the correct one and should be the universal rule instead of the exception. It is largely a matter of health and this can be regulated if proper means are taken. Spring is a trying season for most people and the "breaking-up" which nature goes through means something to them. A good spring medicine is an essential at this time. It tones up the system, raises the spirits and in many cases saves weeks and perhaps months of serious sickness. Just such a medicine is found in Parmelee's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potassa Compound. It is a thorough exterminator of all Blood Poisons and is the best remedy in existence for all complaints arising from an impure condition of blood. Why pay $1.00 for a bottle containing only 12 ounces when you can get this for 50 cents in bottles holding full 8 ounces? Be sure and get Parmelee's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all dealers.

READ CAREFULLY.

DULLAM'S GERMAN MEDICINE CO.—Gentlemen:—For over 4 years I have been afflicted with an eruption of the skin, which became very troublesome and I could get no relief. I was also troubled very badly with constipation, which nothing I tried gave permanent relief to until I took Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Remedy, and since taking I have been entirely cured. For a tonic, blood purifier and general health restorer I can heartily recommend it.

The May Meeting of the S. W. F. Club.

Members of the Club to the number of fifty laid aside their cares and responsibilities for one afternoon and assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Holmes, at the annual meeting on Friday, May 6th.

Their picturesque home, with Half-moon-lake in the background, and fine, substantial farm buildings, bears an added interest when we, the younger club members, reflect upon the fact that Mr. Holmes purchased this land from the Government. It is almost the only instance in the township, for nearly all who acquired lands in that manner, in this vicinity, have passed away from time to their last silent home.

The meeting opened with the report of the April meeting at "Cedarcroft" by the secretary, Mrs. J. F. Spafard. Then came that all-important occurrence in every organization, the financial report. The Club voted to purchase folding tables for use at their meetings.

The literary program began with a humorous selection from the Michigan Farmer Household, entitled "How Me and Sarah joined the Farmers' Club," read by Mrs. Frank Spafard.

An essay by Miss Mary Hitchcock on "Discoveries" secured attentive and thoughtful listeners. She said "Some writer has said that 'back of every great work was a great idea, and behind the idea a great brain.'" In speaking of the exploration of ancient places and cities, especially in Egypt, she said the stoical and stolid Sphinx would yet stand as a symbol of its historic origin when discoverers disclose the meaning of the hieroglyphics recording its remote past. Altogether, Miss Hitchcock's paper was fully equal to, if it did not surpass any she has read before the Club.

The question box next took the attention.

John G. English thought straw could be fed to sheep with profit. It should not be burned but be converted into future crop material.

S. M. Merithew's answer to a question as to the correct depth to plow for spring crops, was "about six inches; not over that depth."

How much can a man with small means prudently go into debt for a farm? "Not more than one-third of the purchase money"—W. E. Pease.

B. G. English—The answer to the question whether to plant corn or beans on a small field depends on whether one wishes a speedy return in proceeds. Beans are strictly a money crop and leave the ground ready to put into wheat, while corn is most advantageously fed to stock and by their sale brought into money.

The election of officers resulted in the following choice:

President—B. G. English.

1st Vice Pres.—W. E. Pease, Manchester.

2d Vice Pres.—James Weir, Bridgewater.

3d Vice Pres.—S. M. Merithew, Sharon.

Secretary—Mrs. J. F. Spafard.

Treasurer—Amariah Hitchcock.

Com. on membership—Messrs. J. R. Holmes, L. S. Hulbert and J. F. Spafard.

Com. on program—Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Tracy and B. F. Matteson.

The Club, after partaking of a splendid tea and enjoying a social visit, adjourned to meet on the first Friday in June with Amariah and Miss Mary Hitchcock, in the northwestern part of the township of Sharon.

THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED AND "THE BIG 5."

TWO GRAND TRAINS DAILY BETWEEN THE WORLD'S FAIR CITY AND THE FOOTHILLS.

One Night Out, or One Day Out. Take Your Choice. Business Demands it, and the People Must Have it.

The popularity of "The Great Rock Island Route" as a Colorado line—it having long time since taken first place as the people's favorite between the Lakes and the Mountains—has compelled the management to increase its present splendid service by the addition of a train that is one night on the road from Chicago to Denver, Colorado Springs or Pueblo. This train will be known as the "Rocky Mountain Limited," and will be put in service May first. Leaves Chicago daily at 10:45 a. m., arriving at above cities in the afternoon of the next day, earlier than any of its competitors. Especial equipment has been built for this train, with the view of making it a LIMITED in every sense of the word, and best of all, there will be no extra charge. The route of this exceedingly fast train is by the Rock Island Short Line, and a few of the large cities through which it passes, are Davenport, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Lincoln, Beatrice, Fairbury, Belleville, Phillipsburg, Smith Center, Colby and Goodland. This makes it a most desirable route, and particularly interesting to the traveler. Another point: The popularity of our dining-car service is still on the increase, and no money spared to make this service what our patrons always, say, "the best."

"Our Big 5" will continue as usual, leaving Chicago at 10 p. m. and arriving at Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the second morning, being but one day out, and this fast and popular train goes through Omaha.

Our No. 11 will leave as heretofore at 6 p. m., arrive at Kansas city at 9:00 a. m., and will reach Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the second morning

Our Colorado service is made perfect by this new "ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED and the "Big 5." and gives to the traveling public TWO FLYERS DAILY.

Manitou passengers should consult the map and time tables of our line, to fully appreciate the advantages in time saved by taking this route, when on their summer vacation.

To cleanse the system in a gentle and truly beneficial manner, when the springtime comes, use the true and perfect remedy, Syrup of Figs. One bottle will answer for all the family and costs only 50 cents; the large size $1. Try it and be pleased. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

Catarrh is not a local but a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

"A Yard of Pansies."

Now is your chance! "A yard of Pansies," an exquisite oil-picture, a companion to a "A Yard of Roses," which has been so universally admired, is given, free of cost, as a souvenir with every copy of Demorest's Family Magazine for June. "A Yard of Pansies" was painted by the same noted artist, V. Janus, who painted the "Roses," but competent art-critics pronounce the "Pansies" to be superior to the "Roses." "A Yard of Pansies" was painted at a cost of $300, and the reproduction, which is given with each Magazine, is in every respect equal to the original. And this is only one of the many notable features that make the June number the best ever issued. The first article "Mammoth Cave by Flash-Light," is the finest one ever published on the subject, and is illustrated by over a score of superb pictures,—pictures of places that have never before been photographed, so that one may become familiar with the wonders and beauties of this marvelous place without incurring the fatigue and expense of a personal visit. There are about 250 illustrations, including a full page portrait of the publisher. And this June number costs only the usual price, 20 cts. The subscription price is $2 a year. Published by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th St., New York.

VERY MUCH SURPRISED.

I have been afflicted with neuralgia for nearly two years, have tried physicians and all known remedies, but found no permanent relief until I tried a bottle of Dullam's Great German Liniment and it gave me instant and permanent relief. 25 cents per bottle.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 19, 1892

Enough delegates favoring Gen. Harrison have already been chosen to constitute a majority in the Minneapolis Convention. Grandfather's hat seems to have the call at present.

The Hill boomers were counting very confidently on Virginia, but the convention in that state last week was overwhelmingly in favor of Cleveland and sent a solid Cleveland delegation to Chicago.

The Savannah News says that business men visiting New York City are surprised to find that nearly every man they come in contact with favors Cleveland's nomination. Cleveland has the voters, while Hill has the machine.

Mr. Cleveland has had no artful dodgers, no machine, and no Dairy Commissioners, prison inspectors, or canal contractors working for him. Every delegate who goes to Chicago to vote for him goes because the disinterested masses send him there.

"So far as the outlook for the Chicago nomination is concerned," says the Boston Advertiser, "the Cleveland men have a right to feel jubilant. If that 'Western man' is to appear in the contest, he had better get his head above water at once, or forever hold his peace."

The Chicago Tribune (Rep.) thinks that as so many Republican delegations to Minneapolis will go there uninstructed, it is impossible to forecast the decision of the Convention, but that one thing is certain: "The first choice of the Republican party is James G. Blaine."

There are many monopolies in existence to rob the people, and they are on the increase. But the monopoly which lies at the foundation of all others is the monopoly in land. Make landholding unprofitable except for use and all other monopolies would soon be crippled.

If you are not already a subscriber, send 10 cents to The Standard, 42 University Place, New York, for four weeks' subscription. If you are a subscriber and a Single Taxer begin now and send 10 cents a week for the purpose of placing the Standard, for four successive weeks, in the hands of your friends and acquaintances.

"All question of Cleveland aside, Gray is a sheer impossibility as a Presidential quantity," says the Indianapolis News. "The workers know it well, too. Their purpose is simply to beat Cleveland and use Gray to trade for power for themselves. The whole episode begins and ends with a few managing politicians, their interested aiders and abettors. It has not an atom of popular support in it, either in Indiana or the country at large."

Of the delegates already elected to the Democratic National Convention Cleveland has about three-fourths. This computation includes New York, where the snap convention instructed for Hill. The delegates already elected stand: Cleveland 326, Hill 78, Boies 26, doubtful 18. There are over 400 delegates yet to be elected and Cleveland needs but little over half of them to secure the necessary two-thirds required to nominate. It looks as if Grover Cleveland would be inaugurated as President next March.

The Indianapolis Sentinel declares "there is no sense in the Democratic party going East for a Presidential candidate unless it takes Cleveland. The talk about Gorman, Russell, Slocum, Flower, Whitney, Pattison, et al. in connection with the Chicago nomination seems to us a trifling with the situation. They are all good men—some of them away above par—but they are ineligible for the nomination because they live east of the Alleghanies. The only excuse for going to the region which has furnished all our condidates for a generation is to get a great issue. In Mr. Cleveland we have one, and it is a winner. If the Convention does not want a candidate who is in himself an issue, then geographical considerations should govern, and either Gray, or Palmer, or Boies, or Campbell, or some other Western statesman should be chosen."

ANOTHER LIE NAILED.

The Last Legislature Not Only Worked Reforms,

But It Cost Less Than Its Predecessor—The Figures Show the Legislature of 1889 to Be Extravagant.

In the republican platform adopted last fall in the convention of the Fifth Michigan congressional district, and in the resolutions adopted in most republican county and district conventions held in the state this spring for the election of delegates to the state convention at Detroit, the republicans charge that the last legislature was the most extravagant in the history of Michigan.

The charge is true or it is false, and to enable our readers to judge for themselves we give below an accurate, general, itemized statement of the actual expenses of the legislative session of 1889, controlled by the republicans, and the session of 1891 under the democratic management.

REPUBLICAN SESSION 1889.

Per diem expense	$121,850 15
Mileage expense	5,129 70
Stationery for members expense	965 00
Stationery for legislature expense	3,144 95
Postage on Journals expense	3,084 00
Incidental expense	14,538 74
Not specified expense	735 81
Miscellaneous expense	50 00
Total	$149,258 05

See report of auditor general for 1889, pages xxii, 18, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34 and 59. Also for 1890, pages xxii, 18 and 56, to verify the above.

The expenses of the DEMOCRATIC SESSION OF 1891

were as follows:

Per diem expense	$119,080 50
Mileage "	5,131 10
Stationery "	965 00
Stationery for legislature expense	3,073 88
Postage on Journals "	1,740 00
Incidentals "	10,811 08
Not specified "	215 24
Miscellaneous "	350 02
Total	$141,096 82
Difference in favor of the democratic session	8,201 23

See the report of auditor general 1891, pages xxii, 18, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48 and 67, to verify this statement of expenses.

The expense for paper, printing and binding is not given because the items have not been kept entirely separate from the accounts of similar matter furnished the several state departments. But such investigation as the matter has been given justifies the statement that the expense of the session of 1891 for the last mentioned items was very much less than for the session of 1889, and that could these items be accurately ascertained, the saving in expense in favor of the democratic legislature would be considerably increased. The present board of state auditors have made a rule that the state printer shall specify in his requisitions and accounts for what particular purpose material is required, so there will be no difficulty in the future in tracing to its source every item of expense. Another democratic reform, by the way.

The following is a comparison of the expenses of the two sessions for some of the committees of the house of representatives, that the reader can see how economies, though individually small, aggregate large savings:

NAME OF COMMITTEE.	1891	1889
Board of house of correction	$55 50	$88 32
University	31 68	118 20
Industrial home for girls	42 90	99 45
Eastern asylum	67 50	657 72
Elections	891 10	2,019 10
Marquette prison	417 90	836 68
State normal school	55 80	114 00
State public school	57 60	82 20
Asylum at Ionia	57 00	69 60
Northern asylum	101 12	190 20
School of mines	455 50	804 50
Total	$2,032 70	$5,079 97
Democratic saving	$3,047 27

The charges of extravagance of the democratic legislature are completely answered by the facts and the figures, and the legislative session of 1889, which was controlled by the republicans, was, in truth, the most extravagant in the history of the state. The people were none too soon in making a change. Their defeat was the expressed determination of the people at the polls to see what benefits would result from a change. Having seen the advantage of honesty and economy no step will be taken backward, and the next election will indorse the economy of the legislature of 1891 and the administration of the true party of reform.

What Surprised Him.

The bishop of Exeter writes that many years ago while trout fishing he lost his watch and chain, which he supposed had been pulled from his pocket by the bough of a tree.

Some time afterward being in the same neighborhood, he took a stroll by the side of the river, and came to the same secluded spot where, he supposed, he had lost his valuables. To his surprise and delight he found them under a bush.

This anecdote, writes the bishop, caused much amusement to the company in which it was related, and this amusement was added to by the bishop's son, who inquired whether the watch was going when it was found.

"No," replied the bishop. "The wonder was that it was not gone."

The Largest Pair of Shoes.

A Georgia shoemaker has finished the largest pair of shoes ever made for actual use. It took a piece of leather containing 1,040 square inches to make the uppers, and one of 1,960 square inches to make the soles, or exactly 3,000 square inches of leather altogether. If the leather contained in that pair of shoes were cut into strips an eighth of an inch wide it would make a string 24,000 inches long. The soles of this gigantic pair of shoes are 14 inches long and 5½ inches wide. The two combined tipped the scales at exactly 8½ pounds.

WANTON WASTE.

More Exorbitance and Extravagance of Republican Officials.

Pocketknives Galore, Pocketbooks for Everyone and the Taxpayer Foots the Bills—More Knives and Purses Purchased Than Could Be Used in a Generation—$4.50 Knives and $6 Purses.

Public moneys should be spent by public officials with the same regard for economy as they exercise in their private expenditures. Indeed, a stricter economy and more rigid scrupulousness are demanded by every consideration of honor. For a position of trust exists that every interest of those who repose the trust be guarded and fostered. Extravagance begets loose methods. It invites and encourages laxity of subordinates. In fine, when it pervades the public service, it decreases the efficiency of every branch of the service, while heaping the expenses.

The republican state administrations in Michigan for years back were notoriously extravagant. Yet few have believed that such gross and wasteful extravagances prevailed as an investigation exposes. The present democratic administration is known of all to be honest and economical. Even its enemies concede this. This granted, let a look be taken at its predecessors.

The necessities of pocketknives and pocketbooks in the public work conducted in the state capital cannot be very extensive. And the supplies of these two commodities, once obtained, should last for years. Yet in five years a stock larger than many a hardware or stationery house carries was purchased, and at most exorbitant figures. Look at the record given below, and verified by reference to the reports of the board of state auditors, by whom the bills were allowed.

The total shows that $852.14 was spent for pocketknives at an average cost of $1.84 each. Think of that price per knife, Mr. Taxpayer, you who are content to use a 25-cent jackknife. And some of them were purchased at $4.50 each. The mere statement is its own commentary.

The republican officials found use for $210.33 worth of pocketbooks, at an average expense, coin bags and purses not included, of $1.79. Here is the record:

The average taxpayer whittles kindlers with a two-shilling jackknife, half tariff at that, to start a fire at five in the morning that he may put in a full day at seventy-five cents to $1.25. The average state officer and clerk receives from $1,000 to $2,000 a year, works six or seven hours a day, and the republican party made the people pay for his pocketbook in which to carry off his half-earned salary.

"Several of the leading parishioners have complained to me," said the pastor, as he wiped his glasses, "of the loudness of the dresses worn by some of the young ladies of the congregation, but I have refused to interfere in the matter, as I am so deaf that they cause me no annoyance."

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years; I had lost sense of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, my sense of smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh. Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Rendrill, Perry Co., O.

Each day. Most people need to use it.

MRS. LETTIE HUNTLEY,

Is the wife of Mr. W. S. Huntley of Cortland, N. Y., a well known carpenter and builder. Her frank statement below gives only the absolute truth concerning her illness and marvelous recovery by the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She says:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sir: Twelve years ago I began to have hemorrhages and four years ago became so low that the physicians told me

There Was No Hope

and I should soon die. I could not be moved from my bed. Under my face were napkins continually reddened with blood from my mouth. I could eat nothing and had no action of the bowels for a week. The doctors said the cause was ulcers in the stomach. At this time my mother said she wanted to make one more trial, and asked if I would take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I told her it would be

A Waste of Money

but finding it would comfort her, I began taking it. In a few days the bloating began to subside. I seemed to feel a little stronger, but thought it only fancy. I was so weak I could only take ten drops of Sarsaparilla at first. In two weeks I was able to sit up a few minutes every day. In a month I could walk across the room. One day I asked what they were to have for dinner, and said I wanted something hearty. My mother was so happy she cried. It was the

First Time I had Felt Hungry for Two Years

I kept on with Hood's Sarsaparilla and in six months was as well as ever in my life. It is now four years since I recovered, and I have not had a day's sickness since, nor any hemorrhage. If ever a human being thanked the good Lord on bended knees it was I. I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, and that alone, unquestionably Saved my Life."

Messrs. Sawyer & Jennings, the well known druggists of Cortland, say that Mrs. Huntley "is a highly respected lady; her statement of what

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has done for her is worthy the highest confidence." Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

Diagnosis Before Remedies.

The difference with which even men who are supposed to be wise contemplate outbreaks among the poor, with sensational accounts of which the newspapers are often full, affords a curious study. It is like the behavior of those neighbors of Noah who thought the deluge "wouldn't be much of a shower after all." Here and there, however, a note of warning is heard, and we have seen nothing so eloquent as this from the Detroit Journal:

"There are said to be 30,000 unemployed men in Chicago. In Indianapolis there are rioting and bloodshed because of the strike of the street car employes. Nearly half a million of English miners are about to strike to prevent a reduction of wages. The miners of Pennsylvania are paid barely enough to live upon, and they must rent company houses and trade at company stores which rob them as they please. The Pennsylvania miners are practically the slaves of one great corporation. In Spain they are hunting down and garroting those who agitate for a change of the social order. Anarchists are using dynamite in Paris. The unemployed and starving of Austria are turning to suicide for relief. The throne of the kaiser is being assailed by furious mobs of hungry men who are impudently told to emigrate if they are not contented with things as they are in Germany. Famine rules among 30,000,000 of the peasants in Russia. In all parts of the civilized world poverty is taking on more hideous forms, or else the newspapers are more active in presenting the details of human misery. Just above the unemployed and starving are thousands in the social scale for whom one turn of the relentless wheel would mean sharp hunger. By the greatest exertion in the midst of anxiety and fear of want they manage to hang upon the edge of respectability. In some respects theirs is the deepest suffering. The whole world seems in travail, and what is the remedy, if remedy there be?"

To this group of significant facts might now be added the bread riots of Dantzig, and then the story would not be half told. Poverty is indeed the great puzzle of the time. What is the remedy? That is not the primary question. When a doctor is called in cases of sickness, the first question he puts to himself is not "What is the remedy?" but "What is the disease?" And that is the question we must answer for society before the efficacy of any remedy can be considered.

What is the cause of this disease, of which the symptoms are so marked, so general, and so constant, so pitiful, and at times so menacing? It can not be lack of wealth. Wealth is plentiful. But more important than that, far more important, the very men who suffer from want are able to produce enough and more than enough wealth to meet their wants. And those who fear the "turn of the relentless wheel," do they fear lest they may not be able to keep on producing wealth? No, that is not the fear that hovers over them and darkens their lives with its shadow. Neither is inability to produce wealth that prevents the others from lifting themselves out of poverty. If we search for the germ of disease in the incapacity of men to produce what they need, we shall search in vain. The labor power, mental and physical, with which wealth is made, and without which there would be no wealth, we have in abundance. In an army of hungry men there resides all the labor power that is necessary to supply all their wants.

If lack of labor power is not the cause of poverty, is it lack of willingness to labor? As to those who fear the "turn of the relentless wheel," that can not be, they are now working, and their great anxiety is not that they may be compelled to keep on working, but that somehow they may be prevented from working. And as to those who are without work, is it not work that they ask for? What did the bread rioters of Germany demand? Not bread, but work. Not charity, but a chance to trade the only thing they have, labor power, for the products of other labor power. There was no bread riot in Berlin when the boom was on and building was brisk. He must be a very poor social doctor who, in the face of common and general facts which point away from this explanation, insists that poverty and the fear of poverty are due to the indolence of the poor.

Is it not obvious that the real trouble is lack of opportunity to work? But why should there be any lack of opportunity to work when all who want are willing to work in supplying want? How can there be lack of work while want exists? With demand for the products of work, and ability and willingness to do work, why should any suffer?

Look a little further. While all who suffer are able and willing to work, the ability of each is limited to the production of only one kind of thing, or, at best, of a few kinds. Some can build houses, some can contribute in various ways to the production of food, some in various ways to the production of clothing, some to the production of luxuries. Each wants a little of all these things, but not as much as he can make. Then why does not each make what he can make to best advantage, and trade with those who make other things, until the wants of all are satisfied? Nature has given us oceans and rivers to facilitate such trade, and man's inventiveness has added devices almost without number; while, back of this, nature has supplied raw material in abundance. With exhaustless raw material for the production of wealth, with millions of laborers of all grades, from the unskilled "hand" to the inventor, and with channels of trade through which products flow smoothly to the points where they are wanted and to the people who want them, why should any be poor, why should any be in fear of poverty?

Is not the inference irresistible that trade must be interfered with, so as to keep the workingman as consumer away from the workingman as producer? Manifold facts verify the inference. But underneath is the fact that raw materials for the production of all forms of wealth are treated as private property, so that producers are compelled to divide their products with the owners of the raw material. Land, being limited, increases in value, so as to take a growing proportion from the producer for the benefit of the landowner. Thus land, becoming a safe, and taking a period of years together an exceptionally certain and profitable investment, is appropriated on speculation ahead of its demand for use. Hence our unworked coal fields, our unworked farm lands, our unimproved city lots. No one can use them without permission of an owner, who demands a price that makes profitable production nearly or quite impossible without skill of a very high and unusual order. For that reason the less skillful, deprived of opportunities to work for themselves, become competitors for opportunities to work for others. The competition grows keen, as the process goes on, and wages fall. With falling wages, consumption declines; and as consumption declines opportunities for other laborers to supply consumption are narrowed. The outcome is an unemployed class. That point reached, a social earthquake is only a matter of keeping on.

If this is not the explanation of poverty, will the Detroit Journal give one—an explanation of the disease, and not as is so often done, a mere speculation about some of its symptoms? And if our explanation is the true one, will the Journal tell us why this is not a just and effectual remedy. Abolish all taxation on wealth, so that it can be produced, owned, enjoyed and exchanged without arbitrary interference; and raise all public revenues from the value of land, so that users of superior land will have no arbitrary advantage over users of land not so good, and that unused land will be abandoned.—The Standard.

"A Worser Man Than Henry George."

Judge Judkins, in giving his "opinion" in the disbarment of App M. Smith from the practice of the law in our circuit court, for being the author of certain articles published in the press of this city, said: "These utterances sound much like the utterances of Henry George, but in some way a good deal worse. They are anarchistic in their way, tend to destroy good order, and tend to bring lawyers, juries, and judges into contempt, obloquy, and disgrace, without any foundation in fact, and are centemptuous."

Now most people who are ordinarily intelligent as to the current issues of the day do not object to having their utterances sound like those of Henry George; but those who have not read of the many works of Henry George on political economy, and especially in advocacy of single tax, and who do not know anything about who he is, nor what he advocates, and could not understand him if they did, are likely to fall into a belief that he is a most terrible kind of a fellow. It therefore did not surprise us at all that a man of such limited information as Judge Judkins should fall into such a blunder and remain in it until he went to dinner that day with C. H. Bender, the well-known single tax advocate and stenographer of the court, who doubtless pointed out to the "learned judge" who Henry George was, and what his utterances were. And then the honorable judicial dignitary hastened back to the court room, and when he called court to order that afternoon proceeded, in "a holy minute," to instruct Mr. Bender to change the name of Henry George, where it appeared in his opinion, to that of Johann Most. But the attorneys who were concerned in the prosecution and disbarment of the attorney aforesaid have not yet caught on to why the judge made the change. They can not understand why it wasn't just as well to compare Smith to "one anarchist" as it was to compare him to "another." Their obtuse visions have not yet discovered why some people laugh at the incident and jeer at their ignorance.—Manistee (Mich.) Democrat.

Coal Baron and Farmer.

As it is proposed to apply the single tax system to farm as well as coal lands, let me add that the change would probably be welcomed by the farmer, for the reason that under it he, too, would be assessed only on the value of his land, as indicated by the highest amount his farm would rent for annually is stripped of all its improvements, including buildings, fences, etc.

As the ordinary farm with improvements will rent very low to-day, the average farmer will see that his farm assessment and tax would be greatly reduced under this modern tax system, while, besides enjoying freedom from taxation on personal property and improvements, as well as from all tariff taxes on his supplies, his coal, which now costs him five to ten dollars a ton, would, on account of the effect of the single tax on mining lands, be reduced to probably two to four dollars.

Tariff reform promises to reduce the cost of the farmer's manufactured supplies. The single tax promises to go further in the same direction by giving the farmer his iron, coal and oil at much lower prices than he ever paid.—James Bartley, in N. Y. World.

I WARN ministers, and I warn landowners and the aristocracy of this country, against forcing upon the attention of the middle and industrial classes, the subject of taxation. For great as I believe the grievance of the protective system, mighty as I consider the fraud and injustice of the corn laws, I verily believe, if you were to bring forward the history of taxation in this country for the last 150 years, you will find as black a record against the landowners as even in the corn law itself. I warn them against ripping up the subject of taxation. If they want another league at the death of this one—if they want another organization and a motive—then let them force the middle and industrial classes to understand how they have been cheated, robbed and bamboozled.—Richard Cobden.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

Work of the National Lawmakers in Senate and House.

A Daily Summary of the Proceedings in the Senate and House — Bills Passed and New Measures Introduced.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A bill was introduced in the senate yesterday creating a new grade of letter carriers, to receive $1,200 per annum. A bill was passed appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Pierre, S. D. A resolution was presented from the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, assembled at Omaha, Neb. (representing 2,500,000 members and 10,000,000 adherents), heartily approving the world's fair appropriation bill, "providing expressly that it be conditioned on closing the exposition on Sunday."

WASHINGTON, May 13.—In the senate yesterday bills were introduced authorizing the president to proclaim a general holiday commemorating the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America, on October 12, 1892, and to encourage American shipbuilding. The naval appropriation bill was considered and the nomination of T. Jefferson Coolidge, of Massachusetts, to be minister to France was confirmed.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A favorable report was made in the senate yesterday on the bill requiring the heads of the executive departments to dismiss from the public service all persons who are not citizens of the United States and prohibiting the appointment of such persons in the future. The naval appropriation bill was considered. Adjourned to the 16th.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—In the house yesterday a favorable report was made on the bill to remove the duty on silver lead ore. Mr. Bland offered an amendment to the sundry civil bill requiring that appropriations be paid in silver. The amendment was ruled out. Mr. Watson gave notice that hereafter the alliance members would object to all requests for unanimous consent.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—In the house yesterday the time was occupied in committee of the whole in discussing the sundry civil appropriation bill.

A resolution was adopted for the investigation of the Pinkerton agency.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—In the house yesterday the entire day was spent in filibustering against a private bill.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A committee was appointed in the house on Saturday to investigate the affairs of the Freedman's bank and the Freedman's Saving and Trust Company. The death of Senator Barbour, of Virginia, was announced, and appropriate resolutions were adopted.

DEED OF A FIEND.

Murder of an Iowa Woman and Her Daughter by a Relative.

CRESTON, Ia., May 14.—A foul murder is reported from Prescott. William Coon, a poor farmer living one and a half miles from Prescott, left home Wednesday morning for Brooks. He returned Thursday afternoon and when he entered his home saw lying upon the bed, his wife and 10-year-old daughter, dead. Mr. Coon alarmed the neighbors and a party immediately set out for town as soon as it was learned that a young farm hand named James Dooley, a nephew of Mr. Coon, was not to be found about the place. In Prescott it was learned that young Dooley had brought a forged order to a hardware firm there for a revolver and had obtained it. He evidently returned home and committed the murder and then hastily departed. Mrs. Coon's screaming alarmed the little girl, who started to run. Dooley, deliberately shot the child and then overpowered the mother, tied her to the bed, and then shot her through the head. He then took a team belonging to Mr. Coon and was seen going north in the afternoon. The whole neighborhood was soon in arms and a dozen posses of citizens went in pursuit of Dooley.

Dooley was captured at Villisca Thursday night, and confessed to reporter in jail. He claims the crime arose from a quarrel about herding cattle, but it is believed he attempted to outrage Mrs. Coons and then killed her and the little girl. Lynching is feared.

Jonathan Blanchard Dead.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Jonathan Blanchard, president emeritus of Wheaton college, died at his home in Wheaton, Ill., Saturday. Jonathan Blanchard was born in Rockingham, Vt., January 19, 1811; graduated under Rev. Dr. Lyman Beecher at the age of 21, and was prominent in church work and an active federal agitator during his early life, later established the Herald and Presbyter, and when he died was editor of the Christian Cynosure. In 1846 he was made president of Knox college at Galesburg, Ill., and retained the position until 1860, when he came to Wheaton college, where he was president until 1882.

Changed the Date.

OMAHA, Neb., May 14.—The national executive committee of the people's party has decided to call the convention for July 2, instead of July 4. Temporary organization will be effected on that day, so that the nominations can be made on July 4.

The Fourteenth Victim.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—James Pigeon, a victim of the Central theater fire, died Sunday morning after suffering over two weeks from burns and other injuries received while making his escape from the theater. He was the fourteenth victim.

New Bridge at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—The new steel bridge across the Mississippi river at this place was opened for traffic at noon yesterday with imposing ceremonies. The structure is nearly 3 miles long and cost $2,500,000.

Death of Senator Barbour.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—John S. Barbour, United States senator from Virginia, died at his residence in this city Saturday of heart failure, aged 72 years.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such, that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

ESTATE OF JOSEPH HARBESON.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday the 27th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Joseph Harbeson, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charles Burridge, admin'r of the estate of said deceased, alleging the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred have been fully paid, and that he is now ready to close said estate and to render his final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed to the parties entitled thereto, that he may be discharged and his bond canceled, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, that Monday, the 23rd day of May, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

RICHARD B. ROBBINS, Judge of Probate.

THE COLONIAL TEA.

A NEW AND UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY THE W. R. C.

The Opera House Thronged on Tuesday Evening to See the Relics and Old-Time Characters, and Listen to the Program of Exercises.

What is a Colonial Tea? This question has been frequently propounded during the past week by inquisitive persons. It was reserved for the members of the Tecumseh W. R. C. to demonstrate to a curious public, on Tuesday evening, exactly what a Colonial Tea signifies.

We arrived on the scene of action about five o'clock P. M. and at that hour the opera house presented the appearance of a veritable curiosity shop. The body of the floor was taken up with four refreshment tables. On the west side, under the galley, was located a nice little tent, occupied by a gypsy fortune teller. She was thoroughly gifted in the art of divination and entertained an eager and expectant crowd during the entire evening. The fee was one nickle for each fortune told, and the gypsy's purse was well filled when the exercises closed. Under the East gallery a row of tables and showcases was arranged for the display of the relics on exhibition. And such a conglomeration of old-time curiosities has seldom been seen in this town. Crockery and glass ware, wearing apparel and bedding, war relics and bric-a-brac of various kinds, old books whose age could be counted by centuries, candlesticks and household utensils filled the tables and showcases and adorned the wall under the windows. We doubt whether a more complete collection of relics has ever been exhibited in Tecumseh. The stage was utilized in a similar manner. The kitchen scenes were set and ranged about the stage were ancient articles of household furniture: A bed and bedstead 200 years old, a hall clock that began marking time 150 years ago, a spinning wheel and reel, a flax wheel, a dressing case and mirror over 100 years old, and many other articles, faded and rickety with age. Engaged in conversation upon the stage or mingling with the spectators on the floor were several historical characters. Christopher Columbus and wife, General and Lady Washington were there. Priscilla and her spinning wheel attracted much attention. Miles Standish and John Alden were there in all their glory. The valiant Capt. John Smith and the beautiful Pocahontas lent their charms to the occasion. Peaceful Wm. Penn shed his blandest smile on the scene. Two Indian warriors were there, attired in the panoply of war and decked out in fuss and feathers. Miss Franc Aten, operating an old-fashioned flax wheel, always had a crowd of admirers about her.

Following is a list of the characters assumed and the ladies and gentlemen personifying them. They were all appropriately attired and carried their respective roles to perfection.

J. W. Wightman—Christopher Columbus.
Miss Blanche Taylor—Mrs. Columbus.
Dr. F. O. Tefft—Miles Standish.
Will Hayden—John Alden.
Miss Edith Woodward—Priscilla.
Percy Fitzsimmons—George Washington.
Miss Grace Stevens—Martha Washton.
W. J. Ingersoll—William Penn.
S. S. Walker—Tecumseh, Indian chief.
W. P. Bidwell—King Philip.
Miss Isabelle Davis—Pocahontas.
T. D. Strong—Capt. John Smith.
Miss Anna Osborne—Gypsy Fortune Teller.
Ed Hollister—Schoolmaster.

The ladies who had charge of the relics and refreshment tables, as also the girls who acted as table waiters, were attired in old-time costumes which were fashionable in the Revolutionary era, and the tables were set, as far as possible, after the old colonial style. Black dresses, large white aprons and white caps constituted the prevailing dress of the matrons, while most of the girls were arrayed in finery and flashy colors, cut in ancient fashion. The exhibits, the historical characters represented, the old-style dresses and all the surroundings carried one back, in imagination at least, to the good old colonial times.

The doors were opened to spectators at four o'clock and the first supper table was served at five. For fully three hours thereafter the tables were crowded and there was a perfect crush during the whole evening. In fact the crowd was so large as to interfere somewhat with inspecting the relics and curiosities, but it was a good natured crowd. All felt at home, both old and young, and all enjoyed themselves.

At eight o'clock Mrs. A. W. Mills, President of the W. R. C., called the assemblage to order to listen to the program of exercises. At that hour every available part of the main floor was occupied and the galleries were well filled besides. The program was announced in the order given below. Although short it was well received. The song by Lady Washington was beautifully rendered, and Chas. Joslyn's solo was greeted with an encore. The "spellin' skewl," managed by Ed Hollister as pedagogue, was "perfectly killing" and kept the audience in a roar. It was a fitting finale to the exercises.

Song—Capt. John Smith and wife.
Speech—George Washington.
Song—Martha Washington.
Remarks upon his wife—Christopher Columbus.
Song—Capt. John Smith and wife.
Remarks—S. C. Stacy.
Song—Chas. Joslyn.
Spellin' Skewl—Conducted by the Skewlmaster.
Song by the audience—Marching Through Georgia.

At the conclusion of the program the crowd began to disperse, but not until a late hour had the spectators all departed for their homes. The affair from first to last was certainly a grand success and reflected the highest credit upon the Relief Corps. The officers of the Corps bore the brunt of the battle, but all the members were enrolled on the working committee and they were ably assisted by the members of the G. A. R., S. of V. and many outsiders. We think that the exhibition of relics might have been continued through the day (Wednesday) to good advantage. We set out Tuesday evening to make a complete list of these, but found it utterly impossible to do so. Yesterday morning we succeeded in gathering a partial list, which will give our readers a faint idea of the exhibits displayed. Those who are left out should take no offense, as a majority are in that category. The owner's name is given first, followed by the article or articles loaned.

Obituary.

Betsey Durling was born near Seneca Falls, N. Y., April 10, 1821, and died in Tecumseh, Mich., May 11, 1892. The funeral services were held from her late residence May 13th, conducted by Rev. O. J. Perrin, of the M. E. church, and was largely attended by sympathizing friends.

Mrs. Durling was twice married, the last time to Mr. Durling, a soldier in the late war. She leaves two sons and one daughter: Mr. Henry Fairmount, of Oregon, Mr. Elery Fairmount, of Jackson, Mich., and Mrs. Brown, of Britton, Mich. She was for nearly forty years a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal church. She was also an active member of the W. R. C. of this place.

Her life was one of usefulness, benevolence and charity. One of the prominent traits of her character was cheerfulness. The foundation of cheerfulness is love, hope and patience. Love begets love and prompts to acts of loving kindness. Love cherishes hopeful and kind thoughts of others. It is charitable, gentle and truthful. It is a discerner of good in others. It turns ever to the bright side of things and its face is always directed towards happiness. It encourages happy thoughts and lives in the atmosphere of cheerfulness. It costs nothing and is invaluable, for it blesses its possessor and springs up in abundant happiness in the bosom of others.

Thus Mrs. Durling endeared herself to her own family and those around her, causing her removal from home and society to the better land to be the more deeply deplored.

Such noble lives make the world better because they lived in it. But though sadness fills the hearts of dear ones left behind, yet they "sorrow not even as others which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him."

Lenawee County Teachers' Association.

The next meeting of the County Teachers' Association will be held in the high school building at Adrian, on Saturday, May 28th, 1892, beginning at 9 o'clock a. m. The program has not been fully completed as yet, but will consist of papers and addresses by prominent educators of the county, model classes, etc. The superintendent of public instruction, Hon. Ferris S. Fitch, has promised to attend if circumstances will permit. Let all teachers of Lenawee county make an extra effort to attend this meeting and assist in making it the most enjoyable as well as the most profitable one of the year.

C. F. FIELD, Pres.
Clara Sheffield, Sec.

To the Women of Lenawee County.

The Lenawee county central committee appeal to all women of this county, who desire to make exhibits at the Columbian exposition, to communicate their wishes to the chairmen of their respective townships, or to Mrs. Anna M. Miller, chairman of the central committee for Lenawee county, at the earliest date possible, in order that they may be furnished blanks for application for space, which is being rapidly taken and should be secured by July.

By order of the committee for Lenawee county exhibit of women's work.

ANNA M. MILLER, Chairman.
MRS. C. E. WEAVER, Secretary.

Lovina Schreder is absent from school because of sickness.

The seniors are working on their commencement productions.

Miss Blanche Gage visited some of the departments of the high school last Thursday.

German II., having finished Wilhelm Tell, are now reading Der Staat Friedrich des Grossen.

The seniors are compelled to attend only a small part of the time during the afternoon session, a privilege much appreciated.

Last Saturday afternoon the botany class mounted some of the specimens donated by Mr. Dewey for the reference herbarium. The work will be completed at an early date.

National Educational Association.

The National Educational Association is the largest assembly of its kind in the world. Its 20th session meets this year in Saratoga July 12-15. Michigan teachers have arranged a delightful trip on this occasion. The route takes in Toronto, Thousand Islands, Rapids of the St. Lawrence, Montreal, Lake Champlain and Lake George to Saratoga, and return by Albany, Rochester and Niagara Falls. The cost of the round trip is but $16.34. Tickets good to October 1st, and stop-over allowed at several points. The excursion is not confined to teachers. Any desiring further particulars can get them by writing to D. S. Wagstaff, Detroit, Mich.

Card of Thanks.

The members of the family of the late Mrs. Durling extend their most sincere thanks to those who so kindly assisted and sympathized with them in their recent bereavement.

Local and Miscellaneous

Jud DePuy, of Detroit, was in town Tuesday.

Tecumseh was represented at Adrian Saturday by a big delegation.

Co. C. went to Adrian yesterday with a good number of men in the ranks.

Mrs. O. B. DeWolf and Donald James went to Detroit yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Roof, of South Bend, have been the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Wm. C. Heck, for the past week.

All regular season ticket holders will be entitled to admission free to the Philharmonic Concert next Thursday evening.

This looks more like spring and it behooves us to "git there" with roller skates, a wheel, or a tang. Which style do you choose?

A company for the manufacture of rake, hoe and fork handles from Wapakoneta, Ohio, have decided to locate in Adrian. They already employ forty hands.

E. A. Blackman, editor of the Hillsdale Democrat and Coldwater Sun, died last Sunday. In his decease the profession loses an able journalist and Hillsdale an honored citizen.

The boom edition of the Adrian Messenger, printed last week, was a model issue, both editorially and typographically. It was illustrated with cuts of many of the finest buildings in the city and was printed on tinted book paper. Editor Grandon has good reason to feel proud over his achievement. A better edition of a newspaper was never issued in that city.

Frank Tucker's minstrel troupe is all he claims for it, and by far the best that has visited the smaller cities in the state in years. He was greeted with a full house Tuesday night, and the people were uniformly well pleased. The music was first-class throughout, the fun brilliant and harmless, and nothing said or done offensive to any lady or gentleman.—Grand Ledge Independent, April 29. At Sutton's Opera House, Saturday, May 21. Admission 25 and 35 cents.

Tickets for the Detroit Philharmonic Concert can be obtained of S. W. Anderson, J. H. Smith, S. P. Hosmer or C. F. Reid. All persons who purchased season tickets last fall, will be entitled to admission ticket to this concert free. In order to meet a possible deficiency and at the same time avoid confusion during the crowd, reserved seats will be sold the same as heretofore, for 10 cts extra. The reserved seat sale will open at Adamson's Tuesday, May 24th, at 7 a. m., standard. Patrons of the course will be asked to leave their badges for the next season's course with the committee when they procure their admission tickets to the concert.

Strawberry shortcake was on the dinner bill of fare at the Lilley House last Sunday.

Dr. H. L. Stewart started for the South again last Sunday. He went via Chicago.

T. J. Moore, of Chicago, representing the Universalist Publishing House, was in town last week.

Frank Tucker's Minstrel troupe will hold forth at the Opera house next Saturday evening.

If you want a good hearty laugh about two hours long, go to the opera house next Saturday evening.

Slayton & Avery are now using the old Silvers barn on Railroad street for a wagon rack factory.

W. R. Brosie, of Decatur, Ill., was in town Tuesday, and remained over to attend the Colonial Tea that evening.

See the new Wash Fabrics in Llama Cl[illegible] Twills and India Muslins, at ANDERSON & Co's.

T[illegible]e Co. is booming right along this spring. Orders are plenty and prospects for futnre trade were never better.

There was a change in the Lake Shore time card last Sunday, but the changes do not effect the passenger trains passing this station.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Harriet Webster has been quite ill for several weeks with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

The orchards are blossoming out beautifully this week. Vegetation of all kinds is making a wonderful growth since the rains stopped.

Mrs. Jas. Wilson, of Detroit, who has been visiting at her mother's, Mrs. N. M. Sutton's, for several days, will remain two or three weeks longer.

Mr. Teeple, our new artist, has been obliged to employ another hand to keep pace with his increasing business. Mr. Palmer, late of Port Huron, is the man.

The students of "Raisin Institute" will hold their eighth annual reunion at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Grandville Knight, in Adrian township, June 2d.

Mr. J. H. Smith, Secretary of the Table Co. has lately designed a new library table, which is a beauty. The factory is now turning out a large batch of them.

A letter from E. V. DePuy, at Beatrice, Neb., shows that he is still on deck. They are having an unusual amount of rain there this spring, the same as with us.

The A. O. Miller troupe played "The Widow" at the opera house last Thursday evening to rather a slim audience. They did not remain to fill their engagement on Friday evening.

The big egg season has arrived and Tom Boyd takes the cake up to date. He laid on our table yesterday an egg, manufactured by one of his ducks, that measures 7 1-2 by 9 1-2 inches.

Tom Elliott has bought the house occupied by Sam Shutt. He will demolish the old house soon and erect a handsome modern residence which will be an ornament to Chicago Street.

Dr's Catlin & Tefft have fitted up their new office rooms very nicely. They moved their furniture in last Monday and can now be found during business hours at their new quarters.

The last number of the Harvey, Ill., Citizen contains a portrait and biographical sketch of G. P. Waring. Our whilom Ridgeway friend is evidently getting to the front in the magic city.

Arrangements have been made to hold the Lake Shore train next Thursday evening, May 26th, for the benefit of the Clinton and Manchester people who wish to attend the Philharmonic concert.

H. L. Crane now has his residence at Minneapolis. He is still in the employ of the Hartford Steam boiler Co. and is doing well. He would be glad to see some of his Tecumseh friends during the Republican National Convention.

Vet Erskin's barber, Jack Bailey, is an artist in more ways than one. The walls of the shop are adorned with several landscape paintings, the result of his handiwork. They are finely executed pictures and add much to the beauty of the room.

George W. Childs, the Philadelphia philanthropist, signalized his visit to the World's Fair grounds on May 5th by planting a linden tree on the "wooded island." Mr. Childs has donated to the Exposition a number of rare and beautiful palm trees from his conservatory. He is very enthusiastic over the Fair and its prospects.

Frank Benedict has gone to Detroit to work.

Geo. Schreder, of Jackson, is in town this week.

Mrs. Fisher and daughter, Gertrude, went to Detroit yesterday.

"Safe from harm

—everything that is washed with Pearline. It is well to have washing done easily, but nothing is saved unless it is done safely. Pearline separates the dirt from anything that is washable—clothes, paint, dishes or hands—without harm and with little work. All that it needs is a trial; all that you need is Pearline.

Beware of imitations which are being peddled from door to door. First quality goods do not require such desperate methods to sell them. PEARLINE sells on its merits, and is manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.

HERE is a GOOD THING for YOU
A MAN, OR WOMAN,

of intelligence and sufficient enough to know a "GOOD THING" at sight, but who has Lost the Most Precious Possession on Earth, viz., GOOD HEALTH, WILL NOT require a SECOND TELLING to be induced to become a purchaser

DR. GREGG'S ELECTRIC BELTS & APPLIANCES.

Do you know why? Because it is plain to be seen that the TRUTH ONCE TOLD is enough. The Surprising Promptness with which all classes of people respond to our announcements, and the rapidly increasing demand for Dr. Gregg's Goods wherever introduced, conclusively prove that true modesty is always recognized and the quality of merit takes care of itself. Metaphorically our statement is the Button—the Public Press it, and

DR. GREGG'S ELECTRIC SPECIALTIES
"Do the Rest."

The extent of Pressure on the button and the success of Dr. Gregg's Goods in "Doing the Rest" is most satisfactorily shown in the marvelous growth of our business the past 90 days.

Repeated and increasing demands for The Gregg Electric "Foot Warmer" are coming in from all parts of the country with profuse acknowledgements that so much comfort for $1.00 the price is like buying Gold Dollars for ten cents.

The Delicate Organism of Woman subjects her to many peculiar ailments and unfortunate misery. The extreme sensitiveness of her Nervous System very frequently requires artificial stimulus. The Gregg Electric Belt and other Appliances supply this as nothing else can.

The Rugged Constitution of Man, when once broken, becomes pitiable in the extreme, from which there is absolutely no escape without assistance. The Gregg Electric Belts and Appliances in cases of this kind have honestly won their title of King of Remedies.

Rheumatism is conquered, sufferers from Obesity are speedily relieved, Paralysis quickly yields, spinal difficulties and Paralysis disappear, and many other diseases of Men and Women are permanently cured, fully described in complete catalogue for 6c, or elaborate circular free. We guarantee to forfeit twice the price of any of Dr. Gregg's goods found not to be genuine. We make an elegant little $3 Electric Belt, which is selling very rapidly and which we take in exchange for any higher power belt except $5 belt, and credit $3 on the price of new order. Remember the Electric Foot warmers are $1 a pair, worth $10. Address

ALL UNDER WATER.

Great Suffering from Floods in Kansas and Missouri.

Residents Forced to Move Out of Their Homes. Using Boats as Means of Escape — Worst Flood for Many Years.

THE GREAT FRESHET.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14.—The Missouri river is still rising. Rain is falling heavily all over Kansas and all through the Missouri valley. The Kaw swept away a new bridge at Lawrence Friday with two carpenters, John Kemmiller and Herbert Otis, who were finishing the plank flooring. Allof Harlem is being forced to move by the watery waste, which is rapidly shaking every house from its foundation. There is a chance that the river will change its course here, throwing open a great deal of valuable switch land that is now inaccessible on account of the course of the stream. The steamer A. L. Mason has been busy removing families, and the ferries have taken care of the animals and fowls.

From Arrow Rock, 100 miles down the river, news comes of the tearing up of several farm houses. The family of Peter Embery, five in number, living near there, is missing, and all are believed to have been drowned. James Galvin, a railway section boss, was drowned here Thursday night.

In Armourdale much damage is done to property. Many houses are half under water and families are vacating them on the run. The water has backed up into the sewers, and this morning was running out of the catch-basins and manholes at such a rapid rate that City Engineer Ellis ordered the street commissioners to fill up the sewers with sand. Wagon-load after wagon-load was thrown into the catch basins and manholes by the street commissioner and his men and considerable of the flow was shut off. Shawnee park in Armourdale is to-day a great lake. The water is 3 feet deep. The yards of the Consolidated Tank Line Company are under water and the engine room is threatened. Operations in the slaughtering department of the Phoenix packing house are suspended on account of the water, which is backed up into the building. The water in the yards is running over the top of the fences. A portion of the Badger Lumber Company's yard is under water. No less than fifty families in Armourdale have been forced to vacate their homes.

A dozen families living on the flats on the west bank of the Kaw between Central and Spitlog avenues in Kansas City, Kan., were compelled to leave their dwellings and their goods were taken out in boats and skiffs. The flats are occupied by about twenty-five small dwellings. In Argentine several families living on the north side of the city have been obliged to move out. The electric light and waterworks power house is inundated and the machinery was shut down.

At Lawrence the Kaw river by noon to-day had risen 2 feet in the previous eighteen hours and was still rising. It is now 10 feet above the crest of the dam, a point not reached since 1878. Serious damage has been done, and a few inches more will be disastrous. Water has licked up in the old river bed above the city on the north side. If it goes much higher it will sweep North Lawrence. It is already running under the Union Pacific track. Men are at work at all points.

At Glasgow the Missouri and Grand rivers have overflowed and the fertile sections between the Missouri and the Chariton, known as the 'big bottom,' is under water. Thousands of acres of growing grain and fine pastures are being ruined. The loss already is estimated at $100,000 there. In the river counties down in Missouri the loss is estimated by a steamboat captain to be more than $250,000. Arrow Creek has sent a message to this city for relief, saying that everybody is being driven out of house and home.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—The river at 7 p. m. passed the danger line, 32 feet, and is still rising. The situation all along the river front grows worse hourly. The Wiggins transfer yards are 2 to 10 feet under water. Switch men stand neck-deep to throw switches and engines push loaded cars with long trains of empties between them and the engines in order to keep in shallow water and prevent the extinguishing of the fires. The Farmers' elevator is now 600 yards in the river, but is surrounded by dead water and in little danger. By the gas works the bank is caving in and 100,000 bushels of coke are threatened. Arsenal island is washing away. Part of it is gone and more is going.

At Brooklyn 200 acres of truck patches are destroyed. Chouteau island is under water, thus ruining 3,600 acres of farming land for the season. Gabonet island, 1,500 acres, is all under water. Carr island is inundated and the people living in all these places are dependent upon the neighboring settlements for shelter. The rise is going on at an inch an hour.

CARROLLTON, Ill., May 16.—The Illinois river is still rising at the rate of one-half inch an hour and great damage is being done to meadows and growing wheat in the western portion of this county. The Hartwell, Keach and Keeley levees broke Saturday and there are now about 3,000 acres of wheat and meadows under water in this county. Large herds of cattle have been driven to the hills and families are moving out.

CAHOKIA, Ill., May 16.—The embankment of the Conlogue Railroad Company, about 200 feet long, has given way and the town is flooded to the depth of several feet. No lives have been lost, but a large amount of damage has been done.

INDEPENDENCE, Ia., May 16.—Eight days' continuous rain and a cloudburst in the eastern part of the county caused four bridges to go out and the lowlands are flooded. A Danish family, consisting of the man, wife and child, attempted to cross a bridge just before it went down. The bridge gave way while they were on it and all were drowned. The damage to seed in the ground is enormous. Pine creek rose 7 feet in one hour.

CHOLERA MAY RAGE.

Precautions Being Taken in View of the Apprehended Danger.

LONDON, May 14.—There is some reason to fear another extensive cholera scare this summer. Great precautions are being taken in view of the apprehended danger to put all possible obstacles in the way of the westward spread of the scourge from its breeding places in the Orient. At the request of the various European governments the authorities of Egypt are exercising unusual vigilance to prevent that country being traversed by the disease. It is epidemic in the interior of Arabia and frightful accounts of its ravages come from that region. Hundreds are dying daily from this cause. At Harrar, where thousands have died, the epidemic is now abating. Fugitives from the stricken district arriving at the coast estimate the mortality at 15,000 during the last fortnight. Commerce is paralyzed and no caravans have arrived from the interior since the middle of April. The deadly effects of the disease are said to be unparalleled.

FORGOT HIS ORDERS.

Carelessness of a Railway Agent in Ohio Causes the Loss of Five Lives.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—Station Agent Smith, who officiates for the Big Four railroad at Cleves, O., 15 miles from this city, made a mistake Sunday morning. He forgot a change that had been made in the running time of a local passenger train, and the result was that five men were killed, two fatally injured and six wounded more or less seriously. The killed are:

N. O. Edwards, of Greensburgh, Ind., engineer of the freight train. William Higgs, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., engineer of the passenger train. David Heywood, of Indianapolis, conductor of the freight. Hiram Bruce, of Greensburg, Ind., extra fireman of the passenger train. Philip Gribben, of Lawrenceburg, baggage master of the passenger train.

The fatally injured are:

John Shrader, of Lawrenceburg, conductor of the passenger train, injured internally and cut on the head, causing concussion of the brain, he cannot recover. Holton Terrill, a commuter of Lawrenceburg, badly scalded and cannot live.

WOMEN ADJOURN.

The Club Congress at Chicago Elects Officers and Closes Its Sessions.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The conference of the general federation of women's clubs adjourned sine die Friday after electing the following officers:

President, Mrs. Charlotte Emerson Brown, of New Jersey; first vice president, Mrs. J. D. Harvey, of Chicago; recording secretary, Mrs. J. C. Croly, of New York; corresponding secretary, Miss May B. Temple, of Tennessee; treasurer, Mrs. Jane O. Cooper, of Colorado; auditor, Mrs. H. H. Robinson, of Massachusetts. Board of directors—Mrs. Lilla M. Ketchum, Indiana; Mrs. E. C. Sterling, Missouri; Miss May Rogers, Iowa; Mrs. Faunie P. Palmer, Rhode Island; Mrs. Mary Mumford, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Massachusetts; Miss Catherine Nobles, Louisiana; Mrs. Lindon W. Bates, California; Miss Octavio W. Bates, Michigan.

KING OF BIGAMISTS.

One Hundred and Twenty Women Inquire About John Anderson.

CLEVELAND, O., May 16.—John Anderson, probably the greatest bigamist in the United States, was sentenced Saturday to seven years at hard labor in the penitentiary for grand larceny. Just prior to his departure from the jail letters were received from two more women claiming him as husband. The exact number of his wives never will be known. Over 120 women have sent inquiries concerning him, asserting that they had been deserted by a man answering his description. It is believed that he has made a systematic business of marrying women, taking their property and deserting them.

DESTROYED BY A CYCLONE.

Fifteen Houses in a Kansas Town Smashed Into Kindling Wood.

AUGUSTA, Kan., May 14.—A cyclone struck this city at 6 o'clock Friday. It tore through the south end of town, destroying every house in its path. Fifteen residences were torn to kindling wood and scattered far and wide. The Santa Fé stock yards were blown down and the Santa Fe wires are all down. Ellsworth Hadley and Frank Marsh are badly hurt. The funnel-shaped cloud could be seen distinctly for an hour before it reached the city, circling about high in the southwest. No loss of life can be learned of. Nearly all the wires are down.

Return of Baron Fava.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Baron Fava, the Italian minister to the United States, arrived here Sunday per steamer La Gascogne. Baron Fava expressed his pleasure at returning to the United States, where, he said, he had formed many good friends. He has always worked, he said, and would continue to work to strengthen the friendly relations existing between the two countries and between the king of Italy and the president of the United States.

The President Off for a Week's Outing.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The president, accompanied by Mrs. Harrison, Miss. Dimmick and Lieut. and Mrs. Parker, left here Saturday afternoon on the lighthouse tender Jessamine for a trip down the river and bay. Fortress Monroe will be visited, and it is expected the party will be absent from the city until the latter part of next week.

Three Young Men Drowned.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—During a squall Sunday afternoon a rowboat in the Delaware river containing five young men and boys was capsized and three of the occupants—Lewis Tiernere, 19 years old; Charles Anderson (colored), 22 years old, and George Roalt, 24 years old—were drowned.

Oklahoma People's Party.

GUTHRIE, O. T., May 16.—The territorial convention of the people's party was held here Saturday and delegates were chosen to the national convention who favor James B. Weaver for president.

Dr. O. J. Fay & Co.:
Gentlemen,—It is with pleasure that we reply to your letter asking about our success with Dr. Fay's New Treatment for Consumption. Six months ago we gave our first order and since then we have sold eight times as much as our first order amounted to more than any other lung medicine we sell. Our customers after once using it want no other and they are always sure to recommend it to some other sufferer. It could not give better satisfaction and we have so much faith in what it will do that we are not afraid to recommend it to any person in need of a lung medicine. With many wishes for your success,
Yours truly,
W. UAGEN & SON.

ESTATE OF ELMIRA McCOLLUM.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Monday the 9th day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

Present, Richard B. Robbins, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Elmira McCollum, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charles Burridge, administrator, upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred, have been fully paid, and that he is now ready to close said estate and to render his final administration account, and praying that said account may be allowed, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed to the persons by law entitled thereto; that he may be discharged and his bond canceled, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 6th day of June, next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A True Copy.)

WOMEN WHO DIE EARLY.

Many of our most beautiful and accomplished ladies die before they reached the prime of life. Of those who live to middle age only one in a hundred is sound; the other ones are ailing and ninety-nine are sufferers. Why is it? Self neglect. The sharp pains can be restored; the home made happy and your life lengthened if you will commence at once.

"Rose Buds" have been used for years in the private practice of one of the most eminent physicians of the age and the following diseases and distressing symptoms yield to its magic: Ulceration, Congestion and Falling of the Womb, Ovarian Tumors, Dropsy of the Womb, Bearing Down Pains, Rupture at Childbirth, Miscarriages. One package of "Rose Buds" will make a new woman of you. (Leucorrhea or Whites are speedily cured by one application.) Price, $1 per package—one month's treatment—will be sent by mail post paid, securely sealed. THE LEVERETNE SPECIFIC CO. 36 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

The young lady without an engagement ring has nothing on hand.

GOOD LOOKS.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the Liver is inactive you have a Bilious look, if the stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic which acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion. Sold at J. J. Orr's drug store, 50c. per bottle.

THAT BROTHER OF MINE.

Who is it comes in like a whirlwind,
And closes the door with a slam,
And, before he has taken his hat off,
Calls out for "some bread and some jam?"
Who is it that whistles so loudly
As he works at some tangle of twine
That will send his kite up into cloudland?
Why, of course, it's that brother of mine

Who is it that, when I am weary,
Has always a hole in his coat,
A button to sew on in a hurry,
A sail to be made for a boat?
Who is it that keeps in my basket
His marbles and long fishing line,
And expects, undisturbed, there to find them?
No one else but that brother of mine

Who is it that tiptoes about softly
Whenever I'm sick or in pain—
And is every minute forgetting
And whistling some head-splitting strain?
Who is it that, when he is trying
To be just as still as he can,
Is always most terribly noisy?
My brother, of course—he's the man

Who is it I'd rather have by me
When in need of a true, honest friend,
Who is it that I shall miss sadly
When his boyhood has come to end?
And when he is far from the old home,
And I long for a glimpse of sunshine,
Whom, then, do you think I shall send for?
Why, of course, for that brother of mine.

ADAM HOLCOMB'S WILL.

A Deed of Kindness and What Came of It.

Adam Holcomb was dead at last—dead after seventy years of money-getting, and the grave had closed over him. He had no children, for he had led a single life, induced, so it was said, though nothing was certainly known, by an early disappointment which had warped his nature, and made him lead a solitary and selfish life, given up to Mammon alone.

Adam Holcomb was dead, and as yet no one knew what disposition he had made of his money.

Three days after the funeral, the next-of-kin and possible heirs were collected in the office of the lawyer, who was the custodian of the will and private papers of the deceased. They were few in numbers for the family was not a large one. There were but three, and these three may be briefly described.

First came James Holcomb, a nephew of the deceased, a vain, selfish, worldly man, all his thoughts centered upon himself and his own family who had never been known to give a penny for any charitable purpose.

Next came Harvey Holcomb, a cousin of the last-named, and about the same age. He was tall, thin and angular. He belonged to the legal profession, in which he had managed to pick up considerable money, though his reputation was none of the best. He was considered tricky, willing to undertake any cause, however disreputable, for money. He was married and had a family, for whom he provided in a grudging manner. He, too, had nourished sanguine hopes of finding himself much better off after his uncle's death.

Last came a young man, presenting a strong contrast to the other two. He was of light complexion, brown hair, clear blue eyes, and an attractive face. He was barely twenty-five years of age, very plainly dressed, and with a modest manner which prepossessed one in his favor. He was the son of old Adam Holcomb's youngest sister, who had married a poor minister, and her son, Alfred Graves, was studying medicine, for which he had a decided predilection. But he had been cramped by narrow means, and was even now teaching in a country school, hoping to obtain enough by this means to pay for his college course. He had applied to each of his two relatives present for a small temporary loan, to help him complete his studies, but without effect. He had been curtly refused by both.

He had come here to-day, as a matter of form, without the slightest expectation of benefiting by the will of his late relative. He had known him but slightly, and never received any encouragement upon which he could build a hope. Yet if he could but receive a legacy of even three hundred dollars, he thought, it would help him materially. That was the amount which he had vainly sought to borrow of the merchant and lawyer, now present with him at the reading of Adam Holcomb's last will and testament.

The merchant and lawyer conversed while waiting for Squire Brief.

"Have you any idea, cousin, how much the old gentleman had accumulated?" asked James Holcomb.

"I have heard it estimated at two hundred and fifty thousand dollars!" was the reply.

"That is a large sum. I hope he has not been unjust enough to squander any of it on charitable societies."

"I hope not. That would be a great piece of injustice to his relations."

"He never dropped anything to you about the disposition he intended to make of his property, did he?"

"Not he! He was a close man, very," said the other. "I once tried to worm something out of him, but didn't get much satisfaction."

"What did he say?"

"He said that he thought of endowing an asylum for fools and lunatics, and that I could tell whether I was likely to be benefited by his so doing."

"Ho! ho!" laughed James, shaking his capacious sides; "he got you there, eh?"

"I don't see it," said the lawyer, sourly.

"You don't appreciate the joke, eh?"

"It was a foolish piece of impertinence. However, everybody knows what the old man was, and I let it pass. If it had been anyone else, I would have given them as good as they sent."

"But you were afraid it would spoil your chances, eh?"

"As to that, I have no idea. There is no question that we ought to be joint heirs."

"True," returned James. "That would give one hundred and twenty-five thousand apiece. That would satisfy me."

"How about Alfred's chances?" queried the lawyer, glancing sharply to that part of the office where the young man was quietly seated.

"Oh, he'll get nothing," said the merchant, contemptuously. "He belongs to a beggarly stock, and a beggar he'll remain to the end of his days. Going to be a doctor, I hear."

"Well, I wish him joy of his profession, if he ever gets in it, which is somewhat doubtful. He wanted to borrow three hundred dollars of me the other day."

"And of me. Did you let him have it?"

"Not I. I've enough to do with my money without giving it away. Of course he'd never have repaid it."

"No, I suppose not. The coolness of some people is refreshing."

"Well, I take it for granted old Adam was much too shrewd to lavish any of his money on such a fellow."

"Trust him for that."

The young man was engaged in reading a volume he had taken up, and did not hear this conversation.

It was interrupted by the entrance of Mr. Brief. Both the merchant and the lawyer greeted him with deference and cordiality, as a man whose words might bring them prosperity or disappointment. Alfred Graves rose in a quiet, gentlemanly manner, and bowed with the courtesy which was habitual to him.

"Gentlemen," the attorney said, "I hold in my hand the will of your late relative. I will at once proceed to read it."

Of course his words commanded instant attention. All bent forward to listen.

After the usual formula, came the following item:

"I give and bequeath to my nephew, James Holcomb, the sum of five thousand dollars to be held in trust for his children.

"To my nephew, Henry Holcomb, I likewise give the sum of five thousand dollars to be held in trust for his children, to whose sole use the income shall annually be applied.

"To my only remaining nephew, Alfred Graves, I give the sum of two thousand dollars to be appropriated to his own use as he may see fit.

"I set aside the sum of two hundred thousand dollars to establish a public library in my native town, one quarter to be appropriated to the erection of a suitable building and the remainder to constitute a fund, of which the income only shall be employed for the purchase of books."

Here the notary made a pause. The merchant and lawyer sat with looks of blank disappointment and anger, which they made no attempt to conceal.

"He had no right to defraud his relatives in this way," muttered James.

"It is a miserable imposition," said Henry Holcomb, "to put us off with such a niggardly sum."

"For my part, I am quite satisfied," said the young man. "I have received more than I expected."

"Oh, yes; it will be a great thing for a beggar like you," said James, sarcastically.

"I am not a beggar," returned the young man, proudly.

"Gentlemen," said the lawyer, "I have not finished reading the will.

"My faithful old dog, Scipio, who is now somewhat infirm, I trust one of my nephews will be willing to take home, and treat indulgently for the sake of the master to whom he was attached."

"That's cool!" ejaculated James. "As for me, I don't choose to be bothered with the dog."

"But," said the lawyer, "since your uncle has given you a legacy, are you not willing to incur this slight care and expense?"

"I must absolutely refuse. Mrs. Holcomb does not like dogs, nor I. Moreover, my uncle has treated me too scurvily for me to inconvenience myself much on his account."

"Then, will you take him?" asked the solicitor, turning to the lawyer.

"Not I," said he, shrugging his shoulders. "The dog may starve for aught I care."

"And you, sir?" turning to Alfred Graves.

"I will assume the charge of Scipio," said Alfred Graves. "It is a slight acknowledgment for my uncle's legacy."

"You may find him troublesome."

"That will make no difference. While he lives, he shall be comfortably cared for."

"What a model nephew!" said the merchant, sarcastically.

"Good young man!" said the other relative, with a sneer.

"Gentlemen," said the attorney, "I will now read the codicil."

The two older men looked at each other in surprise, which changed into rage and dismay as they listened.

"To that one of my nephews who shall agree to take charge of my dog, being yet unacquainted with this provision of my will, I bequeath the residue of my property, amounting, as near as I can estimate, to one hundred thousand dollars."

"You knew of this!" exclaimed the elder men, turning wrathful faces towards Alfred Graves.

"Not a word," said the young man. "I am as much astonished as you can be."

"No one knew of it except myself," said the attorney. "I congratulate you, Mr. Graves, on your large accession of wealth."

"I receive it gratefully. I trust I shall make a good use of it," said the young man.

"I hope now to repay my parents for the sacrifices they have made in my behalf."

"If I had but known," said the merchant, with bitter regret. "I have thrown away a fortune."

"And I," chimed in the lawyer, ruefully.

But there was no help for it. The deed was done. The two disappointed men left the house, feeling anything but grateful to the uncle who they persuaded themselves had cruelly wronged them.

But there was a modest little home that was made glad by the news of Alfred's good fortune, and in his hands the money has brought a blessing with it, for it has been made a fountain of good deeds and charitable influences.—Home Queen.

DEATH IN A MINE.

A Waterspout in Hungary Inundates Several Mines.

A Huge Volume of Water Pours in Upon Miners Without Warning—Twenty-Two Dead in One Pit Alone—Many More Have Perished.

A FEARFUL DISASTER.

PESTH, May 14.—An immense waterspout burst Friday in the neighborhood of the collieries situated in the city of Fuenfkirchen, the capital of the county of Baranya. The huge volume of water inundated the surrounding country and poured in a great stream into the mines, flooding them in a very short time and causing a terrible loss of life. The water poured into the mines so quickly that the unfortunate men who were engaged at work in the lower levels received no warning of their danger and before they had a chance to escape they were struggling in the torrent which had almost instantaneously ingulfed them. They struggled desperately to reach the shafts or parts of the mines which seemed likely to afford them a place of safety, but the water rapidly rose higher and higher, and in a short time every avenue of escape was shut off and the men perished miserably.

It is known that twenty-two men are dead in one pit alone and that many more have lost their lives at other points. The water did not reach to the upper levels and the miners working in these portions of the mines made their way to the surface as quickly as possible. As soon as the disaster which had overtaken their fellow-workmen was learned the survivors, with the assistance of many of those who had flocked to the mouths of the pits, made hurried preparations to go to the rescue of the men in the flooded levels.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR.

BUTTE, Mont., May 16.—A cave-in occurred in the Anaconda mine Saturday afternoon. Eleven men are believed to have been killed. The cave-in occurred on the 800-foot level, on the fourth floor. Fifteen men were working on that floor at the time. A quantity of earth and timbers estimated to be 100 feet in length and 100 feet wide fell without warning. The work of rescue was begun within a very few minutes after the news reached the surface. Four men were soon taken out alive, but seriously injured. It is believed the other eleven men were crushed to death, as the rescuers can hear nothing to indicate they are still alive.

BOTH ARE DEAD.

Charles Jones Shoots Anna Devan at Sparta, Ill.—He Also Kills Himself.

SPARTA, Ill., May 14.—Charles Jones, aged 24, Anna Devan, aged 15, Julia McFarland, aged 17, all of Eden, a village 2 miles east of Sparta, came here to shop Friday afternoon. On their way back to Eden Jones produced a 38-caliber revolver and said to Miss Devan: "Will you marry me?"

"Yes, right now," she replied, "if you give me the revolver.

"You lie," rejoined Jones. "You promised me this before and afterward went back on me, and now I intend to kill you."

He then fired two shots at her, one taking effect in the head and the other in the back, killing her instantly. Julia McFarland jumped from the cart, and Jones followed. He walked a short distance from where he had shot Miss Devan in the cart, shot himself in the head and fell dead. The horse became frightened and ran off with Miss Devan's body in the cart. It was stopped 2 miles away.

DEEP-WATER CONVENTION.

Congress Petitioned to Provide Adequate Appropriations.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 14.—The Mississippi valley deep-water convention reconvened at 11 o'clock Friday morning with Congressman John C. Tarsney, of Missouri, in the chair. The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That we petition the United States government to provide adequate and continuous appropriations for the improvement of the Mississippi river and its principal tributaries so as to secure safe and free navigation of these rivers and deep water navigation in the Mississippi river to the most efficient extent practicable."

In Memoriam.

OMAHA, Neb., May 14.—Memorial exercises were the order of the day in the Methodist conference, and appropriate services attended the announcement of the death roll since the last conference. The list contains the following names: John M. Phillips, Esq.; Rev. J. A. Bayliss, D. D.; Gen. Clinton B. Fisk; Rev. J. M. Trimble, D. D.; Rev. St. James Fry, D. D.; Rev. Christian Blynn; Rev. George S. Hare, D. D.; Rev. M. M. Bovard, D. D.; Rev. William H. Olin, D. D.; Rev. James S. Smart, D. D.

Robbed a Stage.

SHASTA, Col., May 16.—Buck Montgomery, a Wells Fargo express messenger, was fatally shot by two highwaymen near here Saturday, who afterwards secured boxes from the stage containing $20,000 in money.

The Failure Record.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The business failures throughout the country during the last seven days number 175, as compared with a total of 207 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 287.

To Trot for $10,000.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 16.—Allerton and Delmarch will trot here next August for a purse of $10,000, 60 per cent. to go to the winner and 40 to the loser. All the contracts have been signed.

Murder and Suicide.

DULUTH, Minn., May 13.—B. A. Schofield, of Ewing, Mich., shot and killed his wife in this city yesterday and then took his own life. Mrs. Schofield had left her husband because of his drinking.

Indictment Quashed.

BOSTON, May 14.—Judge Nelson, of the United States district court, has quashed the indictment against Joseph Greenhut and the other officials of the whisky trust.

CURED OF SORE THROAT OF SIX MONTHS STANDING.

WILL GRIPPE BE AN ANNUAL VISITOR?

This question is under serious consideration by the medical profession, and the public in general are deeply interested in the answer. Its visitations during the past three years have impressed upon people a full sense of its power and danger, and the experience of those years has also taught many things in regard to the nature of the disease. One important thing learned is that sad results often follow long after the disease itself is supposed to be fully over. It is this insidious, lingering effect which just now is being felt through the country. The colds which come so readily with these spring months develops into full fruit the germs left by the disease, and a long siege of sickness, with great danger of fatal results, is apt to follow. To stop this at the start is most important. No remedy on the market or no physicians' prescription is so sure to do this as Hamilton's Cough Balsam. It has been tried in thousands of cases and the manufacturers guarantee full benefits. All lung difficulties are benefitted by this remedy and from its wonderful and speedy relief in cases of Croup and Whooping Cough no household with children should ever be without it. Only 25 cents a bottle. Ask for Hamilton's. Sold by all dealers.

Two Bottles Cured Her. VI

CARROLL, Iowa, July, 1889.

I was suffering 10 years from shocks in my head, so much so that at times I didn't expect to recover. I took medicines from many doctors, but didn't get any relief until I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic; the second dose relieved me and 2 bottles cured me. S. W. PECK.

Recommends It to Many.

SEYMOUR, Ind., Oct. 1, 1890.

My daughter became epileptic about five years ago through a fright. All physicians' treatment availed nothing, until I used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, which at once dispelled the attacks. It is the best remedy I ever used and I have recommended it to many of such as are suffering from this dread disease.

Clinton Column.

CLINTON, MICH., MAY 19, 1892.

Mame Bradner was home over Sunday.

Mrs. J. L. Tuttle visited Tecumseh Tuesday.

John Keusch and wife returned from Grand Rapids last Friday.

Mrs. Jennie Whedon visited at Ed Freese's the first of last week.

Alfred Hulett has been engaged as janitor of the Episcopal church.

Mrs. Corey was quite sick the first of the week but is better at present.

Etta Halladay, of Napoleon, has been visiting friends here for a few days.

Mrs. Chas. Parker and little daughter, of Eaton Rapids, are visiting relatives here.

The bell for St. Dominic's church has arrived and will be hung in a short time.

Irene Taxas, a schoolmate of Franc Kress's at St. Thomas, is here to attend the wedding.

Emma Hause, of Ridgeway, was the guest of Louise VanDeMark from Friday until Sunday.

D. H. Davis talks of going to Knoxville, Tenn., to finish his course in dentistry, instead of at Chicago.

Chas. Starrett, of Dowagiac, visited his sisters, Mrs. George Runyan and Mrs. A. B. VanDeMark, last week.

Dr. Hunter has thrown up dental business in Clinton and gone to Jackson. His wife and daughter Rose will remain here.

Minnie Hess, who is teaching in Illinois, arrived here last Saturday. She will remain until after the Matthews-Kress wedding.

Albert Rowland, of Caro, visited at F. D. Lancaster's over Sunday. He has accepted a position with John Hicks, selling lightning rods.

John Machin and Mrs. Dora Stramp were married by Rev. Stalker at the parsonage Monday evening. The HERALD correspondent extends congratulations and best wishes.

Will Mattison, who formerly clerked for C. S. Burroughs, and afterward in Lancaster's clothing store, was in town last Friday. He has been in a drug store at Litchfield since leaving here.

John McCollum died Monday at the home of his son, three miles east of this village. The remains were taken to Niagara Falls, N. Y., for burial Tuesday. He was eighty-four years of age and had been here about a year.

The hop given by the members of the dancing school last Friday evening was a very pleasant affair. There were enough present to make it pleasant, without being crowded. Mrs. Eugene Palmer furnished the supper at her house.

The following ladies attended the Colonial Tea at Tecumseh Tuesday afternoon and evening: Mesdames W. C. Rogers, Laura Tuttle, J. V. Amspoker, P. C. Smith, E. VanDeMark, E. R. Smith, George Hard, C. S. Burroughs and Grace Stevens; also M. F. McClure and wife.

E. B. Rose will open his new hotel to the public on Tuesday, the 24th. There will be a reception from ten to two o'clock, and at six o'clock dinner will be served to all those who wish to be Landlord Rose's first patrons. Here's to the success of the Rose house and the long life and prosperity of the owner

We wonder if the following from Eaton county is correct. It is a Bellevue dispatch to the Detroit Tribune, Sunday: "One of Eaton county's most prominent farmers, Sir Knight H. L. Robinson, of Walton township, was buried here this afternoon by Charlotte Commandery Knights Templar, assisted by Knights Pythias from Bellevue and Charlotte and College societies from Olivet. Sir Knight Robinson was born in Lenawee county in 1833, and enjoys the distinction of being the first white child born in that county. He was widely known and universally respected." We have understood that Lenawee Chapman, of this city, and one of our best known workingmen, was the first white child born in Lenawee county, a fact which his name would tend to corroborate, and it would certainly seem that there must have been other births here prior to 1833.—Adrian Times.

We beg leave to correct both of these statements. The first white male child born in Lenawee county was Geo. W. Goodrich. He now lives in the village of Clinton and has been a resident of the county ever since his birth.

SURPRISE TO ALL.

After using "Mother's Friend" two months I was so speedily and easily relieved that it was a surprise to those attending me. "Mother's Friend" undoubtedly lessens the pains, shortens the time and restores the mother speedily to health. Will recommend it to all expectant mothers, and advise them to use it. Mrs. J. A. R. Muncie, Ind. Sold by Jno. Orr.

Apropos of the one-hundredth anniversary of the admission of the first Western commonwealth into the Union, Harper's Magazine for June will contain an article by George W. Ranck, of much historic interest, telling "How Kentucky became a State." It affords a vivid illustration, by way of contrast, of some of the changes which have been wrought during the century that is closing.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Remember the concert next Thursday evening to be given by the Detroit Philharmonic club. It will be one of the best entertainments of the entire course and will doubtless draw a big crowd. The reserved seat sale will open next Tuesday morning at Adamson's.

George Holloway, of Holloway, this county, has been appointed by Gov. Winans, a member of the board of World's fair commissioners, for Mich. An excellent selection. Mr. Holloway will doubtless be assigned to the agricultural department in some capacity, where he will make a very useful man.

We call attention to the new ad of Davidson Bros. which appears this week. They have the agency this year for Tecumseh and vicinity of the Milwaukee harvesters and mowers, and they have already inaugurated a lively campaign for these standard machines. New improvements have been made, which they claim renders both harvester and mower better than any other machines now on the market.

The following is the rain fall since May 1st, as recorded by Abner Wilson, for the State board of health:

May	1st.	1.11 inches.
"	2	2.40 "
"	3	.50 "
"	5	.45 "
"	6	1.62 "
"	10	.86 "
"	11	.35 "
"	13	.21 "
"	14	trace
"	15	.10 "
"	18	1.05 "
Total		8.73 "

This is more than that of April, May, June and July, 1891, it being 8.47.

Our usual daily amount of rain fall greeted the Adrian Boom yesterday, but in spite of the weather, there was an immense crowd in the city to celebrate and eat roast ox. In the forenoon a grand street parade took place consisting of the Adrian and Tecumseh light guards, G. A. R. Posts, Sons of Veterans, Knights of Pythias, Maccabees, etc. The business and industrial displays were also an interesting feature of the procession. The sale of lots did not meet with the anticipations of boomers, owing to the dismal weather, but was sufficient to show a good spirit of enthusiasm in our county seat.

Frank Tucker's Minstrel Company which played at Union Hall, Wednesday night to a full house, was without exception the best troupe that has showed in our town this season. All the company are gentlemen and ladies and artists in their profession. Mr. Tucker's troupe holds its position with our play goers of being one of the best troupes on the road. All our people were pleased to hear that they will be here again in the fall and we will insure them a full house.—Sturgis Democrat, May 12. Opera House, May 21. Admission 25 and 35 cents.

"Not on Calvary" is the title of a new book, which is creating a sensation. The boldness of the position which the writer of this little book takes, at the outset, leads the reader to expect conclusions widely at variance with those which the popular christology teaches. But as one lays down the book, its deep reverence for the Christ sacrifice, its full acceptance of the divinity of the Master, its plea for a higher conception of the Father's love, all leave the conviction that this is the most orthodox heterodoxy that has issued from the press for a long time and it cannot fail to command attention. Sold by S. P. Hosmer & Son. Price only 35 cents.

The return reception given by the Tecumseh gentlemen, at the opera house in that village, was simply the grandest festival of the kind ever held there. The decorations were elegant, the main features of which were the front of the stage, in green and pink fan shaped design, and the ceiling in white and yellow, with electric lights etc. Refreshments were served on the stage, which was elaborately trimmed for the occasion. Wolff, of Toledo, was there, with an orchestra of eleven pieces, and his work was the best that has ever been heard. From Adrian were Gen. and Mrs. F. B. Wood, the Misses Mae Boyd, Maude Holdridge, Gertrude Bray, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Finch and Geo. M. Tapp.—Adrian Times.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

has won, on merit alone, a widespread and enduring reputation. It is a combination of vegetable agents, the result of the experience of one who made the diseases of women a life-long study. Taken according to directions, the organs awake to new life and energy, leaving the woman free from pain at these periods. Sold by Jno. Orr.

A LITTLE GIRL'S EXPERIENCE IN A LIGHTHOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and ½ half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at J. J. Orr's drug store.

Decoration of graves, by Beers Post, assisted by pupils from the public schools. Further particulars next week. All citizens are invited to bring flowers and assist in making decorations.

Puck's last-page cartoon of May 18th treats of "Would-be models for the great painting, Our next President." Hill stands prominently out from Reed, Peffer, Sherman, McKinley and Harrison; but Uncle Sam says: "It's no use, David—I'm not delighted with any of them, but you can't pose for the picture at any price."

The representative character of the North American Review is again indicated by the symposium which is announced for publication in the June number. The subject is "The Harrison Administration," and the participants in the discussion are Senators Dawes of Massachusetts, Senator Dolph of Oregon, and Senator Colquitt of Georgia.

We have on our table a copy of a new song and quartet, "My Childhood's Happy Home," which is a charming musical production. The words are beautiful in sentiment and the melody is captivating. The retail price is 40 cents but to introduce it the publisher offers to mail a copy on receipt of ten cents. Address, P. H. Stauffer, Loudonville, Ohio.

Peterson's Magazine for June is a model number in beauty and excellence. The full page engravings, "An Egyptian Toilet" and "A Post Station In Thuringia," are the handsomest we have found in any of the month's magazines. There is a portrait of the present Dutchess of Marlborough; one of most beautiful among American women. The stories are by favorite authors and all so good that it would seem invidious to single out any for special mention. The miscellaneous articles are also of special interest. "Women At The World's Fair," by Annie Curd, gives a concise account of the preparations women of all countries are making. Terms, $2.00 a year; $1.00 for six months. Now is a good time to subscribe, as a new volume begins with July number. Address, Peterson's Magazine, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Illustrated World's Fair for May comes out with the largest copper half-tone photographic scene ever printed. The entire central portion of the World's Fair grounds is shown in one picture, and the sheet is over forty inches wide. The number contains a page article on the World's Fair, by Madame Patti-Nicolini, with two portraits; a page of Patti-ana; a page article and portrait of Colonel Tom Fitch, of California; a page article and portrait of Stanley Waterloo; a novel and striking representation of the Golden Montana Nail, with which Mrs. Palmer is to finish the construction of the Woman's Building; "Memories for Decoration Day," by John McGovern and Nixon Waterham; a fine front page portrait of Mrs. Potter Palmer; an editorial description of Jackson Park, by Opie Read; similar observations by James Maitland; many quips and quodlibets, by Nixon Waterman, Frank B. Welch, A. H. Lockwood, Clarence W. Putnam, Alice Mitchell and other humorous writers; an essay by Wm. Horace Brown, author of "A Southern Heritage"; about twenty-five splendid pictures of all the buildings; poems, rules, progress, biography and history of the Fair. Next month the Director-General will write an article for this handsome, truthful and enterprising magazine. Its pictures are everywhere praised and copied. J. N. Halligan, McVicker's Building. 25cts. a copy: $2.50 a year.

"They say that old Bick is a regular pirate." "Yes, I came to the conclusion that he was a perfect freebooter when I called upon his daughter the other night."

It's the worm of the still that's a dandy at turning when a man downs it too ferociously.

"That is Mrs. Street Commissioner Jones over there, isn't it?" "No; not now." "Divorced?" "No, her husband's been promoted. She is now Mrs. First Assistant Deputy Subcontroller Jones.

THE Milwaukee Junior!

Takes the Lead.

We claim for these machines that they are lightest in weight and lightest in draft, and for strength, durability and general excellence they stand at the head. Be sure and see them before buying.

The Milwaukee Chain-Power Mower

IS THE BEST IN THE MARKET.

The great and increasing demand for our well-known chain-power Mowers, together with the testimonials received, is conclusive proof of the great estimation in which they are held by agriculturalists and dealers throughout the entire country; the universal verdict being, that for simplicity of construction, strength and durability, ease of handling, closeness and evenness of cutting, freedom from clogging, and lightness of draft, they cannot be surpassed, while for freedom from side-draft they stand unrivalled, being the lightest and most durable of any mowing machine manufactured.

CALL and see this machine set up and ready for running at our rooms and headquarters, between Mark's Drug Store and the City Bakery.

Road scrapers are now again in order. Let all district path masters turn out and see how soon we will have nice smooth roads.

We are informed that our young friend L. L. Sowle is no better, but is gradually growing weaker with little hopes of recovery.

All parties holding memberships in the library association are hereby informed that the rooms are open from May until Oct. from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.

The young men who were favored with songs and May baskets on the eve of Saturday, May 21st. by the B. S. S. wish to extend their most grateful thanks for the same, and kindly invite the ladies to call again.

Rev. Yager, of Ridgeway, who will deliver a memorial address at the M. E. church next Sabbath, cordially invites the G. A. R, S. of V's, Relief Corps, and the people generally, to attend in a body, which kind invitation they will accept. Let all turn out.

The President of the Britton Serenading society wishes to inform the young man who lost his Derby hat last Saturday night at about 12 o'clock, that he can have the same by calling at her office. If he had Ben hat ome he would'nt have lost his 'at.

NORTH-EAST FRANKLIN.

Ira Lamkin is quite sick.

Linford Hunter's health is improving.

Myrtle Whelan of Tipton is much worse.

Ernest Lamkin purchased a lot at Adrian's big sale.

A very few of the farmers here will plant corn this week.

Miss Blanche Dunn spent last week in this neighborhood.

E. J. Whelan and wife returned home from a visit at Pine Creek last week Monday.

Arthur, Joseph and Jim Kimball, put down a well for Emery Preston last week; also one at the Tipton depot.

Two cases of scarlet fever at Ezra Simmons' this week. Mary Cole's children; also one case at Ozro Whelans'.

Miss Ella Munger is to make her home at Josie Butrick's for a time while being trained in the art of elocution.

We hardly know which will look most highly decorated, next Monday; the soldiers graves or the Tipton band with their new uniforms.

The storms last week took most of the roof off Ezra Simmon's old barn. Contrary to the people's wishes the rest of the barn remains standing.

Wm. E. Spalding, who has lived on a "claim" in Kansas for the last five years, returned to Franklin, Thursday of last week. We understand he will make his home here this summer.

Mrs. L. E. Taylor has been failing quite rapidly of late. Her symptoms now indicate that she will not live the week out. Bertha was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at Adrian last Friday. Sadie has been very sick for the past week and Mr. Taylor has been rather under the weather of late.

B. J. Wells had quite an accident recently. He was drawing manure and turning around in the yard, lost his balance and fell in behind the horses heels. Two wheels ran over his head, but fortunately it was soft enough beneath him to allow his head to sink which probably saved his life. Though the team ran nearly two miles they did no damage to themselves, harness or wagon.

Miss Anna Smith of Macon visited her sister, Mrs. Edd Harrison, Friday and Saturday.

F. G. Florance and family of Holloway were the guests of Mrs. Charles Culberson, Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Wright died very suddenly Monday morning of apoplexy. The funeral was held at the church, Wednesday, Rev. Yager officiating.

Bro. Yager impressed the Harvey people with his courage and earnestness and the expression is, general, "Oh that each pulpit had a Bro. Yager in it!".

Rev. Yager will preach a memorial sermon next Sunday morning. The G. A. R's, S. of V. and Woman's Relief Corps of Britton will attend in a bunch.

Mrs. Samuel Barlow was in Britton several days last week taking care of her daughter Mrs. Chas. Gripton, who got her face and hands badly burned, while lighting a gasoline stove.

Rev. Yager returned from Harvey, Saturday. We clip the following from the Harvey Citizen;

"The Illustrated Temperance Lecture given by Rev. E. Yager at the M. E. church, Monday evening contained more truth and force of statement than any of the kind ever given in Harvey. The paintings, one tree of temperance, the other of intemperance, were of oil, designed and painted by the speaker, and riveted upon the minds of the audience, the startling contrast. Another painting, "The Toboggan Slide", forcibly illustrated how the United States furnished the slide and rented it to the distillers, brewers, and saloon keepers for the purpose of sending our fellowmen to perdition.

Lippincott's Magazine For June 1892.

The complete novel in Lippincott's Magazine for June. "John Gray; a Kentucky Tale of the Olden Time," is by James Lane Allen, who gives his readers a tender historical picture of the region named, singularly apart from anything written against a Kentucky background heretofore, yet brimming with local knowledge, and rivalling in its exquisit sympathy and touch all that the author has before produced. The peaceful theme of the tale, under Mr. Allen's own marked originality of handling, only serves to enhance the interest of the story.

Murat Halstead furnishes the Journalist Series with a paper on his "Early Editorial Experiences," that cannot fail to attract a re-awakening interest in the series.

Hon. John James Ingalls contributes an artical on the West, entitled "Westward the Course of Empire takes its Way," bearing the impress of the ex-Senator's powerful style.

In the Athletic Series, Frederick Weir gives a careful paper on the game of La Crosse.

One of the most interesting articles in the number is Prof. John Bach McMaster's historical sketch of The Struggle for the West.

"The Great American Desert," by Wm. F. G. Shanks, gives an amount of information about the growth of the principal cities in that region which will be new and of keen interest to most readers. The department "As It Seems" is as Western in spirit as the entire number, and discusses The West in Literature, Mr. Allen, and his novel, "John Gray."

The short stories of the number are by Maurice Thompson and Patience Stapleton. The poetry is contributed by James Whitcomb Riley, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Susie M. Best, Robert Loveman, Carrie Blake Morgan, and St. George Best.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 26, 1892.

Cleveland's lucky star is still in the ascendant. South Carolina, the cradle of secession and the hot bed of nullification, has declared against him.

The latest political gossip is that Blaine has consented to run; that is, he will not decline the nomination, if unanimously tendered to him.

The movement against Harrison's nomination seems to be gathering some headway. The politicians are after his scalp and they will get it or know the reason why.

The Cleveland tidal wave is still rolling on. With the exception of New York and South Carolina, the delegates thus far selected are either solid for Cleveland or favor him by a good majority.

There is one thing in President Harrison's favor, at all events. The Platts, and the Clarksons and the Quays of the Republican party are all working to compass his defeat. This, of itself, is an excellent recommend for him.

Will the "two-thirds rule" be abrogated at Chicago? Hardly. It is a good rule and was never more needed than now. The Chicago nominee, whatever his name may be, should be backed by two-thirds of the delegates.

Bicycling is promotive of good in more ways than one. Not only is it a healthy and invigorating exercise for the participant, but it is bringing more and more to public notice the wretched condition of most country roads.

Puck's double-page cartoon for May 25th is entitled: "The two Mrs. Partingtons." The two worthy ladies, represented by Messrs. Watterson and Platt, are patiently sweeping the sandy beach with ineffectual brooms, unmindful of the giant "Cleveland" and Harrison" waves that are about to engulf them.

The cheer that went up when Gov. McKinley mentioned the name of Grover Cleveland incidentally, in his Ann Arbor speech, was so uproarious and so prolonged, the governor became confused, like a man who is sensible of having pulled the wrong string. What did it signify, anyway?

If one man can command the land upon which others must labor he can appropriate the produce of their labor as the price of his permission to labor. The fundamental law of nature that her enjoyment by man shall be consequent upon his exertion is thus violated. The one receives without producing, the others produce without receiving. The one is unjustly enriched, the others are robbed.—Henry George.

"Any person with a shadow of intelligence can see," says the Indianapolis Sentinel, "that no personal considerations have anything to do with the demand for Cleveland, except so far as his connection with the tariff issue is a personal consideration. The people want a tariff-reform campaign, and they propose to have it. Cleveland means tariff reform to the exclusion of all other issues. His nomination means a square fight on that issue, with no dodging, no trimming, no evasion. Everybody understands that."

The Democratic party must go into the coming fight on its principles. Whether it be Grover Cleveland or some other man, the candidate must represent those principles if it is to deserve success. With a candidate truly representing Democratic principles we believe it will achieve success, and if defeat comes, it will not be simply because that candidate happens to be Grover Cleveland. If through cowardice it abandons its principles or through greed makes its fight for spoils alone, it will deserve the defeat that it will assuredly meet.

Concerning the Democratic Convention in Michigan and Wisconsin, the Albany Argus says: "The Democratic hope of carrying the United States Senate, and thus securing absolute control of all branches of the Federal Government next year, rests upon the two States, Michigan and Wisconsin. Their voices are always entitled to be heard in national conventions; but this year the contribution they promise to complete Democratic success gives to their opinions more than ordinary weight.

A PRETTY STATE OF THINGS.

Public Money Misappropriated for Private Uses.

The Constitution and Decency Prohibited It But Republican Officials Did It Just the Same.

Section four, article eight of the Michigan constitution provides that "the secretary of state, state treasurer and commissioner of the state land office shall constitute a board of state auditors, to examine and adjust all claims against the state, not otherwise provided for by the general law."

Section one, article nine fixes the salaries of the state officers and declares "that they shall receive no fees or perquisites whatever for the performance of any duties connected with their office. It shall not be competent for the legislature to increase the salaries herein provided."

It is plain that the constitution fixes upon the three state officials above referred to the duties necessarily devolving upon the board of state auditors. The board is required to meet once a month at Lansing and pass upon the claims presented against the state. If the board is satisfied that such claims are a just charge upon the people, and not forbidden by the constitution, it is their duty to allow them. And if they are plainly unjust charges against the state, or are forbidden by the constitution, it is the plain duty of the board to reject them. That the duties of this board should be performed honestly and without partiality will be realized when it is stated that the exact sum of claims allowed by the board for the year ending June 30, 1880, was $270,411.48 and for 1890 was $214,445.16. This board, which draws its warrants upon the people's treasury for a quarter of a million dollars annually, should honestly represent the people whose servants they are. During the years from and including 1879 down to June 30, 1890, the board of state auditors—all this time republican—allowed claims for subscriptions for partisan newspapers to the amount of $1,127.33, and most of these newspapers were for state officers, who are forbidden any perquisites whatever in addition to their regular salary. The balance of the bill was for newspapers furnished to republican heads of state bureaus.

The following itemized statement shows what officers claimed—that the people should pay for their newspapers, and whose claims were allowed by the state auditors. The items are in the records and reference is made to the report and the page on which the respective items appear. They but emphasize the scandalously extravagant, unjust and illegal methods practiced by trusted republican officials. The report of the board of state auditors for the year ending September 30, 1879, shows that the following claims were allowed:

Secretary of state:
Subscription to Detroit Post and Tribune (page 42) $17 60
Subscription to Evening News (page 42) 15 00

MISAPPROPRIATIONS IN 1889.

The governor read the Tribune, Free Press, Evening News and Evening Journal, and the total for all the offices for this year was $71.12, and for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, the bill was $97.00, making the grand total $1,127.33.

This sum, $1,127.33, was taken from the public treasury and from the taxpayers' pockets for a purely private, personal purpose. It might as reasonably have been used to purchase food for the tables of these officials as for the buying of newspapers. It showed a woeful lack of appreciation of their trust in the handling of public money. And the expenditure of every dollar of that money was an outrage upon the taxpayer as well as degradation of official honor and integrity.

Purity of the blood. Dullam's Great German Med. Co.:

My daughter has been afflicted with female trouble for over six years and I have paid out over $50 in vain trying to find relief for her.

A lady friend advised me to secure a bottle of Dullam's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and she has been completely cured by it.

We gave it a fair trial and the results were wonderful. We cannot recommend it too highly to all ladies who are afflicted. BENJAMIN GANGER.

It takes a father and mother and hired girl and school teacher and lots of other people to raise one boy, but one boy unaided can easily raise the dickens.

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years; I had lost sense of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, my sense of smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh. Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Rendrill, Perry Co., O.

THE PUREST AND BEST

Articles known to the medical science are used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every ingredient is carefully selected, personally examined, and only the best retained. The medicine is prepared under the supervision of thoroughly competent pharmacists, and every step in the process of manufacture is carefully watched with a view to securing in Hood's Sarsaparilla the best possible result.

It would be difficult to find a man better known in the vicinity of Burlington, Vt., than Mr. R. D. Wheeler of Winooski Falls, the efficient Deputy Sheriff of Burlington county. He says:

"C. I Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

$10.00 a Bottle

I should still keep using it, as I have for the past ten years. With me the question as to whether life is worth living depends upon whether I can get Hood's Sarsaparilla. I don't think I could live without it now, certainly I should not wish to, and suffer as I used to. For over ten years I suffered the horrors of the damned with for if ever a man suffers with anything in this world it is with that awful disease. It seems to me as if all other physical suffering were compressed into that one. I took about everything man ever tried for it but never got a dollar's worth of help until I began taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I have taken it now pretty regularly for ten years and have no more pain and can get around all right. I have advised a good many to try Hood's Sarsaparilla." R. D. WHEELER, Deputy Sheriff, Winooski Falls, Vt.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default of Payment having been made in mortgage made by Edward Rowland and Ann Rowland, his wife, to Albert Hyde, Sr., bearing date the thirtieth day of December, A. D. 1887, of record in office of Register of Deeds for Lenawee County, Michigan, in Liber 106 of mortgages on Page 34 on which mortgage there remains unpaid at the date of this notice, of principal and accrued interest, the sum of Eight Hundred forty-four and 62-100ths dollars ($844.62), and no proceedings at law or in equity have been taken for the collection of the same.

Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and by virtue of the statutes of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided, for the purpose of realizing the money above mentioned and interest thereon at 8 per cent. per annum to accrue thereon, the costs of this foreclosure and sale, including the attorney fee provided by law, I shall, on the first day of August, A. D. 1892, at nine o'clock in the forenoon of said day, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the City of Adrian, Lenawee County, Michigan (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said County of Lenawee), all that parcel of land situate in the Village of Tecumseh in the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a point on the South line of Logan street, Seventy feet from the intersection of that line with the line of Evans street in said Village, thence running South parallel with and seventy feet distant from the East line of Evans street to the alley described in a deed given to Benjamin Bailey by Michael A. Patterson and George Buford; thence East along the North line of said alley seventy feet; thence North to the line of Logan street aforesaid; thence West along South line of Logan street aforesaid seventy feet to place of beginning—being the same premises conveyed by John H. Mills to said Edward Rowland by deed bearing date December 26, 1887, and comprising dwelling house and grocery and blacksmith shop and premises thereon.

Dated May 5th, 1892.

"PROTECTIONIST" HEAVEN.

The Chosen Few That Dwell Therein and the Host Outside the Gates.

We have but to take the census in which the various occupations of our people are sorted, and the number of employes in each industry is given, and the tariff which shows how many of these industries are protected against a possible foreign competition.

As the census of 1890 is not yet complete and available I will take that of 1880, for it will be found that the relative number will be the same in both, and I will use the results worked out by so great a statistician as Mr. Edward Atkinson, whose methods and calculations have been submitted for test and verification.

In the year 1880 one out of every three of our population, or a total of 17,400,000 people, were engaged in gainful pursuits. They were engaged in round numbers as follows: In agriculture, as farmers or laborers, nearly 8,000,000; in professional and personal service 4,000,000; in trade and transportation nearly 2,000,000, and in manufacturing, mechanic arts and mining not quite 4,000,000.

Of all these workers, Mr. Atkinson, after careful examination, finds that the number employed in producing things which in some measure might be competed with by a foreign product imported into our country is only 1,200,000. On the other hand, taking the whole number engaged in agriculture and manufactures, and comparing our exports of both with our entire product, he finds that there are 1,400,000 in agriculture and 200,000 in manufactures; 1,600,000 in all who depend wholly on foreign sales and the export of the products of their labor for their sustenance.

The remaining 14,600 of our workers for gain are subject to no direct influence by the tariff, except as consumers. There is nothing fanciful or recondite about this calculation. Any man familiar with our multifarious industries can work it out for himself. I have followed the guidance of one recognized everywhere as a master in statistical analysis.

The most striking fact about the whole thing is that the number of our people to-day wholly dependent on foreign markets is larger than the number of those employed in the protected industries. Yet gentlemen on the other side call their tariff a system to protect American labor, and to build up and support American industries, as if the making of good wages, even conceding for the moment the most groundless of these pretensions, for 1,200,000 laborers could draw after it good wages for the other 1,600,000 and 14,600,000.

But, Sir, I have stated the proposition far too favorably for the other side. The 1,200,000 laborers in the protected industries are not the direct beneficiaries of the tariff. The tariff does not keep out the foreign article that competes with what they have to sell. There is and always has been free trade in labor. The tariff taxes the foreign product that competes with what the employers have to sell. It is, therefore, the employer, not the laborer; the capitalist, not the workingman, who is the direct beneficiary of protection.

So when you subject the whole system to a rational and accurate analysis you find that the real beneficiaries of a protective tariff are not American laborers generally nor American consumers, but the employers of some 1,200,000 of our workers for gain. Wages are no higher, they are frequently lower in the protected than in the other industries, and if we allow ten employes to one employer we should have only 120,000, at most not over 200,000, of our people directly engaged in making and selling the articles which the tariff seeks to shut out of our country or to burden with heavy fines—200,000 men representing in a large measure the corporate wealth of the country.—From Speech of W. L. Wilson, of West Virginia.

SHEPARD SELLS HIS SHEEP.

Wool Growing Unprofitable, Even Under McKinley's High Duties.

Judge Lawrence, of Ohio, is in a gloomy frame of mind because Shepard, of Texas, has sold his sheep. Shepard is the person whom Lawrence brought to Washington when McKinley's committee was making the present tariff, and whose arguments concerning the duty on carpet wool were so entertaining to the minority members of the committee. The political wool growers of Ohio asked Shepard some days ago whether he would attend a meeting of the National Wool Growers' association if one should be called. In reply, Shepard said: "I have sold my entire stock of sheep in anticipation of wool being put on the free list, which I am almost sure will be done." Shepard appears to expect that the winners in the elections of November next will not be those who agree with him about the wool duties. His loss of confidence is a hard blow to Lawrence.

We suspect that the decline of the price of American wool since the higher duties were imposed by the McKinley act was not wholly overlooked by Shepard when he began to think of selling his sheep. He has been disappointed. He was making money by raising wool on land which he leased at four cents an acre, with the help of herders whom he hired at 70 cents day. He wanted higher duties in order that he might make more money. Higher duties were imposed, but his profits have not been increased.

Shepard told the committee that he produced 108,000 pounds of wool, and only 4,000 pounds of this was carpet wool. He had been urged by Lawrence to make an argument in support of the proposition that the duties on carpet wool should be largely increased. It was his plea that all the coarse carpet wool used in this country could be produced here if the "protection" should be "sufficient." Here is a part of his testimony:

Mr. Carlisle—What do you consider "sufficient" or "proper protection?"

Mr. Shepard—Sufficient protection to make it as remunerative to us to raise that class of wool as to raise fine wool.

Mr. Carlisle—What rate of duty do you consider a sufficient protection?

Mr. Shepard—Enough to make the price of this wool equal to the other.

Mr. Carlisle—In other words, you want a duty which will make your grade of wool sell for as much in the market as the best wool. If I am producing an article worth 62 a pound and you are producing an article worth 10 cents, you want to put on a duty sufficient to make your article sell for as much as mine?

Mr. Shepard—I think it is the duty of the government to protect me in that industry and make it equally remunerative as all other industries.

Shepard was before the committee as the chosen representative of the National Wool Growers' association, to whom the association had assigned the task of making its argument concerning that part of the tariff which relates to coarse carpet wool. The average value of the carpet wool imported—and substantially the entire quantity consumed is imported—is about 11 cents a pound. Shepard and the association asked that the duty should be made so high that the small quantity of carpet wool grown in this country could be sold at the price of fine clothing wool, or for three times its real value.

The committee discovered that he owned $128,000 worth of sheep and land. The duty upon wool similar to the greater part of his clip was 10 cents a pound. Some of his remarks about protection have been published by the committee as follows:

Mr. Mills—You say the tariff protects you to the extent of advancing wool 10 cents a pound?

Mr. Shepard—I think at it in that light, sir.

Mr. Mills—Precisely. That 10 cents a pound is coming out of somebody's pocket and going into yours?

Mr. Shepard—I reckon so.

Mr. Mills—The people you are employing at $15 a month are contributing that 10 cents a pound?

Mr. Shepard—Yes, sir.

Mr. Mills—You are taking that amount from these poor people, who are not worth $500 a year. You are asking and requiring congress to levy this 10 cents per pound upon these poor people in your favor, who are worth $128,000?

Mr. Shepard—It is merely to have my business equal in remuneration with other businesses.

Mr. Mills—You are worth $128,000; do you think it is right for you to require us to take these 10 cents from these poor people, which they pay on the goods they wear, and put it in your pocket?

Mr. Shepard—I think it is just.

The committee increased the duties on carpet wool from 24½ and 30½ per cent. to 32 and 50 per cent., respectively, but this addition was not enough to raise the selling price of Shepard's 4,000 pounds of carpet wool to the price of fine merino. The imposition of such a duty as Shepard wanted was discouraged by the American Protective Tariff league, which asserted that "from 500 to 1,000 per cent. of protection would be required," and remarked that "such conditions of protection would make the business an absurdity." Lawrence undertook to hold Shepard by increasing the duties surreptitiously by means of tricky clauses inserted in the schedules, but the desired "equality remuneration" could not be attained. Indeed, the prices declined in spite of all the political wool growers could do, and now Shepard has sold his sheep. We must think that he has deceived himself as to the real cause of this sale. It was not so much his expectation that wool would be put on the free list as it was his dissatisfaction and disappointment because McKinley and his associates failed to impose a duty high enough to make the selling price of his coarse carpet wool equal to the price of the finest clothing wool.—N. Y. Times, April 27, 1892.

EDUCATING THE PEOPLE.

What Four Years Have Brought About in Educating the People on Economic Questions.

Four years ago, when President Cleveland sent his message to congress, recommending a reduction of duties to a strict tariff for revenue basis as the best means of checking the then large and constantly growing surplus and of relieving the burdensome taxes on the farmer and laborer, only the most vague ideas prevailed among the masses of the people, in regard to the tariff. Not one voter in ten knew how the general government got its revenues, and not one in fifty could distinguish between a "revenue" and a "protective" tariff. The ordinary newspaper printed but little on the subject of taxation because most readers were unwilling to pay for such "dry" matter. The books on this subject were mainly by professors, were largely theoretical and philosophical, and were read by but few except economic students.

The discussions, begun in 1888, started thought on economic questions among thinking people. Discussion extended into all the large papers, to the lodge, the school house and even into the church and home; the demand for economic literature grew; the people wanted to read and hear both sides; protectionists and tariff reformers were called upon to give facts; press bureaus were established to supply tariff matter to weekly country papers in all parts of the United States; speakers were sent out by both parties, not merely during campaigns to assist the fireworks and brass bands in entertaining the voters, but during the whole year at school houses, town halls and county fairs.

What a wonderful change was wrought! Most intelligent men now know that our government is supported mainly by duties on imports; they have gotten many ideas and have collected a few hard facts; nearly every farmers' and every laborers' organization contains men able and ready to debate the tariff question; and politicians have had to post themselves or make room for those who have studied the needs of the people in this direction. It is safe to say that the tariff discussion could not be stopped by any political trick or turned aside by any other issue. It has come to stay. The people demand a settlement, and one that shall be final, on this most vital of questions.

SIOUX CITY'S LOSS.

The Damage by the Flood Placed at $1,250,000.

The Loss of Life Not Definitely Known—About 8,000 Persons Are Homeless and Many Are in a Destitute Condition.

MUCH SUFFERING.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 21.—Added to Sioux City's other calamities was a wind and rainstorm which reached all over northwest Iowa Friday and lasted all the forenoon. The air was very cold and it was impossible to keep the homeless people from much suffering, for hundreds of them are still housed in buildings which cannot be heated, as the furnaces are under water. Well organized local committees are actively at work raising funds for relief and collecting clothing for the destitute. A committee from the Omaha board of trade came up Friday morning and proffered assistance.

The loss on property is variously estimated. It has been placed as high as $5,000,000, but Mr. Heizer, of the Journal, who had obtained conservative opinions, says it will not amount to more than $1,250,000, divided as follows:

Packinghouses	$400,000
Railroads by damaged rails, rolling stock and engines	250,000
Streets by the tearing up of pavements	150,000
Other losses, including those of the street railways, the gas works and the losses to individual house owners	450,000
Total	$1,250,000

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 23.—With a few days' warm sunshine Sioux City will begin to feel herself again. Almost nothing in the way of rebuilding homes can be attempted until the flooded district becomes passably dry. At present mud reigns. Until Sunday it has rained incessantly since the flood. Friday and Saturday were two days of blizzards, hail, sleet and wind, retarding even the superficial salvage work. A general round-up of the situation places the dead at about twenty-five. Some more bodies are undoubtedly in the ruins.

A careful estimate places the number of those rendered temporarily homeless by the flood at 8,000. The majority of these have found shelter with friends. The relief committee has probably 1,000 applications on file. The committee will accept outside aid, which has been generously offered from many quarters. Mayor Pierce and other leading citizens have favored the declination of outside aid, but at a public meeting on Friday night were induced to reverse their course.

It will take many weeks to restore order out of chaos in the flooded bottoms. The direct losses to property, while over $1,000,000 all told, are but a fraction of the total indirect losses by interrupted commerce. There is no kind of business but will feel the blow, and yet the people are hopeful, even buoyant.

Viewed from any point, the flooded districts are indescribably desolate. Houses are lying on their sides and the debris of things movable is strewn over a surface of several square miles. Fences, sidewalks and house supports form a general litter. Along the banks of the Floyd tons of earth have been torn away, showing the terrible force of the waters that swept the valley with fatal suddenness.

Sudden and overwhelming as was the Sioux City flood, its property losses are small when compared with the general flood losses throughout the state and country. This rain-soaked corn country is in danger of at least a partial failure of crops owing to the lateness of the planting season. The total damages to farmers, to the railroads and to the general business interests of the country will reach an enormous total.

Two Widows of One Man.

COLUMBUS, Ind., May 21.—John Hughes, for a long time a wealthy citizen of Edinburg, died last January, leaving grown-up children from 30 to 40 years old by the wife who survives him. In settling up the estate it has come to light that at an early day Hughes married an Ohio girl from whom he was never divorced and by whom he had one son. Mrs. Hughes No. 1 now comes forward claiming that she is the lawful wife of the deceased and demands one-third of the property. Her son also claims his interest as an heir. Suit was begun Thursday for a division of the property filed.

Coal Barges Sunk.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—The towboat Diamond, endeavoring to pass down with twenty-six barges of coal, was caught in a current near Beal street and crashed into a sand fleet and the steamer John Gaston, doing $5,000 damages to them and sinking ten of her barges. Total loss, $25,000.

The Failure Record.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The business failures during the last seven days number, for the United States, 169. Canada, 23; total, 192, as compared with 175 last week, 209 the week previous to the last, and 254 for the corresponding week of last year.

THE WORLD'S FAIR CITY.

A Budget of Interesting News and Personal Gossip from the Western Gotham.

24 St. John's Place,
Chicago, Ill., May 23, 1892.

Dear Herald:

Beautiful, balmy May is here, but minus the balm. The first day of the month I went out to the Desplains river and found a few wild flowers, peeping from the grass, and took them home with me to get warm. Yesterday I went out for a spin on my wire steed, and found that the May breezes were a little too chilly for comfort and hied me home to a comfortable fireside. A genuine May-day like we used to have would be most heartily welcomed. Have you noticed how the seasons have been mixed up ever since your uncle Jerry has been at the head of the weather department. It is about time he retired to his Wisconsin farm and let up trying to run a government department.

The present indications are that the vast number of mammoth buildings in this city will be greatly augmented during the coming summer season. Great six and seven story structures being torn down to make way for sky scrapers that will still more keep the sun from shining on the wayfarer. Blocks that ten years ago were the pride of the city have to be removed in order to be replaced by fourteen story buildings.

In spite of the havoc created by storms the work on the World's Fair is progressing finely and unless some unforseen calamity overtakes the enterprize the work will be done in time and with time to spare. It is now quite the fad to take a run out to the World's Fair grounds on Sunday and as the admission has been placed at twenty five cents (all entering having to pay,) a new source of revenue has been furnished. Well, it is worth it to see the wonderful progress made each week and to keep up with work.

A great deal of interest has been aroused about the question of keeping the fair open on Sundays. As you know, a vast number of petitions were sent in, demanding that the fair be closed on Sunday. These petitions have been signed by men and women; preachers and saloon keepers; boys and girls, and cranks. There are two sides to all questions and the anti-opening side has had its say pretty freely. There are many reasons why the fair should be kept open on Sundays, and as good reasons as can be shown by the other side. I do not think it wrong to devote Sunday to looking at any useful exhibition, and prefer some rational amusement to the way many who have signed the anti-petition pass the day. I have just as much of a right to demand that the fair be held open on Sunday for my benefit and that of those who believe as I do, as have the other side. Those who do not want to visit the fair on Sunday do not have to, nor have they any right to deprive me of a chance to go and enjoy the feast of good things on that day.

Many say that it is an insult to the intelligence of the human race to say that if the fair is closed on Sunday the saloons will reap all the greater harvest. They say that it is an insult to our countrymen to infer that they will visit saloons when in the city over Sunday. They do it just the same. Many who would be ashamed to be seen in a saloon at home, visit them when they think no one knows them. The saloons will have all the devices that will lure the victims into the hells where reason is destroyed for the price of a few drinks of poison. The opponents to Sunday opening of the fair have hearty allies in all the distillers, the brewers and the saloon keepers who are willing to pay a large sum to have the fair closed one day in the week, knowing that on that day they will reap a great harvest.

Walk around the streets of this or any city, on Sunday, count the number of boys and men who show how they pass the day. It seems so strange that church members will be so short sighted as to want to assist in making victims for licensed killers of the human race. Again, they say that if the fair is closed on Sunday the churches will have the satisfaction of seeing the people deprived of their rights, flocking into their pews. It is a pretty hard thing to force people who care little for churches into them.

Alba Heywood has had a very prosperous season and has made a good sized fortune with his concert company. Alba has had a company this past season that has received unstinted praise from all over the country. He has secured Sol Smith Russel's play "Edgewood Folks" and will produce the same the coming season and it is expected that he will make a success of the piece. Mrs. Heywood will appear with the company.

The convention of the federation of woman's clubs has just closed. During its progress many noted women visited Chicago, and the affair afforded the papers an oportunity to get off a lot of witicisms at the expense of strong minded ladies. One thing was certainly proven, and that is, that women develope many of the qualities of the sterner sex when they get together in conventions, whether social or semi-political.

Geo. Waldron has been in the city two or three weeks, but has now gone to Aurora. I hear he has a good position there.

Frank Swick is now with the house of Knight & Leonard, the firm he has been with having consolidated with that house. Frank is growing in his profession.

Lelma Stewart is occasionally seen on the streets here, but I have not happened to meet the young man.

Sam McClure is happy and is getting so fat that his friends have a time to get him away from his home after he gets through his day's work. Sam is popular with his comrades in the big establishment where he is employed, and with his many friends, whose number is steadily increasing.

I understand that Gus Cummins is now a floor walker in the big retail store of Marshall Field & Co. That is a pretty good thing for a young man after such a comparatively short acquaintance with a firm. Some of Marshall Field's present partners commenced in the same way, and it looks well for Gus' future.

I have not seen A. B. Cotton or family since the Christmas holidays but I hear that they are all well and that Mr. Cotton is kept on the road most of the time by the great concern that he represents, and that he is considered one of their most valuable men.

Mrs. M. K. Elliott's official duties, together with the political work she is expected to do, makes her one of the busiest women in this great city of busy people. Her friends are afraid that the work of the coming political campaign will be pretty hard for her, as she expects to do a great deal of speaking.

Secret society circles are interested in the result of the case now in the courts against a lodge of Odd Fellows. A man who was taking the second degree claims that they broke one of his legs in three places, besides otherwise damaging his person. What a frisky goat that lodge must have. I never heard that the goat in the Tecumseh lodge ever did any serious damage to a candidate. Some of my friends here have been talking with me about getging into the order, but I shall fear the consequences until I learn how this case turns out.

Mr. J. J. Wilson has brought his family back from Lincoln, Nebraska, and they will again make this city their home. Mrs. Wilson, (Francina Adams) is heartily welcomed by her host of friends in Chicago.

There seems to be a general desire among the Tecumseh colony in Chicago and vicinity that we attempt to have another reunion this summer. Several have written to me about it and others have expressed a wish for a reunion during the season. It would be very agreeable to me, but I should want to be sure that the disturbing element that succeeded in breaking up the Lenawee Club would be conspicuously absent, before I should spend any time or money in getting it up. If anything should materalize in regard to a reunion I will let you know it.

I hear that Edgar Coddington is nicely located in a West side house.

Mrs. D. P. Spaulding is visiting her daughters in this city.

Wm. Barnard, the poet, (who, when a small boy, was adopted by Mr. C. T. Chapin, at that time editor of "The Raisin Valley Record," published in Tecumseh,) is living in Chicago. Lake Ridge people will recollect Mr. Barnard as the Boston boy who lived for several years with Noyes Darling.

Frank Brown, at one time a typo in the Raisin Valley Record Office, together with his charming wife and four bright children, lives near Garfield Park. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are very popular in social circles in the section where they live, and deservedly so.

I expect to visit the World's Fair grounds again this week, and will write you again, giving my idea of affairs there.

I appreciate what people say about looking eagerly each week for our Tecumseh Herald. When Friday comes we look for the dear old Herald, and if by any chance it does not come the feeling of disappointment is most decided, and is not allayed until the postman brings it to us. Once in a great while a week's issue misses me and I always feel as if something had been left out of my life, when such a thing happens.

County Teachers' Convention.

The program for the Lenawee County Teachers' Association which meets in Adrian next Saturday will include the following papers and exercises: A talk on Arithmetic by Prof. L. M. Kellogg, superintendent of the Tecumseh schools; paper, "Where to Lead Thought" by L. M. Drake, of Ridgeway; a paper by Miss Clara Sheffield of Lenawee Junction; A Plea for Kindergarten Work, by Miss Adah Waldron, of Tecumseh; a practice class in music conducted by Miss Jean Belshers and one in drawing conducted by Miss Ella Irish, both of the Adrian City schools; Question Box and other features of interest to educators. There is a possibility that Supt. of Public Instruction Ferris Fitch will be present. All teachers and others interested in promoting the welfare of our puplic schools are urged to attend, prepared to do their share towards making the occasion profitable and enjoyable.

ANOTHER PIONEER CALLED HOME.

Old Father Time, with his sickle, has been reaping a bountiful harvest among the pioneers of Tecumseh during the past ten years. The last victim to fall beneath his stroke was one of our most solid and respected business men, the subject of this brief biography.

Birdsey J. Bidwell was born in the town of Colebrook, Conn., Sept. 14th, 1810. He was the sixth child of Asa and Eunice Bidwell, natives of the same state. Asa Bidwell followed the avocation of a farmer, and the parental household included eleven children, eight sons and three daughters, all of whom lived to mature years, and presented one of the finest family groups that are often seen. The subject of this sketch was the last member of that family circle to be called home, all the others having preceded him to the other shore. At the age of nine years, his parents removed to Livingston Co. N. Y., where they passed the remainder of their days on a farm. Birdsey J. spent his winters in school and his summers working on the farm, until he had arrived at the age of twenty-eight. During these years he laid the foundation for a rugged constitution, and habits of temperance and economy, which contributed so largely to his success in future years. In 1838 he bid farewell to the parental roof and drifted westward with the tide of immigration then flowing into the great state of Michigan. Upon arriving at Tecumseh he was so well pleased with the thrift and activity of the village that he concluded to abide here permanently, and immediately embarked in mercantile business. After the prevailing custom in those days, he kept a general country store, keeping in stock almost everything required to supply a village or farm household. By industry, economy and perseverance he built up the largest retail establishment in this section of the state, which he continued to manage for twenty-seven years, until 1865. In that year he transferred his business to his two sons and Mr. E. A. Tribou, who for many years had been his manager and chief assistant. Early in the forties he built a large tannery in Brownville, so-called, purchasing hides and pelts in all the Northwestern states. He soon added a boot and shoe department to his retail business, and afterwards clothing. All his business ventures proved remarkably successful from the outset and furnished employment to a large number of men. During those years he also engaged extensively in farming, having added to his possessions from time to time, until at the time of his death he owned three hundred acres of the finest farming lands in this section, a portion of which was located within the corporation limits.

Upon selling his mercantile business he turned his entire attention to farming. He took a trip to Kentucky, visiting some of the most noted stock farms of that state, and purchased a small herd of Shorthorn cattle from the noted breeders, Cunningham, Babbitt & Johnson of Louisville. These animals were all registered and formed the nucleus of some of the finest herds in Southern Michigan. Marked success attended his efforts as a stock raiser. In time his own herd numbered eighty head, bred from the best stock obtainable in the west, while he shipped many to different states east and west. His farm was always kept under a process of thorough cultivation and was well provided with the necessary buildings and various appliances for its successful operation.

Soon after selling his store he became interested in the Tecumseh Bank, organized at that time. When this bank was converted into the banking house of Bills, Lilley & Co., he retained his interest. Upon Mr. Bills' decease, the firm became Lilley, Bidwell & Co. This firm has been known as one of the solid financial institutions of Southern Michigan, and Mr. Bidwell retained his stock and interest therein up to the day of his death. Liberally endowed with wealth in his later years, he was also liberal in using it. He was a member and a regular attendant upon the Presbyterian church and made a handsome donation for the erection of the new edifice. The three story business block that bears his name, and his beautiful residence on Chicago street are also testimonials to his generosity and public spirit. In February 1842, Mr. Bidwell was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth A. Cushing of Tecumseh, a lady of fine culture and attainments. Two sons blessed this union, both of whom, besides the widow, survive him: Lamont C. the elder son, formerly of Harper County, Kansas, and Lavern I. the younger son, who has always lived in Tecumseh.

Mr. Bidwell had always enjoyed rugged physical health, having rarely been confined to the house for even a single day by illness. On the 17th inst. he had attended to the supervision of his farm work, as was his daily custom. About eight o'clock he came in from the barn, and complained of difficulty in breathing. A physician was summoned at once, but he continued to fail rapidly, until 11 o'clock, when his spirit took its flight. The attack was heart failure. The summons came with scarcely any warning. Within three hours after the first symptoms appeared, the strong manly frame, which had battled with the trials and adversities of life for nearly eighty-two years, lay cold in death.

The funeral obsequies were held at the family residence on Saturday afternoon at half past three o'clock, having been deferred until that time, that his son Lamont might be present. The services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Babbitt, pastor of the deceased, who gave a brief and touching funeral address, full of consolation and hope to the mourning circle, and Rev. O. J. Perrin offered prayer. Music appropriate to the occasion, was rendered by Messrs. J. S. and T. D. Strong, Conkling and Dickinson. These neighbors officiated as pall bearers, all of whom were life long personal friends or business associates of the deceased: Lucius Lilley, Henry Conkling, J. S. Strong, Wm. McCowen, George Heesen and Henry Keyser. The following relatives of the departed were present from abroad: His son Lamont of Washington, D. C., A. G. Cushing of South Bend, and Mrs. H. H. Gale, of Charlotte, brother and sister of Mrs. Bidwell, Mrs. Higby of Charlotte, a niece, and W. H. Walby, of Adrian. The entire services were marked by extreme simplicity and lack of display, fully in harmony with the character and tastes of the man in whose memory they were held. At their conclusion, the remains were conveyed to our evergreen cemetery and deposited beneath the beautiful granite shaft in the family lot, where they will sleep the sleep that knows no waking.

Thus ends the earthly pilgrimage of a man, who has filled a large niche in this community for more than half a century. Possessed of indomitable industry, an iron will, strength of character and moral courage, he began life at the lowest round of the ladder, and by his own unaided efforts acquired a handsome competence. His family have reaped the benefits of his business foresight and the city of his home has felt the impulse of his business talents. We would not invade the sanctity of the family circle by parading his domestic virtues. It is enough to know that within those sacred precincts he was regarded as a model father and a noble husband. This benediction, in all truthfulness, can be pronounced over his tomb; "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

We have never had such a fine array of harvest machines to show farmers as this season. Every one shows inventive skill, strength and symmetry derived from the touch of

WALTER A. WOOD.

The Wood machines, as made for 1892, are winning crowds of new friends. Examine the new chain-drive, and balance-reel, on the Wood harvester. Examine the new spring lift and the new axle extension on the Wood mowers. Examine the Wood hand-dump rakes, virtually self-dumping.

REASONS WHY

FARMERS SHOULD BUY

Walter A. Wood Harvest Machines

BECAUSE they are light of draft.
BECAUSE they are easily operated.
BECAUSE they are simple in construction.
BECAUSE they are THE WALTER A. WOOD.
BECAUSE they have a world-wide reputation.
BECAUSE with care they will last a life time.
BECAUSE great care is taken in their manufacture.
BECAUSE they do not require the aid of an expert.
BECAUSE they contain all the latest improvements.
BECAUSE they can be operated by man, woman or child.
BECAUSE they are made of the best and strongest materials.
